PARKER SEILER'S old-fashioned paddle wheeler entered both parades with a message for artists and craftsmen around the area. The Portside Art Fair will be Aug. 6-7.

Thousands View Parade At East Jordan Festival

EAST JORDAN - Thousands of people lined Main Street to watch the Jordan Valley Festival parade July 2.

The Children's Parade was in the morning with three blocks of marching children and bicycles decorated in red, white, and blue.

Mrs. Albert Giacomelli, Children's Parade chairman, led the parade.

The "40 and 9" Train from the Lansing American Legion Post was a popular feature of both parades. Hides were given free after the parades to the children and candy was thrown from it during the parade.

JUDGES for the Children's Parade were Donald Doyle of Saginaw, Don Langschweiger and Mrs. Marshall Sayles.

First prize was won by Vicki Evans for her Smokey costume; 2nd, Debbie Zoulek and Keep America Beautiful; 3rd, Martha Fisher, Donna Fisher and Cindy Boss for successful hunters. Seven children received honorable mention for the bicycle division.

Following the Children's parade, the Rotary Club held a chicken barbecue at the Tourist Park.

The Kinchloe Air Force Base staged a flyover to signal the beginning of the afternoon parade.

The parade consisted of 50 units from all over Northern Michigan from as far south as Reed City to as far north as Mackinac Island.

Mayor Betty Robertson was Grand Marshall of the parade. Eleven area queens were

One Ad Sells Ironton Cottage

Property is one of the fastest moving commodities in Charlevoix County these days. With one 75-cent ad in the Courier, H.R. Williams of Ironton sold a two-bedroom cottage overlooking Lake Charlevoix.

The cottage was sold less than three hours after the paper hit the streets. Only the Courier carried the ad. If you have property to sell, try a Courier people-reacher ad. The prompt results will please you.

Crowds Hurry North

Blistering weather gave Charlevoix, East Jordan and Ellsworth one of the busiest Fourth of July weekends in history.

A blanket of 90-degree weather covered most of the Midwest all last week, driving thousands northward for the long weekend.

The temperature in Detroit hit a high of 97 degrees Sunday afternoon.

VISITORS didn't find much change in the weather (the mercury hit 90 degrees in Charlevoix Saturday afternoon), but they were able to find relief swimming at the beaches or boating on the lake. Cooler weather and rain came Sunday night. Monday was bright, clear and somewhat cooler.

CITY RECREATION Director Deano Davenport said the water temperature at Depot Beach was the warmest it has been in the last five years, attracting record numbers of swimmers.

Ferry Avenue Beach and the Lake Michigan Beach also were crowded.

Harbormaster Chuck Coleman reports that 45 different pleasure craft tied up at the Charlevoix yacht basin over the weekend, filling the slips to capacity.

Friday 24 boats were berthed at Charlevoix; Saturday 31; Sunday 33 and Monday 34. Coleman said most of the boats stayed in the harbor the entire weekend.

KEITH CAREY, supervisor of the Municipal Golf Course, says record crowds turned out all weekend, with some golfers waiting as long as 45 minutes to tee off on Saturday. The wait is the longest he can remember at the Charlevoix course.

AT BEAVER ISLAND there were more people coming and going than when the Irish evicted the Mormons 110 years ago.

Ticket Agent James Gallagher says the steamer Beaver Islander carried about 700 passengers and 100 cars to and from the island over the weekend. The boat also ferried 20 motorcycles and 30 bicycles.

Beginning Thursday, the boat was practically loaded to capacity each trip. The boat has been making two round trips from the island to the mainland every day since July 1.

At East Jordan, hundreds of persons turned out for the annual chicken barbecue and parade sponsored by the Rotary Club. At Ellsworth, Fourth of July activities also were well attended. (See story on Page 1 and pictures on Page 10).

Drouth Increases Forest Fire Risk

Dry Spell Hurts Many Farm Crops

Dry weather has resulted in a severe forest fire hazard in Charlevoix County, according to Ed Hartnell, fire officer for the State Conservation Department at Boyne City.

Hartnell says that so far the area has been "just lucky" that no serious fires have broken out.

He asked all residents and visitors to be particularly careful in handling fires.

"EVEN incinerators pose a problem in this weather," he said.

Hartnell said the only fire which could have been a problem was a blaze at the Bay Shore dump last Tuesday night. Firemen brought the fire under control, although they were unable to use plows because of the rocky soil.

He said the department has restricted the issuance of burning permits only to cultivated areas and then only after 5 p.m.

Hartnell said the drouth actually started with last winter's skimpy snowfall. And spring rains just haven't materialized.

HE SAID the rainfall in the Boyne City area in May measured only .75 of an inch and in June .84.

Charlevoix weatherman Harry Ladd reports that the city had slightly more rain in June -- .97 of an inch -- but still not enough to reduce the hazard.

Last year, the Conservation Department recorded 3.83 inches of rain in May and .69 inches in June. Many areas of the state suffered a severe drouth in June and July last summer.

COUNTY Extension Director Ed Reban said the drouth is posing a serious problem for area farmers.

Cats are short and heading out early. They will be light in both weight per bushel and yield, he said.

New seeding has fared poorly because of the lack of rain.

Corn hasn't been affected too much yet.

The first cutting of hay was "fairly good," Reban said, but there has been no regrowth for a second cutting.

Golf Tourney Slated

Kelth Carey, Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course Pro, announced that this year's men's and juniors golf tournament will begin play on Saturday, July 16.

Entries for all Charlevoix area male golfers interested in participating, must be turned in at the clubhouse no later than Friday, July 15.

SEVERAL FLIGHTS have been added to this year's tournament to shorten the length of playing time required for the over all tourney.

Carey said that plans are for a champion flight, six handicap flights, a flight for men over 50 and three flights for junior golfers.

An entry fee of $1.50 will be charged to cover the cost of trophies for the adult flights. There will be no charge for junior golfers.

MORE THAN 300 Charlevoixians turned out Sunday to honor Mrs. Joseph (Isabell) Oliver on her 89th birthday. Open house was held at Green Sky Hill Methodist Church. Mrs. Oliver was born on the shore of nearby Susan Lake July 6, 1877.

Band Concerts Start Tonight in East Park

The 45-piece Charlevoix City Band will begin a series of summer "Concerts in the Park" tonight (Wednesday) at 8:30 p.m.

The band, the nucleus of which has been rehearsing weekly all winter, has been augmented by returning college students, and other interested people from the surrounding areas.

A COMPLETELY different program will be presented each Wednesday during the months of July and August. A total of nine concerts have been scheduled, weather permitting.

There are still vacancies in some sections, according to C. A. Odmark, director. Any adult interested in playing in the group should contact Odmark as soon as possible.

The opening program has a patriotic flavor, coming as close to Independence Day as it does. Featured will be the first performance of a Civil War rhapsody, "The Blue and the Gray" by Grundman.

Other numbers suited to the holiday are the marches "Americans We," "National Emblem," and "Stars and Stripes Forever."

"Star Spangled Spectacular," featuring the music of George M. Cohan also will be heard.

Soloists for tonight's concert will be the trombone section of the band playing "Two Pair of Slippers." Featured will be David Patrie, Larry Hutchinson, Joy Pierce, Ralph Sweet and Larry McBride.

Six Medicare Patients at Charlevoix Hospital

Six Medicare patients were registered at Charlevoix Hospital as of July 5, according to hospital director Miss Anne Baumgartner.

The federal program, which helps pay hospital expenses for persons over 65, went into effect July 1.

Miss Baumgartner said the first two Medicare patients were signed up the first day.

Congressman Raymond P. Clevenger has announced that an estimated 51,000 persons in the Eleventh District are eligible for hospital benefits under the Medicare program.

The plan pays for hospital services and certain other post-hospital expenses.

225 Kids, Adults Sign Up to Swim

MORE THAN 225 swimmers have signed up for swimming lessons under the Charlevoix Summer Recreation Program.

Instructors are Joel Arvilla (seated) and Al Arvilla. A small class for adults is also being organized.

Showers Honor Toni Armstrong

Miss Toni Armstrong was feted with two bridal showers recently. Mrs. Chester Farrell assisted by Mrs. Lester Brooks were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Farrell.

Mrs. William Edwards of Bellaire entertained at the home of Mrs. Sharon Matthews. Many gifts were appreciated.

Attention, Kids! Get Patch Now

Charlevoix youngsters who took part in bicycle races in May are reminded that a few official shoulder patches are still available at the Courier office.

The blue and white patches signify the wearer took part in the 1966 Tour-of-Northern-Michigan bicycle derby.

EASTPORT Baptist Church pastor, the Rev. H. Don Schleicher, poses with Mr. and Mrs. Ron James following marriage ceremony June 25. Mrs. James is the former Toni Armstrong of Ellsworth. The bridegroom is from Central Lake.

Toni Armstrong Wed In Rites at Eastport

Miss Toni Ann Armstrong of Ellsworth and Ronald James of Central Lake were united in marriage at the Eastport Baptist Church June 25.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong of Ellsworth. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carol James of Central Lake.

Rev. Don H. Schleicher of Central Lake performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with ferns and pink peonies. Approximately 180 guests attended.

The traditional wedding march was played by Terry Vander Silk and Trudi Armstrong, sister of the bride sang "I Love You Truly". Ken Watson of Central Lake sang "Hand in Hand We'll Walk Together".

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown, designed and made by her mother. It featured a detachable train, sleeves with lace insertions and matching lace formed her train length mantilla held in place by white velvet circlet.

Mrs. Sharon Matthews, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow embossed peau-de-seal gown, and carried an arrangement of ivy on lace and satin fan.

TERI ARMSTRONG, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her gown and bouquet were identical to the matron of honors.

Tonya Matthews, niece of the groom, was flowergirl. She wore a gown of pink embossed peau-de-seal and carried a basket filled with white carnations, pink rose buds and ivy.

JEFFREY HEBBIN of Bellaire, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Best man was Richard James, brother of the groom, of Central Lake. Groomsman was Meheal Bachman.

Ushers were Ken Richardson and Tom Edwards.

Mrs. Armstrong wore a pink suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink rose buds.

MRS. JAMES wore a turquoise dress with turquoise and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink rose buds.

SIX GRANDMOTHERS and great grandmothers of the bride and groom were present for the ceremony. Mrs. Sarah McAllister of Charlevoix and Mrs. Dora Flannigan of Cedar Springs are great-grandmothers of the bride and Mrs. Dorothy Armstrong of Charlevoix and Mrs. Effie Powell of Coopersville are her grandmothers. Mrs. Lena Harrington of Bellaire and Mrs. Hazel James of Central Lake are grandmothers of the groom.

Guests attended from Flint, Grand Haven, Three Rivers, Coopersville, Petoskey, East Jordan, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Bellaire and Torch Lake.

Medicare Office Is Ready to Assist

The Petoskey Social Security Office stands ready to help any eligible Charlevoix County resident in obtaining Medicare benefits, according to Gordon Sattelmeyer, officer in charge. The national medical care program, which went into effect July 1, provides assistance in paying medical bills for persons over 65 years of age.

Sattelmeyer says his staff will:

1. Assist in the completion of claims for medical insurance.

2. Provide new forms as needed.

3. Assist in the payment of premiums.

4. Help in replacing lost insurance cards.

Sattelmeyer said anyone who has signed up for Medicare and has not received his original health insurance card by July 15 should check with his office.

A booklet entitled "Your Medicare Handbook" has been mailed to all Medicare beneficiaries, Sattelmeyer said.

The Petoskey Social Security office is located at Bay and Lewis Streets in the old Pennsylvania Railroad station.

Hours are 9 to 5 Mondays through Fridays and Saturdays from 9 a.m. until noon.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Michelin and family are expected to arrive from this weekend from Portage for a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bergmann.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Jadwin and sons spent the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heise.

"YOU, TOO, WILL FIND YOUR TRIP
THE HIGHLIGHT OF YOUR VACATION."

Rising high above historic Straits of Mackinac are the towers of the "most beautiful span built by man," the Mackinac Bridge. The lands connected by it lie smack in the middle of the Great Lakes. Here, the white man set his fur traps a decade before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. Here, the legendary Hiawatha wooed the lovely Minnehaha. Here, the equally fabulous Paul Bunyan and his Ox, Blue Babe, trimmed the timber on the most attractive and recreationally rich landscape west of Niagara and east of the Rockies.

HISTORY COMES ALIVE

Here you can drive FREEWAYS to see living history; thrill to the sight and sound of thundering waterfalls; fish in crystal clear waters world renowned as an angler's paradise; bask in the sun on warm, white sandy beaches and cool off in refreshing sky blue waters.

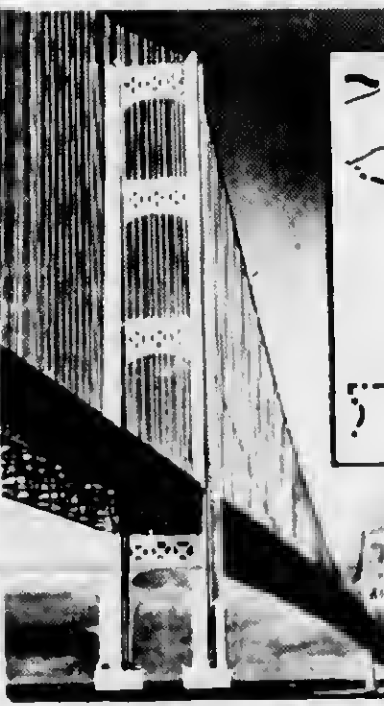

Where else, oh where else in this America the Beautiful of ours do we have concentrated in one vacationland such splendid attractions as the Tahquamenon Falls, Les Cheneaux Islands known as the "Snags", Kitchi-iki-pi, the Big Spring, Pictured Rocks, Bays-de-Noc, Brockway Mountain Drive and Copper Country, Lake of the Clouds in the Porcupine Mountains, and literally scores of man made attractions such as the Soo Locks, Ports Michilimackinac, Mackinac, and Wilkins; deep mine trips into the bosom of mother earth, the magnificent Mackinac Bridge? You can see them all on a ten day to two week vacation.

LAND OF SKY BLUE WATERS

Accommodations from camp grounds to luxury motels and hotels are available—all within a day's drive. You cannot do better anywhere in America. 33 million people can't be wrong.

*Since the opening of the bridge on November 1, 1957, 10,300,000 vehicles have crossed over the bridge carrying an average 3.2 persons per vehicle for a total of 33 million persons.

Hazel Johnson, Gary Loder Wed

By Mrs. Tom Maxwell
Miss Hazel Lynette Johnson became the bride of Gary James Loder, at St. Mary's Church on Saturday June 18. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Francis E. Denay at the 10:30 a.m. mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald N. Johnson of Maple Grove Road, Charlevoix, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace R. Loder of Wal-Mar Court, Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a A-line floor length gown of silk satin embroidered, fully gathered with short train and fitted at the waist line with a large bow at the back. The bodice was embroidered lace, edged with satin of French illusion, with wrist-length pointed sleeves. Her bouffant fingertip veil was secured by a pearl and silver beaded head piece, shaped like a lily. She wore a single teardrop of crystal necklace, a gift from her brother, Gerald Lynn Johnson, who is in the armed forces in Germany. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white roses and Baker's fern.

Miss Anna Kortan of Charlevoix was maid of honor, and wore a floor length gown of mint green. Her small green bouffant veil was held with green velvet shaped as a rose. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white full mums and Baker's fern.

Wallace R. Loder Jr. assisted his brother as best man. Michael N. Johnson, brother of the bride, was usher.

Mrs. Gek Gleken played the organ and four friends of the bride were vocalists. They were Miss Arlene Supernaw, Miss Leigh Ann Smith, Miss Kathy Kele and Miss Francis Prybyeski, singing "Ave Maria", "Ave Maristella", and "On This Day".

The bride's mother chose a powder blue silk crepe dress with blue lace trim and blue accessories. The groom's mother wore a turquoise chiffon dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of pink roses and white carnations.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, was held in the evening for 150 guests at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

After a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, the couple will be at home at 504 1/2 Bridge St., Charlevoix. For traveling the bride wore a yellow and white embroidered two-piece dress with a corsage of white roses and yellow full mums.

The groom works at Brown Motors and plans to attend North Central Michigan College in Petoskey this fall. He is a 1965 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Guests attended from Ohio, Flint, Branch, Boyne Falls, Boyne City, Horton's Bay, Lansing and Charlevoix.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Robert Kelley and son, Kim, have arrived from Bay City to spend the summer at their East Upright Avenue home. Mrs. Kelley joined them for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Marcus arrived recently from New York to spend the summer at their Cherry Street home.

Mrs. James Robert Kot

Grandparents Attend Shapton-Kot Wedding

Miss Bonnie Lou Shapton of Lansing became the bride of James Robert Kot of Lansing in a double ring ceremony June 25 at St. John's parish in Lansing.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Shapton of Lansing. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kot of Lansing.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mrs. Bonnie Nickerson and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shapton of Charlevoix and the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kot of Lansing.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of Venise lace and silk linen in candlelight white. The bodice was covered with Venise lace and featured a wide Portrairie neckline. The high rise waistline was accented with scalloped Venise lace. The A-line skirt was fashioned with two separate panels of lace giving a tunic effect.

A detachable train was held in place by a bow and featured bands of lace. A crown of pearl-edged scallops and Aurora Borealis crystals secured her triple bouffant veil of imported French illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of lilacs of the valley, white roses and English ivy.

MISS PATRICIA Shapton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was a floor-length, high rise waistline line green linen. It featured an A-line skirt and a modified scoop neckline. She wore a small crown with pearls and petal veil. She carried a bouquet of painted daisies.

The bridesmaids were Miss Karen Bromel of Pontiac and Miss Kitty Carey of Midland. Their costumes were identical to the maid of honor's.

Steven Patter of Lansing was best man.

Terry Ilmanen and David Abendroth, both of Lansing, were groomsmen. Ushers were Frank Nosal Jr. and Steven Czereski, both of Lansing.

IMMEDIATELY following the ceremony, a champagne luncheon was held in the Tamarach Room at Dines Restaurant.

The couple took a wedding trip to Northern Michigan. The new Mrs. Kot is a 1966 graduate of Michigan State University where she was affiliated with Delta Gamma Sorority and Tri Beta, an honorary biology sorority.

Kot is a 1965 graduate of M. S. U. and was affiliated with Phi Mu Alpha, a national music fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Kot will teach in Flint this fall.

Ellsworth Lions Install Officers

ELLSWORTH--Richard Wieland was installed as the new Ellsworth Lions Club president at a tri-city meeting of Bellaire, Central Lake and Ellsworth.

Other officers of the Ellsworth Club are first vice-president, Roy Rowe, second vice-president, Tony Shooks, secretary - treasurer, Marv Meyers, tall - twister, Ken Boss; lion lamers, Marv Wynsma; director of two year term, Bill Muha; and director for one year, Herb Peables.

All officers of the Tri-City group were installed at the dinner.

Art Finch, district governor from Frankfort, was present. Two new members from Central Lake were initiated into the Central Lake Club.

Mrs. Gordon Finnie and children of Hastings visited last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Iless Sr. Dr. Finnie joined them for the holiday weekend. They returned home Monday.

Cartier Grandson Married in East

From Cold Spring Harbor, L.I., comes the news of the recent marriage of Marie S. Bannard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Bannard III, and William L. Cartier at St. John's Episcopal Church on June 18.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Cartier of Dover, N.J. and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Cartier of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Cartier, who belonged to the New York Junior Assemblies, was graduated from the Westover school and in 1965 from Bradford Junior College. Mr. Cartier was graduated from the Trinity-Pawling School and Moravian College.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. A. C. Palmer has returned to Cold Spring Harbor after spending a month at her home at 304 Michigan ave. Mr. Palmer came for her and remained for a brief visit. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Potts who have arrived from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., will be at that address for the summer.

WHEN A NEW FAMILY MOVES IN

The Martin family is considering moving in for the summer. The members are good neighbors and friendly feathered friends. They are very careful in the selection of their homes. Each spring they send an advance agent to locate a dwelling place. If you would have them move into your yard make sure you hang out the proper welcome sign by building a home in advance. If it meets inspection they'll move in.

If you would have desirable newcomers remain and become a part of your community and neighborhood don't overlook the value of your own home. The home is a great asset if the congregation of your home is the one that is helpful and inspiring and if the members leave no doubt about the sincerity of the welcome extended to each newcomer.

Planes To Spot Racers

On June 25, State Police began using airplanes to track down highway speeders, according to Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director.

Twenty sections of highway throughout the state have been specially marked with white paint to clock motorists suspected of speeding.

The marks are spaced one-eighth mile apart. Airborne observers will use stopwatches to determine how fast a vehicle covers the distance.

WHEN A SPEEDER is spotted, word will be flashed to a waiting State Police patrol car team which will stop and ticket the offender.

Observers also will report on improper passing, cars that follow too closely or other violations observable from the air.

At least 18 other states operate similar programs, Davids said.

Stuart Verwys Is in Vietnam

PFC Stuart F. Verwys, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Verwys, 108 W. Huribut St., arrived in Vietnam June 25 with the 4th Battalion, 503rd Infantry (Airborne).

The unit departed June 6 from Fort Campbell, Ky., where it had been organized April 13 with personnel already at the post. In Vietnam the battalion has become part of the separate 173rd Airborne Brigade.

DURING training at Fort Campbell, the unit stressed the use of helicopters in day and night movements. Also included in the tailored training program were counter-guerrilla, counter-ambush and paratrooper tactics.

Verwys entered the Army in June 1965 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The 21-year-old soldier is a 1963 graduate of Charlevoix Public High School and worked for the A. & F. in Rogers City before entering the Army.

REHEARSING for play about Roger Williams which will be presented at Church of God July 8 are (from left) Anita Miller, Philip King and Dennis Carroll.

Church Schedules Play Here July 8

The play "Roger Williams and Mary" will be presented at the Charlevoix Church of God Friday, July 8, at 8 p.m. by the Anderson College Players.

The Players are in their 20th season of presenting religious dramatic productions before Church of God congregations in various parts of the country.

Land Project Is Now Ready At Ellsworth

ELLSWORTH -- Harvey Lindemer, Lansing land developer, has opened a new development called Spring Valley on Little Torch Lake, formerly Lime Lake, on the Ellsworth-Atwood Road.

The development at present contains 34 lots, 24 lake lots and 14 lake view lots. Later there will be approximately 350 lots in the development.

The development was started in October.

Lindemer is also the distributor for Master Vacation and Year Round homes.

CG Group Cited For Safety Record

For the second year - running, all 14 lights and shore stations under Coast Guard Group Charlevoix have received a citation from the commander of the Ninth CG District in Cleveland for their safety record.

No member of Group Charlevoix suffered a lost-time injury accident in either 1964 or 1965, according to CWO James Seidl, acting commanding officer of Group Charlevoix.

Seidl said member of his command maintained their safety record both on duty and while on leave.

A letter of commendation was received from acting Ninth District Commander J. E. Richey.

THE CHURCH of God is located at 202 W. Huribut Street. The Rev. George Majors is pastor.

One of the first plays of its kind to be staged by the Anderson Players, "Roger Williams and Mary" was written by Albert Johnson and is presented in a chancel bare of curtains and scenery with the players in modern dress.

THE PLAY deals with the life of Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island and America's earliest exponent of religious freedom.

A freewill offering will be accepted.

In the cast are Anita Miller of Anderson, Ind.; Phillip King, Campbellsville, Ky., and Dennis Carroll, Elgin, Ill. Jack Samuels is director.

By the Way...

By Ruth Ann Miller

I wonder how many people noticed the "Not Yet" sign on Bill Taylor's IGA store window last week and wondered what it was all about.

Taylor's daughter - in-law is expecting a baby any day and he had had so many inquiries about it that he decided to tell the people by his window.

"Not Yet" is still the word from Taylor's but any day now. Keep watching the window.

Friday when I was in East Jordan I checked Taylor's window again and it said "Whoopee! William J. Taylor IV born June 23 at 2:25 p.m. weight seven pounds and seven ounces; 21 inches long; mother and son doing fine."

Congratulations! The child's father, William J. Taylor III, became Charlevoix County's first Vietnam fatality last fall.

I don't know how most other people feel about northern Michigan but nothing irks me more than to have some one from this area say that we have nothing to offer.

WEAVING DEMONSTRATIONS will be held at the Staffel's Studio by Mrs. Bonnie Staffel daily. She weaves unusual wall hangings. Other objects in the shop are paintings and note cards by Bill Staffel and pottery by Mrs. Staffel.

Arts-Crafts Shop Opens on 31 South

Mr. and Mrs. William Staffel of Maumee, Ohio, have opened an arts and crafts studio and shop seven miles south of Charlevoix on U. S. 31.

The shop features paintings and silk - screen print not cards by Staffel and pottery and weaving by Mrs. Staffel. Mrs. Staffel gives daily demonstrations of pottery throwing and weaving. The note cards are sold all over the U. S.

Their daughter, Marell, 13, decorates stones for the shop also.

BOTH Mr. and Mrs. Staffel attended the American Academy of Art in Chicago.

Their work is exhibited in the Toledo Federation of Art Society Collection, an affiliation of the Toledo Museum of Art and Mrs. Staffel has pottery displayed in the Dayton Institute of Art.

THE STAFFELS will also have their work on exhibit in the Charlevoix and East Jordan Art Fairs in August. Mrs. Staffel, who will remain here for the summer, will be a judge at the Traverse City Art Show, July 13-15.

The Staffels hope to move to Charlevoix in the future to make it their permanent home.

Banker Among 'Golden Eagles'

Archie Livingston, Charlevoix banker, was among the 270 Ferris State College alumni who were inducted into the college's Society of the Golden Eagles at the annual Alumni Reunion recently.

Golden Eagles are those alumni who attended the college at least 50 or more years ago. Forty-five were present at the reunion to receive their certificates in person; the others received theirs in the mail.

Camp Charlevoix Corrall Chatter

The first week of camp started off on Monday morning with the boys being taken around in groups to see each activity and to meet each activity man who told the boys all about his speciality. Boys were pleased to get to know these men better and to hear just what each activity offered. At supper Monday night, the boys made their choices of their own activity for the week. This was another hot day, and it cooled off in the evening so that everyone slept under blankets.

Tuesday the many activities swung into operation, with boys going to their choices. The camp has an excellent staff this year, and cowboys from Mexico and New Mexico add much to the riding department. Another bright spot in this department is the two-week-old colt that is attracting a lot of attention. Another mare is expected any day now, so that the boys will have a chance to see a new-born colt, something that very few boys have seen.

On Wednesday, another hot day, the first overnight trip of the year left camp. Our oldest boys in camp, Cabin 21, with Ron Hall, of University of Louisville, as counselor took off for the Jordan River and a canoe trip. These boys were: Dale Champagne, Curt Bledsoe, Dick Grave, John Jelliffe.

After the noon meal, the Greens and Greys met to elect their leaders. The entire camp is divided into two sides, the Greens and the Greys. All competition is the Greens against the Greys. The score is kept all summer and the final week of camp, the losers must give a banquet for the winners. The winning side also has its name engraved on the wall of the Clubhouse.

Boys chosen to lead their teams were: Junior Greens, Capt. Chuck Helmandollar, Okemos, Mich., assisted by Bill Bledy, Hike, Mich., and Robby Quinn, Livonia, Mich.

Prep Greens are headed by Henry Whiting, Midland, Mich., assisted by Bill Rickert, Flint, and Robert Grant, Fort Wayne, Ind. The Prep Greys are captained by Bob Phillips, Birmingham, Mich. His lieutenants are Jim Case, Columbus, Ohio, and Mike Zinn, Grosse Pointe, Mich. The Intermediate Greens are headed by Ken Mabbatt, Chicago, assisted by two Dayton boys, Steve Storms and Phil Hayes. The Intermediate Greys are captained by Chuck Gardella, Grosse Pointe, assisted by Carl Llewellyn, Orchard Lake, Mich., and Stormy Holderman, Columbus.

The Senior Greens are headed by one of our campers from a far away place, Phil Salvador, from Caracas, Venezuela, he is to be helped by Jimmy Chalat of Detroit and John Jelliffe of Columbus, Ohio. The Intermediate Greys are captained by Dale Champagne, Detroit. His lieutenants are Dave Washburn, Detroit, and Ed Kohl, Dayton, Ohio. There is much leadership in this group, and the campers showed good judgement in their choices.

Wednesday night, the entire camp met in the Bigwam to see the movie, "Saturday's Hero." It was a football story, and the boys enjoyed it.

On Thursday, the trips left camp, with Ron Hall's cabin returning. Dick McClure, counselor of Cabin 20, from Earlham College, took his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were: Phil Salvador, John Boardman, David Fox, Luis Hernandez, Steve Pinkham, Rick Gillett, Bill Stout, and Craig Dickson. Later in the day, Ramsey Coates' cabin, he too being from Earlham College, took off in the sailboats for a long sailing trip to Young's State Park. These boys were: Dave Maskeny, Bob Sweet, Jimmy Chalat, Bob Daverman, Scott Richardson, Jim Evans and Chris Hutton.

At breakfast on Friday morning, Doug Baird, our head cowboy from New Mexico, announced that early in the morning a new filly colt had been born to our mare Socks. Needless to say that the boys were very excited and a steady stream of boys were going back and forth to the stables to see this new colt, born on July 1, and named Julie, for this day.

Big plans are afoot for the opening council fire Saturday night and for the glorious Fourth. These details will be in next week's Chatter. The weather is still hot during the day and cool at night. Great camping weather.

College Honors W.C. Ratigan

Dr. William C. Ratigan, director of Counseling and Guidance at Charlevoix High School, was selected to receive one of the 1966 Centennial Alumni Awards offered by Dean Academy and Junior College, Franklin, Mass. The presentation was made in recognition of "outstanding public service" and/or "outstanding service to Alma Mater."

Dr. Ratigan is the author of several books about the Great Lakes.

Circlin' the Bases

with DEANO

With the second week of play the various leagues have become more scrambled as several teams became upset victims. The game of the week has to be the County State Bank-Lake Construction contest. The bank boys, who had suffered two straight opening defeats, rose to smash defending champion Lake Construction, 14-4. A breakdown of the week's action is as follows.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
The Servicemen looked impressive in handling East Jordan their first defeat 5-1. Sonny Wright limited the losers to three hits, but it wasn't until the top of the seventh inning that the game was decided. Base hits by Cashin and Robinson around an error and a walk scored three runs and proved to be the margin of victory. Newville's double was the only extra base blow for the losers.

County State Bank blew previously undefeated Lake Construction right off the field as they thumped the boys in blue 14-4. Thirteen errors plus Gary Crain's tight pitching combined to give the Bank their first win of the season. The loss threw the race for the title into a three team scramble. Larry Edwards smacked a two-run homer for the winners.

Oleson's gave Mold a brief scare by scoring three times in the first inning, but they only got one more hit of the servings of Nate Boss as American Mold won 9-4. Harv Cole blasted a home run in the fifth to hit-light a four run rally that broke the game wide open.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
Electra and Novaks made the big noise in the Junior league with Electra's pitcher Bill Gengle pitching a no-hitter to beat Freedmans 6-3. Gengle paced his team at the plate collecting three base hits. His pitching performance was tarnished by his 15 walks, but he hung on for the win. Novaks continued to surprise by winning their second straight game, edging A & W 7-5. They collected only four hits but their fine fielding kept the boys in black in check.

PEANUT LEAGUE
The Astros reverted to their old form as they lost to the Pirates 8-2 after posting an opening game win. The winners scored in nearly every inning in posting the easy win. Ned Henley allowed them only a harmless third inning single.

The Cards won their third straight, defeating the Cubs 7-0 behind the shutout pitching of Larry Potter. Potter also hit a grand slam home run in the seventh to seal the victory.

The Pirates won their second game upsetting the Tigers

Land of the Lime Green Water

Many Charlevoixans were considerably surprised during our first hot spell two weeks ago to find little Round Lake change from its usual frosty blue to a cloudy lime color. Those with keen eyesight could discern a similar change had taken place in Lake Charlevoix.

Since then the lakes not only have remained green but the color deepened. The water still looks cool and inviting, but it is green, not blue.

ONE THEORY is that the hot weather has caused the lakes to turn over, bringing bottom water to the surface. This is an attractive hypothesis, but it doesn't seem very likely during a hot spell when the warmer surface water would tend to stay on top.

The "Keep Charlevoix Beautiful" people think Medusa must have something to do with the change in color. Others are convinced that industrial waste from East Jordan has turned the trick.

WE DON'T HAVE a marine biologist handy, but we suspect that the change from blue to green must have something to do with the hot weather. It certainly didn't happen during the cool summer of 1965.

Our guess is that 90 degree temperatures have encouraged the growth of algae and other minuscule marine plants to the point where they've changed the color of the water.

City Recreation Director Deano Davenport says the water at Depot Beach was warmer over the Fourth of July weekend than it has been in years. All in all, it promises to be a fine summer for swimming --- if you don't mind your water green.

Carrying Coals to Charlevoix

It was a welcome sight over the weekend to see the Charlevoix Yacht basin jammed with dozens of pleasure craft from faraway ports. Charlevoix seems more like Charlevoix, with the sailors back in town.

However, a problem appears to be developing along the yacht basin walk where our sea-faring visitors like to broil steaks and other vlands over low, portable charcoal grills.

IT'S ALL RIGHT if you're an Indian fakir and get your kiks walking in hot coals. For the rest of us, glowing braziers along the walk are a real safety hazard--- particularly for young people and others who are not particular about where they put their feet.

Complicating the problem is the skimpy footwear worn by most of our people in the summer.

WE SYMPATHIZE with the yachtsman who wants to "cook out" these pleasant summer nights. Unfortunately, there are no built-in grills in East Park.

Perhaps the city could set aside an area in the park for grilling, or install a few elevated charcoal burners as permanent fixtures.

ONE THING about summer... all your old friends, some of whom you haven't seen in years, come to town. ... During the past week I've had a host of callers, former residents, old friends from here and there, stopping in and reminiscing.

But one of the first things they'll say, if they haven't been here for several years, is "How Charlevoix is growing!" ... I suppose we are but when we live here all the time and watch homes and other structures go up, one by one, we sort of take it for granted. ... But when these people come back after a lengthy absence, they'll recount all the things that now 'belong' to those of us who have been here all along. ... It makes you take another look at things. ...

SOME PEOPLE are always doing interesting things. ... One of those most interesting and certainly charitable things I've heard about recently is being done by the Norman Perkins of Lincoln Park. She's the former Vicky Racignot. ... They've adopted, financially, that is, a little seven year old South American girl through the Foster Parents Plan. ... Her name is Clara Isabel Numpaque, one of a family of six children who live with their parents in a 10 x 10' room in Columbia. ... The father, a nason, and the mother, a maid, work when work is available and bring home about $30 a month. ... Little Clara Isabel hasn't been to school yet because there isn't money to send her so she cares for two younger children while the four older brothers and sisters are in school and her parents work. ... Her turn will eventually come for school. ... She wants to be a dressmaker when she grows up. ... The Perkins supply $15 a month toward her support. ... The family receives $8.00 in cash and the remainder goes for clothing, supplies and medical care. ... Can you imagine anyone getting by on that back here? ... I can't either so count your blessings. ...

IT WAS GOOD to hear that our good friend, Dr. Harold E. Kohn, was well enough to appear at Bay View recently. ... Everyone misses him around town so it was good to know he could be out and around again. ... As you know, he does a great deal of writing, as always. ... and his articles appear in many publications. ... My friend, Miss Edson, at the book shop, the Charlevoix, tells me that he is quoted many times in a new publication, "Words of Life", a companion piece to "Treasure Chest", both edited by Charles L. Wallis. ... It is interesting to note that only one other author, Emerson, was quoted as many times. ...

OUR WATERFRONT program is now underway. ... and if that youngster of yours isn't in a swimming class, call about it but fast. ... Or better yet, visit yourself to the depot beach and get him enrolled. ... With so much water around every child should know how to swim. ... and, added to that, there's nothing that brings any more enjoyment to a person. ... So he's afraid of the water? ... That's no excuse. ... the fellows who teach swimming will have the most timid child begging to go in the water in nothing flat. ... The kids will love it. ... just give them half a chance. ...

THE WATERFRONT is beginning to fill up with those boats that make you turn a little green when you look at them. ... And even if you don't have one, you must admit that it's a joy to see them. ... You can believe this or not, but I've seen people along the docks who come here every year just to see the boats. ...

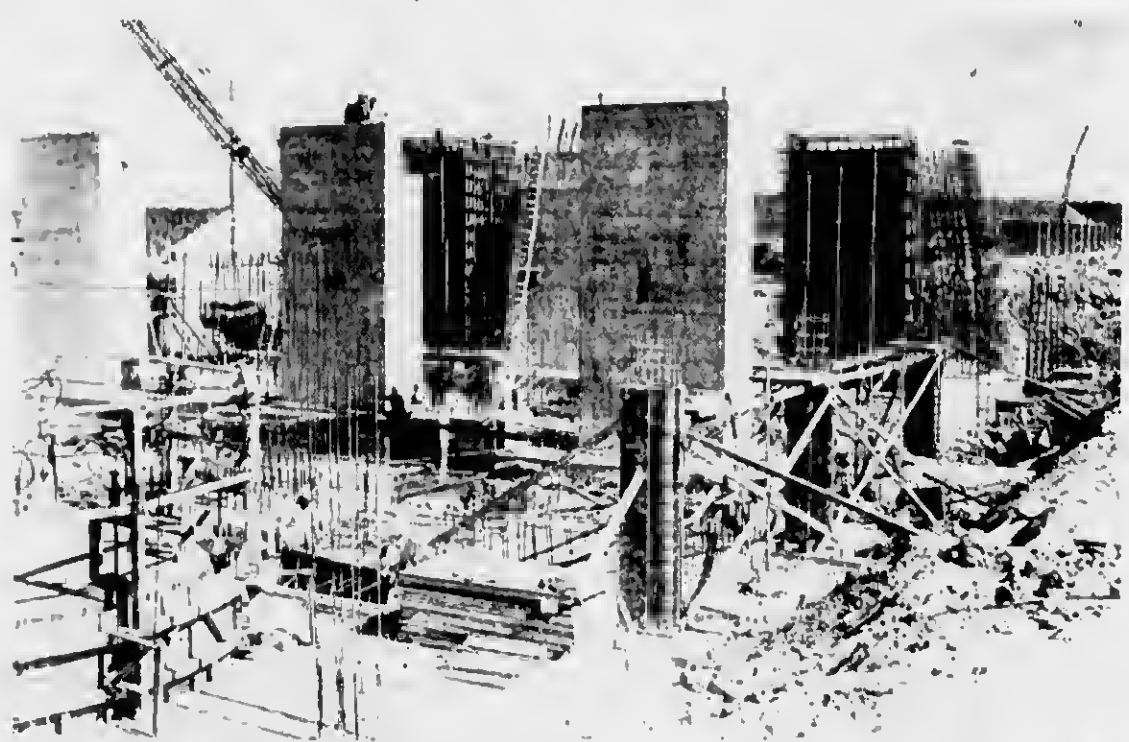

AND SPEAKING of the boats and the waterfront park, everyone will be happy to know that this is the week the Wednesday night band concerts start. ... Odle Odmark and his faithfuls will be back on the bandstand in East Park at the usual time, 8:30 p.m., playing for your entertainment. ... I know people are anxious to hear them for I've had several people ask about them. ... This wonderful weather has everyone spending as much time as possible out-of-doors and this is one way of spending a happy hour, listening to good music, seeing old friends and enjoying the summer. ... There is so little of it. ...

Hope you made it safely through the July 4th weekend. ... and don't forget it's summer time and there's many people around and, on our narrow streets, you must drive more carefully than ever before. ... And to you boaters, ... that water's great fun. ... but don't ever lose respect for it or you'll be sorry. ...

East Jordan, Charlevoix Among Author's Haunts

About the nicest things that can be said of J. R. Humphreys' new book, "The Last of the Middle West", are that the printing is excellent, the paper stock is superb and the reproduction of Grant Wood's "American Gothic" on the dust jacket is a credit to the art of lithography. Mr. Humphreys' spelling also is above reproach.

Beyond that, there's not much in the book for Charlevoixans and East Jordanians, although the book deals in part with those two communities and the role they played in the author's past.

HUMPHREYS, a displaced midwesterner now living in New York, contrasts the Midwest of today with the Midwest he remembers as a boy growing up in Grand Rapids. Having grandparents in Charlevoix and Mancelona brought him often into the northern reaches of the state.

"The Last of the Middle West" recounts recent visits by the author to these and other cities of mid-America, and these seem to be that progress is on the verge of erasing the last vestiges of the country he knew as a youth. However, the coffin is still open if anyone would care to pay his last respects.

Throughout the book, Humphreys conducts a pseudo-psychanalysis of his motives for making such a trip and writing such a book. None of his motives are very interesting. As a relative unknown in the field of letters, Humphreys' self-analysis couldn't be less meaningful to the average reader. At times, in passages describing the strained relations between himself and his wife, the book becomes downright embarrassing.

FOR SOME REASON, Humphreys has chosen to use fictitious names throughout his work, stripping his commentaries on Charlevoix and East Jordan of any historical---or even gossip---value.

The author's remarks on Charlevoix also are subject to question. For example, he recalls, in the 1930's, that he once sat with a friend on a little park on the main street "near the vacant bandstand looking out at Lake Charlevoix where the sailboats were at anchor."

Old timers are hard-pressed to remember a park or band stand or main street in the 1930's, although both are there today. Furthermore, anyone sitting in downtown Charlevoix isn't very likely to comment on sailboats lying at anchor in Lake Charlevoix, something that could be seen only dimly at best, across Round Lake and through the inner channel. Surely there must have been some activity on Round Lake more worthy of comment.

The author later recounts briefly and with skill a boat ride (no canoes were available) he and his wife took on the Jordan River.

If one part of the book stands out among the others it is the author's reunion with his old pal Fletcher in Grand Rapids. A former alcoholic, Fletcher lost his wife and five daughters to a divorce. He kept his five sons, lived off the welfare, gave up booze and later became a Seventh Day Adventist.

In the whole work, Fletcher's sorry plight is the only episode which lacks the day-dreamy quality which infects the rest of the book. JRC

Dear Mr. Clock and People of Charlevoix:

I suppose I am writing in behalf of the rest of my family when I say that we greatly enjoyed our station in Charlevoix. After living on an Air Force base most of my life I still remember my first few nights in Charlevoix when I couldn't sleep simply because it was so quiet.

I will always remember the people of Charlevoix for being so friendly and helpful. Somehow I believe a base with 26,000 people must be cold and impersonal.

If more cities would follow the lead Charlevoix has taken, I believe we would have a better world.

I would like to say one more thing perhaps not so praise-giving---even though Charlevoix the beautiful justly calls itself just that. I hope that it might install wastebaskets at strategically located areas so Charlevoix might be that much more beautiful.

I am writing on July 4th. I hope to visit Charlevoix in the near future.

A former citizen,

Instinct Causes Vacations

By Lee Smith

Until recently, less than half a million years ago, we were nomads, continually on the move; hunters, fishers, gatherers of edible plants. Instinct prompts our enormous hurrying from where we are to somewhere else. Instinct causes vacations.

It is safe to say that no part of America has more vacation possibilities than Michigan. Trout, golf, muskellunge, saddle horses, tennis, swimming, canoeing, oamplng and dance orchestras are among the attractions available in our resort areas.

WILDERNESS is not everyone's requirement. Many vacations are taken in serial form, including long weekends. There is no town in Michigan that is not within an hour's driving of vacation facilities, ranging from the marshes and channels of the St. Clair Flats to the lofty woodlands of the Porcupine Mountains bordering Lake Superior.

AN AUTHORITY on far-out vacations is

Clockwise

Judy has a crazy idea that fathers should build things for their children. In fact, it has become sort of a kind of obsession with her. She's never happier than when she can hear the buzz of my crosscut saw in the basement or my anguished yelps when I hit my thumb with a hammer.

Part of her reasoning is economical. She thinks it costs less to build things than to buy them. In a quarter of a century on this planet she has never heard of the efficiencies of mass production or the economies of having skilled workmen do a job.

OUR FIRST run-in on the subject came last Christmas when she decided Kathleen needed a doll cradle and there was none available in the northern hemisphere to fill the bill. Kathleen agreed. For weeks, this was the main topic of conversation around our house---when the cradle was going to be built.

Finally, to dispel the gathering storm, I bought some lumber and a handful of nails. Things were pretty quiet for a while. Then two days before Christmas, Judy inquired how the cradle was coming.

That night I spent in the basement, cutting, drawing, figuring, sanding. I wasn't sure what a doll cradle looked like. At one point I had the sides too verticle and it resembled a mortician's rough box. I considered putting a lid on it and calling it an occupation toy.

BY DAWN I had something built that a long, skinny doll would fit into. If the doll had one arm, it would fit even better. Judy said she would paint it, and with a little luck we would have it under the tree Dec. 25.

We were happy Kathleen didn't scream quite so loudly at the cradle as she did her other toys.

THIS SPRING, as soon as the first robin came back, Judy decided Kathleen needed a sandbox for her birthday, which happens to fall on Memorial Day. I toyed around with that one for weeks, thinking up reasons why we should buy a commercial sandbox. None of them worked.

Finally, I ordered some more lumber and had it delivered to the back yard. I lined it up against the back of the house and told Judy it had to be a season. That got me off the hook for a while.

Unfortunately, foul weather set in and no one---not even a mother---could expect a father to go out and build a sandbox in the snow. I didn't get around to this particular project until Memorial Day itself dawned cold and clear. When the parade was over, I took my crosscut and tri-square out to the back steps and set to work. Six-year-old Jeff Skelton next door came over to help. He watched carefully as I measured and cut the boards and began nailing them together.

"I can tell you right now," he said shortly, "that this sandbox is going to be too big for one kid."

"Kathleen's a growing girl and needs room to move around," I said defensively, half-resenting the advice of my sandbox expert. "You could ask some other kids from the neighborhood to play," he suggested. "That would fill it up."

"O.K.," I said, realizing what he was driving at. "You're invited," after that I never had a more willing helper.

BY EVENING, the sandbox was just about completed. A couple of boards had split, so I still had to build some seats. Judy bundled Kathleen up and brought her outside to look at her birthday present. She wasn't overly impressed, but sensed the possibilities of having a large wooden box in the backyard. She got underneath it.

Actually, two more weeks passed before I got the monster stained (it drank up $4 worth of expensive stain) and filled with sand. Fortunately, the Byron Wrights had too much sand delivered and all I had to do was truck it over from their driveway in my wheelbarrow.

WHEN IT WAS filled, I tried to explain to Judy the soundness behind my structural plan.

"I put it on legs," I said, "so that I will be able to move it to a different location in the yard every week. That way we don't have to lose any grass. Watch how easily I pivot it on one leg."

Forthwith I stooped over to pick up my creation, but lo and behold I might as well have tried to move the Great Pyramid of Cheops or the Treasury Building. There she sat and there she sits.

I notice the grass underneath is getting a little long, but it will soon die and dry up. Then, when Kathleen is in college, there'll be a bare rectangle measuring four by six feet in the center of the backyard to remind us of when she was a little girl.

Beaver Island

Escape from Desperation

ROMANCE, the legends and lore of the big lakes and some of Michigan's most colorful history are combined on Beaver Island with the exotic lure of an island hideaway and retreat from the tension and pressures of the mainland. These ingredients, plus the Midwest's finest hunting and fishing, are attracting thousands of vacationers to Beaver Island. Built in 1853--during Mormon King Strang's reign--the Beaver Head Light, above, charms many visitors who make the scenic trip to the south end of the Island.

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Council Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chieftains. The mission church is the handiwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, taking part in a protestant movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

Later Greensky became dissatisfied with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes. Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife.

At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent Church began. The building is 28 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs.

When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18, services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

the congregation, says the Church is presently trying to buy back some of the nearby land which has been bought by the white man. Much of the area is Indian burial ground, marked by rude crosses and tumbledown fences.

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpm's) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nyme Hollies, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West

Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan; resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Sharon Wood, Mike Allen and Hy Heaton.

Hello There.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Boker

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Have a Bacon "Ball" Month

Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.

Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

BEAVER HEAD light is one of the landmarks at the southern tip of the island. Light is serviced by Coast Guard personnel stationed on the island.

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, golfing, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the U.S. Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head

Marine Growth Slows Vessels

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

THE FORMER LOEB dairy farm on M-66 has been converted into an art foundry and crafts center by John Van Haver. The medieval-looking buildings have long aroused the curiosity of tourists to the Charlevoix area.

Former Loeb Farm Is Now Art Foundry

The storied Loeb dairy farm on M-66--long a tourist attraction with its turrets and battlements--is open for business this summer, but there are no cows on the premises.

The property has been purchased by Muskegon foundryman John Van Haver who has turned it into a year 'round art castings foundry. During the summer the buildings will be open to the public.

A gift shop has been opened and a tea room offers refreshments to visitors.

Once owned by the Loeb family of Chicago, the property has not been farmed in the past 40 years and the buildings have long resembled medieval ruins.

John Van Haver

Van Haver has turned some of the fieldstone walls into attractive garden settings. Other buildings have been repaired for use.

COLONY CORALS

Parallepora (DEV.)—Left, belongs to the Stromatopora, an uncertain group of extinct coral-like marine organisms which built laminated irregular limey masses on coral reefs.

Hexagonaria (DEV.) Right and below, are six "Petoskey stones" (type of Tetracera).

Side view. Above, note younger colony developed on top.

Polished specimen, below. The reason for "hex" in the generic name is apparent.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge. The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry. In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bells Bay, just south of Charlevoix. Although Charlevoix has many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and an obelisk attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders. Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods--an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

Learn to Swim For Summer Safety, Fun

As the outdoor swimming season approaches once again, the safety experts predict with certainty that more than 6,000 Americans will drown in the coming months.

THEY will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing swim and others will fall out of boats or off docks and piers.

Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen. The magazine, "Today's Health," offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family.

LEARN TO swim and to relax in the water. Never swim alone. Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

HORTON BAY CLOSED SUNDAY

Do not overestimate your ability and endurance. Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim a long distance to shore.

NEVER DIVE into waters of unknown depth.

Try new activities, such as water skiing or scuba diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

MANY families will do most of their swimming this season in private pools. In their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor. There also are some special safety precautions for private pools.

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified.

WALK, DON'T run, about the pool. Horseplay should be forbidden.

Fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children.

Keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring buoys.

Keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

Take Good Care of Boating Gear

Boating accessories require only a minimum of care, but too often they don't even receive this. To add to the appearance of your rig and increase the life of accessories, the following steps.

Floor mats, seats and convertible tops should be washed periodically. This is true for both fresh and salt water craft. A mild soap solution-avoid harsh detergents-will remove dirt and smudge marks. This should be followed by a thorough rinsing with fresh water. When storing tops between boating outings, make sure they are thoroughly dry. When you store a wet top, you're inviting mildew.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushiest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-chug across the neck of the South Arm.

Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life.

The Ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at scenic Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

THE IRONTON FERRY carries cars and passengers across Lake Charlevoix from Ironton to the South Arm Peninsula. The pleasant trip saves many miles of driving.

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it.

Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play..." is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health".

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading, it may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups.
It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing a lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY-- $600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Refrigerator Cookies
Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat.
Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops--The Treasurer Cove--actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank in the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoixan Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oak ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, deacon's benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "Tweed Decks" bar under Irv Drost's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and welded anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material in them to keep him busy ten years.

THIS IS what the Sawyer's timbers looked like after being dredged from the bottom of Bells Bay. The keel section (center above) is now the "Tweed Decks" bar.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a blustery November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 hands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning. It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan.

Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore.

The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasurer Cove, at Leland. Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship in Bells Bay about five years ago.

The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

List Four Tips for Better Snaps

Four common errors account for thousands of ruined snapshots.

Before clicking the shutter this summer, run through these checks quickly: (1) Hold the camera steady; (2) Move in closer; (3) Be careful of background interference; and (4) Don't try and crowd too much into a single picture.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test.

Slide brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. COAST GUARD Cutter Sundew helps maintain buoys and lights in Northern Lake Michigan. In winter she serves as an icebreaker wherever needed.

Coast Guard Ready

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix—the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions.

Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Sheppard
Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds. First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up never again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevils, spinners.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations.

Just because your boat has "room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry.

If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Loeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm.

If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them, chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers, Hawaiian Wiggles.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass, smallmouths.
--Nowland Lake, for pike,

bass, panfish.
--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Wallace Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

YOU CAN FIND your way to these, and numerous other, lakes by using a map of Charlevoix or Antrim County. The exploring can be as much fun as the fishing.

If your taste runs more to stream fishing try the Jordan River, the Bear River or the Boyne River. There are also many small, brushy, creeks that produce small trout.

LEWIS AND DAVE Juilleret of Charlevoix display some of the fine rainbows being taken in Lake Charlevoix. This catch, weighing in excess of 18 pounds, was taken in the Horton Bay area.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba is a pleasant hour's drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. Located in a deep valley and utilizing a natural flow of icy spring water, the hatchery will produce six million fingerling trout a year for restocking the Great Lakes.

With the coming of summer, State Police have urged boaters to match motor horsepower to boat use.

They also ask boatmen to watch for sudden changes in weather, heed storm warning information and follow all boat safety rules.

THE CAUTION was coupled with a report that the State Police underwater recovery squad is now up to full strength of 40 for the 1966 water activity season. These men are assigned to 29 posts throughout the state.

Assistance in water accidents can be obtained by notifying any State Police post or other law enforcement agency.

The State Police divers are all certified American Red Cross water safety instructors. Each is fully equipped for underwater searches, including lights.

For assignments under special conditions the department has available amphibious trucks based at East Lansing headquarters and Brighton.

Camping Outlawed at Ferry Beach

CHARLEVOIX -- The campground at Ferry Beach was officially closed Monday night by the Charlevoix City Council. The action came after Howard Sherman of Marquette Township complained that the city was operating the campground in competition with private enterprise.

Sherman owns an extensive campground development on Nowland Lake, about five miles from Charlevoix. He told the Council that his campground called "The Open Gate" has undergone "expansion of considerable magnitude" in the past year and he had from 35 to 40 camps on his property over the Fourth of July.

He said his campground is rated "very high" by Campers Guide magazine. The editors estimate his potential capacity at 1,000 camp units.

AT THE CONCLUSION of the meeting, Alderman Bob Gill recommended closing the beach area to camping altogether since sanitary facilities are far below state requirements. For example, campers must use toilets in the old Power Plant.

2. Approved rezoning from Agricultural to Industrial-2 certain airport properties purchased recently by Freedman Aircraft Engineering Co. from the city.

Hondas Take Bumps

CHARLEVOIX -- After a bumpy start, Charlevoix's first Honda rental outlet is in operation at the corner of Bridge Street and Park Avenue.

A VISIT to the lot further convinced him that Hogan's softly purring Hondas were not responsible for the ruckus. "I guess I was mistaken," Taylor said.

Hogan, who flew to Charlevoix from Birmingham Monday night to attend the City Council meeting, said he thought he had a problem but he guessed not.

He told the Council that his six Hondas are C-100's and have only 50 cubic inch engines. "They're really nothing more than glorified lawnmower engines," he said.

He explained that he opened the Honda rental service on the spur of the moment, after a Traverse City ice cream vendor backed out of an agreement to sell ice cream on the lot.

HOGAN SAID that since he was in town, he would like to tell the Council about survey he had taken to determine if a big convention hotel in Charlevoix would pay its own way.

The firm of Howarth and Horwath of Chicago came to the conclusion that Charlevoix definitely could make use of a 120-room year-round hotel at the foot of Dixon Avenue.

Hogan said demolition of the present Holiday Beach Hotel probably will start in the fall. The new hotel, which will take 18 months to build, will be able to host conventions of up to 400 people.

THE COUNCIL appeared interested in the project, and Hogan said he would like to sit down with members some time at an executive session to discuss his plans in detail.

Mayor Foehlman thanked him for coming to the meeting. Hogan said it had been a beautiful evening to fly up from Birmingham. "I guess I'll see the stars on the way home," he added.

1. American people are extremely friendly.

2. It is easy to drive on American roads, compared to those in England.

3. The weather is hotter here than in England.

4. Americans pay unbelievable amounts of money for medical care.

5. The Ironton area is extremely beautiful.

C of C Takes Wraps Off Venetian Festival

CHARLEVOIX -- Plans have been completed for the 1966 edition of the Venetian Festival, according to Chamber of Commerce Manager Archie Dayton.

THIS YEAR'S festival will begin with a gigantic street parade beginning at 1:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon. The parade will form in the vacant lot between U.S. 31 and Carpenter off State Street.

At 3 P.M. a doll and pet parade is slated for East Park, under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Dziedziel.

At 3:30 a helicopter sea-rescue will take place in Round Lake.

From 4 to 5 p.m., youngsters will stage a waterball fight and greased pole climb in East Park.

From 7:30 to 8:30, Dr. Walter Hoffmann will M.C. the crowning of Venetian Queen Elaine Warner and her court and Mrs. Isabel Oliver will be designated "honor person" of 1966.

At 8:30 p.m. the Firehouse Five will perform in East Park and at 9 o'clock Glenn Cumberland his "New Breed" rock 'n roll combo will play for a dance in State Street.

SUNDAY'S activities will begin with a ballgame from 2:30 to 5 p.m. being arranged by Don Kowbel.

Also during the afternoon, Scouts will have a tug-of-war and sack race and firemen will stage a waterball fight in East Park.

Duty permitting, both the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the Coast Guard Cutter Sundow will be open for visitors from 1 until 4 p.m.

From 6:30 to 7, a concert of organ music will be presented in the park. From 7:30 to 8:30, the Charlevoix City Band will present a concert, featuring vocalist Lt. Dave Smith. From 8:30 until 9, Gary Stutzman's band will play, culminating with the boat parade and fireworks.

Dinwiddie Elected By School Board

CHARLEVOIX -- Darrel Dinwiddie was elected president of the Charlevoix Board of Education at the regular meeting Monday night. He succeeds Burr Blanchard.

Glenn Kenney was elected vice president, succeeding Dr. Robert Tollas who did not run for re-election.

Mrs. Francis Hooper continues as secretary and Dale Boss as treasurer.

THERE WAS only one nomination for each office, so the secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous vote for each nominee.

Bids for the sale of the old library property were opened. Donald Coulter, Traverse City attorney, was successful high bidder at $7,800.

Other bids were received from Round Lake Lodge 100F and Julius Gilbert. Coulter will take possession April 1, 1967. The board had expected to make only $4,500 on the sale of the building.

DINWIDDIE recommended that the finance committee do the preliminary work on the budget.

A discussion concerning the changing of the general fund every two years from one bank to the other. Dinwiddie said that it has been questioned. The board decided to wait a year because of the number of checks on hand. Bids were opened and a bid of Tri City Construction was accepted for blacktopping the play area at the Elementary School and for putting in a sidewalk and blacktopping the parking area. The board had asked for bids on only the blacktopping but Milligan took it on himself to ask for bids for the sidewalk and parking area. The board accepted the total bid of $1,322.55, Swanson

British, U.S. Pen Pals United

After corresponding as pen pals for the past nine years, Mrs. Midge Chisman of Wembley, England, and Mrs. Evelyn (Williams) Lambdon of Detroit have had an opportunity to know each other personally during the past week at Mrs. Lambdon's Ironton cottage.

Mrs. Chisman, who lives near London, arrived in the United States June 28, for an extended visit with Mrs. Lambdon. They had never met, but "knew each other immediately," thanks to their lengthy correspondence.

Mrs. Chisman has three children, a 14-year-old daughter and two sons attending Cambridge University. Her husband is an electronics engineer.

BEFORE COMING to Ironton they visited Greenfield Village in Dearborn and shopped at a Detroit supermarket -- an unusual experience for the British housewife.

While staying at Ironton, the pair had lunch at Boyne Mountain and took a walking tour of Mackinac Island. Mrs. Chisman says walk-

Anti-Blight Ordinance

EAST JORDAN -- The East Jordan Council has passed an ordinance designed to rid the city of junk automobiles and other kinds of blight.

Labeled ordinance No. 110, the bill was discussed at the last meeting by City Attorney Bob Klevorn who also answered questions about its provisions.

The ordinance, which has been in the works for several months, provides for "the regulation of the storage and accumulation of junk, trash, rubbish, junk automobiles, abandoned or disabled vehicles and building materials on private property; the maintenance of blighted or dangerous structures and other blighting or dangerous factors or causes of blight and danger and deterioration with in the City of East Jordan, to provide for enforcement thereof, and to provide penalties for the violation thereof".

The terms are defined in the ordinance.

"The City Council may condemn any such structure (any structure which is unsafe of which is a menace to the health

Machine Cranks Out Blondes In Less Than Half the Time

OPERATOR Pat Clark demonstrates new time-saving machine used in hair tinting and bleaching as Mrs. Marie Loder looks on.

If blondes have more fun, Charlevoix women are in for a high old time this summer.

Mrs. Marie Loder, operator of the Wal-Mart Colifour Shop at Oleson's Shopping Center, has purchased a Helene Curtis Color Master machine which reduces by up to 80 per cent the time required for bleaching, tinting, "frosting" or other color processing operations.

The machine looks like a dryer, but it's not. Instead, eight "insta-ray" bulbs act as a catalyst for bleaching and tinting agents.

MRS. LODER says a bleaching operation that once took two hours can now be completed in about 40 minutes.

The machine, one of the first in northern Michigan, was installed last week.

Mrs. Loder and her staff are enthusiastic about the time it saves, both for themselves and their customers.

Miss Ann Martin Married Saturday

Miss Ann Martin became the bride of Maynard Sherwin of Madison, Wis., July 9 at the First Methodist Church in the presence of 150 guests.

Miss Martin is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Martin of Charlevoix. Sherwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sherwin of Paw Paw, Mich.

REV. THOMAS BECKER, brother-in-law of the groom and a graduate student at Western Reserve University, officiated the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by Rev. Leona Winegarden.

Mrs. Lee Moerland was the soloist and sang Greg's "I Love Thee" and Stenson's "The Prayer Perfect." Mrs. David Ikens of Rogers City was organist.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length A-line gown of silk tulle with an Empire waist, long lace sleeves, lace bodice and lace-trimmed train. Her triple bouffant nylon veil was secured by a double beaded tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli, stephanotis, tulleman roses and baby's breath.

Miss Elaine Martin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was of peach di luna trimmed with matching velvet ribbon and styled after the bride's gown except with short sleeves. Her headpiece was a petal cluster of peach di luna and netting. She carried a small cascade bouquet of miniature tulleman roses and baby's breath.

THE BRIDESMAIDS were Mrs. Thomas Becker of Cleveland, Ohio, sister of the groom; Mrs. William Connor of Madison, Wis.; and Miss Mary Elyn Vincent of Warrenville, Ill., cousin of the bride. Their dresses and headpieces were identical to the maid of honor's and they carried cloud bouquets of tulleman roses and baby's breath.

Miss Lynda Becker, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a short dress of peach di luna and carried a basket of flowers.

Wayne Crouch of Urbana, Ill., was best man.

Ushers were Paul Martin, brother of the bride, Patrick Mariani and James Baker, both of Madison, Wis.

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a robin's egg blue sheath dress with a bead-trimmed jacket and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a light blue knit sheath and a corsage of pink carnations. A church reception given by the bride's parents featured a three-tiered wedding cake encircled by a flower arrangement and topped with a cluster of tulleman roses. Miss Judy Kotesky served the cake and Miss Nancy Fogel of Chicago served coffee. Mrs. Larry Minch of Kingsley served punch.

FOR TRAVELING on a 10 day wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride wore a pastel flowered sheath with pink accessories. After July 21, the couple will reside at 2306 Badger Parkway, Apt. 20, Madison, Wis.

THE BRIDE received her B. A. degree from North Central College in Naperville, Ill., and her M. A. from the University of Wisconsin in Madison. The past year she taught German at Lyons Township School, LaGrange, Ill.

The groom received his B. A. from Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington, Ill., and is presently working for his doctorate in organic chemistry at the University of Wisconsin.

Guests were present from Cheboygan, Indian River, Kingsley, Kalamazoo, Paw Paw, Covert, Berrien Springs, Rogers City, Lansing, Ann Arbor, Plymouth, Detroit, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, California and Oregon.

Super Warm... Waterproof... Windproof

fits in your pocket

You as a sportsman can now gain the benefits of space technology which produced a revolutionary super insulation material. From this miracle material, the National Research Corporation has developed the NRC-SPACE BLANKET. There's no other product to compare with it. Read how useful this super blanket can be for you.

WARM
The new NRC-SPACE BLANKET holds body warmth better than any material ever before available. It is ten times warmer, pound for pound, than wool!

VERSATILE
Use it as a camping blanket, ground cloth, hunting blind, windbreak, boat blanket, cockpit sunshade, poncho, tarpaulin, stadium blanket — or 45 an extra household blanket. Reinforced grommets corners in the bound edges make it easy to secure — something you can't do with ordinary blankets!

VITAL
The NRC-SPACE BLANKET can save your life if you were forced to spend a night in the woods. It can act as a radar or searchlight reflector in addition to having high visibility against a snow background.

Knockers Unnecessary

There are no knockers on church doors. None are needed. One is welcome to attend any of the services whether as a member, a visitor or as a stranger. Where is there another institution that means so much to so many people? And it can still serve many more.

The Church is, or can be the center for much joy and fellowship. It can be a refuge and bulwark in time of distress and sorrow. It can be a source of power when the spirit is heavily laden with perplexing troubles and problems. The Church can be of tremendous help in your life if you but use it. You do not need to knock!

By the Way...

By Ruth Ann Miller

What is July 4 to you? I was shocked at the story in the July 4 issue of the Detroit Free Press about the 25 children, ages eight to 13, who were questioned about what the Fourth of July commemorates. Only five knew. This didn't shock or disappoint me as much as July 2 at the Jordan Valley Festival. At the end of the parade the fire department demonstrated a church-rise and raised the American flag while the band played the Star-Spangled Banner.

MOST OF the citizens of the U. S. that I saw did not pay their respect to the flag. Men didn't remove their hats or stand at attention and I heard no one sing the national anthem.

Is pride and respect for our nation dying? July 4, 1776, is probably the most important date in history for the United States. We declared our independence and a long, hard-fought war followed. July 4 was the starting of the effort for freedom. Through the Declaration of Independence and the war which followed we became a sovereign nation.

One of the most important symbols of this independence is our flag. The flag should be respected as such an important symbol and respect should be properly shown.

To me, disrespect is more excusable in children than adults. Adults have had longer to learn respect. They should set good examples for their children.

America deserves respect. We are free from foreign rule and are a leader among free nations. We are rich in spiritual things, ingenuity, and materials.

Am I old-fashioned to think that children should be taught the meaning of July 4 and to think people should respect and be proud of our flag as a symbol of our hard-won independence?

Six-Year High Hit by Lakers

Shipments of iron ore, coal and grain over the Great Lakes in May amounted to 21,040,071 net tons, a six-year high, Oliver T. Burnham, vice president and secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association, reports.

The total compared to 22,062,589 tons moved in the 1960 month, and 20,489,388 tons hauled in May last year.

The grand total of these commodities moved this year to June 1 set a nine-year record, totaling 35,541,620 net tons, against 36,304,305 tons carried in the 1957 period, and 30,039,090 tons in the first five months of last year.

May ore shipments reached 10,348,041 gross tons, up from 9,545,295 tons a year ago. Coal cargoes dropped to 6,668,413 net tons from 6,940,147 tons in the 1965 month.

The grain movement of 2,781,852 net tons was down 76,659 tons from May last year, but the season's haul to June 1 of 5,531,156 tons was an all-time record. Previous high for the period was 4,965,829 tons moved in 1964.

Convert your home or business to economical Natural Gas heat today and pay nothing until October 1, 1966.

Convert now to Gas heat and Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will buy your unused oil or coal—even remove your oil tank—all at no cost to you. What's more, whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we'll pay the bill. And all you pay us, between now and next October, is for the Gas you'll use to make this your most comfortable winter ever. Here's how this special limited-time offer works:

1. If you're now heating with oil, we'll buy what's left in your storage tank—at the price you paid for it. What's more, we'll remove your tank from your home or business and even haul it away if you want. All at no cost to you.
2. If you're now heating with coal, we'll take what coal you have on hand, off your hands. And pay you whatever it cost you originally.
3. Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, we'll pay for it and its installation by a Gas Company approved heating contractor, and it won't cost you a penny until next October. You can pay for the unit and its installation on October 1, 1966 with no carrying charge whatsoever.

Or if you prefer, you can make equal monthly payments, including carrying charges on your Gas bill, over a period of up to three years after October 1, 1966. Either way, there are no carrying charges between now and next October, and you need make no payments between now and next October. If you live in the areas we serve in the counties listed below, you're entitled to take advantage of this special limited-time offer. So act now. Call your Michigan Consolidated Gas Company office today for the name of a Gas Company approved heating contractor and all details. Your local Michigan Consolidated office number is 347-8701 in Petoskey.

BEER—A big boost to the economy!

The brewing industry each year contributes over 1.4 billion dollars in federal, state and local excise taxes. Wages and salaries in the brewing industry account for almost 500 million dollars, and the purchase of packaging materials from other industries runs over 550 million. So next time you enjoy a cool, refreshing brew after hard work or play, remember—BEER is good in more ways than one!

Camp Charlevoix Corrall Chatter

On Saturday of the first week in camp, regular activities were held and in the evening the much-liked event "Capture the Camper" was held. Boys like this event as it permits them to hide from the counselors. The staff takes off to the woods to find the boys and the team getting the least number of points, gets the points. After a full hour of hunting, the event ended in a tie, the Greens and Greys each getting one point.

The speaker at Sunday morning chapel was our Director of Activities, Bill Townsend, and he chose as his topic "Building Your Personality". It was a very good talk and gave the boys much to think about. Phil Salvador, our boy from Venezuela, gave the prayer and Craig Dickson, from Grosse Pointe, read the Scripture. In the afternoon, the four sections met in mass games, as it was still hot, and these were followed by a long swim. In the evening, the entire camp met in the Big Barn to see a movie, "The Making of a Cowboy". It was enjoyed by everyone. Later at night, we had a real hard rain, and everyone was delighted, as the last few days have been hot, with cool evenings, ideal for good sleeping. Phil Gach, our photographer from Grosse Pointe, arrived.

The Glorious Fourth dawned bright, sunny and warm. In the morning, Mr. Gach was busy taking cabin pictures and activity pictures. Boys were in camp uniform and it was a very busy morning. In the afternoon, the Annual Track Meet was held. As this is the Official start of the Green-Grey Competition, there was much excitement as the events were held in two of the camp arenas. Boys were doing their best in the running and jumping events. At the end of the meet, the Greens had picked up three points to the Greys, one. In the Senior Section the following boys won a first place: Dick Hartger, David Harrison, John Jellicoe, Craig Dickson, Luis Hernandez, Bill Freylogie, Mike Fish, David Fox, and Dave Maskeny. The boys getting the other points were: Jimmy Chlot, Steve Pinkham, Curt Bledsoe, Bill Stout, Dale Champagny, Phil Salvador, Ed Kohl, Tighe Magnuson, Jack Deppe, Bob Daverman, Rick Gillett, Bob Sweet, David Washburn, Doug Ladney, Greg Cross, Carl Bowman, Dick Gray, Steve Zeigler, Jim Evans, John Boardman, Mike Kelly, and Mike Case and John Thomas, in the Intermediate Section, the competition was close, with these boys winning first place: Bob Lehnardt, Phil Hayes, J. B. Smith, Steve Storms, Mark Saunders, Steve Heller, Chuck Gardella, Carl Llewellyn, Dick Andrews, and Skip Sales. Boys winning points for the Intermediates were: David Lombard, Bob Burling, Mark Chapuis, Ken Teesdale, Chris Cook, Ken Mablatt, Colin Hamilton, John Evans, Dennis Bledsoe, Mark Herschede, Mark Prophator, Bill Carey, John Cooper, Mark Hildebrandt, Tom Hunter, John Thiel, Rick Llewellyn, Mark Ruffin, George Muscamp, Mike Korchmar, and Russ Volz. The first place winners in the Prep Section were: Terry Mast, Rick Zeigler, Mike Zinn, Don Lowellen, Todd Soderstrom, Bob Grant, Ken Paris, Curky Kock, Tommy Smith, Bob Phillips, Andy Schmidt, Henry Whiting. Other Prep boys who scored points were: Don Bril, Luke Bourne, Jim Case, Martin Timkovich, Jamey Stitt, Tim Washburn, Jeff Cross, Bill Ricker, Bill Haynie, Raymond Dickson, Mike Elledge, Craig Caulkin, and Steve Gunning. The Junior Section had a really fine time with the boys mightily excited about the winners and were there to cheer their cabin-mates on. The first place winners in the Junior Section were: Rick Silver, Billy McKay, Rieky Kahn, Ron Stevens (3 firsts and 1 second), Chuck Helmandollar, Doug Glendenning, and Jim Hartger. The other point winners in the Junior Section were: Dave Grant, Robbie Quinn, Mike Wayne, Cliff Oberlin, Paul and Doug Welday, Sammy Sisk, Brad Mast, Bill Bielby, Dan Dudley, Mike Whiting, David Toyensend, Jimmy Huddleston, and David Lindner. For our evening meal we had our Annual Buffet Supper on the shore of the lake, and our gential cooks, Joe and Louie, outdid themselves with delicious roast beef cut 1/2 inch thick and the relish tray was a sight to behold. The day was ended with the usual beautiful display of fireworks shot off from the end of the dock. Boys took blankets and settled themselves in the sand on the beach and they were really thrilled by the fireworks. When some of the rockets lit up the whole waterfront, we could see many people on the opposite shore and several boats anchored out in the lake watching the camp Charlevoix fireworks. It took over an hour to shoot these off, the evening was ended with each boy being given a box of a dozen sparklers to be lighted. This makes a beautiful sight. It was truly a Glorious Fourth.

Tuesday morning everyone slept late, with breakfast at nine - fifteen. Fred Casey, Earlham College, took his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were: Mike Kelly, Bill Freylogie, Bill Carey, Doug Ladney, David Harrison, Dick Hartger, and John Thomas. All day long, our camp photographer was busy taking camp pictures, and we are all anxious to see the results. One of the most popular boys in the Junior Section is little Sammy Sisk, eight years old, who plays a mean guitar. He entertained in the dining room, and often can be found with a group around him enjoying his efforts. It rained some on Tuesday night, our first rain, but the day dawned bright and hot. This sure is ideal camping weather.

On Wednesday, Mike Puterbaugh took his cabin 18 down to Young's State Park for an overnight. These boys were: David Washburn, Karl Bowman, Greg Cross, Jack Deppe, man, Greg Cross, Jack Deppe,

Luis Hernandez, and Bob Burling. Later in the day, Cabin 15, Tim Crowell, Earlham College, took his boys from cabin 15 on a canoe trip into Susan Lake. These boys were: David Lombard, Chuck Gach, Bill B. Smith, George Muscamp, Jon Blohm, Bob Lehnardt, and Mike Korchmar. In the evening, we had skits, and boys enjoy these as it gives them a chance to show their dramatic ability. Cabin 2, our oldest boys put on a skit called the "Bus Ride" and it was very well done. These boys were: Carl Webb, Dale Champagny, Curt Bledsoe, Rick Gray, Tighe Magnuson, John Jellicoe, and Mike Fish. Gil Haynie (Indiana University) cabin 13 put on "A Night at Camp Charlevoix," these boys were: Mark Prophator, Mark Hildebrandt, Cap Lesesne, Mark Ruffin, Tommy Hunter, John Thiel, and Russ Volz. John DeBorja (University of Youngstown) had his cabin put on "A Fashion Show" that was very well done. The beautiful models were: Doug Whiting, Steve Gunning, Bob Grant, Bill Hickey, Craig Caulkin, Mike Bledsoe, and Mike Strek. The final skit of the evening was Cabin Four, Vin Ludwig's boys, put on "The Telephone Line". These boys were: Chuck Helmandollar, Mike Whiting, Cliff Oberlin, David Lindner, Stuart Hartger, and Ricky Kahn.

On Thursday, two of the Junior Cabins took an overnight to Young's State Park. Paul Phillips and Russ Washburn took their boys on this trip, the boys being: Jimmy Huddleston, Doug Welday, Robbie Quinn, Brad Mast, Doug Glendenning, Rick Silver, Ron Stevens, Billy Slater, Dan Dudley, Billie Otto, Billy Bielby, and Jim Hartger. The Senior Section all went over to the shore of Lake Michigan for a canoe-cade. On Friday, the first day horse trip took off and it was quite a sight to see the team of Belgians pulling our big white wagon, driven by Gary Kottley and followed by the sitting of horses accompanied by three of the cowboys. The lucky boys on this trip were: Jim Evans, Bob Kaiser, Mike Zinn, David Townsend and Billy McKay from our cabin of smallest boys, Mike Kelly, David Harrison, Jack Deppe, Mark Prophator, David Lombard, Steve Storms, Tighe Magnuson, Steve Gunning, Cap Lesesne, Tom Hunter, John Jellicoe, Rick Gillett, Bob Sweet, Dick Andrews, Scott Richardson, and Chuck Helmandollar. Later in the day, we had two more cabins join up for an overnight at Fisherman's Bay. These were Vin Ludwig and Bill Diem's cabins. These boys were: Mike Whiting, Cliff Oberlin, David Lindner, Stuart Hartger, Ricky Kahn, Tim Washburn, Don Bril, Terry Mast, Mark Zeigler, Rick Zeigler, Jeff Cross and Bill Haynie.

On Saturday we had several parents as our visitors and their sons were indeed excited about showing their parents the camp. Everyone was most complimentary about the camp, and we do appreciate their kind remarks, as parents are our best advertisements. In the evening, we had another Skit Night. Cabin 17, Fred Casey's cabin put on a three act skit. These boys were: Mike Kelly, Bill Freylogie, Bill Carey, Doug Ladney, David Harrison, Dick Hartger, and John Thomas. Cabin 18, Mike Puterbaugh's group, put on a doctor's skit, with Karl Bowman as the doctor. All of Dick McClure's cabin 20, took part in a skit called "The Coyote". These boys were: Phil Salvador, John Boardman, David Fox, Steve Pinkham, Rick Gillett, Ed Kohl, Craig Dickson, Bill Stout, Cabin 8, Bill Diem's boys put on "The Spring". Tim Washburn, Don Bril, Terry Mast, Mark Strick, Rick Zeigler, Bob Kaiser, Jeff Cross and Bill Haynie were in this skit. The evening's skits were brought to a close with Vin Ludwig's boys putting on "The Train". These boys were: Chuck Helmandollar, Mike Whiting, Cliff Oberlin, David Lindner, Stuart Hartger, and Ricky Kahn.

On Sunday morning, the chapel service was held. The speaker was Dick McClure, graduate of Earlham College, who spoke on "Thinking Positive". It was a very thought provoking talk, and one that gave the campers and staff much to think about. There were several parents present, and we were very happy to have them here. At the noon Sunday dinner, we always try to have some special music, and this week our artist was one of our Seniors who plays the piano very well. Ed Kohl, Dayton, Ohio, played George Ger-shwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and another number called "Downtown." In the afternoon, we had our first Green-Grey swimming meet and water-liont afternoon. The Junior Section had a watermelon capture, and they enjoyed it, with the Greens winning their point and the watermelon. They enjoyed eating their prize, too. In the Prep Section, they had a canoe race, and a water-polo game, with each team getting a point. The boys in the Intermediate Section winning points for their side were: Skip Sales, Carl Llewellyn, Mark Saunders, Steve Storms, Don Leveille, Mark Chapuis, Mark Herschede, Chuck Gardella. Greens won the point for the Intermediates. In the Senior Section, which ended in a tie, those boys getting points were: Ed Kohl, Greg Dickson, Dale Champagny, Bob Sweet, Mike Kelly, Dick Graves, Jimmy Chlot, Jack Deppe, Dave Maskeny, Luis Hernandez, and Dave Harrison.

In the evening, Vespers were held for all sections.

The camp program is gaining momentum each day, and as we approach the third week, which is "Mugwump" week, the boys are getting all excited. More about "Mugwump" next week.

What will the others be worth a year from now?

The Cadillac car holds its value far beyond any other automobile at or near its price. Let your Cadillac dealer explain today why now, more than ever, it's great... going Cadillac!

There is one simple way to measure the worth of any other luxury car; compare it to the way a Cadillac keeps its value. For Cadillac is the grand champion in this most telling of all motor car tests—and at resale returns a higher percentage of its original cost than any other car built in the land. There are many reasons. The first is Cadillac quality—recognized wherever automobiles are known. Then there is Cadillac beauty and luxury—so advanced that the car retains its desirability long after others have lost their appeal. And there is Cadillac safety, performance, dependability and operating economy. What will your car be worth a year—or even three years—from now? If it's a Cadillac, the answer is predictably pleasant. Get the facts today from your authorized dealer. He's an expert in serving the world's most demanding motorists—and his interest in your complete satisfaction will continue throughout your ownership. Isn't it time you put a Cadillac in your life?

With another week of play under their belts, all leagues have experienced some tightening up with several key games scheduled for this week. In fact last night found the two top teams in the fast-ball current clash as American Mold and Lake Construction met with the winner moving into first place.

Olesons proved to be the team of the week as they posted two upset wins to move out of last place.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
County State Bank proved that anything is possible as they battled from a 11-2 deficit to win 15-13 in extra innings. Everyone pitched in with the bat, but it was Larry Edwards who emerged as the hitting hero, collecting four hits, including two doubles. The losers, East Jordan Wilson, produced their own hero in John Newman who blasted out two long home runs.

Olesons gave league-leading Lake Construction fits before falling 8-6. They had the winning run on base in the last inning, but fell just short, like Boss and Don Kelly had two hits for the losers, with Mel Mitchell's double and single leading the losers.

Mold Team Boss had a two hit shutout going for him until the service men stirred things up in the seventh. Three hits produced two runs but it wasn't enough in a 6-2 defeat. Dave Smith's double and single paced American Mold. Olesons' combined Rich Heeris's one hit pitching with fine fielding and timely hitting for an 5-2 win over the Servicemen. Two runs in the seventh did the trick thanks to Denny Warner's double and Rick Heeris's one-bagger. Bob Ganzel's single was the only hit for the losers.

Lake Construction defeated East Jordan 3-1 in a hard fought contest. An error gave the winners the go-ahead run in the fifth, and then Rick Grunich legged out a misplayed double into a home run for an insurance run.

Olesons put their slugging shoes on for their contest with County State Bank, another lusty hitting crew, and came away with an 11-8 win in a wild and daffy contest. The Bank crew had a horrible night in the field and fell behind 10-1 as errors and John Ferguson's three run homer pushed Olesons' out in front. In one inning Olesons had two runners standing on second and two more sliding into third and Bank was lucky to get just one of them out.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Jerry's Gulf continued in first place by winning twice during the week. Against Freedmans they needed three seventh inning runs for a 12-9 win. Steve Smith's three hits, one a home run, paced Jerry's.

Skell's seventh inning single spoiled Terry Blisset's bid for a no-hitter. His fifteen walks kept him in trouble through out the contest.

Against Novaks it was a tough struggle until the late innings again in the bottom of the sixth they countered with five markers to win 10-5. Dave McDougall's two doubles were the big blows for the winners.

Norm Ostrum and Paul Fiedorek took hitting honors with three hits each.

Novaks fell victim to Freedmans who won their first by posting a 12-5 win. Skell again was the leading hero with two triples and a double. Mike Lord pitched in with a triple and double. Ostrum and Krag Lieberman had two each in a losing cause.

Electra scored five times to beat A & W 7-4. Bill Gengle allowed just two hits but two were put together for four. A & W runs in the second.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The Cardinals strengthened their hold on the title with a hard-fought 10-7 win over the Pirates. Mike Bergman came in as a relief pitcher and set down the Pirates in the last three innings allowing no hits and no runs. Eric Hillman and Randy DeYoung's base hits produced the three runs of margin in the fifth.

The Astros whipped the winless Dodgers 11-3 despite being outlasted 6-5. Reedy and Westbrook combined doubles to produce four fourth innings runs for the winners. Dutch Klooster had two hits for the losers.

TILL CUBS got into the win column with a 9-7 over the Pirates with Bob Cudi and Jim Moore each banging out two hits. Lyons three bagger was the only hit of the offerings of Dan Tollas.

The Carcys-Tim and Billy carried the Tigers past the Dodgers 10-2. Tim bombed Dodge pitching for two trips and a homer while cousin Billy chipped in with a four bagger of his own. Paul Klooster had two of the loser's hits.

The Astros looked good in upending the Lions 12-8. Joe Jones pitched and a homer helped to the victory as he collected two triples and a single and pitched a strong game.

SENIOR CITIZENS

The organizational meeting of the senior citizens club was held at the city hall last Tuesday afternoon with the second meeting of the temporary committee scheduled to be held yesterday. The City Recreation Department conducted the meeting and it was evident that there is a great need for the organization in the Charlevoix area. Roy Benneit was selected as temporary chairman with Harold Totten as temporary treasurer. Lydia Johnson is temporary secretary.

A committee was selected to investigate possible sites for a drop in center and a report was expected on the results at yesterday's meeting. City Recreation Director Deano Davenport was to meet with a field representative for the state commission of Aging and report on his findings on possible financial assistance. Additional interested persons are needed to aid in organizing the club and more information can be received at the city hall.

ADVENTURE CLUB
The first adventure club meeting was held at the Depot beach play area and was a success despite a short rain shower. At the initial meeting, for seven through eleven year olds, twenty girls and boys met and played some mass games preceded by a short softball clinic and game. The boys will meet at 9:30 with the girls at 10:30 each Saturday morning.

SWIMMING
Again a warm week enabled beaches to attract a record number of swimmers and sunbathers. All beaches posted record water temperatures and crowds. The swimming program is progressing nicely with the adult class rounding out a complete program. About 225 are taking classes mornings - Mondays through Fridays.

TENNIS SCHOOL
A record number of 30 have signed up for the tennis school and are enrolled in half hour classes on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings.

GOLF SCHOOL

The golf school moved its classroom to the golf course after two weeks of extensive work on the grip, stance, and swing. The class in now working on short irons with pulling scheduled for later in the week.

Miss Sundberg Visits Helsinki

Janice Sundberg, who will be a senior at the Charlevoix High School in September, left Thursday via plane from Detroit for Helsinki, Finland where she will spend two months as the guest of Christine Anderson, an exchange student under the Youth for Understanding program during the 1964-65 school year.

While here she lived with Mr. and Mrs. Rex E. Milligan.

In Helsinki, Janice, will be a guest at the home of Christine's mother, Mrs. Lisa Anderson. They plan to travel extensively in Finland and the Scandinavian countries.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Sundberg and family and her brother, James Mero, and daughter of Hampton, Va., who were visiting here took her to Detroit where she boarded the PanAm plane for the trip to Helsinki and a brief stop in London. She will return Sept. 9.

Guest Preacher

The Rev. Robert Pfeiffer, associate rector of St. Marks Episcopal Church, will be guest preacher at Christ Episcopal Church Sunday, July 17 at the 11 o'clock service. His topic will be "The Lilies of the Field."

The Rev. and Mrs. Pfeiffer are spending their vacation at their cabin on Oyster Bay.

Talk of the Town

M/Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene Barber and family of Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., have returned home following a week's visit with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kele.

The Edward Novotny family of Muskegon visited recently with his mother, Mrs. A.F. Novotny and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Jack DeWijdt and family of Wyoming visited recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Meggison.

A3/c Franklyn Curtis has completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., and has been transferred to Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, Ill., where he will receive additional training. He visited briefly recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Curtis enroute to his new assignment.

Mrs. Clara Walker had as her holiday weekend guests her daughter, Judy and Robert Church of Ann Arbor, her nephew, Michael Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. William Engstrom, all of Grand Rapids. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dorchar and family have returned to Bay City following a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McGhan.

Legendary medieval atmosphere, an enormous complex of gardens, courtyards, fountains, Norman arches, Gothic arches, towers, battlements, porticulis, heraldic arms, and a great hall 250 feet long.

A recreational and educational experience for the whole family, with visions of King Arthur, Sir Lancelot and the Knights of the Round Table. The great medieval complexes, with living quarters, defense tower's, shops, crafts, etc. Here is a glimpse back into times immemorial, to the crusades, to the great heritage of the western world.

Castle Van Haver is perhaps the closest approach to medieval European atmosphere in America. It is the restoration of the renowned Loeb Estate. Come As You Are -- Everyone Welcome

Clayton Morrison

Backs Soo Fete

State Representative Clayton T. Morrison has offered a resolution in the House which would lend official state support to Sault Ste. Marie's 300th anniversary celebration in 1968.

The resolution calls for a committee composed of five members of the House and five members of the Senate to lend encouragement to and to help in planning the celebration.

The committee in turn would name a 25-member Advisory Citizens Historical Committee to further assist with the celebration.

OPERATIONS of the committee would be financed by appropriations of $5,000 from each House.

Morrison thinks the resolution is worthy of support because of the role Sault Ste. Marie has played in Michigan history.

The city not only is the home of the famous Soo Locks and location of the busiest water canal in the world, but it was one of the stopping places of Father Marquette during his early voyages to Michigan waters.

Council Moves To Save Sand At Mt. McSaubia

For all people hauling sand away from Mt. McSaubia, the word is out. Stop it.

This was the decision of the City Council Monday night when Superintendent Jim Taylor told aldermen that considerable amounts of sand are being taken away from the area.

One small dune next to Mt. Sauba has become a hole.

"Shall we study the situation until the next meeting?" Mayor Fochtman asked.

"Let's stop it right now," Taylor said.

The Council authorized him to put up signs and chains and to write letters explaining the new policy to people who have been removing sand.

Jordan Answers Three Fire Calls

EAST JORDAN--Three fire calls were answered in a period of about 24 hours June 29 and 30. Only slight damage was done and no one was injured.

The first, June 29, was a call to put out a fire in a car at the Tourist Park. The cause of the fire was unknown.

There was a grass fire at the Kauffman house, June 30, but was extinguished before any damage was done.

There was a fire at the carnival setting up for the Jordan Valley Festival due to overloaded wiring. This was also extinguished before much damage was done.

A family picnic gathering was enjoyed by the Jolliffe families at the East Jordan park on July 4th. Included were the Dick Jolliffe of Jennison, the Wm. Jolliffe Sr. and Wm. Jolliffe Jr. and family of Kalamazoo, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jolliffe and children of Kalamazoo and the Fred Jolliffe's of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm and family were vacationing at their trailer home on the former John Cook farm.

House guests at the Eddie Wettenberner home last week were, Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Apsy and children of Hastings.

Ninety Kept Busy At Church Camp

By Mrs. Tom Maxwell

The first session of youth camp was held last week at the Church of God campground on Veenstra Road.

Ninety campers from throughout Michigan took part in activities.

The camp day began at 7 a.m. with rise - 'n' - shine, morning watch, flag raising and waltzes' call.

AFTER BREAKFAST came council meetings and room inspections. Conferences and sword drill were held throughout the morning.

After lunch, campers had a rest period called the "horizontal hour."

Afternoons were spent at Camp Choir, getting material for the camp paper, swimming, visiting Fisherman's Island and touring Castle Vancouver.

AFTER DINNER hour, the campers formed prayer bands for 15 minutes before the Vesper Services, with Rev. Donald Crabtree of Pontiac, guest speaker. Mrs. Donald Crabtree was the song leader. Campfire was held each night after the Vesper service.

The Anderson College Drama Trio presented a play on Thursday night for the campers.

Camp lights were out at 11 p.m., after devotions in all the dorms.

Friday evening youngsters had a stunt night, each group putting on a skit. The campers presented a gift to Rev. and Mrs. Donald Smith, as they will be leaving the end of this month for their new pastorate at Drexel, N. C.

Other counselors were Rev. James Shanks of Big Rapids, Miss Benjie Palmer of Mio, Rev. and Mrs. Donald Crabtree, Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Lyon of Petoskey.

Few. George Majors was camp buyer and helped in the kitchen one day. Others assisting were Marilyn Majors, Mrs. Wayne Lyon and Mrs. Margie Gring. Mrs. Thomas Maxwell was cook.

Campers were from Bay City, Pontiac, Drayton Plains, Clarkston, Alpena, Posen, Lachine Waterford, Grand Rapids, Big Rapids, Union Lake, Mio, White Cloud, Reed City, Alanson, Oden, Petoskey and Charlevoix.

Bakers Win Plaque

Award of the Charlevoix Garden Club plaque for the last half of June was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Sims Baker, 309 Mason St., it was announced by the award committee, Mrs. Roy E. Bennett and Mrs. Harold M. Totten.

The garden was ablaze with seasonal flowers including pansies, daisies, iris, poppies and roses. Well kept shrubs, as a background, accentuate the beauty of the blooming flowers.

GOOD MULCHING and care is the secret according to the Bakers. They use a deep straw mulch between the rows of flowers, vegetables and strawberries.

Persons interested in learning about their "know-how" are welcome to visit the garden and ask questions. Gardens given honorable mention include the recently landscaped Methodist parsonage and the Glenn Khron property at 106 Park Ave., with the floral edged walks and the attractive planters.

Ancient Paper Found in Attic

Mrs. Robert Miller of Upright Street found a 1917 edition of the Charlevoix Sentinel while cleaning her attic last week.

Although the paper is not dated, it carried the Council minutes of April 30, 1917. The paper, which was edited by Willard A. Smith, contained many advertisements for patent medicines as well as local advertisements.

THE BURNETT Agency was advertising homes for sale for as little as $500. Lots were going for $125.

Many of the news items would cause a modern-day journalism student to wince.

For example: "A lame Pollock laborer with an unpronounceable name, and known as John Smith, suffered a compound fracture of a leg this morning by a cave-in on a north side sewer excavation." End of story. The name must have been unspellable, too.

It is interesting to note that the Shakespeare Club was apparently as active then as it is today.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Richards and three children have returned to their home in Madison, Wis., after spending several days with her father, Capt. H. E. Paddock and Mrs. Paddock.

Bridge Raises Portals, Tempers

The Bridge is once again wearing tempers thin on Bridge Street.

The problem of course, is warm weather and boats. Thirty or more times a day during the recent hot spell all traffic on U.S. 31 has had to come to a dead stop for from four to six minutes--sometimes longer--to permit boats to enter or leave Round Lake.

Most visitors find the scene enchanting: Thousands of tons of steel and concrete lifted skyward to let some sleek pleasure craft or gigantic freighter pass between its portals.

FOR PEOPLE who live with the bridge day in, day out, it's a bottleneck, pure and simple. Temperatures and tempers are apt to reach the boiling point when a driver finds himself trapped in a line of panting cars under a blistering sun waiting for the bridge to open and close.

Particularly aggravating are the openings and closings for a 12-foot dinghy with a 20-foot antenna.

THE SITUATION would be eased immensely if skippers would:

1) Make every reasonable effort to lower antenna while passing under the bridge. Sometimes it's possible to have them mounted in such a way that the bridge will not have to open.

2) Arrange to leave and enter Round Lake in groups, making one bridge opening do for several boats.

Lake Color Theories Multiply

The Great Debate about what is causing our lakes to turn green continues. One caller said he knew for a fact that industry is to blame.

Someone else said it was due to the reflection of the green trees on the water.

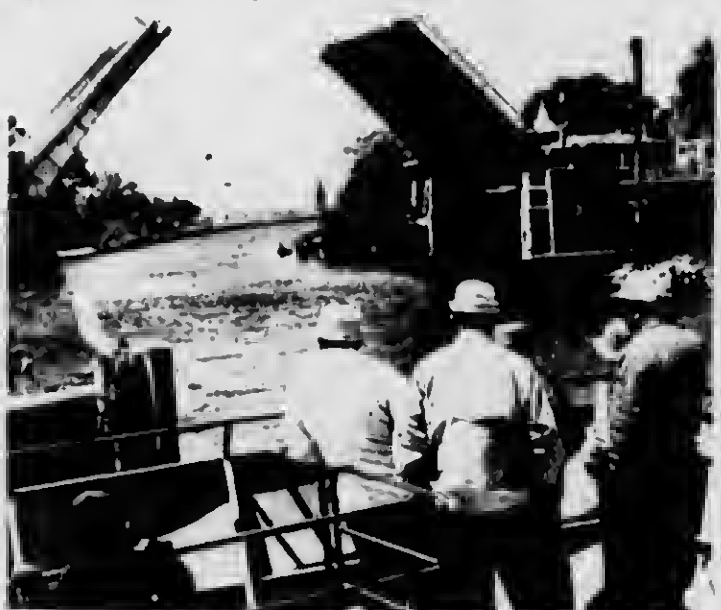

One man even dropped in to say that if industry is causing the green color, it must be a powerful big industry, because all the lakes have changed color between Charlevoix and Hillsdale county.

MRS. JUNE Cross is holding out for the algae theory, citing a couple of passages from the American Educator Encyclopedia:

"Water is an odorless, tasteless liquid, though it is often flavored by impurities. It appears colorless in small quantities but is blue in deep layers. Many lakes and parts of the ocean are green or

3) Avoid unnecessary trips up and down the channel.

THE PROBLEM came up for discussion at Monday's City Council meeting, but members were reluctant to appeal to the State Highway Department for help. Other years State officials have said that when a boat blows to have the bridge opened, it must be admitted.

If yachtsmen would adopt their own courtesy code and if drivers would show a little more patience the problem might take care of itself.

other colors because they contain huge numbers of microscopic plants called algae.

UNDER ALGAE, the encyclopedia says, in part:

"Blue-green algae (is) abundant in stagnant water; species include single cells and round, square, flat, threadlike, or irregular colonies; mucus secreted by colonies has given them the name 'slime' algae; cells lack a definite nucleus; most contain green, yellow, and blue pigments, and some such as those that give the Red Sea its color, have red pigment; reproduce by simple methods."

Sounds reasonable, doesn't it? And if algae is ever going to grow abundantly, it certainly would pick a scorching summer like 1966 to do it.

Clockwise

A trip out to Camp Charlevoix the other day stirred memories of those good old bygone days when two weeks at summer camp was the absolute high point of the entire year.

One year during World War II I was lucky enough to spend my two weeks at Camp Jeffrey on Lake Louise in Hudson Township, my first introduction to Charlevoix county.

The camp was sponsored by our church in Detroit--Scovel Memorial Presbyterian--and boys were allowed to attend if they would "roll newspapers" in the church basement every Wednesday night throughout the year.

"ROLLING newspapers" is a phase of the war effort that is now pretty much forgotten. It seems Detroit's defense plants needed newspapers in which to wrap parts. The job apparently was easier if the newspapers were all neatly sorted out, magazines and other paper products removed, and the whole stack of usable papers rolled into a neat bundle and tied.

Boys (and men) worked in pairs standing on both sides of long tables, sorting piles of newspaper collected from members of the congregation. The work wasn't hard, in fact it was fun at times, particularly when you came across a nest of comic books some irate mother had fired out with the newspapers.

Proceeds from the endeavor went into the maintenance of Camp Jeffrey, a cluster of substantial log buildings on the north shore of Lake Louise. Boys stayed in three large cabins and meals were served in a large log dining hall across an open compound.

ASIDE FROM trips to Mackinac Island and a cattle auction at Gaylord, activities at Camp Charlevoix were limited to hiking, swimming and an occasional game of softball.

Yet for boys who lived 50 weeks a year within earshot of factory whistles and clanging streetcars, Hudson Township was about as close to heaven as you could get. We roamed the woods most of the day, coming back to the camp occasionally to cool off in the lake. Once we took a 14-mile hike and got lost. Another time we climbed to the top of Mt. Pisgah and got lost. The counselor had one boy climb a tree to find out where the lake was.

Mt. Pisgah was located directly across the lake from camp and was reputed to be the highest hill in the Lower Peninsula. It dominated the scenery for miles around and was a perpetual challenge to boys at Camp Jeffrey.

Another time we climbed up a hill to a fire tower. The ranger would let us scale the tower itself, but he let 15 of us pile onto his Model-T and coast back down to the county road. We covered every square inch of running board and hood, whooping and hollering all the way.

MEALS at Camp Jeffrey were great. The cooks made the eggless French toast I have ever tasted, and their crisp homemade doughnuts were in a class by themselves. By comparison all other doughnuts are as soft as tapioca.

Evenings were my favorite time of day. Electric lights hadn't come to that part of Hudson Township yet, but we fared just fine with kerosene lanterns and a big bon fire on the shore. Someone always had a bag of marshmallows to roast and someone else had a ghost story to tell. Then after a few songs (I think people used to sing a lot more than they do today), we'd troop up to the cabins and crawl into bed. Someone would blow out the lantern and the counselors would start swapping stories in low tones about their girlfriends back in Detroit. Their world was larger than ours.

ONE OF THE MOST interesting spots in camp was the little log chapel with a dirt floor up on a hill. Once a day Rev. Jeffrey (the camp was named for his father, James D., who was the first pastor of the church) would lead us up to the chapel for a short Bible lesson. Since I played the piano, I was delegated to play the pump organ.

On Sunday we were open for visitors and had a regular church ceremony at which I also was organist. The Sunday we were to leave my folks drove up from Detroit and attended the service. I sat up on the platform with Rev. Jeffrey and manipulated the old organ as it wheezed and groaned through every hymn on the program.

Finally, after the last prayer, Rev. Jeffrey tapped me on the shoulder.

"Why not play something appropriate while our visitors leave?" he suggested.

With Bob Clock

I wasn't sure what "appropriate" meant, but I did know most of the congregation were as Scotch as Quaker oats. Without hesitating I plunged into several choruses of "Loch Lomond," with a little swing beat to it. The old organ never sounded better. Then noticing a few people still lingering at the door, I broke into "I've Been Working on the Railroad," the only other song I knew by heart. Later my mother told me the organ music sounded very nice echoing over the green hills of Hudson Township, but she was sure that "Loch Lomond" and "I've Been Working on the Railroad" weren't quite what Mr. Jeffrey had in mind when he asked for something "appropriate."

SCOVEL CHURCH is in one of Detroit's "changing" neighborhoods. Many of the old parishioners have moved to the suburbs. There are few young people in the congregation and interest in Camp Jeffrey is flagging.

A TRIP BACK to the camp recently was quite different. The road into the property has been washed away and visitors must enter by way of a neighboring campground. The buildings still stand staunch and square, but they need a new coat of oil, and undergrowth is encroaching on the spacious compound. The chapel still crowns the hill, but it's boarded up and has a blank look.

Only lofty Mt. Pisgah across Lake Louise remains the same, beckoning to boys who never come to climb her slopes.

Have you noticed all the lovely roses around town? Not that they're blooming on every street corner but, tucked away in corners here and there, are various kinds of rose bushes that are now in bloom. As though to make you appreciate them more, usually there aren't too many on a bush...but the whites, the yellows and the delicate pinks are a vision to behold...But it takes someone with not only a green thumb but a delicate touch to grow them...Some that I noticed were the Kennedy roses grown by Mrs. Mabel Graves and the exquisite ones at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Martin.

THINGS ARE shaping up for Venetian weekend...just 10 days away...I hope that if you've been asked to do something, you've said "yes" for the Chamber of Commerce is trying desperately to save this one thing that is typically Charlevoix...And certainly no other community in the north has the setting for it...But it is something that takes planning and time...I'm one of those people who thinks you owe a community something for living in it...Have you paid your debt in some way? If not, give the Venetian Festival committee a hand...they could use it...

The other day I heard someone mention lightning bugs...I haven't seen one in ages but the very mention of them brought back one of my favorite memories...It was ages and ages ago I remember riding at night on the Boyne City road...As we came down over what is known as Burness hill, there were literally thousands of the blinking little bugs hovering over the valleys that lie between the two hills...It was such an impressive sight we stopped and watched for awhile...I've seen many lightning bugs since then but never as many as were out that balmy summer night...

Other things that remind me of the country are croaking frogs and whizzer-poor-wills...It always seemed that frogs are a sure sign of spring...just as the chirping of crickets always means summer to me...I know that The Lodge at the corner of Michigan and Dixon is a great addition to the community...but I sure cut out my favorite cricket hideout...I swear there were millions of 'em that lived there...I used to stop and listen to them...they set up such a din...

AND SPEAKING of things that inhabit the area...I'll wager that Nichols st. and environs had the greatest bird population in town...They're early risers, too...as dawn breaks you hear the murmuring of a bird here and there...and then, all of a sudden, every bird for blocks around is chattering...You'd swear they were sitting around a breakfast table in each nest discussing the plans for the day...Then, after taking care of their early morning chores, they start to sing...Now don't misunderstand me, I love the birds and life would be mighty dull without them...if they just didn't get up so early in the morning and make so much noise...

MICHIGAN avenue's certainly taken on a new look with the removal of the three houses at the turn off Petoskey...There's only one thing worrying me about the whole thing...What will happen to the poor motorists if they remove the battle-scarred tree on the turn? That poor tree has more bumper marks in it than any other one in town...Should it be removed, the cars will keep right on going over the bluff...and that's a long way down...

I WAS SO happy about the wonderful birthday party honoring Mrs. Isabella Oliver...She is such a dear soul and so many people turned out recently to wish her a happy birthday...her eighty-ninth...I've known her as long as I can remember...and she will tell you that she's always known my family...it is good to see tribute paid to someone while they're still here to enjoy and appreciate it...So many times the intentions are there but nothing comes of them.

How did you make out on the All-Star game yesterday?...I meant to offer you a chance for a little wager but time got away from me...Now all I can do is ask if you were happy with it...did your team win?

ME...I'M WAITING for that date in August...you know, the night when the Green Bay Packers will take on the All-Stars in Chicago...From the time the last football game's played in January until the following August, I spend my time awaiting another season...This looks like a good one...what with the two leagues merging, lots of new faces...a great new season...And who knows? Maybe this will be the year for the Lions!

Ontario Cites Progress In War on Sea Lamprey

(Following is a report on sea lamprey control by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. Michigan and Ontario have been cooperating in programs to eradicate the lamprey.)

SAULT STE. MARIE----- A further reduction in parasitic sea lamprey in Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, was reported at the recent Annual Meeting of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission held in Sault Ste. Marie.

Barrier catches of spawning adult lamprey were down a further 50 percent from the 1962 to 1965 level on Lake Superior. The overall reduction is now about 90 percent.

IN LAKE MICHIGAN, where the first round of stream treatments was completed this spring, the steady decline in lamprey catches at barriers continued. However, in spite of a general improvement in the trout population in Lake Superior, there is evidence that lamprey are still present in significant numbers in the western end of the lake as shown by the fresh wounds on lake trout. The Commission asked its agents to investigate possible lamprey escapement, principally in Minnesota waters.

Improved survival of lake trout following lamprey reduction has resulted in an increase in natural spawning, particularly in Wisconsin waters of Lake Superior. Lake trout living near the shore suffered drastically from lamprey attacks before control was begun, and now consist largely of hatchery reared fish planted by federal, provincial, and state agencies.

These stocks require continued protection offered by present regulations and quotas, to encourage their full recovery. Trout stocks on offshore banks appear to be in a healthier condition according to reports of scientists studying them, and the Commission has recommended that limits now set on the catch be increased in certain areas.

CHEMICAL treatments have been resumed on Lake Huron, and 17 lamprey streams were treated this spring near Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace. The Commission recommends that the program on Lake Huron be accelerated, to bring the lamprey population under control in this lake as quickly as possible.

The sea lamprey control program in Canada is carried out for the Commission by the Canadian Department of Fisheries and in the United States by the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

AT HAYING TIME, all willing hands are needed. Above Bob Mitchell and Ed Boss, both 88 years old, help unload haywagon at Lawrence Boss farm in Bancroft. The pair have been working almost 70 years starting in camps at Phelps.

Gravel and Construction also submitted a bid. The P. T. A. said it would pay $100 towards the blacktopping of the play area.

THE BOARD voted to offer Bruce Morgan a contract for the 1966-67 school year as a biology and social science teacher. Morgan will receive his master's degree from C. M. U. in August.

Bids for gas, fuel oil, bread, milk and other miscellaneous items will be taken at the August meeting.

A bill was received from Apfelt Construction for $4,755.60 for work done on the new library. A bill was submitted from Begrow and Brown Architects for $105.68 for supervision of the construction. Dinwiddle said to tell Begrow to submit bills at least three days prior to the board meeting so that they can be entered in the agenda.

lowed to provide angle parking on Upright Street next to the building. The terrace would be blacktopped.

5. PASSED a resolution offered by the State Highway Department to the effect that the city is willing to accept a parcel of Vern Matthews property in exchange for cemetery land needed for the relocation of M-66. A provision that the city pay "acquisition costs" was deleted from the final resolution. The Highway Department was represented at the meeting by J. H. Gillman.

6. Wrote off as a donation a $500 debt owed to the city by the Mt. McSaba ski area as a donation. At the same time the city took note of the fine job the promoters have done in developing the area.

7. RECEIVED a letter from Robert Schleman requesting rezoning of the former Chicago Club garage to permit continued general industrial use. Under present zoning, the building can be used only for boat building and canvas fabrication. The building is presently leased to Gordon Freedman who uses it for storage.

Mayor Bill Fochtman asked City Attorney John Michael to get the consent of adjoining property owners and file a formal petition asking for the change in zoning.

8. Received a request from the Lake Charlevoix Cable TV Co. to string cable temporarily across Pine River Channel, pending widening and straightening of the channel. The letter was referred to Jim Taylor.

9. Took note of a complaint by Bob Neff that unsightly used plumbing and heating fixtures are accumulating around Novotny's Plumbing and Heating shop on Clinton Street. Mayor Fochtman said he would ask the shop to tidy up.

10. Heard a complaint by Alderman Nathan Boss that Pine River Channel traffic is tying up cars on Bridge Street.

11. Transferred $20,000 from the electric fund to time certificates.

12. Approved bills totaling $36,835.04.

moral of safety of the public by giving notice in accordance with the terms of Section 10 which are "the City Council may, by resolution, after investigation, determine that a hazard or nuisance exists, prescribe a form of notice and direct the clerk to give such a notice by first class mail, addressed to the last known address of the owner of the building or structure itself, to abate such nuisance or remove such hazard, except that no notice shall be required for the removal of weeds, snow or ice."

If no repairs are made in the allotted time than the city will have them done and the chief of police will keep a record of expense and the council will assess the amount to be paid by the violator.

The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine not to exceed $100, costs of prosecution, or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days or both in the discretion of the court.

THE COUNCIL also voted unanimously to offer the position of Superintendent of Public Utilities to Russell Gee at a salary of $7,500 annually.

Mayor Betty Robertson said she wanted to go on record as opposing the offer.

Gee presently is a foreman for Sargeant's Construction Co.

GEORGE BALDWIN of Lake Charlevoix Cable T.V. Co. asked the council for permission to install a T.V. cable system in East Jordan. Klevorn said the firm would have to have a franchise. He said that if Baldwin wants to build the tower in town he will have to adhere to zoning regulations. Council gave him the go-ahead.

RAYMOND TOOEY, representative for $25 self-service car washes, appeared before the Council to have the corner of Lake and Water Streets rezoned from Business - to Commercial I. The Council decided that it didn't have to be rezoned, but later in the meeting Klevorn suggested that the property be rezoned for safety's sake.

FIRE TRUCK bids were opened and referred to the fire department committee and fire chief. Bids were submitted by American Fire Apparatus Co. of Battle Creek for $23,565; by John Bean Fire Apparatus Co. for $23,223.09 and by Fire Trucks Inc. of Mt. Clemens for $23,479.34. It was commented on how close the bids were.

JERRY OLSON announced the hiring of Mrs. Phyllis Wilson as janitor of city buildings.

Dr. and Mrs. James Scott and family of Lansing stayed at Puhek's Sunset Lodge several days last week.

Featuring variety shows, children's events, and many, many beautiful girls, the Venetian Festival attracts thousands of spectators every year. Many have been coming back for years. If you're here this weekend you, too, will want to make the Venetian Festival an every-year highlight of your family's vacation. (See page 12)

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Council Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chiefs.

The mission church is the handwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, taking part in a protestant movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

Later Greensky became dissatisfied with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes. Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife.

At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent Church began. The building is 26 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs. When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18, services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpm's) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

The nation's first regularly scheduled passenger air service was inaugurated in Michigan. In 1926, the Stout Air Service began daily flights between Detroit and Grand Rapids.

Michigan is probably the only state ever to have organized as a state before being admitted to the Union, having at the same time a duly elected state governor and a federal territorial governor.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nynne Rolles, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West

Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan; resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

Michigan is the vacation wonderland. Bordered by four of the five great Lakes and containing more than 11,000 inland lakes, 19 million acres of forests, 61 state parks and major recreation areas, more winter sports centers than any other state--all set in some of the most magnificent scenery in the world. Michigan is truly a water-winter wonderland.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Have a Bacon "Ball" Month

Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.

Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Rail Age Relic Is Displayed in E. Jordan Park

Old Engine No. 6 in East Jordan in Memorial Park was put on display in 1962 after about 55 years of service on the East Jordan and Southern Railroad. The line ran from East Jordan to Bellaire. It carried manufactured goods, passengers and some lumber.

The engine was one of the last to run to East Jordan. The railroad was owned by the Porter family of East Jordan.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's everchanging shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets.

Michigan is the first state to have a group of counties named after a president and his entire cabinet, namely Barry, Eaton, Ingham, Livingston, VanBuren, Calhoun, Berrien, Cass and Branch, all of which were designated in honor of the cabinet of President Jackson.

Four flags have flown over Michigan - French, English, Spanish and American.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

BEAUTIFUL BELLS BAY is located just south of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan. National Forest campsites are available.

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it. Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge. The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry. In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bell's Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

Learn to Swim For Summer Safety, Fun

As the outdoor swimming season approaches once again, the safety experts predict with certainty that more than 6,000 Americans will drown in the coming months.

THEY will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing swim and others will fall out of boats or off docks and piers.

Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen. The magazine, "Today's Health," offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family--

LEARN to swim and to relax in the water.

Never swim alone. Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

Do not overestimate your ability and endurance.

Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim along distance to shore.

NEVER DIVE into waters of unknown depth.

Try new activities, such as water skiing or scuba diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

MANY families will do most of their swimming this season in private pools, in their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor. There also are some special safety precautions for private pools--

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified.

WALK, DON'T run, about the pool. Horseplay should be forbidden.

Fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children.

Keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring buoys.

Keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

harsh detergents will remove dirt and smudge marks. This should be followed by a thorough rinsing with fresh water.

When storing toys between boating outings, make sure they are thoroughly dry. When you store a wet toy, you're inviting mildew.

All but two counties in Michigan have inland lakes, and seven boast in excess of 300.

Boating accessories require only a minimum of care, but too often they don't even receive this. To add to the appearance of your rig and increase the life of accessories, the following steps.

Floor mats, seats and convertible tops should be washed periodically. This is true for both fresh and salt water craft.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in the town of Charlevoix opens to the South Arm of the Great Lakes.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-chug across the neck of the South Arm.

Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life.

The ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

Michigan has four times as much water area as any other state, 11,038 inland lakes, 36,350 miles of streams and 3,251 miles of Great Lake shoreline. Nearly half of Michigan's 83 counties have frontage on the Great Lakes.

A sportsman's paradise, Michigan ranks among the top states in the nation for fishing and hunting.

THE IRONTON FERRY carries cars and passengers across Lake Charlevoix from Ironton to the South Arm Peninsula. The pleasant trip saves many miles of driving.

Musical Adventure

The soothing combination of concert music under cool skies beside a yacht-filled harbor is offered every Wednesday evening at 8:30 p.m. in Charlevoix's East Side Park on Round Lake.

The City Band, a group of young and adult volunteer musicians led by Clarence Odmark, present the music. There are seats—either on benches or the soft turf (bring your own blanket)—for everyone. Bring the children, our happy summer people are always glad to see them.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play...is still very sound advice."

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health."

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading. It may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY—$600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes, some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing?

The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Refrigerator Cookies

Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a snack.

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops...The Treasurer Cove...actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank in the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoixan Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oak ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, deacon's benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "Tweed Decks" bar under Irv Drost's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and webbed anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material in them to keep him busy ten years.

THIS IS what the Sawyer's timbers looked like after being dredged from the bottom of Bells Bay. The keel section (center above) is now the "Tweed Decks" bar.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three-masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a blustery November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 hands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning. It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan. Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore.

The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasurer Cove, at Leland. Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and jewelry which had an enormous appeal among his customers.

JEWELRY PIECES are polished to a rich luster, but most of the furniture is left semi-rough, a pleasing blend of wood grain and texture. Blemishes are left pretty much as they are.

A professional diver, Sawtelle says he first became interested in making articles from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship in Bells Bay about five years ago.

The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

List Four Tips for Better Snaps

Four common errors account for thousands of ruined snapshots.

Before clicking the shutter this summer, run through these checks quickly: (1) Hold the camera steady; (2) Move in closer; (3) Be careful of background interference; and (4) Don't try and crowd too much into a single picture.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley.

The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creeks full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art

COAST GUARD Cutter Sundew helps maintain buoys and lights in Northern Lake Michigan. In winter she serves as an icebreaker wherever needed.

Coast Guard Ready

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U. S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix—the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Dave Smith, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This included 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions. Admiral Willard J. Smith, commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

THE CHARLEVOIX Lifeboat Station participates in search and rescue operations throughout the year. Group headquarters for northern Michigan also is located in Charlevoix.

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard

Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix. After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds. First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up over again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to-four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevils, spinners.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations.

Just because your boat has "room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry.

If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Loeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm.

If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, jig-a-dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map; they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers, Hawaiian Wiggles.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass, smallmouths.
--Nowland Lake, for pike,

bass, panfish.
--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walloon Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

YOU CAN FIND your way to these, and numerous other, lakes by using a map of Charlevoix or Antrim County. The exploring can be as much fun as the fishing.

If your taste runs more to stream fishing try the Jordan River, the Bear River or the Boyne River. There are also many small, brushy, creeks that produce small trout.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods—an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders aches and pains.

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation. Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes.

Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area.

The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free. In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

DURING VENETIAN FESTIVAL, Bridge Street is lined with booths sponsored by local civic and church groups. They offer everything from games of chance to soft drinks and snacks.

FIREWORKS over Round Lake following the boat parade is one of the highlights of the colorful mid-summer Venetian Festival.

WINNER OF popular Doll and Pet Parade last year was tiny Michelle Ranae Robinson, who presented her pet dog and puppy.

Health Exhibit Coming

The public is cordially invited to visit the "Healthmobile" to see the story of Michigan medicine when the unique traveling exhibit visits downtown Charlevoix, July 21 through July 24. The visit is timed to be an added highlight for the annual Venetian Festival.

The Michigan State Medical Society Healthmobile will tell local adults and children about the exciting Michigan developments in medical research and health care.

The attractive mobile unit--the only one of its kind in the nation--also will seek to interest people in careers in the health field.

The unit is sponsored by the Northern Michigan Medical Society.

THE HEALTHMOBILE, a handsome 12 x 50 foot trailer, describes the story of Michigan medicine from the wooden stethoscope of 100 years ago to the gleaming heart and lung machines of today. The slogan, "A Century of Service in Michigan" is developed by colorful, authentic displays that begin with the work of Doctor William Beaumont of Mackinac Island, into the Civil War period, and on through the turn of the century to 1966.

Helping to portray Michigan's contributions to medical advances during the century are special exhibits prepared by the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan State University, the Department of Public Health, the Michigan Health Council, and the two major Michigan pharmaceutical companies.

ONE of the popular, education exhibits was provided by the American Medical Association. It is the transparent human figure with a panel of buttons keyed to various organs and muscles which light up as the appropriate button is pressed.

Michigan's medical education is traced from the founding of the University of Michigan Medical School in 1850, and from the founding of Harper Hospital in Detroit in 1868 as the fore-runner of the present Wayne State University Medical School to the new developments of Michigan State University.

THE WORK of the Michigan Department of Public Health in protecting the health of the public is told in one of the exhibits.

Contributions of both The Upjohn Company at Kalamazoo and the Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit, are recorded--Upjohn for its development of "Orinase," an oral anti-diabetic agent; and Parke Davis for its chloromycetin development.

Michigan ties New York state for having the most miles of trout streams, about 18,000.

Michigan was the first state to establish roadside picnic tables.

Thugs Beat, Rob Youth, 17, in Woods

Take Wallet With $40

A 17-year-old Ellsworth youth was beaten and robbed of $40 about noon Tuesday in a wooded area near the Blue Dot farm on Boyne City Road by two men who picked him up while he was walking through Charlevoix.

The victim was Charles Coval Mathews of Route 1, Ellsworth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Mathews.

THE MUGGING set off a wide-spread search for the pair by Sheriff's deputies, state police and city patrolmen.

At press time, the two men were still at large.

Mathews said the pair picked him up near the Kingsburger stand and proceeded north out of town. They stopped at Martha's Standard station for gasoline, then continued to the

Charles C. Mathews

Boyne City Road where they pulled off the highway, beat him up and took $40.30.

MATHEWS, who said he wasn't headed anywhere in particular, first became suspicious of the pair when they pulled down a little traveled road between the Boyne City Road and Lake Charlevoix.

About a quarter of a mile off the highway they ordered him out of the car and began beating him with their fists and kicking him when he was down. Then, he said, they took his wallet, removed $40.30 and gave the empty wallet back to him.

He said the beating took place too far off the Boyne City Road to tell which way the car turned after it reached the highway.

10 Hurt in Area Crashes

Ten persons were injured four seriously, in two auto accidents in Charlevoix County over the weekend. The accidents occurred with an hour of each other Sunday afternoon.

Most seriously injured were three young men from East Jordan and another from Ellsworth. They were traveling south on Behling Road when their car went out of control and struck a tree.

DRIVER of the car Fred Vincent, 20, of East Jordan is in critical condition in Charlevoix Hospital. He suffered a fractured skull, a three inch scalp laceration and a concussion.

Riding with him were Gary Derenzy, 19, of East Jordan who is in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey with injuries but in good condition.

Brad Derenzy, 20, of East Jordan was treated for cuts and bruises at Charlevoix Hospital and released and Frank Fisher, 19, of RRT Ellsworth, who is in fair condition at Charlevoix Hospital with a fractured skull, a six-inch scalp laceration and a concussion.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department answered the call and was assisted by the Boyne City Police Ambulance, East Jordan Police Ambulance and the East Jordan Fire Department carryall.

THE CAR was registered to Clifford Derenzy of East Jordan.

The Sheriff's Department is investigating the accident. The other accident occurred on U. S. 30 north of Charlevoix at the entrance to Kennedy Roadside Park when a car and trailer rolled over.

The driver of the car was Oscar Bertzloff, 58, of Benton Harbor. Bertzloff said that the driver ahead of him slowed up and the turn signals indicated a right turn. When Bertzloff pulled out to pass, the other vehicle turned left.

Eight Booths Planned

Committee members for the 1966 Venetian Festival put their heads together for the last time last night to make sure everything will come off like clockwork when the big celebration gets under way this Saturday.

Thousands of visitors from throughout Michigan and adjoining states are expected in Charlevoix for the annual land-and-water extravaganza. Chamber of Commerce Manager Archie Dayton reports everything is going smoothly.

He said at press time that eight organizations had been issued permits to establish booths in East Park for the festival. He said the deadline for accepting applications for booths will be Thursday noon, since electricians must be notified where to put outlets and what voltage is required.

DAYTON said most of the booths will be open for business Saturday morning. Mrs. Eugene Dziedzic, chairman of the Dool and Pot Parade, has named judges for the competition. They are Mrs. William Fochman, Mrs. Charles Meter and Mrs. Dale Boss.

Mrs. Dziedzic said the parade will begin at 3 p.m. Saturday in East Park and all youngsters taking part will receive a treat. Dr. Walter Honemann will be master of ceremonies.

THE YOUNGSTERS' parade will come immediately after the street parade launching the festival at 1:30 p.m.

The parade will proceed north on State to Park; west on Park to Grant; south on Grant to Mason and east on Mason to State, where it will disband.

OTHER SATURDAY activities include:

- 4:00 -- Waterball light and greased pole climb, East Park.
- 7:30 -- Presentation of Queen Elaine Warner and her court; designation of Mrs. Isabelle Oliver as "honor person."
- 8:30 -- Firehouse Five.
- 9:00 -- State and dance, Glenn Cumberland and "New Breed" combo.
- SUNDAY
- 2:30 -- Ballgame at ball field, sack races, waterball light, East Park.
- 6:30 -- Organ concert.
- 7:30 -- Band Concert.
- 8:30 -- Gary Stutzman's band.
- 9:00 -- Boat parade and fireworks.

Combat Veteran CHS Principal

Lake City Man Hired

A World War II bombardier with more than 68 combat missions to his credit has been named principal of Charlevoix Junior-Senior High School.

Raymond Carr, superintendent of Lake City Schools for the past three years, has accepted an offer by the Board of Education to move to Charlevoix.

He succeeds Harry Bingham who retired June 30 after 38 years with the Charlevoix school system.

The new principal moved into his office at the high school on Monday, even though school is not in session. A cake from school parents greeted him with "Welcome Aboard" was waiting on his desk.

CARR received his bachelor of science degree from Bowling Green University, Bowling Green, Ohio, in 1940, with majors in history and sociology and minors in math and physical education.

He received his masters degree from Michigan State University in 1959 in education and administration.

A NATIVE of Henry County, Ohio, Carr moved to Michigan with his parents when he was two years old and has lived in the state ever since.

He spent five years in the Air Force (Army Air Corps) during World War II, reaching the rank of major. He was one of the first Americans in the South Pacific following the outbreak of war with Japan in 1941. As a bombardier, he served on 68 combat missions, attacking Japanese airfields, oil depots and enemy shipping.

Principal Raymond Carr

By the end of the war he had risen to the rank of major.

He taught School at Metamora, Ohio, one year and spent seven years at the Barryton (Mich.) Rural Agricultural School. He taught four years and was principal and athletic director for three years.

He was superintendent of schools at Vanderbilt for two years before moving to Lake City.

CARR and his wife, Lillian, plan to make their home in Charlevoix before the start of the new school year.

They have four children, Dennis, a Junior at Michigan State University; Mrs. Steve (Diana) Weisgerber of Lake

City; Nancy who will be a Sophomore at Charlevoix High School; and Elaine, who will enter Sixth Grade in the fall.

CARR, who enjoys fishing and hunting, owns a 200 acre farm in Mecosta County.

Jordan Plans Art Fair

CHARLES CULVER of Bellaire, watercolor artist, discusses painting with two of his former students at the Portside Art Fair in East Jordan. The former students are Walter Dabrowski and Tom Bert of Bay City. Culver will have paintings on display at this year's art fair. (A Bill Huckle Photo)

EAST JORDAN -- The fifth annual Portside Art Fair will be held August 6 and 7 in Memorial Park on Lake Charlevoix.

The fair will be open on the 6th from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on the 7th from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts School will have works on display including those of Sarkis Sarkisian, a director at the school; Walter Midener, associate director; and Peggy Loveday Midener, formerly of East Jordan. Charles Culver of Bellaire will display watercolor paintings.

THE ART FAIR is sponsored by Portside Art Fair Committee which also sponsors art classes. Classes meet on Thursday, with the children's class at 9 a.m., adult class at 1 p.m. and an evening class at 7 p.m.

Instructor is Cottis Cantine, an instructor at a Grosse Pointe school and an East Jordan summer resident.

Local and area artists and craftsmen are invited to display their work.

Board to Meet

The regular meeting of the Charlevoix Hospital Board will be held tonight at the Hospital.

Beaver Extends Phones

The Beaver Island Telephone Co. will expand its service to the southern end of the island by the end of August, according to Manager Erwin C. Martin.

Martin also has announced that the company has been granted a certificate of "public convenience and necessity" by the Michigan Public Service Commission to install telephone lines on Bois Blanc Island in Lake Huron, just east of Mackinac Island.

Martin said the new lines on Beaver Island will increase the number of subscribers from 125 to 162.

The Bois Blanc addition has a potential of 53 customers within one year, Martin said. He added that the main office of the telephone company will continue to be located on Beaver Island.

Death Claims Mrs. Rowe

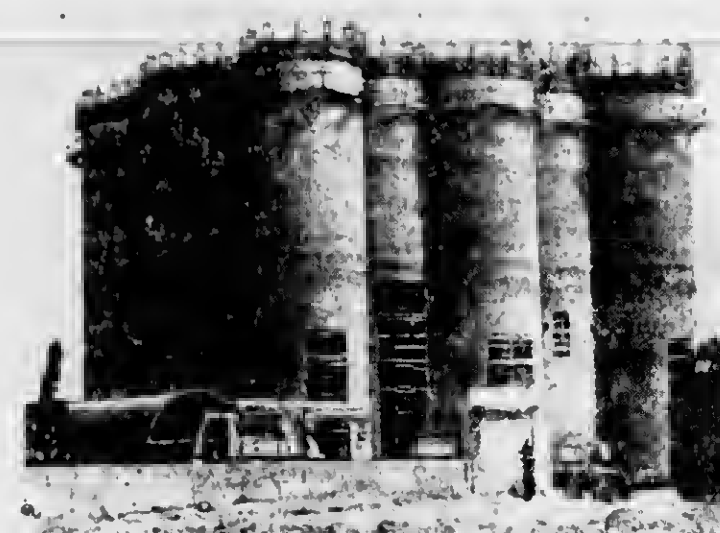

Funeral for Mrs. Robert (Marjory Retherford) Rowe, 50, a summer resident of the Belvedere Club, and a member of the Charlevoix Hospital Board, was held July 19 in Munster, Ind.

Mrs. Rowe died July 16 in Toledo after an illness of several months.

The family asks that donations be made either to the Charlevoix Hospital or St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Toledo, of which she was a member.

SHE IS SURVIVED by two daughters, Mrs. William Nocerini and Shelly, and one son, Robert.

Also surviving are her mother, Mrs. C. L. Retherford of Toledo and No. 6 Belvedere, and a brother, William S. Retherford, of Scottsdale, Ariz., and the South Arm.

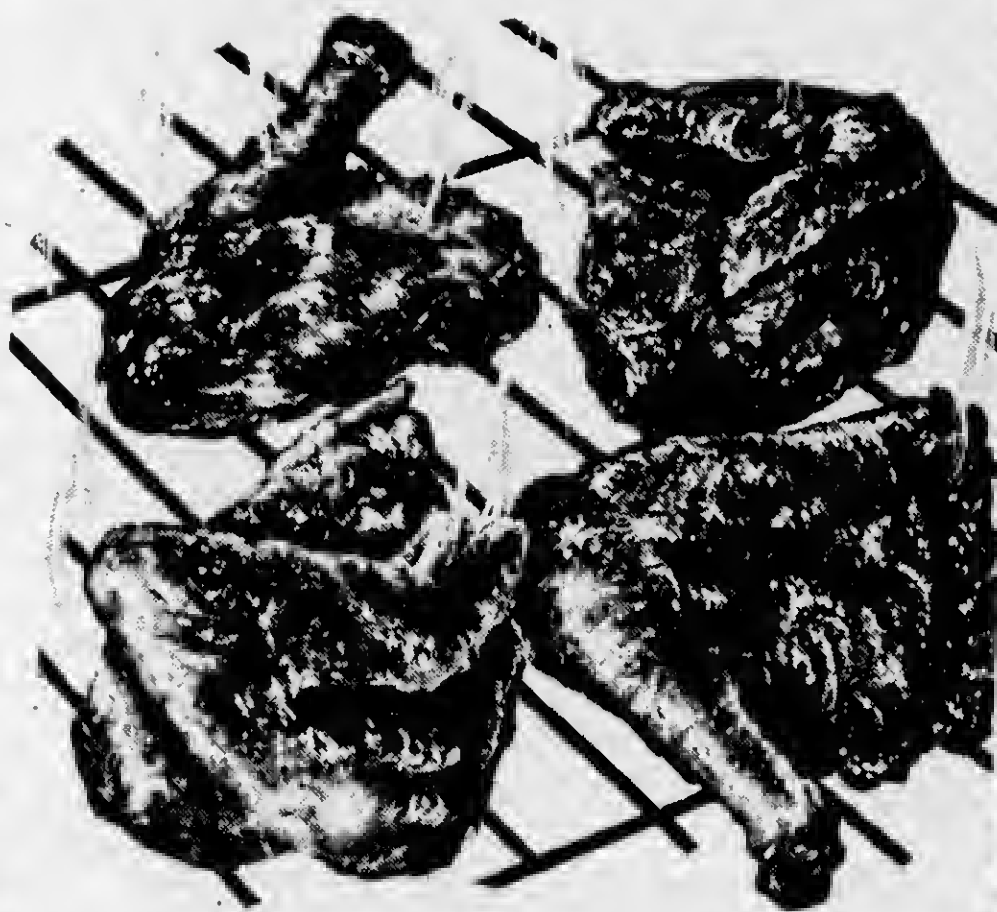

THE RAW STORAGE silo at the Medusa Cement Plant site was finished Saturday after more than five days of continuous pouring.

VANDALS with beebees have put holes through just about every window in the Mr. McSaubia Ski Lodge.

Pamela Chapman Wed in Coldwater

Miss Pamela Chapman became the bride of Jeffrey Hartnell June 18 at St. Pauls Lutheran Church in Coldwater. The double ring ceremony was officiated by Rev. E. E. Meyers in the presence of 85 guests. Miss Chapman is the daughter of Mrs. Morris Chapman and the late Morris E. Chapman. Hartnell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hartnell of Charlevoix.

THE ORGANIST was Miss Donna Jackson and the soloist was Miss Alma Hildebrandt. Given in marriage by her uncle, James Henton, the bride wore a crystal white Mousseline de soie classically styled gown with Alencon lace, frosted with seed pearls. The fitted bodice was appliqued with lace and designed with a face and designed with a crescent - curved decolletage and long tapered sleeves, tipped with lace. A floor-length skirt featured appliques of Alencon flowers. Her chapel train was topped with organza roses. She wore a tiered veil of silk illusion secured with a sculptured silk rose intermingled with Alencon petals dusted with pearls.

MRS. LEWIS Tukaczek, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length dress with a maize bodice and white skirt. The dress featured a bateau neckline with a bow and oblique panel in back. She carried a white basket filled with yellow daisies and ivy. Mrs. John Weber and Mrs. Gary Millard of Detroit were bridesmaids. Their dresses were solid yellow styled like the matron of honor's. Jack Hartnell of Saginaw, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Peter Smith of Birmingham and John Thurman of East Lyon.

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a mint green suit with matching hat and bone accessories. Her corsage was yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a white jersey dress trimmed in beige with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Miss Marcia Miller of Cleveland attended the guest book. Mrs. Jack Hartnell of Saginaw, Miss Linda Hoffmeyer of Detroit, Mrs. Daniel Davis and Miss Jean Myers both of Coldwater served at the reception.

Former Resident Promoted by LBJ

President Johnson has promoted Thomas Bleha to the rank of Foreign Service Officer No. 5. The promotion was recommended by the 1966 Foreign Service Selection Board and became effective last April.

Bleha graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1952 and received his B.S. degree from the University of Michigan in 1956. He studied in the Law School at the University of Michigan and did further graduate work at Columbia University in New York City. Tom served two years in the U.S. Army in Germany.

AFTER entering the Foreign Service and working two years in Washington, he served as Vice-Consul for two years at Sapporo, Japan.

He presently is attending the Foreign Service Language School in Yokohama, Japan. At the conclusion of his studies in August, he will serve in the Tokyo Embassy as Assistant Science Attache.

Bleha has received personal congratulations from the American ambassador and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Reischauer, on his new honor. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Bleha, of Charlevoix.

Talk of the Town

Ten members of Boy Scout troop 11 left Sunday for a week at Camp Grelick near Traverse City, making the trip are Jerry Fochtman, David Mieras, Bob Reed, Marty Anders, Ken Wilks, Gordon Skeel, Rick Donaldson, David Fochtman, Larry Sanford and Enos Bacon. Douglas Wilks, Lewis Skeel and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mieras took the boys to camp.

Mrs. Bernard Hayes has returned to Owosso after spending several days with her father, William Gibson and her sister, Mrs. Elmer Reiter. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Arends and daughter of Wyoming and Mr. and Mrs. William Boihuis and family of Grand Rapids visited last week with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allard.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coppens from Sault Ste. Marie are visiting in Charlevoix.

FOLLOWING a one week trip to Washington, D. C., and Niagara Falls, the couple will reside at the groom's parents' home on Clipperville Road in Charlevoix. For traveling, the bride wore a green two-piece suit with matching accessories.

The new Mrs. Hartnell is a 1963 graduate of Coldwater High School and attended Concordia Lutheran Junior College in Ann Arbor.

Hartnell is a 1963 graduate of Coldwater High School and is a senior at Michigan State University.

Garden Club Cites Mols for Garden

The Charlevoix Garden Club enjoyed a potluck picnic at the July meeting held at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William Paddock. Mrs. Hubert Paddock assisted.

The Garden - of - the - Month plaque for the winning garden between July 1-July 15 was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. John Mol on Mercer Blvd. Due to the difficulty the judges have in locating the most beautiful gardens in town and in the surrounding area, anyone wishing to recommend a garden should phone Mrs. William Paddock-547-2762.

IT WAS announced that the State Conservation Department is most willing to cooperate with the Charlevoix Garden Club in the construction and marking and maintenance of a nature trail at Bells Bay beginning next spring. The club has been asked to identify and mark various trees and plant life along the way. The state is already begun a program of irradiating poison ivy in that area.

William Paddock gave a most interesting talk on Lake Trail Farm, its history, his experiments with different kinds of plant life, and some of the things he is trying to accomplish with the land. Members enjoyed his guided tour of the gardens and woods. The next meeting is Aug. 9 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. C.R. Riegler in Ironton.

Practice Before Driving Tests, Students Told

EAST JORDAN - Oliver Johnson of the Drivers' License Bureau says that driver training students aren't practicing after their training and before their road test at the bureau.

There are free temporary instruction permits which allow an unlicensed person ages 16 to 17 who has taken drivers' training to practice with a licensed adult. This permit is valid for 60 days and an additional 30 days may be given if the student feels that he needs more practice.

Applicants should apply at the License Bureau and fill out a declaration sheet. Driver Training Certificate and birth certificate are required. Parent or guardian must sign the sheet and the student must pass written, vision and road sign tests. Johnson suggests that the students get these permits and practice until they feel they are ready for a road test and then call the bureau for an appointment for the test.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Murray

Wanda M. Warner Wed by Candlelight

Miss Wanda Mae Warner and Bruce Murray exchanged wedding vows at a candlelight double ring ceremony at the Community Church of God, Saturday evening, July 16.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Warner. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray. The Rev. George L. Majors officiated at the ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of pink and white gladioli and chrysanthemums and delphinium. About 250 guests attended the ceremony.

Ken Boss sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Jack Boss on the organ.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of imported silk organza with applied Alencon bodice and skirt, with fitted waist and a scalloped lace neckline sprinkled with sequins and seed pearls. Her long sleeves tapered over the wrist, and her bell shaped skirt with full chapel train of organza, falling from the shoulder line, was applied with Alencon lace sprinkled with sequins and seed pearls. Her elbow length veil, illusion was secured with a floral pearl spiral. She carried a formal cascade of white cymbidium orchids and white elegance carnations.

MISS MARY ANNE Klosser of Charlevoix, who is currently attending Northern Michigan University, served as maid of honor. Her gown was mint green crepe material with lace top and lace panel reaching from her waistline to the floor. She wore elbow length sleeves and her Empire waistline had a bow at the back. She wore a matching cabbage rose veil.

Bridesmaids were Miss Laura Foley of Petoskey, Miss Carolyn Hawley of Suttons Bay and Mrs. Charles Mitchell of Charlevoix. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor's, only in pastel pink, with pink cabbage rose veils. They carried a formal cascade of pink and white elegance carnations.

MICHELLE Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Warner of Charlevoix, was flower girl. She wore a floor length pink dress of satin with mint green ribbon, setting off Empire waistline. Ring bearer was Charles Struthers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Struthers. He wore a white linen suit.

Charles Mitchell assisted the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Harold McClanahan of Charlevoix, Dennis Warner, brother of the bride and Robert Hilton of Charlevoix.

Ushers were Cass Russell of Charlevoix and Bruce Barber of Lompoc, Calif., brothers-in-law of the groom, and Itham Potter, Jr., uncle of the bride, of Sandusky, Mich. Candle lighters were James Warner and Donald Warner, cousins of the bride.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a turquoise linen sheath with matching floral hat, with white gloves, and shoes, for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Murray, mother of the bridegroom, chose a turquoise suit of bonded ribbon knit with beige accessories. Their corsages were of frenched white carnations and a white cymbidium orchid.

A reception, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Warner, of Charlevoix uncle and aunt of the bride followed at the Fellowship Hall. The wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Ray Nadeau of Detroit.

After a two-week wedding trip to Grand Canyon, the couple will be at home at 703 Grant st. For traveling the bride wore a Teal Blue, acetate-nylon sheath, with white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Western Michigan University and is now a elementary teacher at Lincoln School in Petoskey. The bridegroom is a 1964 graduate of a Trade School at Plainwell, Mich. and is employed at Dyksterhouse tool and die machine shop. Wedding guests were present from Detroit, Pontiac, Grand Rapids, Suttons Bay, Sandusky, Lansing, Dyer, Ind., and Lompoc, Calif.

Super Warm... Waterproof... Windproof

The new NRC-SPACE BLANKET fits in your pocket

You as a sportsman can now gain the benefits of space technology which produced a revolutionary super insulation material. From this miracle material, the National Research Corporation has developed the NRC-SPACE BLANKET. There's no other product to compare with it. Read how useful this super blanket can be for you.

WARM
The new NRC-SPACE BLANKET holds body warmth better than any material ever before available. It is ten times warmer, pound for pound, than wool!

VERSATILE
Use it as a camping blanket, ground cloth, hunting blind, windbreak, boat blanket, cockpit sunshade, poncho, tarpaulin, stadium blanket - or as an extra household blanket. Reinforced grommets corners in the bound edges make it easy to secure - something you can't do with ordinary blankets!

VITAL
The NRC-SPACE BLANKET can save your life if you were forced to spend a night in the woods. It can act as a radar or searchlight reflector in addition to having high visibility against a snow background.

COMPACT
A dozen NRC-SPACE BLANKETS take up about the same room as an ordinary blanket. The NRC-SPACE BLANKET, weighing only 11 ounces, fits easily in your coat pocket. Comes in its own 8" x 5 1/2" reusable plastic pouch and opens to 56" x 84". It won't crack, mildew or rot. What's more it is always ready to use... wipes clean with a damp cloth and washes perfectly.

GUARD OUTLOOK ON LIFE AS YOU DO YOUR HEALTH

In these days of insurance protection and immunization programs most people are health-minded. They make provision to prevent disease and they provide physician, nurse and hospital care through insurance, should accident or sickness befall them. They dress and eat in a program designed to protect them. In short, their physical well being is carefully guarded.

But what of the other phases of this modern life, where tension is great and demands upon the mind and nervous system are many and varied. Fear, anxiety and feelings of insecurity for self and loved ones can wreak havoc to a healthful state of mind and spirit. A healthful attitude in this phase of life can be attained and kept by regular attendance and activity in church. In fact the church can provide a peace of mind and spirit insurance policy for any and all who will use its services. It works. Too many have tried it and found contentment for anyone to doubt its power.

Students Pass Ferris Courses

Six Charlevoix County residents received degrees or certificates from Ferris State College at the June 19 commencement.

The students and their fields of specialization were Charlevoix: Lynette M. Mayne, B. S., Pharmacy; Carl S. Mitchell, B. S., Pharmacy; East Jordan: Richard A. Clark Jr., Certificate, Auto Machine Shop, School of Technical and Applied Arts; James F. Gidley, B. S., Science Education, Department of Education; Frank J. Neumann, B. S., Business Education, Department of Education; Lanny G. Shepard, B. S., Business Education, Department of Education.

THE GRADUATES heard Pulitzer Prize winner Dr. Russell B. Nye, a member of the Ferris Board of Control, talk about the qualities of a good teacher.

Three former Ferris students received honorary degrees. They were Major General Charles Beauchamp, recently retired commanding general of Ft. Dix, N. J.; Dr. Clifford Kiehn, a Cleveland dental surgeon, and Prof. Karl A. Stiles, retired head of the Department of Zoology at Michigan State University.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bassett and family, former residents now living in Williams-ville, N.Y., visited here last week.

Elect Mrs. Gidley School Board Head

EAST JORDAN - Mrs. Evelyn Gidley was elected president of the East Jordan School Board at the organizational meeting July 5. Vice-president is William Porter. William Braasch was elected secretary and newly-elected Garnett Hutcherson was elected treasurer.

The board voted that all monies received by the school would be deposited by the treasurer in the State Bank of East Jordan.

THE NINE mills request will come up for vote again August 1. The P. T. A. is going to call people election day and also provide transportation for those who need it. The school is going to send letters to boxholders and letters of appeal will be printed.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. John Kroken and son, Bruce, have returned from Marquette where they attended the wedding of her nephew, John Kampinen and Marjorie Burrows. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burns, who also attended the wedding, remained for a week's camping trip in the Upper Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deacon and two children have returned to their home near Pontiac following a visit with her in a newspaper. Superintendent Max Damoth asked the board for a go ahead on securing more rooms. Rooms outside the present buildings will be secured if there is not room in them.

The $52,540 state aid advance applied for by the board was not fully granted. The school was granted $30,000 and told that they may apply for the remainder later.

Damoth and Principal Keith Annear attended a school district reorganization meeting.

The principals of Ellsworth, East Jordan and Central Lake met July 13 to work on curriculum.

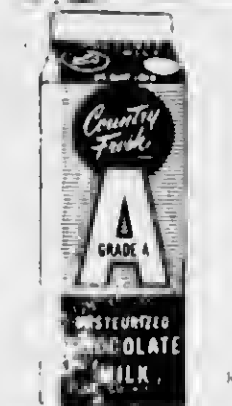

Damoth said that the reorganization would offer many advantages to students.

parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Davis. Mrs. Deacon and the children were here for three weeks. Mr. Deacon joined them for one week.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Arnold of Birmingham visited here last week while on a northern Michigan vacation trip.

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
LI 7-2037

We were most happy to have so many of our local and Sequanota friends attend the Dedication Service in our church this Sunday morning and to have each one share our sincere appreciation of the generosity of the donors of the gifts, which have improved our church, all our local members are most grateful.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall spent last weekend in Ludington attending the Vanderwall family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynk and family also Miss Mary Lynk from Detroit are spending several weeks in their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kroll were called to Chicago Friday to the illness of their daughter, Katy, who entered the hospital as a surgical patient.

Mrs. Ross Alexander, Diane Alexander spent last Friday with Susie Saunders.

We extend our sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price on the death of the latter's sister in Peoria, Ill., last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. David McClellan from Stewart Air Force Base, Newburg, N. Y., are guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. James White.

We extend our very best wishes to Mrs. Evelyn Geor, who is a surgical patient in Little Traverse Hospital in Potosky.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steinbreuner from Michigan Center were guests this last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jentzen.

Mrs. John Wilson and family from Palo Alto, Calif., are spending several weeks vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson at their "Sunnyslope Farm."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vanderwall from Grand Rapids spent last Saturday at the home of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vanderwall.

I was most interested in the historical article by Ruth Ann Miller from East Jordan, W. F. Empey who built the first store there in 1874 and became their first postmaster in 1877, was my grandfather's brother, my mother's father. He petitioned for a post office, which was accepted and received the appointment only after he had sent in several names for the community to the department. All were rejected because there were post offices already established in the state bearing the same names.

The community being situated on the Jordan River and the main settlement on the east side accounts for the selection of East Jordan. My grandfather, was a farmer, and brought his family from Canada and they and the "Rex Beach" family lived together in the same log house two years which was between Norwood and Eastport, on the old M-11 road.

Talk of the Town

Kirk and Karen VanDerveer of St. Joseph have been visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Gerald D. Left, for ten days. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce VanDerveer, came for them and remained for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Allard and family arrived Saturday from Millington for a week's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allard.

Mrs. John Higman has returned to her home in Bluffton, Ind., after visiting her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Gill.

Mrs. John Harsha and daughter, Miss Anne Harsha, are at their Boulder Park cottage. They are from Detroit.

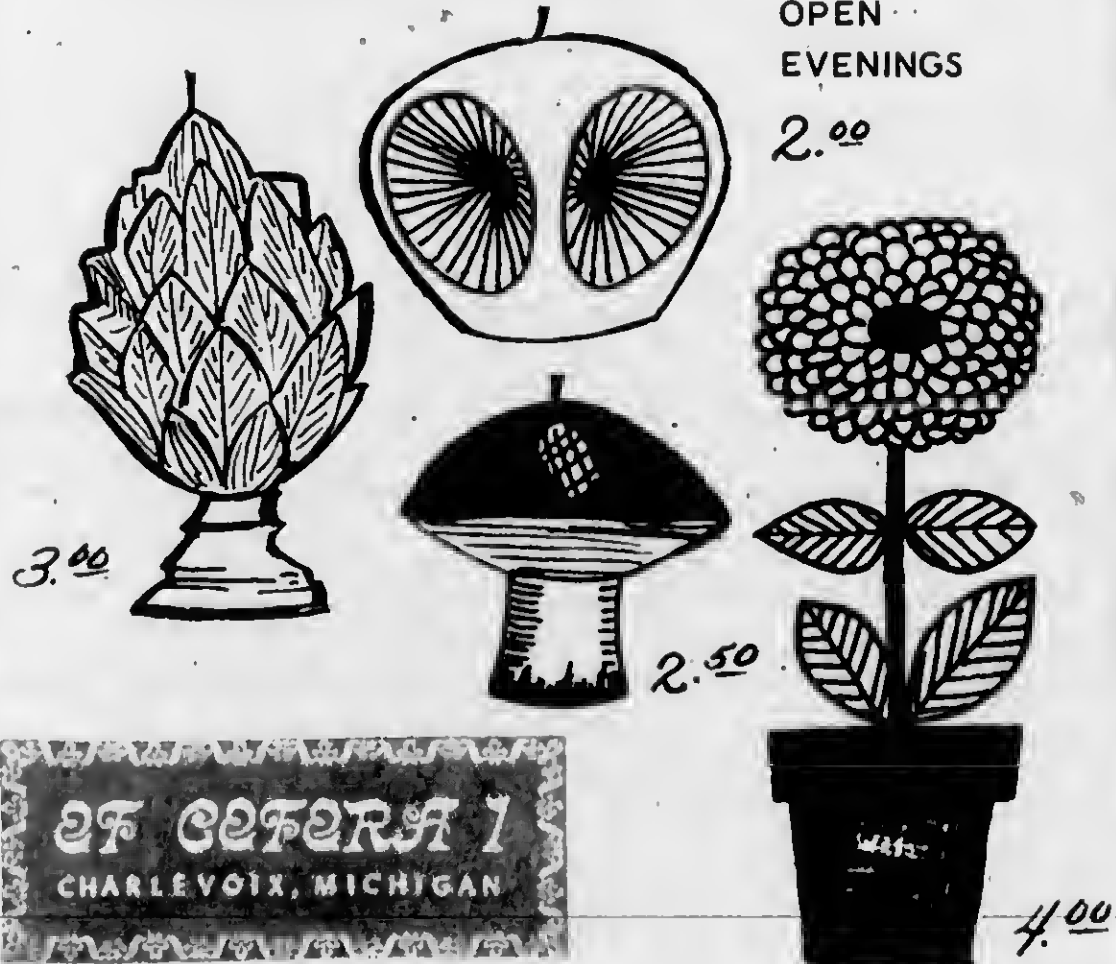

Mrs. Florence King has had as her guests her son and daughter - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd King of Detroit who were here for 10 days and grandsons and granddaughters - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack King and sons, Craig and Brian, who returned to Madison Heights last week and Mr. and Mrs. Richard King and son, Bruce, who returned to their home in Royal Oak on Sunday.

The Indian Camp Meeting at Greensky Indian Methodist Church will begin Thursday, July 21, through July 24, with the Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Rickard as evangelists. Services start each evening at 7:30 p.m.

At the first service, the colored Volunteer Choir of the Methodist Church of Harbor Springs will sing. On Sunday, July 24, there will be a service at 10 a.m., holy communion at 2 p.m. and an evening service at 7:30 p.m.

Vacation Bible School for children at the Greensky Indian Methodist Church began on Monday, July 18, at 9 to 11:30 a.m. and will continue through this Friday, with Miss Martha Peterson as Bible School Director. All children are invited to attend.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ferguson Sr. were Mrs. Ruth Hale and her mother Mrs. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burnett were recent evening visitors.

Mrs. Fred Melin is a surgical patient at Little Traverse Hospital.

Mrs. Ira Sherk and her daughter, Linda, of Pontiac were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Keiser.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Baker were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ferguson Sr.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Renaud and two children arrived Saturday from Minneapolis, Minn., to spend two weeks with her father, Anthony Wojan Sr. and Mrs. Wojan. Mrs. Henry Herrington of Ferndale has arrived for an indefinite stay with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Pearl.

A/2C and Mrs. Jimmie McWatters E. Jordanite Wed In North Dakota

Miss Colleen Kay Sollin of Wolford, N. D. became the bride of Airman 2nd Class Jimmie Lee McWatters of East Jordan, stationed at Minot Air Force Base, Minot, N. D., July 10 at the Wolford Lutheran Church in the presence of 250 guests.

Miss Sollin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Sollin of Wolford, N. D. McWatters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. McWatters of East Jordan.

THEY WERE united in a double ring ceremony by Rev. E. Yostie. The organist was Cathline Erickson and Mrs. Leslie Pieterick, soloist, sang "Perfect Love" and "Bless This House."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress with white net over satin trimmed with sequins around the neck and circling the skirt. Her waist-length veil was secured with a white rose and lilies of the valley. She carried a small white Bible covered with white rose buds.

MRS. NAOMI Maskey, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a sleeveless, floor - length dress of blue satin covered with blue lace. The sleeveless top was blue and white. She wore a blue lace veil and carried red long stemmed roses.

The bridesmaids were Norma Sollin, Eunice Ostenson and Carol Ostenson, all of Wolford, N. D. Their dresses were identical to the matron of honor's.

Best man was Ronnie Lynn McWatters, brother of the groom, from East Jordan. Groomsman were Bob Gyersted, Jarrol Richards and Wayne Wright, all stationed at Minot Air Force Base. Ushers were Ron Pearee and Richard Sollin.

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a green whipped cream dress with orange flowers and a green hat. Her corsage was red roses.

The groom's mother wore a white and silver two-piece suit with white accessories. Her corsage was red roses.

A reception was held in the church basement and cake, cookies and coffee were served. The cake was three tiers with a bride and groom and an open white Bible on top. For traveling to the Black Hills for a week, the bride wore a pink two-piece suit with white accessories.

THE NEW Mrs. McWatters is a graduate of Wolford High School and is now employed at Piggie Wiggle as an accountant.

The groom is an East Jordan high graduate.

After returning from the wedding trip, the couple will reside at 312 Eighth Street in Minot.

Attending the wedding from East Jordan were Mr. and Mrs. James McWatters, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Combust and son; Mr. and Mrs. Don Bosler and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Prevo and Ronnie McWatters.

A MERCURY with "wrist twist" steering will be used to transport last year's Venetian. Queen, Diane Dyksterhouse, in this year's Venetian Parade. Developed by Ford Motor Co.'s Lincoln-Mercury Division, the new steering concept is still in the experimental stage. Visibility of instrument panel and road ahead are improved and fatigue is lessened by "wrist twist" steering as the driver assumes an "easy chair" posture.

Power Rate Cut

A reduction in electric rates, estimated to save customers about $3,100,000 yearly, has been announced by Consumers Power Co.

The rate-cut, effective with bills issued on and after July 11, will apply to residential users of more than 300 kilowatt hours monthly, and to large commercial and industrial users.

The rate adjustment, authorized by the Michigan Public Service Commission, is the eighth reduction in electric rates made by Consumers Power Company since Jan. 1, 1965.

Last summer, Consumers reduced residential electric rates by about $3 million annually. This rate-cut, added to other downward adjustments in various industrial and commercial rates, means that the company's electric customers are saving about $7,400,000 annually, as compared with rates prevailing only 18 months ago.

In the past year, Consumers also reduced its rates for natural gas by approximately $2,400,000 annually.

The company serves 703,000 gas customers, and 663,000 electric customers in 67 of the 68 counties of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Art Cross, right, office manager/salesman has been with Parker Motor Freight for 20 years. Parker truck driver, Ken Eggers, has serviced this area for 3 years.

Take one Art Cross plus one Ken Eggers, and what do you have?

A team! One of the many teams that keep Parker Motor Freight rigs rolling throughout Northwestern Michigan. They've got a big job... business and industry throughout the area depend on them for fast, reliable truck delivery of everything from eggs to engines.

For over 40 years the men of Parker Motor Freight have been providing this vitally important service. As a result, both Parker and the communities we serve have profited. Parker has modern terminals, an up-to-date truck fleet, and a responsible, reliable work force. Our communities profit from Parker's million dollar-plus annual payroll, plus the availability of dependable, on-time delivery.

It's no surprise, therefore, that a competitive trucking firm is seeking to do business in our area. We oppose this move for a reason that should be of importance to every area businessman:

The addition of an outside trucking firm would, in our opinion, reduce rather than improve the high level of service presently available. Over the years Parker has built up its service based on increased freight volume. Today we reach more than 54 communities in Northern Michigan. If this volume is divided between two carriers, neither would be financially able to provide consistent pick-up and delivery to all points in the area.

The growth of Parker Motor Freight and of Northwestern Michigan is in the future, however, not in the past. With this in mind we have applied to the Michigan Public Service Commission for permission to operate in the Southeastern part of our state, including such key points as Detroit, Flint, Pontiac, Saginaw, Bay City, Lansing, Midland and many others. If the Michigan Public Service Commission decides there is a need for single line service between the areas involved, it is our hope that such authority will be granted to us, based upon our past experience and record of service to Northwestern Michigan.

We welcome your support of our application

By the Way... Tourists Seem To Like Weather

By Ruth Ann Miller

This is the hottest summer I can remember and the driest. But it doesn't stop the tourists from coming up here.

July 14, I spent most of the day taking pictures in East Jordan and Ellsworth and it seemed that no natives were left up here but that everyone was a tourist.

I took two rolls of film and asked numerous people their names and only one picture had area people in it.

MOST OF THE people were from southern Michigan, spending their vacation up north.

In Ellsworth I met the Coy family from Lansing who were camping for a week at the village park. They have been camping summers for 17 years all over Lower Michigan and like it.

I ALSO MET some men from

Mrs. Clara Roberts of Dyer, Ind., is spending three weeks with her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray. Mrs. Roberts formerly lived in Clearwater, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cummings and son Ray of Royal Oak spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mann and daughter Gayle of Clarkston were overnight guests of the Clarence Murray's.

Mrs. Grace Selfield of Charlevoix left on Friday for Lansing to spend several days with her son - in - law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Aichin.

Detroit vacationing in East Jordan. At Sportsman Park, they watched the animals and waterfowl and took movies.

TWO BOYS from Sparta were spending their day fishing from the launching ramp in East Jordan. One of them caught three fish but one got away.

Anyone care to move to the big city in the summertime and miss all this?

Oh, by the way, don't miss the two little fawns in the Sportsman Park's deer pen. They're covered with spots and are just adorable.

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The third week of camp started off hot and great for camping. We donned rain very badly as everything is so dry, so dry in fact that we are not allowing our overnight campers to build fires. We have been trying for ten days to have our Initiation Indian Fire, but as the woods are so dry, we just have to wait, as the fire is an important part of the ceremony. We just cannot take any chances.

Monday afternoon, the smallest boys in camp, cabin 1, with Gary Kettley as counselor and Wendell Janke as assistant, took their boys on an overnight on the far edge of our property under the beautiful maple trees. These boys were: Doug Wolday, David Townsend, Jimmy Sisk, Mike Wayne, Billy McKay, and David Grant. Cabin 16, with Joe Anzelmo and Doug Laine in charge took a sailing trip down to Young's State Park. It was beautiful sailing weather and the trip was enjoyed by the following boys: John Cooper, Colin Hamilton, Ken Mabbatt, Stormy Holderman, Chris Bushnell, Scott Reid, and John Evans. In the evening, the "Mugwump" was hidden, but not found. So it was hidden again on Tuesday night. The "Mugwump" is a piece of wood, about a foot long and about five inches around, and it is gaily painted. This is hidden in the woods and the team finding it, has to run through camp, and if it is not taken away, then team gets a point in the Green-Grey competition. It must be run at least once every 24 hours, and at only certain times of the day so as not to interfere with other programs. Boys love this. It is a great contact game and a challenge for the team captains to use much strategy.

doller, Chuck Gardella, Mike and Henry Whiting, Bill Ricker, Phil Hayes, Steve Storms, Mike Zinn, Rick Llewellyn, Ken Mabbott, and Chris Bushnell.

Our Tennis players won two matches and lost two matches, which made it a tie. The two wins came in the singles, with Craig Dickson, Grosse Pointe, and Bill Carey, Grosse Pointe, both winning. The doubles combinations lost their matches, these boys being: Chris Huntton, Birmingham, Dave Harrison, Middletown, Ohio, Tighe Magnuson and John Jelliffe, both of Columbus, Ohio. Our swim team won its meet by a large score, and the winning swimmers were: Corky Keck, Bob Phillips, Jack Doppe, Carl Webb, Crain Dickson, Eddie Kohl, and Bob Sweet. We always enjoy these meets with Bay View as they are most hospitable and it is a pleasure to be their guests. At a later date we will be their hosts. Tuesday evening, the "Mugwump" was hidden once again and found, this time by the Grey team.

Early Wednesday morning, the Mackinac Island trip left camp. These are boys who were enrolled last summer for this summer, and the first 50 each year get this trip to historic Mackinac Island. Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, took Dick McClure and Ramsey Coates along to help him, and the lucky boys were: Rick Silver, Karl Bowman, Doug Fox, Tommy Smith, Billy Otto, John Jelliffe, Skip Sales, Chris Huntton, Mike Fish, Ricky Kahn, Tighe Magnuson, Billy Bledy, Stormy Holderman, Dan Dudley, Terry and Brad Mast, Bill Carey, Chuck Gardella, Paul Dancer, Colin Hamilton, Robbie Quinn, Jimmy Huddleston, Mike Kelly, Andy Case, Phil Salvadore, Cap Lesonne, and Carl Webb. In the evening a Green-Grey Capture the Camper was held with the Greys getting three points, making the score as of this date Greens 9, Greys 8.

Nearly forgot to mention that last weekend we welcomed into the camp family, Hans Van Essen, from Groningen, The Netherlands. He will be with us three weeks and adds to our International family this summer.

Each year the cabins elect one member to be on the camper council which decides to which charities our chapel collection go. The cabin representatives this year are: David Townsend, Brad Mast, Ron Stevens, Chuck Heiman, Tim Washburn, Ray Dickson, Bob Phillip, Mike Ellledge, Steve Heller, John Thal, Skip Sales, Bob Lohmhard, Stormy Holderman, David Harrison, Karl Bowman, Scott Richardson, Rick Gillett, and Mike Fish. It is a distinct honor to be in this select group.

Thursday was another great camping day as it was hot and ideal for the many activities. Three cabin groups took off for Fisher's Bay, the counselors being: John Deserone, Jerry Sandy, and Lou Saloom. The boys going on this overnight trip were Mark Saunders, Mark Chappuis, Rick Llewellyn, Skip Sales, Tommy McAndrews, Phil Hayes, Dick Andrews, Mark Herschede, Paul Dancer, Steven Storms, Dennis Bledsoe, Carl Llewellyn, John Teesdale, Steven Heller, Chris Cook, Henry Whiting, Steve Cunningham, Bob Grant, Bill Ricker, Craig Caulkin, Mike Ellledge, and Mike Streck. Everyone is talking about the upcoming Carnival on Saturday, and the boys are choosing their booths and their prizes to be given. The "Mugwump" was run twice, but each time ended in a pile-up, and had to be re-hidden.

TRAILER load of boys leaves Camp Charlevoix for overnight canoe trip down Jordan River.

Friday was a regular day in camp with the trips returning, and everyone making plans for the Carnival.

Saturday was another hot, beautiful day and the morning was spent in cabins working on their carnival booths. The camp was a bee-hive of activity, with the Smith Cabin being the focal point for pins, crepe paper, scotch tape, string, rope, tickets, and boxes of prizes. The porch of the clubhouse was the place where boys painted signs for their booths, and it was indeed a busy place. By noon everything was in place and at the dinner table, Rusty Smith, John Deserone, Jerry Sandy, and Lou Saloom came into the dining room as being the first parents to arrive at the carnival. The boys roared at their antics and everyone had a laughing time watching them. At three o'clock the Carnival was under way. Our visiting parents parked their cars up at the stables and then were driven into camp on the hay-wagon drawn by our huge team. It was a very fine Carnival, and the award going to the most clever booth was given to cabins 12 with its "Spook House" and Cabin 20, with its miniature golf.

After everything was cleaned up, and the camp put back in tip-top order, the boys saw a movie, Red Skelton in "The Good Humor Man." It was a great day and one that all the boys and staff will remember.

Sunday morning, Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, was the speaker at the service in our outdoor chapel, and he spoke on "Taking Camp Home With You." He brought out the many intangible things a boy should take home from camp, such as physical growth, spiritual growth, mental growth, and personality growth, as well as an improved character. It was food for thought for everyone who heard him. At the dinner hour, we were entertained by a musical trio composed of Eddie Kohl, Lee Fernstrom, and Wendell Janke. They sounded great. In the afternoon, due to a very rough lake, the Mile Swim was postponed, and an athletic afternoon was held with Green-Grey Competition in full swing. The Greys picked up three points to one for the Greens, bringing the running Green Score to a tie at 11 points each. In the evening, Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, took the Junior Section over to Greensky Hill to visit the Indian Church and cemetery, which are both very interesting. Regular services are held at this church each Sunday morning, and the history of the church and the area is most interesting. The camper council met and decided upon the three places our chapel collections are to go. The boys take their decision very seriously. The other three sections saw a most interesting and informative movie put out by Consumers' Power Co. called "Michigan-Let's". It is the history of this state, the pictures being old sketches, prints, and photos, and the boys really loved it.

We still have had no rain, and as this is being written on Monday morning, the sky was dark, and it looked like rain any minute. But the sun is now shining brightly, it is getting hot, and I guess we are to go into another week with no rain. We have had only two short showers (about five minutes each) in the last six weeks, and things are dry, dry, dry. We are all hoping for rain. I understand that in one of the Charlevoix churches yesterday, prayers were made, asking for rain. We need rain badly.

More next week...

Mr. and Mrs. John G. McCann and family of Dayton, Ohio, have arrived to spend a month at their Bridge St. home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snow and daughter, Donna, of Bethel, Ohio, arrived Saturday to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bennett.

Tony Paolone arrived Saturday from Duluth, Minn., for a visit with Louis Edwards and other friends and his sister, Karen, came to visit Debbie Wood at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent B. Paolone, brought them and remained for a brief visit.

Mrs. Charles Hanson and three children of Arlington Heights, Ill., are spending two weeks here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Moore. Mrs. Hanson's sister, Mrs. Loren Hofield and two children also of Arlington Heights who had spent a week at the Moores has been joined by her husband. They have taken a cottage at Walloon Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Wilkins and children of North Syracuse, N. Y., are vacationing here.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
American Mold assumed the role of the favorite after winning a hard-fought contest with defending champion, Lake Construction, 5-4. The narrow win gave the Mold a one game lead over the boys in blue and that might be all they need in the fight for the title.

Lake Construction jumped to an early 2-0 lead in the first on a walk, Larry McBride's triple and Steve Faculak's single. Two more in the top of the third gave them a snug 4-1 lead. McBride's two run homer provided the cushion. However, Mold's Ken Balch had other plans as he dropped a three run homer over the right center field fence after two were out. Ken Grunich's single was the only baserunner that Nate Boss allowed the rest of the way, but he had to share heroics with Don Kowling who singled home the winning run with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning.

East Jordan edged Olesons 6-5 in a well played contest. John Withers slammed a three run triple in the seventh to tie the game and send it into extra innings. Neville and Skeel combined base hits in the eighth to win. Phil Skeel, a local lad with junior league Freedmans, was picked up at game time because East Jordan was one player short. It proved to be a smart move for the winners.

County State Bank and the servicemen took a real interesting contest with the Bank boys winning 5-1. Gary Stutzman smacked a home run and double to pace the winners. Gary Crain chipped in with two doubles.

American Mold took the measure of East Jordan 4-2 in a game full of excitement. American Mold picked up two in the second on Dave Smith's one bagger. Doubles by Ken Balch and Don Kowling produced two more in the third. Sulak's two run homer closed the gap, but Nate Boss pitched tight ball the rest of the way to preserve the victory.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Tonight is to be the first general meeting of all senior citizens in the Charlevoix area. At the meeting, games will be played, and Roy Bennett will acquaint prospective members with the senior citizen theme. City Recreation Director Deano Davenport will report on possible financial support through state funds. The evening will conclude with refreshments. A committee will be formed to nominate permanent officers and to begin thinking about a constitution and bylaws. Next meeting will be in two weeks.

SWIMMING

Record numbers continued to use the three supervised beaches to cool off in during the finest summer of swimming this city has seen in many years. The adult class has been meeting three times a week and are progressing nicely. Instructor Joel Arvilla is pleased with the progress of the junior and senior life saving classes and large group is working on endurance and strokes. There is a need for a row boat to aid in the training of this class. Anyone wishing to help by lending a boat should contact the city Recreation Department.

Health Exhibit Coming

The public is cordially invited to visit the "Healthmobile" to see the story of Michigan medicine when the unique traveling exhibit visits downtown Charlevoix, July 21 through July 24. The visit is timed to be an added highlight for the annual Venetian Festival.

The Michigan State Medical Society Healthmobile will tell local adults and children about the exciting Michigan developments in medical research and health care.

The attractive mobile unit--the only one of its kind in the nation--also will seek to interest people in careers in the health field.

The unit is sponsored by the Northern Michigan Medical Society.

THE HEALTHMOBILE, a handsome 12 x 50 foot trailer, describes the story of Michigan medicine from the wooden stethoscope of 100 years ago to the gleaming heart and lung machines of today. The slogan, "A Century of Service in Michigan" is developed by colorful, authentic displays that begin with the work of Doctor William Beaumont of Mackinac Island, into the Civil War period, and on through the turn of the century to 1968.

Helping to portray Michigan's contributions to medical advances during the century are special exhibits prepared by the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan State University, the Department of Public Health, the Michigan Health Council, and the two major Michigan pharmaceutical companies.

Jerrine Durnie of Honolulu and sister, Marjorie Sterk, of Detroit visited their mother, Mrs. Mae Smith and sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Brady.

Mrs. John W. Shaw Graveside service for Mrs. Jessie Shaw, 72, will be at 1 p.m. Friday at Brookside Cemetery, the Rev. George Majors of the Church of God officiating.

Mrs. Shaw died July 18 at Berea, Ohio. Friends may view the body Thursday at Winchester Funeral Home.

A native of East Jordan, the former Jessie Barkley lived in Charlevoix until the death of her husband in 1952, when she moved to Parma, Ohio, to live with a son, Robert J., who survives her.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Cecilia Hayes of Fenton; two sisters, Mrs. Marian Walters and Mrs. Nellie Monroe; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Noise, Speed Hurt Our Image

What is happening to Charlevoix? Within the space of a few weeks, one of the quietest, most well-behaved communities in northern Michigan has turned into a howling, screeching metropolis.

Vehicle owners are the worst offenders. Just listen some evening to the racket created by cars and motorcycles in the valley, or out Dixon Avenue or on The Belvedere, junkers with gutted mufflers roar from one stop street to a screeching halt at the next. Tires squeal mercilessly from fast starts. Motorcycle engines altered to make maximum noise, howl most of the night.

Part of the reason, of course, is that it's summer and Charlevoix has filled up with an unusually large number of tourists. Some shop keepers report new sales peaks every week, which is all well and good.

BUT THE CHARM of Charlevoix--the reason people come to these quiet shores--will be lost unless law and order are returned to our streets.

There are sufficient laws on the books to keep the peace in Charlevoix. Our streets are posted for proper and safe speeds. Excessive noise is prohibited. Vehicles must not be operated with defective equipment, or in an unsafe manner.

From here it looks like a simple matter of enforcement.

The City Council last week offered the Police Department the use of a second car to help patrol the streets at night. Just having another car making the rounds should help.

It would help even more if city police would pledge themselves to a vigorous crack-down on speeders and noisemakers.

Unfortunately, there seems to be a lack of common ground between the City Council and the Police Department as to whether a problem exists. As late as last week, Police Chief Joe Smith said that noise and speed on city streets were not out of the ordinary, in his opinion.

THE TUMULT in the city apparently is only a part of a wave of midsummer lawlessness sweeping the area. A life-guard's chair disappears from the beach. Tire tracks, requiring time consuming and costly repairs, appear mysteriously on the greens at the City Golf Course. Bricks are missing from the retaining wall at the Lake Michigan Beach.

Out at Mt. McSauba ski lodge, six beehive holes suddenly appear in the three mammoth plate glass windows facing the ski slope, and every window in the two doors is either shattered or pock-marked.

SUCH INFRACOCTIONS of the law may appear small by themselves, but they add up to one thing: Respect for law and order hereabouts is on the wane.

We would like to see a concerted effort by all our law enforcement agencies--police, sheriff and State Police--to restore peace and quiet to Charlevoix. If the situation goes unchecked, we could be well on our way toward becoming another Saugatuck.

Romney Leaves It Up to You

Some daily newspapers in Michigan have expressed editorial concern over Gov. Romney's veto of a bill which would require counties with more than 50,000 population to replace their coroners with bonafide medical examiners.

His reason for killing the measure is that such matters are best left up to smaller governmental units, in this case the county. In his words, he didn't want "further to erode the right of the people to have self-determination."

SEN. Sander M. Levin of Berkeley, who sponsored the bill, said Romney's action was "unbelievable" and accused Romney of using slogans instead of facts.

Concerts Mean Summer's Here

In spite of the hot weather, it really didn't seem like summer until Clarence Odmark raised the baton for the Charlevoix City Band's first "Concert in the Park."

Although it has been augmented only recently by many returning college students, the band has a smooth, professional sound that bespeaks of many hours of hard work on the part of the individual musicians.

Good music aside, Charlevoix's band concerts have a quality that is hard to match. Boats rocking in the yacht basin, moonlight on the lake, -- all combine to enhance the concert program itself.

We wish Mr. Odmark and his musicians cloudless Wednesday evenings all summer long.

Clockwise

With Bob Clock

If I were 18 years old and didn't have 17 children (there's only one but she eats like the Russian army), I'd be tempted to hie me off to the Traverse City cherry country this summer and hire myself out as a picker.

That's what I did the summer I was 18, and even today that July stands out among all the rest. I can still taste the tart fruit and feel the hot sun on the back of my neck as I stood on a three-legged ladder high in a mountainous cherry tree.

I HAD NEVER been to Traverse City before, but even down in Detroit folks were talking about the high wages being paid in the cherry orchards. Twenty-five cents a log (25 lbs.) and all you could eat.

About mid-July I packed a wool Navy blanket, a pup tent and some old work clothes in my father's World War I sea bag, got him to drive me out to Woodward and Eight Mile Road and started hitchhiking north. Late that evening I walked the last mile into Traverse City, marched straight down to Grand Traverse Bay, slipped into my swimming trunks behind a bush and went for a long, cool swim. It had been a long, hot day on the road.

After dining on hamburgers, I asked a policeman how a fellow went about getting work in one of the orchards. I had gone to the right man. Together we walked over to the police station where several transients like myself were waiting for transportation out to government-operated labor camp.

Fortunately, transportation wasn't available immediately and we got to hang around the station all evening, listening to police calls and watching as officers disposed of one miscreant after another. Late in the evening, a lady of the streets was brought in, kicking, screaming and dragging her heels as the police hauled her by the elbows into the station house. She swore and spit and called all of us every name in the book. It was so interesting I thought it might be fun to move to Traverse City permanently.

FINALLY, a police wagon pulled up and all the prospective cherry pickers were herded aboard for the ride out to the labor camp on U.S. 31 south of the city.

Although I had just finished reading John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath", I wasn't quite prepared to find a full-fledged transient labor camp in Michigan. Surplus army squad tents were arranged in a semi-circle behind a clapboard administration building. We filed inside, and the man on night duty assigned each of us a tent number and asked if we'd like to pay 50 cents for the night or help police up the place in the morning. We all said we'd help police up.

THE TEXTS were equipped with cots and army blankets. Two boys from Atlanta and I were assigned to the same tent, and it wasn't long before we were fast asleep. In the morning we were awakened by the spicy aroma of Mexican food cooking over open fires. I was surprised to find that most of our fellow pickers were either from Texas or Mexico. Many spoke no English at all.

By mid-morning, the first call for workers came in. Three pickers were needed at the Thompson farm near Chum's Corners, the present junction of U.S. 31 and M-37. My buddies from Atlanta and I jumped at the chance and within an hour we had hitchhiked to the Thompson place and pitched our pup tents on the Thompson's spacious front lawn.

THE ACTUAL cherry picking wasn't too difficult, although we worked from sunup until near dusk. It was sort of like golf--trying every day to beat your previous record. Like any repetitive job, it lent itself well to daydreaming and constructive thinking. Sometimes you wouldn't see another picker in your section of the orchard for hours on end.

ners were pleasant. I usually fixed my supper over a little bon fire down by the road, then, ignoring everything I learned about eating and swimming, I would hurry over to Beautiful Little Silver Lake for a bath and a swim. The area around the lake was a virtual wilderness at that time, so no bathing suit was called for.

Later, back at the Thompson's, I'd walk up the hill to talk to the other pickers--old Mr. Honeycutt from Arkansas who came up to Michigan every summer to pick cherries and a young couple from the Thumb area. Mr. Honeycutt stayed in a make-a-shift house trailer, while the young couple bedded down in an abandoned hen house. Sometimes Mr. Thompson would visit with us and tell us about the winter he skated across Lake Michigan.

Every evening, on a high ridge opposite the orchard, a solitary farmer walked slowly back and forth behind his horse-drawn plow. Mr. Honeycutt and I used to speculate about why he was plowing in the dead of summer, but we never crossed the valley and climbed the hill to find out. We both agreed, however, that the farmer and his horse, silhouetted against the dying sun, made one of the prettiest pictures we had ever seen.

No doubt about it, if I were 18, there's no question which way I'd head this summer.

WEATHER continues to be the chief topic of conversation around these parts. As this is being written it's weeks since we've had a good rain. All you have to do is look around you to realize we're sorely in need of moisture. . . and it will take a long time to get the necessary moisture back in the ground. It seems that rain has fallen all around us while the drought continues in the immediate areas. I hate to think what it's doing to crops everywhere. . .

WAS CHATTING the other day with one of our oldest summer residents whom I'm sure many of you know, James Reis of Cincinnati. Naturally, the conversation turned to the weather. His comment was that he doesn't remember a summer when there was such a long, hot spell. . . I think most people will agree. . . However, there have been summers when it hasn't rained for a long period. . . My brother, John, remembers one when it didn't rain for better than 120 days which is a major part of a summer. . . That was back in 197 when we had many hot, hot days such as we're having now. . .

It's hot, I don't deny, but we have the lake. . . which tends to keep us cooler than it is inland. . . and it usually cools off at night so we have a few things to be grateful for. . .

OVERHEARD in a beauty shop recently. "Mommy, are we going to move to such-and-such place?" (naming a nearby community), a youngster asked her mother. . . The answer came back, "No dear, we're going to stay here. After all, Charlevoix is said to be the most beautiful place in the world." . . After some thought the youngster commented "It is?" . . I don't know who the mother and daughter were, . . but I'd like to say that this is one reason Charlevoixans are the kind of people they are. . . they have pride in their community. . . a pride that is passed on to their youngsters who grow up with this thought. . . Charlevoix is a beautiful community. . . and there are others equally as lovely. . . but if you think yours is the greatest then you're going to make sure it stays that way. . . I'm sure the mother, when she made that statement, didn't mean it quite as it sounded. . . but she sure got her point across to a youngster who's, no doubt, going to grow up believing that this place is the greatest. . .

If you can't have pride in yourself, your community, school, team, organization or what have you, then no one else will either.

All of which reminds me of a comment made by a teacher in a community college in the area. . . A friend of mine was asking how the students from Charlevoix stacked up among other students. . . He answered her question regarding classroom know-how and then added, "Those kids from Charlevoix. . . sometimes they make me so mad." . . She asked why and was told that when, at the beginning of a term, he would ask where each student was from, those from here would answer "I'm from Charlevoix". . . And his comment was "As though bells should ring and whistles blow". . . Then he added "They're almost cocky about it but I've learned that they aren't being arrogant. . . they just have a personal pride in their community. But until I learned that I was ready to scap every last one of them". . .

THE OTHER DAY a friend of mine said she had to stop by and pick up some mulberries someone had offered her. . . I looked at her as though she had lost her mind and said as much. . . the only thing I knew about mulberry bush was that you went around it. . . like in the nursery rhyme. . . It seems that the berries grow, not on bushes but on trees, they took like a skinny blackberry and make good pies. . . I understand that there aren't many such trees this far north and that they aren't exactly a desirable tree because they're so dirty when they shed the ripe berries. . .

IF YOU'RE a coin collector I can tell you something from which you're not likely to recover. . . I'm a collector of sorts, as you've heard me say. . . I was shooting the breeze about coins with a fellow here in town you all know and, during the course of the conversation, it was mentioned that 50 cent pieces were fast becoming a thing of the past. . . "Oh, my gosh" was his reply, "I just sold $75 worth to a guy who wanted to use them in a slot machine they have at a camp he belongs to". . . I haven't recovered from the shock. . . and probably won't either for a while. . .

Take care. . . enjoy the summer. . . but be careful whether you're driving, swimming, water skiing or what have you. . . We love you more as you are than as a statistic. . .

Trucks Awaken Resorters Early

To the Editor:

The Charlevoix Township officials apparently have agreed with Medusa to keep the road to the point open for the convenience of the construction personnel. Although they have a road of their own completed, they don't choose to use it.

Early this spring huge trucks tumbled past, now the midnight shift, 6 a.m. shift, etc., roar by on our broken down road. There is noise, dust and whistles tooting just in case one wishes to sleep past dawn.

For years we in Boulder Park have requested improvement to the roads, which now are badly torn up by the trucks, but we are told there are no plans until fall. This road apparently must be maintained half gravel and bumpy so that construction workers can reach the point.

Why not shut off the road now as Medusa plans to do eventually, pave it and allow the resorters some peace for the remainder of the summer.

Links Lime Water To Lake Pollution

William H. Ohle

Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Sir:

I have long subscribed to your excellent newspaper and along with my family am a highly vocal fan of the Charlevoix area, having summered and occasionally wintered briefly on the north shore of "Pine" Lake. I like all the natural things about it the way they are and hate to think of it all changing very much.

After reading your well written editorial "Land of the Lime Green Water," in the July 6, 1966 issue, I ran across an article in the Sunlight, July 10, 1966 issue of the Chicago Tribune on the same subject, entitled "Lake Michigan's Purity Declining, Experts Warn." I met so it in the hope that it will worry you, too, and perhaps help you.

In part, the Tribune story says, "The worst problem, however, is what scientists call fertilization. Wastes containing phosphates and nitrates foster the rapid growth of undesirable plants and organisms which rob the water of its oxygen. Fertilization, which gives the water a sickly green color, . . ."

I submit, in view of your description of the present hue of Round Lake, that is quite frightening. The ultimate result of such pollution, the Tribune story further says, is the disappearance of game fish (old Lake Erie), and the ruin of swimming beaches.

Your article says "We don't have a marine biologist handy. . . but the Tribune cites as authority in theirs, Dr. John Ayers, a research oceanographer of the University of Michigan's Great Lakes Research Station. . . that is more or less the point."

I will happily help foot the bill for the biologist to spend a few days in Charlevoix to assess what's wrong in Round Lake and then suggest what can be done about it. The bets are the trouble won't just go away!

Yours for UNpolluted water anywhere in Charlevoix County.

Thanks Politicos

Dear Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Senator Thomas C. Cavanaugh of the 37th district, Robert Davis, Chairman of the Mackinac County Legislature, and Attorney General Frank Kelly for their efforts in assisting Mackinac Island local 430 in achieving Civil Service status for their membership.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet.

Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nye Hollis, a golf course.

A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area.

North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West

Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan; resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

THE SPARKLING waters of Round Lake extend a welcome to yachters from all the Great Lakes. Thirty-four berths are available, with rates ranging from $2 to $3.50 per day, depending on the length of the craft. The dock area is just across East Park from the main shopping section of Charlevoix, a convenience most yachters appreciate.

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Council Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chieftains.

The mission church is the handiwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, taking part in a protestant movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

Later Greensky became dissatisfied with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted

Use Marine Charts For More Boat Fun

Marine charts are guides to more boating fun, but surprisingly few boating families take advantage of them. Perhaps this can be explained by a fear that they're too technical and designed only for professional pilots.

This isn't true. Marine charts are no harder to understand than ordinary highway maps and usually a great deal easier to fold up.

They carry a variety of helpful and interesting information. Quite obviously charts show the depth of the water, expressed in either feet or fathoms. Check the chart legend to make sure which.

CHARTS outline the navigable channel. Although this is designed primarily for larger vessels, you can't go wrong if you stay within its bounds.

Lighthouses and check-points along the shore or located in the channel are also noted. These are handy reference points, and it's a nice feeling to look out and see the marker "just where it's supposed to be."

Harbors and shelters, along with the channel leading into them, are a handy guide to emergency facilities.

Special markings indicate unusual obstructions such as a dangerous rock formation or a sunken wreck. Survey chart No. 1 of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey lists all of these symbols and abbreviations. Most charts are available at a very nominal price, usually less than $1.00.

All charts are dated, and this is for good reason. Sand bar shifts and rivers cut new channels. Make sure you have the latest edition.

and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes. Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife.

At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent church began. The building is 26 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs. When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18; services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

Jay Oliver, a spokesman for the congregation, says the Church is presently trying to buy back some of the nearby land which has been bought by the white man. Much of the area is Indian burial ground, marked by rude crosses and tumbledown fences.

CURRITUCK

The Currituck has close to minimum equipment for convenient operation, yet is elegant and serviceable. It is recommended particularly for water-skiing and other short haul activity in protected waters; for open water where carrying capacity is more important than comfort; and when fitted with platform, bow rail and flying top set (see also page 17), it makes an excellent camper with room for three sleepers. We do not favor it for steady duty in open water because passengers and pilot must sit. Standing, which is easy and natural part of the time in other models, makes for more comfort in heavy going. The Currituck is exceptionally good for water-skiing and skin diving, with large horsepower capacity, lots of room, ease of boarding and ease in cleanup.

Calorie Watching?

A cornucopia made from an ounce slice of bologna filled with 2 tablespoons of cottage cheese and served with a few raw carrot strips will give you less than a 100 calories for a delicious snack.

Boost Protein Supply

A busy morning gardening can leave you pretty well exhausted, but the feeling won't last long if you have a meaty salad for lunch. Any green salad or a tossed one of cooked vegetables can be made more appetizing with frankfurter circles, whole Vienna sausage, slivers of luncheon meat or last evening's roast.

Hot Appetizer

Make an appetite-teasing kabob by threading a wooden pick with a Vienna sausage, a square of buttered bread and an olive, wrapped in bacon. Broil both sides until browned. Serve with chili sauce to which a small amount of horseradish has been added.

Did-You-Know Department

Did you know that Rib Eye Steak is known by 12 names? They are Markét, Spencer, Beauty, Delmonico, Center Cut, Boneless Rib, Club or Boneless Club steaks. Then you have Boneless Rib club or Country Club steaks, and finally, Regular Roll steaks.

COLONY CORALS

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE -- is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found no where else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Have a Bacon "Ball" Month

Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.

Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Where to Send for Charts

Coastal and Intracoastal waterway charts, U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Washington Science Center, Rockville, Maryland.
Great Lakes and connecting waterways, U.S. Lake Survey, 630 Federal Building, Detroit, Michigan.
Mississippi River System, Office of Division Engineer, U.S. Corps of Engineers, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois.
TVA Lakes, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee.
Lakes and rivers under jurisdiction of U.S. Corps of Engineers, write Chief of Engineers, Department of the Army, Building T7, Gravelly Point, Virginia.

THE COST—The Administration's budget works out to just under $10 a week for every person in the U.S.

Boat Battery Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Too many boatmen forget about the battery until the day when they turn the starter key and nothing happens.

The seashore sand locust endures dune temperatures up to 135 degrees F. simply by jumping about. The grasshopper leaps into air that may be 50 degrees cooler a few feet above the hot sand's surface.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge. The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry.

In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Belts Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's information center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

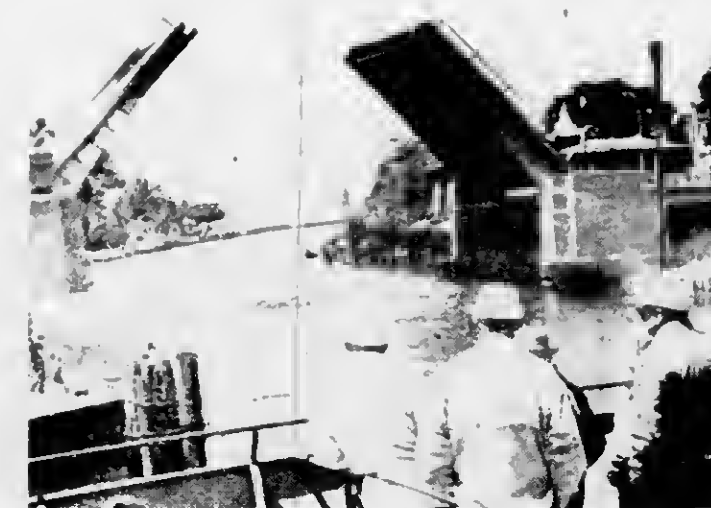

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its information center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the information center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, information center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the information center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the lushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

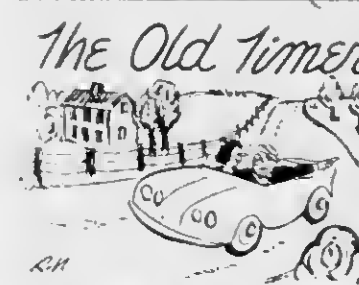

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there's no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry as it short cuts across the neck of the south arm.

Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life. The ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at scenic Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

Isle Royale National Park in Lake Superior is noted for having one of the largest remaining herds of great antlered moose in the United States. History says they crossed the ice from Canada and were stranded by the spring thaw.

Michigan has four times as much water area as any other state, 11,038 inland lakes, 36,350 miles of streams and 3,251 miles of Great Lake shoreline. Nearly half of Michigan's 83 counties have frontage on the Great Lakes.

"A well-adjusted motorist is one who can enjoy the scenery while on a detour."

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor
and ask him to remove it.

Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with books: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point
with a small cork.

BEAUTIFUL BELLS BAY is located just

National Forest campsites are available.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest
Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest
of spectacular sunsets.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered.
Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of being near a community equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park
on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on
Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and
Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

Learn to Swim For Summer Safety, Fun

As the outdoor swimming season approaches once again, the safety experts predict with certainty that more than 6,000 Americans will drown in the coming months.

THEY will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing swim and others will fall out of boats or off docks and piers.

Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen. The magazine, "Today's Health," offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family.

LEARN TO swim and to relax in the water. Never swim alone. Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

Do not overestimate your ability and endurance. Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim along distance to shore.

NEVER DIVE into waters of unknown depth.

Try new activities, such as water skiing or scuba diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

MANY families will do most of their swimming this season in private pools, in their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor. There also are some special safety precautions for private pools.

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified.

WALK, DON'T run, about the pool. Horseplay should be forbidden. Fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children.

Keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring bouys.

Keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

harsh detergents will remove dirt and smudge marks. This should be followed by a thorough rinsing with fresh water.

When storing toys between boating outings, make sure they are thoroughly dry. When you store a wet top, you're inviting mildew.

All but two counties in Michigan have inland lakes, and seven boast in excess of 300.

Boating accessories require only a minimum of care, but too often they don't even receive this. To add to the appearance of your rig and increase the life of accessories, the following steps.

Floor mats, seats and convertible tops should be washed periodically. This is true for both fresh and salt water craft. A mild soap solution-avoid

East Jordan's History Dates to Logging Days

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley.

The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable long boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramp, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art

THE CHARLEVOIX Public Library welcomes summer visitors. The library is open from 1:30-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to Noon on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test.

Side brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitfish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only.

KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves through college" by waiting table at Charlevoix restaurants.

Many fine restaurants are located right in the heart of town. However, a few minutes' drive in almost any direction will bring you to many other fine dining establishments.

Castle Van Haver

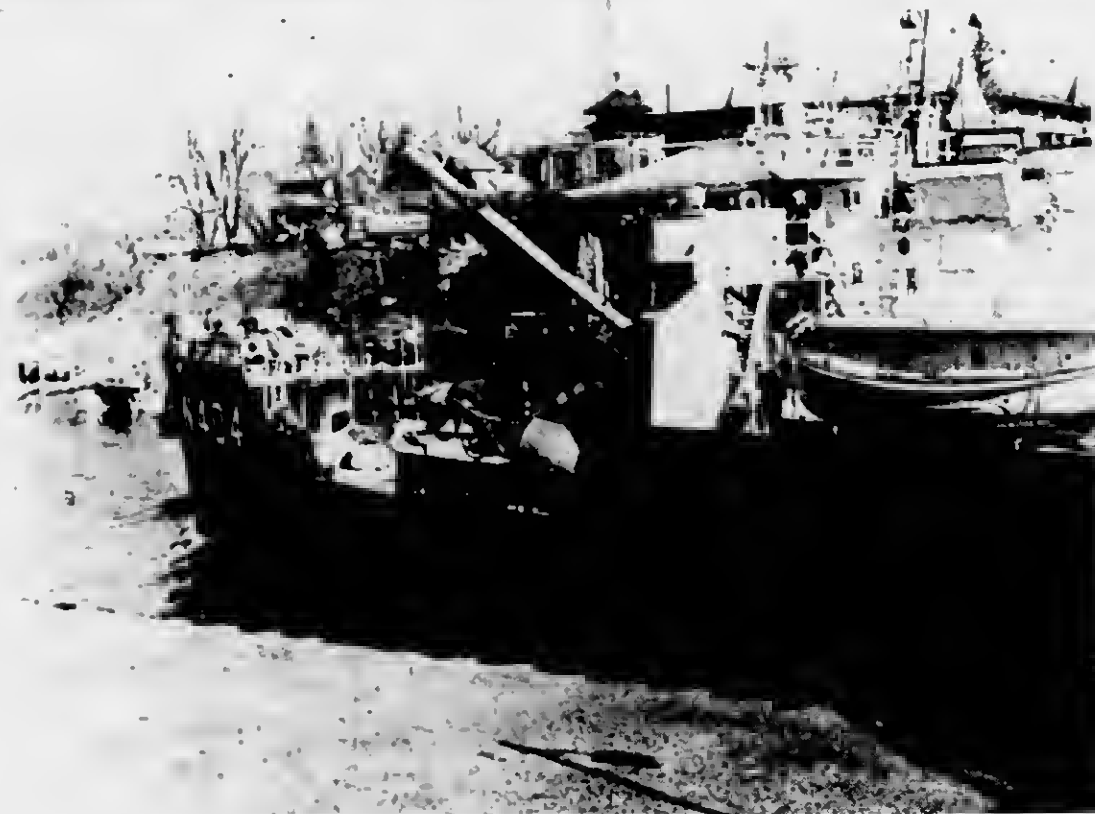

HIGHWAY M-66 JUST 2 MILES SOUTH OF CHARLEVOIX

Legendary medieval atmosphere, an enormous complex of gardens, courtyards, fountains, Norman arches, Gothic arches, towers, battlements, porticulis, heraldic arms, and a great hall 250 feet long.

A recreational and educational experience for the whole family, with visions of King Arthur, Sir Lancelot and the Knights of the Round Table. The great medieval complexes, with living quarters, defense towers, shops, crafts, etc. Here is a glimpse back into times immemorial, to the crusades, to the great heritage of the western world.

Castle Van Haver is perhaps the closest approach to medieval European atmosphere in America. It is the restoration of the renowned Loeb Estate.

COAST GUARD Cutter Sundew helps maintain buoys and lights in Northern Lake Michigan. In winter she serves as an icebreaker wherever needed.

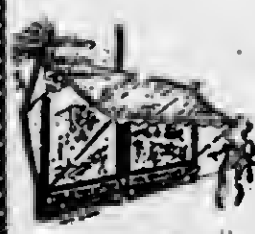

Coast Guard Ready

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U. S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix—the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Dave Smith, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This included 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions. Admiral Willard J. Smith, commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play..." is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health".

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading, it may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES—governmental, voluntary, and religious—offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY— $600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing?

The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Refrigerator Cookies

Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a snack.

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops--The Treasurer Cove--actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank in the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoixan Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oaken ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, deacon's benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln-dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "Tween Decks" bar under Irv Drost's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and welded anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material in them to keep him busy ten years.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a blustery November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 hands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning. It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan.

Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore.

The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasurer Cove, at Leland.

THIS IS what the Sawyer's timbers looked like after being dredged from the bottom of Bells Bay. The keel section (center above) is now the "Tween Decks" bar.

Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and jewelry which had an enormous appeal among his customers.

A professional diver, Sawtelle says he first became interested in making articles from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship in Bells Bay about five years ago.

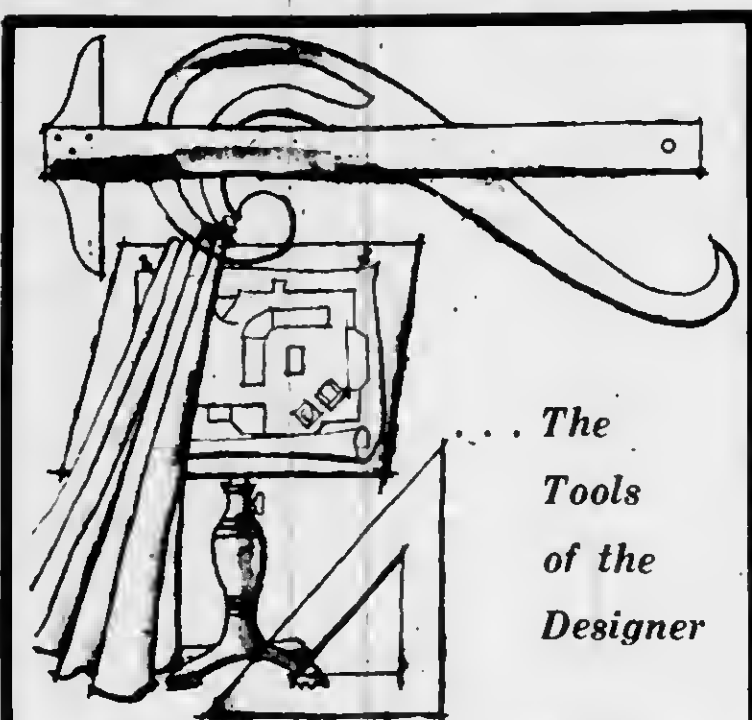

The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

The earth's home galaxy, slowly wheeling, has 200 billion suns. Earth's sun makes a full revolution every 230 million years.

Kingston, Jamaica, with a population of 123,500, ranks as the Western Hemisphere's largest English-speaking city south of Miami.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods--an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders' aches and pains.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges, several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian

count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

BEAVER HEAD light is one of the landmarks at the southern tip of the island. Light is serviced by Coast Guard personnel stationed on the island.

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and deer, turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard. Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard

Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds.

First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up on ever again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to-four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevils, spinners.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Loe's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm.

If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironston, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, jig-a-dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northwestern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterhugs, Rula Poppers, Hawaiian Wigglers.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marion), for pike, bass, smallmouths.

--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass, panfish.

--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walton Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

LEWIS AND DAVE Juilleret of Charlevoix display some of the fine rainbows being taken in Lake Charlevoix. This catch, weighing in excess of 18 pounds, was taken in the Horton Bay area.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba is a pleasant hour's drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. Located in a deep valley and utilizing a natural flow of icy spring water, the hatchery will produce seven million fingerling trout a year for restocking the Great Lakes.

State Police Advice to Boaters

With the coming of summer, State Police have urged boaters to match motor horsepower to boat use.

They also ask boatmen to watch for sudden changes in weather, heed storm warning information and follow all boat safety rules.

THE CAUTION was coupled with a report that the State Police underwater recovery squad is now up to full strength of 40 for the 1966 water activity season. These men are assigned to 29 posts throughout the state.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations.

Just because your boat has "room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry.

If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

George Washington was the only president who never lived in the White House. But he did choose the site and approve the design.

Much of the mercury used in the United States comes from a mine at Almaden, Spain. This mine may have operated as early as 400 B. C.

Marine Growth Slows Vessels

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpms) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

Cherry Growers Picket for Top Price

By Ruth Ann Miller

ELLSWORTH -- The Great Lakes Cherry Growers Assn. is sticking to its demand for 14 1/2 cents per pound for tart cherries and has thrown up picket lines around canning factories in East Jordan and Ellsworth.

Milton Grover's receiving station southeast of Ellsworth also is being picketed.

Spokesmen for the growers said Monday that the picketing will continue until the canners meet their demands.

IN THE MEANTIME, negotiations are underway to transport cherries out of northern Michigan to plants in the south where growers can get the price they ask.

The Elk Rapids canning factory will pay 10 cents a pound by contract and 12 1/2 cents without a contract. This means the growers could get 12 1/2 cents one day and three cents the next, a spokesman for the association said.

Milton Paradis, district director for the association, said that growers not only want 14 1/2 cents for tart cherries by contract, but they also want a pledge from the canning factories to take all the cherries they can process.

He said that the federal government contract to the factories offers an average of 26 cents a pound, and that the market quotation is 14 1/2 cents to the grower.

At present, there is no actual price named by the canning factories, Paradis said.

GROWERS in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin and southern Michigan have gotten their price from the factories and reportedly are backing the northern Michigan growers in their bid for 14 1/2 cents.

According to Paradis, six car-loads of growers from southern Michigan are coming up to help the local growers win their demands.

Traverse City Cherry

Growers Inc., farmer co-op organization, is backing the growers' demands.

Paul Doctor, local grower, commented that he felt that if they lose the objective this year then they will be at the mercy of the processors from now on.

RICHARD FRISKE, owner of Frieke Orchards, said that he intends to picket until the association has signed a contract for 14 1/2.

"Doc" Bedell said that in the four years he has been a grower he has yet to make a profit and would like to this year to buy new machinery and not just enough to pay the pickers and sprayer.

John Tidwell said that he averaged 9 1/2 an hour last year for his work in the orchard and would like more.

S. Vander Hyde said that he was disgusted because people live off the public by serving farmers and are now not willing to cooperate but try to buck the farmers and help the processors.

Mitch Paradis said that the growers would like to picket peacefully and hope it will stay that way.

ON THE OTHER side of the fence are Versal and Marv Shooks who are selling to the company at 12 cents a pound. They have no contract but sell on a day to day basis. Marv Shooks said that they have a good crop and can make money on it. He also said that he doesn't think the association will get the 14 1/2 cents because it only asked for 4.8 cents last year.

Versal Shooks said that he thought that there was a need to get rid of the association and organize another one with 100 percent participation rather than only 51.

The Shooks are not members of the association now, but they have been in the past.

Marv Shooks commented that the harder the growers

Primary Election Aug. 2

Charlevoix County voters will go to the polls Aug. 2 to cast their ballots in the primary election.

On the Republican ticket, Gov. George Romney is unopposed for governor.

Robert P. Griffin is on the ballot twice; first as a candidate for the U.S. Senate; second to fill the senate vacancy created by the death of Sen. Patrick V. McNamara.

Griffin currently is serving in the Senate, on appointment by Gov. Romney.

In the 11th district, Republican Philip Ruppe is unopposed in his bid for a seat in Congress.

In the 37th senatorial district, incumbent Sen. Thomas Schweigert is unopposed. In the 106th district, Robert W. Davis of St. Ignace will oppose incumbent Clayton T. Morrison of Pickford.

On the Democratic ticket, Zoltan A. Ferency is the gubernatorial candidate.

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh will oppose former Gov. C. Mennen Williams as candidate for the U.S. Senate. Both also are candidates to fill the late Sen. McNamara's chair.

In the 11th district, incumbent Raymond F. Clevenger is opposed by Frank E. Hook as candidates for Congress.

Running for a seat in the state Senate from the 57th district are A.M. Schneider and Earl Walker.

In the 106th district, Sidney Wizer is unopposed in his bid for a seat in the state legislature.

In East Jordan, voters also will be asked to approve nine mills per $1,000 valuation for schools. The money will be used to hire more teachers and broaden the curriculum.

IN CHARLEVOIX, all delegates to county conventions are assured of election.

Republicans running in the First Ward are Charles Carey, M. in Pochman, Gordon L. Freedman, Elmer D. Hawley and Donald Meggison (out of a possible six).

Second Ward: Roy G. Bennett, William R. Carey, Ro-

Drought Broken

Weatherman Harry Ladd reports slightly more than one inch of rain fell on Charlevoix Monday night, easing drought conditions temporarily. High temperature for the week was 88 Monday afternoon. It was in the 40's Friday.

dall who died suddenly July 20 was held at the Winchester Funeral Home July 22, the Rev. Leona Winegard of the Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Crandall, a veteran of 15 years on the Charlevoix police force, apparently suffered a heart attack early last Wednesday morning after scuffling with a young motorcyclist who broke through the cable barricades around Kipke Field and later reportedly resisted arrest.

Martin Patrick Hamlin, 18, was fined $100 and $5 costs by Justice of the Peace John C. Connolly for driving a motorcycle under the influence of alcohol and another $21.50 for being drunk and disorderly. He also surrendered his driver's license.

He waived examination on a charge of resisting arrest and was bound over to the August term of the Circuit Court. He was released on $500 bond.

Crandall received an accident call at the police station about 1 a.m. alerted Winchester Ambulance Service, then drove to Green street at the football field where the motorcyclist was lying on its side.

Larry Skippersgosh, 16, a passenger who had been picked up shortly before by Hamlin, was standing nearby and Hamlin was pinned under the machine. Crandall reportedly lifted the vehicle off the youth, and as it did so the boy allegedly scrambled to his feet, grabbed the motorcycle and tried to get away.

It was then that Crandall reportedly scuffled with Ham-

Bather Drowns In Lake

Acting Coroner Dr. John Lignell ruled accidental drowning in the death of Augustine V. Wabanimeke, 37, of Charlevoix in Lake Michigan Saturday afternoon.

According to Police Chief Joe Smith and Dr. Lignell, Wabanimeke was seen entering the water west of the guarded bathing area near the pumping station.

Later Jim Barry of Vesteburg, a former Charlevoix lifeguard and Edward Wiers noticed Wabanimeke floating about 30 yards offshore. They retrieved the body and Barry administered artificial respiration.

RODNEY BELDING of Charlevoix ran for the police, who notified Dr. Lignell.

EAST JORDAN -- The new nuisance ordinance No. 110 is being tested for the first time since its acceptance by the Council July 5. The Compo House was condemned by the City Council July 19 as a public nuisance and hauled after an appeal was issued by Chief of Police Joe Hammond. Pictures of the house were presented to the Council so that they could see the condition of the house.

Russell Gee sent a letter of acceptance of the position of superintendent of public utilities to the council and he will assume this position Aug. 1.

JIM SHEPARD appeared before the Council concerning a development of some of his property. He asked the Council if the city would put in sewers and water. Councilman Harry Watson said that if the plat is accepted by the city, then the city is obligated to put in the facilities. Shepard was referred to the Zoning Commission concerning the platting of the land.

Shepard also asked the Council how much of his land

Trade School Starts

EAST JORDAN -- The second Tool, Die and Machinist Apprenticeship School began July 21 at East Jordan High School.

The school was initiated by Walter Thorson, chairman of the East Jordan Area Tool, Die and Machine Trades Advisory Committee and President of East Jordan Tool and Die Inc., because of the scarcity of journeymen tool, die and machine workers in the area.

The four year course consists of related subjects of math, Algebra I and II, geometry I and II, trigonometry, basic drawing, blueprint reading, basic design, tool design, die design, welding, heat treating, metallurgy and shop procedures and theory, practical training includes 8,000 hours under a journeyman.

An apprentice must enroll for a minimum of 168 hours per year at four hours a week.

THE APPRENTICE is to adhere to the same rules and regulations as other workers.

If the apprentice doesn't attend related instruction classes he can be removed

Stage Funds Sought

CHARLEVOIX--Anyone interested in supporting a drive to complete the bandstand in East Park is invited to attend a meeting in the Community Room at the City Hall Thursday evening, July 28, at 7:30 p.m.

The present bandstand was built in 1959, but there were insufficient funds to construct a shell.

THE REV. Alexander Wood, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, is spearheading the drive.

Band director C. A. Odmark is investigating to find out how much it will cost to put an acoustical shell around the present structure.

THAT STATE was completed.

ed in July, 1959, at a cost of $2,000. The area beneath the bandstand was designed as a storage room. In recent years it has doubled as quarters for the harbormaster.

First fund-raising chairman for the bandstand was the Rev. Fred McNeil, former pastor of the Methodist Church. At the time of the dedication he said he hoped a weather-proof roof would someday be added.

Mr. and Mrs. William Russell are visiting here while enroute from Norfolk, Va., to his new assignment at Long Beach, Calif., a veteran of 10 years in the U. S. Navy, is an Engleman first class. He will serve aboard the USS Tai-

Mrs. Fern Pease, Mr. Taylor Wed

Mrs. Fern Pease of Charlevoix and Lewis Taylor of Mt. Pleasant were married Saturday, July 16, at the Church of God parsonage at Mt. Pleasant, the Rev. Chester Ebert officiating at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hart of Barryton, brother-in-law and sister of the bride were the attendants. The newly-weds are at home at 10123 E. Pickard, Mt. Pleasant.

Youth Corps Jobs Available Locally

Jobs are available for a number of youths in the Charlevoix-East Jordan area, according to Mrs. Barbara Johnson, newly appointed Neighborhood Youth Corps coordinator for Charlevoix County. The Youth Corps is part of the Northern Community Action Program (NORCAP), one of over 16 and under 22 who would otherwise be unable to stay in school.

Most of the jobs available in Charlevoix will be with the school system, Mrs. Johnson said. They pay $1.25 an hour.

THE JOBS are open to: -Youths (male or female) over 16 and under 22 who would otherwise be unable to stay in school.

-Part-time jobs enabling young people who have left school to return to the classroom.

-Full-time training for youths who have left school permanently and who lack skills needed in today's labor market.

FUNDS for the program are provided by the federal government with a local "in-kind" contribution by the sponsoring employer. In the Charlevoix area, the "in-kind" contribution will consist of supervision of the youths by the employer, or whoever he assigns to supervise them.

The work performed will be "socially useful and necessary," according to Mrs. Johnson, but is work which would otherwise remain neglected. There will be no so-called "busy work."

EMPLOYERS must be local, non-profit organizations such as schools, hospitals and city and county governments.

Youths interested in the program, or employers interested in joining the program, should contact the Michigan Employment Security office in Petoskey or Rex Milligan, Charlevoix School Superintendent. East Jordan youths should contact their school superintendent, Max Damoth.

In addition to sponsoring the Neighborhood Youth Corps, NORCAP is a clearing house for information on other federal assistance funds available to communities and individuals in the war on poverty.

A GRADUATE of Central Michigan University, Mrs. Johnson is serving as Neighborhood Youth Corps coordinator for Antrim, Charlevoix, Crawford, Emmet, Kalkaska and Otsego Counties and parts of Missaukee and Roscommon counties.

Joan Louiselle to Wed Aug. 27

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Louiselle of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Joan Louiselle, to Gerald Franklin Balch, son of Mrs. Betty Balch of Charlevoix.

Class of 1951 Celebrates Fifteenth Reunion at Club

The Charlevoix High School Class of 1951 marked its 15th anniversary with a cocktail hour and dinner at the Argonne Supper Club July 23.

Dale Suomela of Flint conducted a brief business meeting, reading letters from members unable to be present.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Max Novak and Mrs. Stewart Coleman. Novak and the late Mr. Cullenan were class advisors.

Saturday afternoon, the class sent a dozen roses to Mr. and Mrs. Glen Penberton whose daughter, Geneene, was a member of the class but died three days after the Senior Trip.

Attending the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. Ghet Ahola

(Rheta Boss) of Avon Lake, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Allard, Charlevoix; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Barber (Joyce Murray), Lompoc, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Rex Blanchard (Joan Mathews), Charlevoix; Howard Campbell, Charlevoix; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cunningham, Fenton; Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Finney (Joan Hess), Hastings; Mrs. Jack Fredrick (Virginia Taylor), Silver Springs, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamlin, Wallon Lake; and Mrs. James Klooster (Dona McFarland), Charlevoix.

Others were: Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lann (Joan Lewis), Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. James Pettis (Viola An-

From the Pulpit: Teachings Shed Light on Parables

Jesus' parables can sometimes be misleading when considered apart from his other teachings, the Rev. Alexander Wood told his congregation at Christ Episcopal Church Sunday in a sermon entitled "The Spiritual Condition of the Heart."

As an example, he cited the parable of the sower -- the farmer who dropped seed along the hard-packed road, on rocks, among thorns and finally on good soil. The seed dropped along the wayside was carried off by birds; thandropped on rocky soil withered and died; seeds sown among thorns were soon choked; but that cast upon good soil grew and yielded 100 fold.

Taken by itself, Rev. Wood said, this parable constitutes a "gospel of despair," with the only logical interpretation being that only the elect shall bear good fruit.

"BUT WHEN WE take Jesus' background into account, we find the overriding lesson he taught is 'Ye must be born again.' On a spiritual level, the wayside, the rock and the thorn field all can become good ground," he said.

The pastor said many people may find their spiritual hearts to be made of the same unyielding stuff as the three unproductive types of soil -- hard, shallow or divided.

Those with hard hearts are the cynics who wonder whether

Lake Carriers Setting Records

Great Lakes bulk vessels had a busy June, setting a new high in grain shipments for the month and an 18-year record for the coal movement, the Lake Carriers' Association reported today.

Grain shipments amounted to 2,744,188 net tons compared to the previous high of 2,621,493 tons moved in 1964. Coal cargoes totaled 7,105,732 tons, highest for the month since 1948, when 7,626,456 tons were carried. Iron ore shipments of 9,937,578 gross tons set a six-year mark.

Shipments of iron ore, coal and grain this year to July 1 added up to a grand total of 56,521,885 tons, highest for the period since 1957. This year's grain movement to July 1 was a record 8,275,344 tons, while the coal movement of 19,261,712 tons had been exceeded only in 1944 when 20,215,739 tons were carried.

The healthy condition of the lakes trade this year reflects the current high rate of industrial production and the continued strong overseas demand for grain.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Charles Hamlin had as her guests recently her daughter, Mrs. Al McCort and son, Tom, and respective families. Mrs. McCort with her two sons and baby daughter will spend the remainder of the summer camping in the Charlevoix area. Mr. McCort has returned to Lansing, where he works for Fisher Body.

Tom McCort, a major in the Marine Corps, has returned from Vietnam and has been re-assigned to the Navy Reserve Officers' Training Unit at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. In Vietnam, he served as combat operations officer for the 1st Marine Regiment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kibbee and two sons have returned their home in Puerto Rico, Venezuela, following a tour with his parents, Mr. and Ted Kibbee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Plischner of Madison Heights are the parents of a daughter, Jacqueline Michelle, born July 17. Mr. Plischner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Plischner of this city.

Mrs. Dell Dutcher had as her recent guests her son, John Dutcher and her sister, Miss Clara Welderman of Detroit.

COMMON COUNCIL

July 11, 1966
The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Fichtman presiding. Aldermen present: Aldermen Boss, Gill, Mol, Neff, Terrill and Whitley.

The minutes of the June 27, 1966 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded on the Council Minutes book.

RESOLUTION

Alderman Gill offered the following resolution, seconded by Alderman Terrill.

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix had by deed dated May 25, 1966 conveyed to Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation a certain parcel of real estate in the Charlevoix Municipal Airport, and

WHEREAS, the said Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation has offered to reconvey to the City of Charlevoix a portion of the parcel conveyed by the deed of May 25, 1966, and the said Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation having submitted an agreement to the City of Charlevoix pertaining to said proposed reconveyance, and further relieving the said Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation from the removal of certain aircraft hangars situated on the parcel conveyed in the deed of May 25, 1966, and

WHEREAS, it is deemed advantageous to the City of Charlevoix to accept the described reconveyance and the described agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the common council of the City of Charlevoix accept the reconveyance of the parcel of real estate from Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation, a Michigan Corporation, by Quit claim Deed dated July 11, 1966, and further accept the terms and conditions of said reconveyance as more fully set forth and described in the said deed, and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the common council of the City of Charlevoix hereby authorize its mayor and its clerk to execute an agreement in writing relieving the said Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation from its obligation and responsibility of the removal of the certain aircraft hangars on the Charlevoix Municipal Airport.

Adopted by the following Yeas and Nays vote: YEAS: Aldermen Gill, Neff, Whitley, Boss, Terrill and Mol. NAYS: None, ABSENT: None.

RESOLUTION

Alderman Terrill offered the following resolution, seconded by Alderman Neff.

WHEREAS, the Michigan Department of State Highways has prepared plans for the improvement and relocation of Highway M-66 which requires for its completion and ultimate successful operation the acquiring of a certain right of way across and through the Municipal cemetery of the City of Charlevoix and;

WHEREAS, such improvement and relocation of the said Highway M-66 is deemed advantageous to the citizens of the City of Charlevoix; and as the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix had, on or about October 16th 1963, corresponded with the Michigan Department of State Highways advising that they were agreeable to an exchange of real estate with the Highway Department so as to facilitate the acquiring of the required right of way.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix agree to convey in fee simple title to the Michigan Department of State Highways, certain land of approximately 2.5 Acres of the municipally owned cemetery located in Charlevoix County, section 35, T34N, R8W, for right of way purposes, for a total sum of $9750. (Ninety Seven Hundred and Fifty Dollars) and;

It is further hereby agreed that the City of Charlevoix will accept in fee simple title, from the Michigan State Highway Commission in exchange for this conveyance, a comparable amount of land immediately adjacent to the present Municipal Cemetery and suitable for cemetery purposes and use and;

The City of Charlevoix shall be entitled to keep any sums of moneys remaining out of the $9,750. sum, after payment of such acquisition costs. It is further stipulated here-in that the City of Charlevoix hereby authorizes the Michigan Department of State Highways to acquire and or condemn the subject exchange lands pursuant to M.S.A. 8.194, C.L. 48, 213.193, C.L. 229, 3906; as are necessary to effectuate this agreement.

Adopted by the following Yeas and Nays vote: YEAS: Aldermen Gill, Neff, Whitley, Boss, Terrill and Mol. NAYS: None, ABSENT: None.
Moved by Alderman Neff and supported by Alderman Terrill that the $500.00 owed to the City of Charlevoix by the Mr. McSaubia Ski Corporation be forgiven. Motion adopted by the following Yeas and Nays vote: YEAS: Aldermen Boss, Gill, Mol, Neff, Terrill and Whitley. NAYS: None, ABSENT: None.
The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $86,835.04 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Mol that the bills be allowed and orders be drawn for their amounts. Motion adopted by the following Yeas and Nays vote: YEAS: Aldermen Boss, Gill, Mol, Neff, Terrill and Whitley. NAYS: None, ABSENT: None. On Motion the Council adjourned.

A Boon Or An Evil?

Perhaps the most misquoted passage from the Bible is, "For the love of money is the root of all evil", 1 Timothy 6: 10; often misquoted, "money is the root of all evil."

Money is a medium of exchange, serving a very necessary function. By honest and industrious endeavor it is laudable to acquire money and the wealth it represents. It is when one makes the acquisition of money and the pleasures it buys the sole aim in life that he becomes its slave and therein lies the evil—the love of money.

When wealth is accumulated and used to alleviate poverty, fight disease and suffering, to educate and bring people into the right relationship with God it is a boon to mankind—not a root of evil. Your church, your neighbor's church and all churches use money to accomplish good. We can't all be accumulators of great wealth but we can use a part of what we do acquire to help the Church accomplish its ministry. We can help in its work by our regular attendance.

Camp Charlevoix Corrall Chatter

The fourth week of camp started off as being very hot, humid, ideal for camping. Rusty Smith and Chuck Sullivan took their cabin groups down to Young's State Park. These boys were Bob Phillips, Tod Soderstrom, Mike Zinn, Corky Keck, Andy Schmidt, Don Lewellen, Tommy Smith, Ken Paris, Jamie Stut, Martin Tinkovitch, Bob Garfield, Jim Case, Luke Bourne, and Ray Diskon. In the evening, the sky got dark, clouds began to roll, it thundered, and we had a very hard rain, the first in weeks, and it seemed good. Everyone was most delighted. The storm lasted about an hour and the rest of the night was clear and beautiful. It had not rained long enough to do too much good.

On Tuesday, two of our long trips left camp, the three day horse trip and the three day sailing trip. Boys were busy packing and excitement was in the air. Boys like overnight trips, and they are an education for a boy, learning how to rough it and handle himself in different situations. The cowboys had chosen their best riders, and the following boys were the lucky riders: Rick Gillett, Steve Gunning, Mike Zinn, Tom Hunter, Dick Andrews, Russ Volz, John Thal, Camp Lesespe, Scott Reid, Chris Cook, Tod Soderstrom, Tighe Magnuson, John Jettiffe, Sammy Sisk, Billy McKay, Tommy Smith, Craig Caulkin, and Corky Keck.

The sailors were all ready to shove off but the lake was very rough, and it was not wise to set sail in that kind of a sea, so they were trucked down to Young's State Park, and camped overnight, being picked up the next morning, and getting the boats to set sail in a perfect sea, and with a very mild wind. Lucky sailors being chosen for the sailing trip were David Harrison, Bill Stout, David Fox, Mike

This being the fourth week of our season, we try to get as many as possible out on the three day trips. In the afternoon, the canoe trip left and the boys were pleased that it was a perfect day, sunny bright, and the temperature about 75. Great canoeing weather. These boys were Mike Ellidge, Bob Grant, Ricky Liawellin, Bill Ricker, Luis Hernandez, Greg Cross, Jaff Cross, Bob Phillips, Dave Washburn, Chuck Gardella, Dave Maskeny, Andy Case, Carl Webb, Tim Washburn, Tom McAndrews, and Bob Kaiser. It was a quiet Wednesday evening, with so many boys out on trips.

On Thursday all of the three day trips returned to camp and the boys had some exciting tales to tell of their experiences. In the evening we had the "Capture the Counselor" event, which boys love. A caricature of each counselor is made and he is given a money value if captured, such as $200 up to $400. The staff take off to the woods and the entire camp hunts them down. It is a great event and the boys enjoy it. At the end of the evening, each side, the Greens and the Greys had each won in two sections. Everyone went to bed tired that night.

On Friday, regular activities were held in the morning and in the afternoon we had the Mile Swim. The lake was a little on the rough side and not as many boys entered as usual on a calm afternoon. The boys finishing, in the order in which they finished, were: Jack Depe, Eddie Kohl, Phil Salvador, Carl Webb, Walter Tutterill, Mark Ephator, Bill Stout, Mark Chapputs, John Thal, David Washburn, and Jimmy Chalot. Several parents arrived eager to see the camp and ready to take their sons home on Saturday. Friday evening, the cabins that had won cabin inspection the most times were taken in to town to the movies. These lucky cabins were: Juniors, Cabin 1; Preps, Cabins 9 and 11; Intermediates, Cabins 9 and the lucky Senior Cabin was Number 20. Everyone was a little on the sad side as friendships were being interrupted and boys were having mixed emotions, pleased to be going home, but tears in their eyes.

It has been brought to my attention that I neglected to mention in this column that we were hosts at a dance with a girls' camp, "Camp Chick-A-M!" a week ago Friday night, and it was a huge success. The boys were on their best behavior and it was a great group of girls that were our guests. Needless to say that the mail to both camps has increased, as letters are passing between many of our boys and their new "girl-friends". Saturday dawned sunny and hot and everyone was in a state of excitement as parents started to arrive about 8:30 a.m. to pick up their boys. In the afternoon, the boys who were arriving for the second period came, and were quickly placed in their respective cabins. The whole day went very smoothly, and even though we had over two hundred sets of parents visit us that day, there never was a crowd, and the change-over moved very well. The C.I.T.'s met the cars as they drove in and directed the visitors to the cabins, and the staff was on its toes to help in any way they could. Many of the parents mentioned how beautiful the camp looked, and everyone was most generous with their compliments. We have twenty-two boys already on the list for next year, and these boys were most anxious to get on the Mackinac Island trip that is given to the first fifty enrolled each year. It was a great day, one that both Ruby and Ken enjoy so very much as it means renewing old friendships and starting new ones. One dad who was here thirty years ago brought his son, another who had been here 19 years ago brought his son, and it is great to see these men who were campers here so long ago. In the evening we had a movie, Booth Tarkington's "Penrod and Sam", and the boys enjoyed it very much.

Sunday morning, we had our chapel service outdoors and Ron Hall, University of Louisville, and head of waterfront was our speaker. He chose as his subject "Our Conscience", and it was truly fine talk. Dale Champagne gave the prayer and Carl Webb read the scripture. After chapel, swim tests and physicals were given to some of the new campers. After Sunday dinner, the boys were dismissed to go over to the "Bigman" to hear our new musical group, as yet nameless. It is composed of Mike Earl on the electric organ, Larry Wescott on the drums, Dave Oberhelman and Dave Pliskin on the guitars, Kris Elzinga, singer, and Ken Oakley, manager. They are really very good. Loud, but good.

In the evening, the Juniors had their Vespers down in their own Paul Bunyan ring. The rest of the camp had their Vespers in the Bigman. It has been another hot day, and we still need rain, rain, it is still forbidden to have fires, and everything is very dry.

Transport Survey To Pinpoint Trouble

A survey to determine what's wrong—if anything—with northern Michigan's materials transportation has been ordered by the Northern Michigan Development Council, according to Art Rouse, area director.

To cover the 33 counties of the northern Lower Peninsula and all of the Upper Peninsula, the survey will be carried out by W. B. Saunders and Co. and financed by the Economic Development Administration, a branch of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

IN SO FAR as the movement of goods is concerned, the survey will:

1. Examine the existing transportation system and determine the adequacy of each mode of transportation as it serves each area and as it performs in the transportation of each of the major types of commodities moving to and from northern Michigan.

2. Take a look at the competition. What areas produce the same products as northern Michigan? How do their transportation costs and services compare with those of upper Michigan, and how do they stack up in terms of accessibility in each of the major market areas served by Michigan's products.

3. PINPOINT specific inadequacies in northern Michigan's transportation system and overall accessibility.

4. Plan an action program to reduce or eliminate these inadequacies.

The Michigan Development Council was organized to combat the threatened discontinuance of railroad and ferry service in northern Michigan.

Combat Training Ends for Moore

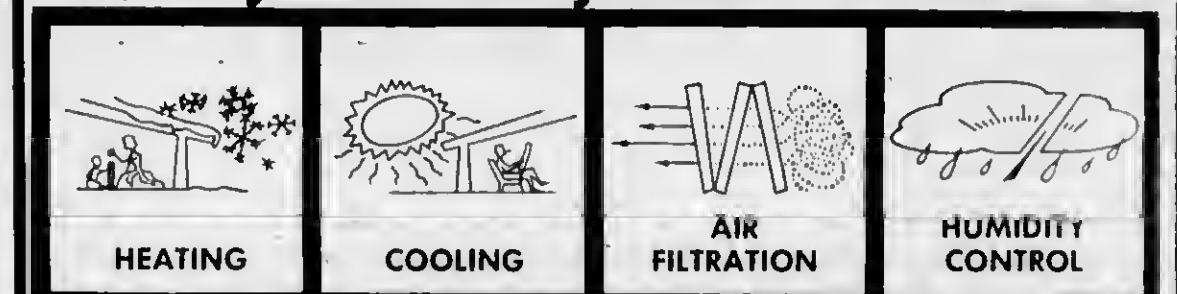

Marine Private Gary G. Moore, son of Mrs. John H. Moore of 215 W. Upright, Charlevoix, has completed individual combat training at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling and the use of infantry weapons.

HIS NEXT STOP is four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught infantry specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar. Marines to be assigned to highly technical specialties will be sent to military technical schools for their specialist training.

Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling, and civic action based on experience gained in Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Khronis and daughter, Maemmy and son, Nicholas of Naperville, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. David Bylsma and sons, David and Danny, of Grand Rapids, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Maras. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Abraczinskas and daughters, Laura and Diane Renee, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oleksy. Fred Wabankmke and Bill Williams spent several days in Detroit recently. While there they attended a double-header Tiger game.

David Fowler and son, Tom, were in Detroit recently for a Tiger baseball game. While there they visited relatives. On their return they were accompanied by Susan Foster who had been visiting in Cleveland with Melinda Anderson at the home of her parents, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson.

Keep Young Maples Wet, Club Urges

The Kiwanis Club has issued an S. O. S. to Charlevoixans living near any of the young maple saplings planted this spring by the club.

Because of the long dry spell, the saplings need water badly. Many already are losing their leaves.

Homeowners are urged to keep the young trees watered in order to help them through the summer, according to Fred Willis, who was in charge of the replanting project.

The Kiwanis Club taps mature maples for sap every spring.

Local Artists Plan To Submit Works

Mr. and Mrs. William Staff of Charlevoix and Maumee,

Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brum of Norwood will exhibit their works at the Third Annual Traverse City Arts and Crafts Fair, Saturday, July 23, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. at O-At-Ka Beach Building on U. S. 31 north of Traverse City.

Mrs. Bonnie Staff will demonstrate weaving and will exhibit her stoneware pottery, sculptures and woven wall hangings. Staff will exhibit his silk-screen prints, drawings and note papers.

MRS. JUDY Wademeier Brum will exhibit metal sculpture and drawings. Brum will exhibit his watercolor paintings and drawings.

Anyone interested in exhibiting his work can contact Ed Gray, 1224 Peninsula Drive, Traverse City. More than 100 artists and craftsmen have entered.

More Funds For Area

NORCAP (Northern Michigan Community Action Program), Mt. Pleasant, will be able to continue its operation for another six months as a result of a grant totaling $71,952, by the Office of Economic Opportunity under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

NORCAP is an agency which assists in developing and administering various programs under the federal Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. NORCAP represents 33 counties in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Charles R. Owens, executive director of NORCAP, said, "THE PAST SIX months have been busy ones," said Owens, referring to the past programs initiated by NORCAP. The two main programs, according to Owens, were Medicare Alert, under which 1,296 volunteers worked to inform senior citizens of the Social Security Medicare program, and the Neighborhood Youth Corps project, which will benefit 700 youths from low income families in 28 of the 33 counties served by NORCAP. Other programs that have just been started make available to all the areas' citizens increased legal protection, employment services and better housing, Owens said.

The Rev. Carl Hathaway, Baldwin, is president of NORCAP, Inc.

NORCAP received its first grant Nov. 1, 1965 after the non-profit organization was designed by the Central Michigan University Public Services Division to benefit 35,000 low income families. Its offices are located in Mt. Pleasant at 1406 W. High. Counties being served by NORCAP are Alcona, Alpena, Antrim, Arenac, Benzie, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Clare, Crawford, Emmet, Gladwin, Grand Traverse, Gratiot, Ionia, Iosco and Isabella, Kalamazoo, Lake, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Mecosta, Missaukee, Montcalm, Montmorency, Newaygo, Ogemaw, Oshtemo, Oscoda, Otsego, Presque Isle, Roscommon and Wexford.

Guild Plans Show

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital will sponsor a fashion show-luncheon on Aug. 2 at 12:30 p.m. at the Weatherana Inn. Tickets cost $6.

The Polly-Kay Shop will present the fashion show and door prizes will be given away. Proceeds will go toward an air conditioning unit in the hospital emergency room.

GUILD scholarship recipients will be at the Aug. 8 meeting to receive checks for the coming year.

They are Carol Klooster who will receive her third year check; Ardith Bohluis, and Jean Brown, second; and Marcia Boss and Susan Robman, first.

FASTBALL LEAGUE

Youthful Oleson's Food Stores pulled their annual upset of the season as they pulled the rug out from under league leader, American Mold, 4-3. Oleson's put together a single by Dennis Warner and a three bagger by John Withers for two first inning runs. Mold countered with two unearned markers in the fourth. The winners put together singles by Jim Stewart and Tom Sprawl to get two more in the fifth, then hung on as Ken Balch's double led to Mold's final run in the seventh.

Lake Construction pulled into a tie with Mold by whipping that same Oleson team 11-2, scoring six times in the bottom of the sixth. Larry McBride hurled a neat three hitter, and his long home run combined with Steve Facula's three hits led the winners hitting.

American Mold looked very impressive pounding County State Bank 10-0 behind the five inning no - hitter tossed by pitcher Nate Boss. Boss allowed only two base runners and Harv Cole and Dave Smith slipped in with a homer and single and three one-baggers respectively.

Lake Construction scored ten runs in the third to crush the Servicemen 19-5. Bill Marne banged out three hits as did Larry McBride, while Rick Grunch banged out a LC home run. Bob Gantzel smacked two hits for the losers. East Jordan scored in nearly every inning to post a 11-3 win over the servicemen. Jon Sulak had a long home run for the boys of Wilson-Mayhew.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Jerry's Gulf padded their league lead with a narrow 3-2 win over Electra. Electrified the game in the seventh with two on Jim Gengle's triple and G. McClellan's single, but three straight walks and an error gave the winners the game in the bottom of the same frame.

Novak's pounded eight runs across in the fifth to hang a 10-4 defeat on Freedmans. Kraag Lieberman had two doubles and a single for the winners while Phil Skeel had two along with Aaron Brock for Freedmans.

Novak's repeated with a narrow 5-4 win over A & W. Stewart Coleman's single produced the winning run. Lee Cross and Brad Carey had two hits for the losers.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The Cards swept through the first round of the Peanut League undefeated to win the title. They beat the Lions 4-1 in a well played contest. Both teams collected only two hits but a couple key errors by the Lions led to their downfall. The Astros clinched title for second place with a 5-3 victory over the Tigers. Dennis Crain's three hits led the winners while Tiger Bill Carey picked up two in a losing cause.

The Lions picked up a much-needed win at the expense of the Cubs beating them 6-3. They collected only three hits but walks and errors led to the Cubs downfall.

The Pirates ended the first round on a high note, tying for second place by virtue of their 12-3 win over the witless Dodgers. Steve Korn had a homer and single while Ron and Don Barber each chipped in with two singles. Jeff Lackman homered for the losers.

Edwards continued to lead the league with an easy 18-3 win over the Military Wives from Meggison - Erber Oil. Candy Wood, Marilyn Novak, and Pat Scheck all banged out two hits for Edwards. Ann Willis had a triple in a losing cause.

AP's Texaco had little trouble with the Dairy Queens, beating them 13-0. Actually Connie Smith pitched a fine two hitter for the Dairy Queens, but her teammates gave her little help in the field, and she walked eight to keep herself in constant trouble.

Paul-Reed won a 6-2 game against Texaco to keep their title hopes alive. Three first inning runs helped the winner's cause. Bev. Sladek had two hits for the winners. Nancy Smith did likewise for the losers.

The Dairy Queens banged out a 21-11 win over the Military wives in a wild affair. Mary Plum had four straight hits to lead the Queens. The wives' second baseman, Mrs. Pat Early, broke her hand in the fourth inning on a tag play.

They were accompanied by the three Hamilton children and Jenny Hultker of Boyne City. They were joined at Vicksburg by Mrs. Fiedler's granddaughter, Paulette Fiedler, of Clifton, Ill., formerly of Horton Bay. Mr. Fiedler and Mr. Hamilton also spent several days at the assembly.

BLOOPER LEAGUE

Freedmans pulled a big upset in the final night of the first round to upset Novak's Insurance and send the Bloop-er league into tie. They hung on for a 15-14 win with Novak's having the tying run on base in the final inning. John Swanson's two triples and home runs by Stan Whitley and Joe Powell paced the winners.

Hamiltons won a well played 5-2 contest over American Mold seniors. Bud Flower's home run sparked a four run second inning for the winners.

The Medicine Chest hung on to defeat Boyne City 7-6 to end the first round deadlocked with Novak's. The tie will be broken when the two teams

Future in White Cement In Store for Manitowoc

Medusa Portland Cement Co. has announced plans to construct the nation's largest white cement plant at Manitowoc, Wis., at a cost of about $10 million.

The announcement further allayed fears that the company could abandon the Manitowoc Plant once the new plant in Charlevoix is in production.

Ellery Sedgwick Jr., chairman, and Robert W. Fort, president, said that on completion of the program the plant will have a capacity of one million barrels a year.

THEY SAID the first phase, representing about half of the plant's ultimate capacity, will require substantial modification of the company's gray cement plant at Manitowoc. This will begin next year and will be completed by mid-1968.

In the adaptation of existing facilities for the special requirements of white portland cement manufacture, special attention will be given to dust control.

The second phase of the program, which will follow, will require additional equipment and will bring the plant's annual capacity to one million barrels.

"We are most pleased," Sedgwick said "to continue a major manufacturing operation in Manitowoc. Our relations with the community have been highly satisfactory over the years."

FORT POINTED out that the company was the first to produce a pure white cement that met all the specifications of portland cement. Medusa began manufacturing the product in York, Pa., in 1907 in a plant that was completely rebuilt and doubled in capacity in 1963.

Demand for white portland cement has increased in recent years, primarily for architectural applications, Fort said. Medusa markets its white cement throughout most of the United States.

Several months ago the company announced plans for construction of a major bulk distribution facility for gray cement at Manitowoc, Gray

Camping Families Hear Evangelist

The Twelfth annual Charlevoix Family Vacation Camp was held last week at the Church of God campground on Loeb and Veenstra Rd., with Evangelist James B. Diggins, as speaker, each evening.

Rev. Mary Raab, was Conference Leader each morning. Rev. Donald Crabtree, music director was in charge of special music each evening.

The Crystalaires Quartet were special guests on Sunday evening with about 300 attending the service. Mrs. Sybil Wood, of Jackson, was the pianist.

Throughout the day, campers enjoyed all the pleasures of interest in the area. During the day there was a children's singing and story hour, led by Miss Dorothy Mays of Big Rapids.

On Thursday morning, the campers enjoyed a breakfast cookout at Kennedy Roadside Park, on the Petoskey Road, with approximately 50 attending.

Rev. George Majors was the Chairman of the program committee.

Approximately 30 families attended from Michigan and Ohio.

Mrs. Thomas Maxwell was assisted in the kitchen by Mrs. Marley (Joyce) Bowen of Big Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fetski and daughter have returned to Milwaukee, Wis., following a weekend visit with friends here. They are former residents.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Scharschmidt and two daughters are visiting at the home of her parents, Capt. and Mrs. H. E. Paddock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bard Miles and children of Holt spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Miles and his brother - in - law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pontious and family have returned to Chester, N. J., following a week's visit with his mother, Mrs. Ingma Pontious.

Are you paying more than 11½¢ a gallon for your residential heating oil?

If you are, you're paying too much to heat your home.

If you are now using natural Gas (or plan to) for cooking, water heating, clothes drying or Gaslights, and your use is equal to that of our average residential customer, you can get your Gas for heating under our special service rate at a cost equivalent to fuel oil priced at just 11½¢ a gallon. And the nice thing about our Gas rates is that the more you use, the less it costs per unit. That's a bargain in anybody's book.

Can't pay for the cost of conversion right now? Here's good news: Whether you convert your present furnace, or even install a new Gas furnace, Michigan Consolidated will pay for it and its installation by a qualified heating contractor. And it won't cost you a penny until July 1, 1966!

So why not make your present oil furnace more economical this winter? Have it converted to economical natural Gas. Then you can start putting your money in the bank for a change. Instead of in your furnace. For full details, call us or your heating contractor today.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kirkpatrick of Detroit, former cherry growers on the old M-66 road in Eveline township, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beene last week.

We extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. William Cooper, on their new nine pound son that arrived at the Charlevoix Hospital Friday.

Carolyn Vanderwall from Ann Arbor is spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kroll and family have returned home after enjoying a week's camping trip in the Upper Peninsula. Mrs. Melva Stack and sister both of Detroit were callers last week at the home of Ed and Lorena Beene.

Mrs. Pauline Canfield and sister, Mrs. Ada Alderson, were guests of friends in Traverse City last Friday and Saturday and attended the Cherry Festival.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Hannah Ward, who passed away at her home in Charlevoix Friday. Mrs. Ward lived many years in our community and her children all attended our local school. She also was an active member of our local church.

The ladies of the church are having a bake sale in the dining room, right after the morning service next Sunday.

Mrs. D. Sudman and family from Lincoln Park, Mich., have been guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saunders.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Rhoades and family from Cleveland, Ohio, have been guests the past week, at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neilson.

Albert Carlson from Battle Creek is spending several weeks at his farm.

Mrs. Sarah Staley (Sarah Hoar) who was a school teacher in 1918 and 1919 at the Nowland School which was on the Wickersham Road) and daughter and family from Detroit were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Beene last Thursday. While here she and Mrs. Beene visited the location of the school and called on Mrs. Clyde Cunningham.

David Harrison is a guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price.

Mrs. Grace Cuthbert and granddaughter, Mary Grace, from Ann Arbor, Mrs. Ada Alderson, Mrs. Pauline Canfield, Mrs. Ross Alexander and granddaughter, Diane, spent last week Thursday at Shanty Creek Lodge and also Brownwood.

Don't forget the annual Church Rummage Sale in the Snyder Building Aug. 9 and 10.

Mrs. Ethel Kroll is general chairman.

Again, I never saw so many people and cars in Charlevoix this weekend, and how delighted and pleased we all were with the grand finale of 34 lighted and decorated boats in the Venetian Parade. It surely was like what we knew it could be once more. All those who took part are to be commended for their work and effort. We thank you.

Area Men Study 'Shared-Time'

Two Charlevoix residents, Charles A. Robinson and Zen H. Stein attended a statewide workshop on shared-time vocational education programs, July 19-20, at Michigan State University.

"Shared-time", or dual enrollment, describes a situation where students enrolled at one school take some of their courses at another school, such as an area-wide vocational education school.

THE WORKSHOP included lectures and group discussions on experiences with shared-time vocational education in metropolitan, urban and rural areas. Legal considerations for conducting these programs and curricular and community factors were discussed.

Robinson is superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

Stein is the director-coordinator of vocational education in the Charlevoix-Emmet-Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate School District.

Rose Launches 'Cottage Patrol'

Former Charlevoix County Sheriff Glen Rose is launching a new business—a cottage patrol service for property owners ahead during the winter months.

Called Northern Cottage Patrol, the service will offer regular inspections and security patrols of cottages and other property from the time owners leave in the fall until they return in the spring, Rose said.

HE SAID the idea for the service resulted from many requests for such service by cottage owners.

He cited several cases of breaking and entering and vandalism, especially to homes in isolated areas where it is impossible for the Sheriff's Department to make regular patrols.

For further information, Rose may be reached at 547-9382 in Charlevoix.

A Champion of Law and Order

The city was shocked last Wednesday morning to learn of the untimely death of city patrolman Earl Crandall.

Mr. Crandall died during the night of a heart attack suffered after scuffling with a young motorcycle driver who had smashed through a barricade at the football field and resisted arrest.

A patrolman for 15 years, Mr. Crandall had a well-deserved reputation for being a stickler for law and order, earning the respect of young and old alike.

As Charlevoix Police Chief Joe Smith attests, Mr. Crandall will be a hard man to replace.

ALTHOUGH Mr. Crandall had a his-

Millage Vote Deserves Support

East Jordan voters will go to the polls Aug. 2 to vote on a request by the Board of Education for a nine-mill tax levy.

Actually, the figure nine is misleading. Six mills would merely be a continuation of a 1965 levy which expired after the collection of winter taxes.

Superintendent Max Damoth says the additional three mills will be used to hire more teachers in the elementary school to handle a rising enrollment and if possible to decrease present class size.

THE MONEY also will help pay the salaries of a foreign language teacher and a commerce teacher in the high school.

Damoth also has hopes of putting the system's remedial reading teacher on a full-time basis and relieving the elementary principal of classroom duties.

Venetian Festival Rates Applause

Another star-spangled Venetian weekend is history and Charlevoixans who helped plan and execute the big two-day festival can take pride in a job well done.

If anything, the street parade was better than last year's, which reportedly had hit a new peak.

THE BOAT PARADE was a thousand times better, with several times as many craft taking part. The emphasis on lights was amply evident from East Park. At times Round Lake seemed to be fairly filled with boats and glittering pyramids of lights.

The effect was merely accentuated when the fireworks started in mid-parade.

The antics of Petoskey's famous "Firehouse Five" on Bridge Street Saturday afternoon were worth driving miles to see, and their Dixieland jazz helped put tory of heart trouble and might have suffered a fatal seizure on a routine patrol or at home with his family, the incident only serves to underscore the fact that lawlessness in Charlevoix has been getting out of hand during the past few weeks.

The relative quiet over the big Venetian Festival weekend can be laid directly to more vigilant law enforcement by local and state police and sheriff's deputies in the wake of Mr. Crandall's death.

We can only hope that his same brand of vigilance--the kind Mr. Crandall accepted as a matter of course--will now become the stock-in-trade of all our law enforcement officers.

If there's any money left over, it will go toward higher salaries for present teachers.

Mr. Damoth and the East Jordan Board of Education are not the only school administrators in the state or the nation who are caught in a bind for more millage to keep their systems abreast with the times.

And education, like bread and bacon, costs more every year.

WHEN THE REQUEST for nine mills first came up for a vote June 13 it was defeated by 58 votes.

Since then Mr. Damoth has made it amply clear how he intends to spend the money. We believe the improvements he has planned are in keeping with sound educational practice.

We earnestly recommend a "yes" vote on millage in the Aug. 2 election.

the town in a holiday mood.

The doll and pet parade drew a good sized crowd as usual under the capable direction of Mrs. Eugene Dziedzic.

The weak spot, if there was one, was the presentation of the queen and her court and the introduction of the honored personality. An hour had been allotted for both events, which took more than 10 minutes at most. Furthermore, Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Willard who was to have crowned Elaine Warner, was detained in Washington, leaving even more "air" in the queen presentation ceremony.

But these are problems another Venetian Festival committee can attempt to remedy. Chamber of Commerce Manager Archie Dayton, general chairman Bob Hamilton and their able co-workers are to be congratulated for a job well done in 1966.

Odds & Ends

IT WAS HOT last weekend, as you know if you were in Charlevoix, and all the beaches were crowded as everyone sought relief from the scorching temperatures. . . . It was shortly after noon Sunday when all the humans at the Lake Michigan beach looked up to see a big, coiled dog and an equally large white nanny goat coming over the hill and heading for the water's edge. . . .

Both were as friendly as kittens, enjoyed the water and played along the beach. . . . When some friends of mine brought out a picnic lunch, the pair joined the party, ate any and everything offered them and seemed to be having a ball. . . .

Late in the afternoon when my friends left, the two stood and looked after them as if to say "It's been nice knowing you. Thanks for a lovely afternoon". . . . No one came for them and when they were last seen they were making their way along the beach toward the hospital. . . . Note: one of the youngsters in the group decided he'd like some fresh milk and, before anyone noticed, had a paper cup under one of the goat's "faucets" and couldn't understand why some milk didn't come out. . . .

I heard about something the other day that I found hard to believe but the person who told me swears it's true. . . . Seems that some man, who once lived in Boyne City had thought for future generations all trees considered "natives" of this area and planted them along one of the banks of the Boyne River in what is now a park. . . . They have since grown to maturity and my friend, Mrs. Anna Warner, a teacher in the Boyne City school system, and her colleagues have found it a wonderful place to teach conservation. . . . For right there, only a short distance from the classroom, are all these trees where children learn to identify native trees by their bark, leaves and other means. . . . What a wonderful thing to do. . . . He must have known that many generations of youngsters would come to learn at a place he must have loved. . . .

BEFORE ANOTHER week rolls around, you'll be visiting the polls. . . . I know it doesn't seem possible but it's true. . . . Tuesday, Aug. 2 is the date of the primary election. . . . I hope that you are giving some thought to the candidates on the ballot and will make every effort to visit the polls and cast your ballot. . . . It was just 190 years ago this month that a group of brave men drew up the Declaration of Independence and signed it. . . . and later defended, in the Revolutionary War, the things they believed in. . . . Among the things they and future generations fought and died for your right to vote. . . . That right has been purchased at great cost. . . . I hope you treasure it enough to put forth just a little effort and place your 'X' in the proper places. . . . And if you can't get to the polls or will be out of town, you can ask for an absent voter's ballot. . . . It's simple. . . . Just call your city or township clerk or drop him a card asking for an application. . . . It will be mailed to you and when you return it, a ballot will be returned to you so that you can vote at your convenience. . . . 2 p.m. Saturday, July 30, is the deadline for obtaining absent voter's ballots so do it while you think of it. . . . That right to vote is mighty precious. . . . Use it. . . .

CHARLEVOIX was saddened today, July 20, by the sudden death of one of its public servants, Earl Crandall, who died while policing an accident. . . . It came as a shock to everyone, naturally, because of the circumstances. . . . I guess we all think that things that happen to other mortals just can't happen to those people who are always with us. . . . In fair weather or foul. . . . In the middle of the day or the lonely hours of the night. . . . People who will be there in minutes if we should ever need them. . . . We pretty much take them for granted and, I daresay, few of us ever take the time to say "thanks for being there. . . . Just in case I'll ever have need of you". . . .

There are a lot of people today who wish they might have taken that minute to say just that. . . . And now it's too late. . . .

One of them was a youngster who'd been a little jam and Earl had had to take him in and have a little talk with him. . . . I think what he did Wonderful are thy works.

—(Psalms 139:14)

We truly become aware of our spiritual sonship to God, when we measure ourselves in wonderment before our Creator. We can sing out with the Psalmist who said, "I am fearfully and wonderfully made." What inventory of ourselves can we make to realize the wondrous work that God has done? Our heads are high, our vision spans the unexplored heavens, and our very souls kneel at awe before the greatness that has authored us.

Festival Highlights

THOUSANDS GATHERED in East Park Saturday and Sunday to take part in Venetian Festival activities. After the band concert (above) came the boat parade and fireworks.

IN THE GREASED pole climb, George Hauser of Long Beach, Calif., pulled a fast one. He removed his shirt and wiped off the grease for easier climbing. George paved the way for Dale Foster Jr. (right) of Charlevoix who climbed the pole and grabbed the prize money.

PEGGY HOSMER, of Charlevoix made a pretty smug cat in the Doll, Pet and Dress-up Parade.

AN INNOVATION in this year's festival was a waterball fight in East Park.

DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN, Mrs. Isabel Oliver, is led from podium by her son, Jay.

DEBBIE WOOD, Karen Paolone and Chip Wood pose with fox which won them 1st place in Pet Parade.

Chief Smith said it looked as though Mr. Wabanmike stepped off the drop-off into deep water and drowned.

Monday, Donna Kewashken, 35, of Chicago, who told police she had been picnicking with Mr. Wabanmike before he went swimming, was fined $16.50 and $5 costs in Charlevoix Justice Court for being drunk and disorderly on the beach Saturday afternoon. She was sentenced to 15 days in the County Jail by Justice John C. Connolly.

Rosary service for Mr. Wabanmike was held July 25 at Winchester Funeral Home, with funeral services July 26, the Rev. Francis E. Denay officiating. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Wabanmike was born on Beaver Island June 11, 1929, and moved to Charlevoix when he was 10 years old. He attended Charlevoix schools and served in the Army in the early 1950's. He had been a commercial fisherman but was presently unemployed.

Surviving are a son, Frederick, of Charlevoix; his father, Julius, of Charlevoix; his mother, Mrs. Mary Suebings of Pellston; a sister, Mrs. James McCann of South Haven and five brothers, Benjamin and Herbert of Racine, Wis., Leo of Lake Worth, Fla., Stephen of Grand Rapids and Walter of Mt. Pleasant.

from his job on the recommendation of local vocational education officials.

During training the apprentice will be given instruction and experience in the trade to develop the skills needed.

The ratio of craftsmen to apprentices will not exceed three to one for proper training.

THE FIRST class started March 7 with 44 men. About 40 now attend. Thorsen said that they are "real interested men".

The program is not government subsidized but is paid for by tuition of $50 a year. According to Thorsen, the four year course would probably cost about $250 total and that if a man attended a regular vocational school the cost would be about $900 a year.

Instructors are Uno Suomela, mechanical drawing instructor at Charlevoix High School, and Bob Cook, shop and math teacher at Charlevoix. The classes meet Mondays.

Correction

It was incorrectly stated in the July 13 Courier that the scholarship presented to Gayle Smith was sponsored by the Hospital Guild. Instead it was sponsored by D.D. Walker.

pickled the harder it will be to get the demands.

THEY BOTH said that they didn't want any hard feelings but that they had a living to make.

They also said they would continue to bring cherries to the receiving station, regardless of the pickets.

Milton Grover at the receiving station said that he "in one hell of a spot." He's right in the middle because he has a contract to deliver cherries. He said that Elk Rapids Canning Factory told him by phone that it was not willing to negotiate with Great Lakes at all—even at 4¢ per pound. He feels that if farmers would co-operate it would help more than picketing.

Grover retired last year as a cherry grower and farmer.

The final decision apparently has been left to the growers themselves, whether to sell at a lower price or to let the cherries rot on the trees. The growers said that they felt like the nation was watching and waiting to see the outcome.

is needed for development of the cemetery. The question was referred to the cemetery committee.

WILLIAM Swobda of Campbell Insurance Agency presented to the Council a group insurance plan. The new plan would include life insurance, disability compensation and hospitalization. No action was taken.

Mayor Robertson said that she would like to see the plan accepted because of the good benefits offered to the city employees. She also said that she hoped the Council would give it serious thought. If the plan is accepted then the Council and employees should meet and discuss the insurance.

The question of chloriding the roads to lay the dust was discussed and the Mayor said that the street department didn't do a whole street but only certain places, a "hit and miss" job.

COUNCILMAN Jerry Olson said that something is wrong with the department. The Mayor said that there are too many bosses but that will change when the superintendent of public utilities takes his position Aug. 1.

The John Bean Fire Apparatus Co., bid of $23,223.09 for a fire truck was accepted by the Council. The Mayor and Council Watson signed the contract. The new truck will be delivered about July 1, 1967.

Councilman Morrison said he thinks patrons of the Tourist Park should have to pay for their electricity by the day. Council agreed.

Ed Redman, county extension agent, looked over diseased elm trees in the city and suggested a city-wide program to trim or destroy diseased trees.

After Labor Day the Council decided to replant the elms with other trees.

Galster Visits Lake Charlevoix

The cement carrier Galster, owned by Penn-Dixie Cement Co., tied up at the CITIES Service Marine Terminal on Ferry Avenue Monday to have her boilers washed.

The Galster usually docks at Harbor Springs for the bi-seasonal operation, but the yacht basin was too crowded with pleasure craft, a spokesman for the company said.

THE WASHING must take place in a sheltered port, because the vessel is without power for several hours.

The ship, which is captained by Edwin McCann of Charlevoix, was scheduled to leave the city Tuesday afternoon.

The company said the Galster's visit to Charlevoix had nothing to do with the strike presently in progress at Penn-Dixie.

Banks Boosting Interest Rate on Time Certificates

Both of Charlevoix's banks --- The Charlevoix County State Bank and the Charlevoix State Savings Bank --- have announced a new five per cent interest rate on one-year time certificates of $1,000 or more, effective Aug. 1.

In addition the Savings Bank will pay four percent on time certificates renewable every six months. Present four per cent time certificates will be handled like new six-month certificates.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the improved interest rates was made by E. D. Hawley, president of the County Bank, and Archie Livingston, president of the Savings Bank.

The present interest rate paid on one-year time certificates is 4 per cent.

Let's Have a Picnic

PICNICKING is a favorite pastime in the many roadside parks around Charlevoix. Here a vacationing family stops at the G. Donald Kennedy park located five miles northeast of Charlevoix off U. S. 31. Picnickers can enjoy a panoramic view of Lake Michigan and Little Traverse Bay while they roast hot dogs in the open air. The shoreline is also a treasure trove of Petoskey stones.

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Council Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chieftains.

The mission church is the handwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, taking part in a protestant movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

Later Greensky became dissatisfied with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted

Use Marine Charts For More Boat Fun

Marine charts are guides to more boating fun, but surprisingly few boating families take advantage of them. Perhaps this can be explained by a fear that they're too technical and designed only for professional pilots.

This isn't true. Marine charts are no harder to understand than ordinary highway maps and usually a great deal easier to fold up.

They carry a variety of helpful and interesting information. Quite obviously charts show the depth of the water, expressed in either feet or fathoms. Check the chart legend to make sure which!

CHARTS outline the navigable channel. Although this is designed primarily for larger vessels, you can't go wrong if you stay within its bounds.

Lighthouses and check-points along the shore or located in the channel are also noted. These are handy reference points, and it's a nice feeling to look out and see the marker "just where it's supposed to be."

Harbors and shelters, along with the channel leading into them, are a handy guide to emergency facilities.

Special markings indicate unusual obstructions such as a dangerous rock formation or a sunken wreck. Survey chart No. 1 of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey lists all of these symbols and abbreviations. Most charts are available at a very nominal price, usually less than $1.00.

All charts are dated, and this is for good reason. Sand bar shifts and rivers cut new channels. Make sure you have the latest edition.

and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes, Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife.

At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent Church began. The building is 26 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs.

When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18, services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

Jay Oliver, a spokesman for the congregation, says the Church is presently trying to buy back some of the nearby land which has been bought by the white man. Much of the area is Indian burial ground, marked by rude crosses and tumbledown fences.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't over-estimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Have a Bacon "Ball" Month

Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.

Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Where to Send for Charts

Coastal and Intracoastal waterway charts, U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Washington Science Center, Rockville, Maryland.
Great Lakes and connecting waterways, U.S. Lake Survey, 630 Federal Building, Detroit, Michigan.
Mississippi River System, Office of Division Engineer, U.S. Corps of Engineers, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois.
TVA Lakes, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee.
Lakes and rivers under jurisdiction of U.S. Corps of Engineers, write Chief of Engineers, Department of the Army, Building 77, Gravelly Point, Virginia.

THE COST--The Administration's budget works out to just under $10 a week for every person in the U.S.

Boat Battery

Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Too many boatmen forget about the battery until the day when they turn the starter, key and nothing happens.

The seashore sand locust endures dune temperatures up to 135 degrees F. simply by jumping about. The grasshopper leaps into air that may be 50 degrees cooler a few feet above the hot sand's surface.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge.

The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry.

In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bells Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

Worldly Audience

Consumers PowerCo.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter-million visitors.

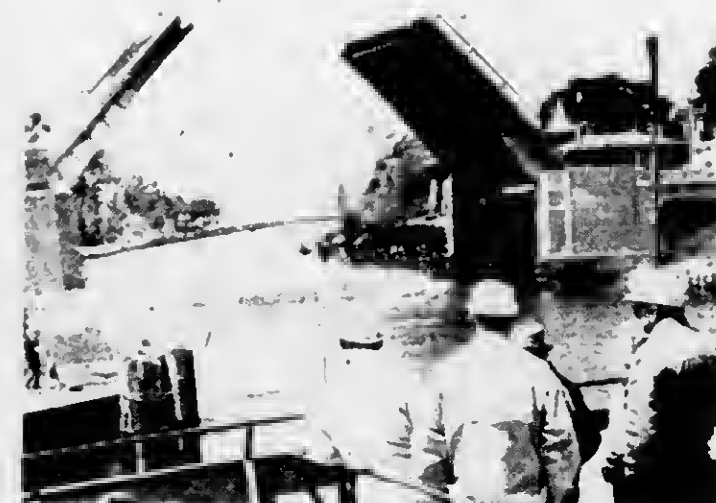

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the lushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Peru's rare Marvelous Hummingbird has only four tall feathers. Two are several times longer than the bird itself and tipped with feathered flags. The other two tall feathers are shaped like long thorns.

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office
worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor
and ask him to remove it.

Don't try to work the hook
out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with hooks: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point
with a small cork.

A Wyoming buffalo ranch
does a brisk trade in a strange
by-product--bleached buffalo skulls. Interior decorators snap them up.

Bell's Bay State Forest
Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing

shoreline, the camp ground
provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest
of spectacular sunsets.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered.
Fresh running water, toilets
and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the world is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of
of being near a community
equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore
Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park
on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on
Beaver Island at the county's
Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and
Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

BEAUTIFUL WHITING Park on the shores of Lake Charlevoix near Advance, attracts thousands of visitors every summer. The park is just across the peninsula from East Jordan. Park is maintained by Charlevoix County.

Learn to Swim For Summer Safety, Fun

As the outdoor swimming season approaches once again, the safety experts predict with certainty that more than 6,000 Americans will drown in the coming months.

THEY will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing swim and others will fall out of boats or off docks and piers.

Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen. The magazine, "Today's Health," offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family--

LEARN TO swim and to relax in the water. Never swim alone. Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

Do not overestimate your ability and endurance.

Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim along distance to shore.

NEVER DIVE into waters of unknown depth. Try new activities, such as water skiing or scuba diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

MANY families will do most of their swimming this season in private pools, in their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor. There also are some special safety precautions for private pools--

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified.

WALK, DON'T run, about the pool. Horseplay should be forbidden. Fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children.

Keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring buoys.

Keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

East Jordan's History Dates to Logging Days

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley.

The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longhairs. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test.

Slide brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only.

KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves through college by waiting table at Charlevoix restaurants.

Many fine restaurants are located right in the heart of town. However, a few minutes' drive in almost any direction will bring you to many other fine dining establishments.

Castle Van Haver

Legendary medieval atmosphere, an enormous complex of gardens, courtyards, fountains, Norman arches, Gothic arches, towers, battlements, porticulis, heraldic arms, and a great hall 250 feet long.

A recreational and educational experience for the whole family, with visions of King Arthur, Sir Lancelot and the Knights of the Round Table. The great medieval complexes, with living quarters, defense towers, shops, crafts, etc. Here is a glimpse back into times immemorial, to the crusades, to the great heritage of the western world.

Castle Van Haver is perhaps the closest approach to medieval European atmosphere in America. It is the restoration of the renowned Loeb Estate.

COME AS YOU ARE--EVERYONE WELCOME

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams to the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with

Library Is Open to City Visitors

The well-stocked Charlevoix Library stands ready to be of service to visitors as well as year-round city residents.

Located at the intersection of Clinton and State Streets, the library was built in 1909 with a grant from the Carnegie Foundation.

Hours are 10 a.m. until noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 1:30 until 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

A NEW LIBRARY is now under construction on Clinton Street between Bridge and State.

Designed by the Charlevoix architectural firm of Begrow and Brown, the new building will be ready for occupancy next spring.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play..." is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health".

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading. It may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY--$600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing?

The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Refrigerator Cookies
Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a snack.

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops--The Treasurer Cove--actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank to the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoixan Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oaken ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln-dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "Tween Decks" bar under Irv Drust's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and welded anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material to them to keep him busy ten years.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a hazy November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 hands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning. It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan.

Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore.

The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasurer Cove, at Leland.

THIS IS what the Sawyer's timbers looked like after being dredged from the bottom of Bells Bay. The keel section (center above) is now the "Tween Decks" bar.

Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and jewelry which had an enormous appeal among his customers.

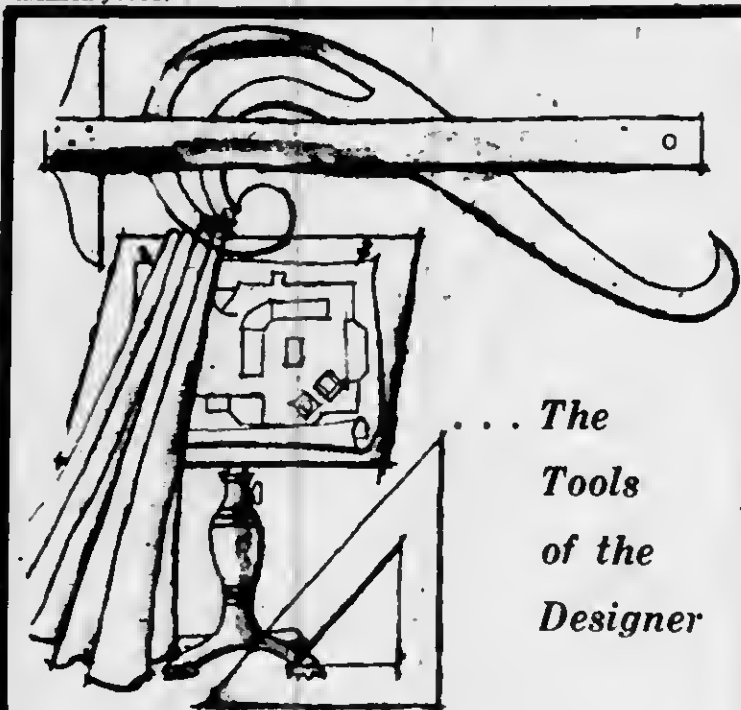

JEWELRY PIECES are polished to a rich luster, but most of the furniture is left semi-rough, a pleasing blend of wood grain and texture. Blemishes are left pretty much as they are.

A professional diver, Sawtelle says he first became interested in making articles from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship in Bells Bay about five years ago.

The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

The earth's home galaxy, slowly wheeling, has 200 billion suns. Earth's sun makes a full revolution every 230 million years.

Kingston, Jamaica, with a population of 123,500, ranks as the Western Hemisphere's largest English-speaking city south of Miami.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearly the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the hriok Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods--an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area hrowed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders aches and pains.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their care to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count called by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free. In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

BEAVER HEAD light is one of the landmarks at the southern tip of the island. Light is serviced by Coast Guard personnel stationed on the island.

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good smallmouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genevieve has a public fishing site and boat launching area.

The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and deer, turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard

Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds.

First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up on ever again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to-four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jugs, darters, spinners.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Leeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm. If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, Jugs-a-Dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northwestern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers, Hawaiian Wigglers.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass, smallmouths.
--Novland Lake, for pike, bass, panfish.
--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.
--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.
--Walloon Lake, for trout, bass and pike.
--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.
--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.
--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

LEWIS AND DAVE Juilleret of Charlevoix display some of the fine rainbows being taken in Lake Charlevoix. This catch, weighing in excess of 18 pounds, was taken in the Horton Bay area.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba is a pleasant hour's drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. Located in a deep valley and utilizing a natural flow of icy spring water, the hatchery will produce seven million fingerling trout a year for restocking the Great Lakes.

State Police Advice to Boaters

With the coming of summer, State Police have urged boaters to match motor horsepower to boat use.

They also ask boatmen to watch for sudden changes in weather, heed storm warning information and follow all boat safety rules.

THE CAUTION was coupled with a report that the State Police underwater recovery squad is now up to full strength of 40 for the 1966 water activity season. These men are assigned to 29 posts throughout out the state. Assistance in water accidents can be obtained by notifying any State Police post or other law enforcement agency.

George Washington was the only president who never lived in the White House. But he did choose the site and approve the design.

The State Police divers are all certified American Red Cross water safety instructors. Each is fully equipped for underwater searches, including lights.

For assignments under special conditions the department has available amphibious trucks, based at East Lansing headquarters and Brighton.

Marine Growth Slows Vessels

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpm's) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations. Just because your boat has

"room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry.

If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

"YOU, TOO, WILL FIND YOUR TRIP

Rising high above historic Straits of Mackinac are the towers of the "most beautiful span built by man," the Mackinac Bridge. The lands connected by it lie smack in the middle of the Great Lakes. Here, the white man set his fur traps a decade before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. Here, the legendary Hiawatha wooed the lovely Minnehaha. Here, the equally fabulous Paul Bunyan and his Ox, Blue Babe, trimmed the timber on the most attractive and recreationally rich landscape west of Niagara and east of the Rockies.

of ours do we have concentrated in one vacationland such splendid attractions as the Tahquamenon Falls, Les Cheneaux Islands known as the "Snags", Kitchiti-kipi, the Big Spring, Pictured Rocks, Bays-de-Noc, Brockway Mountain Drive and Copper Country, Lake of the Clouds in the Porcupine Mountains, and literally scores of man made attractions such as the Soo Locks, Forts Michilimackinac, Mackinac, and Wilkins; deep mine trips into the bosom of mother earth, the magnificent Mackinac Bridge? You can see them all on a ten day to two week vacation.

MRS. JOHN WILLIS demonstrates dying art of basket weaving. Photo at left shows uncolored strips of fiber from black ash tree. Center, Mrs. Willis begins basket, choosing colors to make design. Right, finished products are both attractive and practical.

Like to Paint? Fair Offers Opportunity

Always thought you'd like to try painting a picture but never got around to it? You'll have your chance at East Jordan's Portside Art Fair, Aug. 6 and 7.

The Portside committee will stretch yards of canvas and the public at large will be encouraged to try painting. "With everyone adding a few minutes time and thought plus their own strokes of paint to the efforts of others, we could come up with some most unusual and for - fun masterpieces!" says Collis Cantine, 1966 chairman of the art fair.

Cantine is a Grosse Pointe High School art teacher and East Jordan summer resident. He's teaching children and adult art classes in East Jordan this summer.

PARKER SEILER, winter-time snow sculptor who will exhibit papier-mache figures at Portside, will preside at the public painting area, seeing to it all have brushes and adequate supplies of paint. The Portside Art Fair features original arts and crafts of both amateurs and professionals. Leading artists from Detroit's Society of Arts and Crafts school loan their works including directors Sarkis Sarkisian and Walter Midener.

The exhibition will be held at East Jordan's Memorial Park on the banks of Lake Charlevoix, adjacent to the Jordan River, a scenic, natural setting for displaying creative works.

Basket Weaver Plies Old Skill at Bay Shore

A lost art is being practiced daily at the John Willis home in Bay Shore.

The art is basket weaving and the practitioner is Mrs. Willis, 72, who learned the skill at the knee of her Ottawa Indian mother.

"I wanted to play outside, but mother made me learn to weave. If I made a mistake, she would make me start over again," Mrs. Willis recalls.

Her rigorous girlhood training has paid off in a lifetime avocation, which brings more than a little pin money into the Willis home.

MRS. WILLIS says so far as she knows, she and her sister, Mrs. Compo in East Jordan, are the only basket weavers remaining in the area.

Ash trees--white and black--provide Mrs. Willis with her main source of raw material. Her husband, John, pounds black ash branches with a mallet to break down connective tissue between growth rings. The loosened fiber is then stripped off, dried and colored with commercial dyes.

Her husband also makes all the basket frames and handles, whittling them from white ash.

Mrs. Willis says unless she copies from an original, she has never turned out two baskets exactly alike.

"I just start weaving and the design comes to me," she says. The baskets vary in size and shape.

Mrs. Willis finds a ready market for her sturdy, attractive products through gift shops and sales at her doorstep in Bay Shore.

Courier Wants Birthday Pics Of Youngsters

Is a youngster in your family celebrating a birthday? If so, the Courier would like to carry his or her picture in a new feature called "Cakes 'n' Candles."

A clear snapshot of the child should be submitted to the Courier office the week before the youngster's birthday, to be used in the following week's paper. Photos of children up to 12 years of age will be accepted.

Each photo should be accompanied by the child's full name, birthday, parents' names and address. All photos may be picked up at the Courier office after they are used.

Weather

Precipitation for the week amounted to .62 of an inch, bringing total July rainfall to 1.22 inches.

By Mrs. Tom Maxwell

Albert Novotny of Charlevoix celebrated his 95th birthday Saturday, July 30, at Grandview Medical Care Facility.

A native of Wilkesville, Bohemia, Novotny was born in 1871 and went to work at the age of nine after his father was killed in a mine accident.

He served two years in the Bohemian army and on June 17, 1895, was married to the former Mary Kozela.

In 1897, Novotny came to America alone, followed 18 months later by his wife and three small children.

The family lived for many years at 525 Petoskey ave. in Charlevoix in the home he built for them.

He worked for several years at the Charlevoix Lumber Co., later serving as a ground keeper at the Charlevoix Golf Course.

Mrs. Novotny died Oct. 29, 1953. He also has outlived five of his ten sons, Louis, Amos, Anthony, Albert and Jeff.

His remaining sons are Adolph M. of Mount Vernon, Wash., William A. of Klamath Falls, Ore., James J. of Bat-

Drive Under Way To Complete Stage

$10,000 Goal Is Set

A movement is under way in Charlevoix to raise funds to complete the band stage in East Park.

Although only five persons attended an organizational meeting last Thursday in the City Hall, it was agreed to establish a Park Stage Fund.

A bank account in that name was opened this week at the Charlevoix County State Bank and $3 already is on deposit.

A tentative goal of $10,000 has been set, pending the outcome of negotiations with architects and builders.

THE DRIVE to complete the park stage was started by the Rev. Alexander Wood, pastor of the Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix.

Attending the organizational meeting were Mr. Edith Gilbert, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, architect Jack Begrow, Phil Lawrence, co-owner of Fairport Marina, and Rev. Wood.

In spite of the poor attendance, the meeting lasted longer than an hour.

Begrow asked whether any thought has been given to moving the stage to a more appropriate location in the park, taking advantage of the natural seating arrangement offered by the terraced banks.

If the stage is to remain where it is, he suggested the possibility of removing the trout pond located directly in front of the foot lights.

"As it stands now, six trout occupy the 10 prime seats

Cherry Pact Signed

EAST JORDAN--East Jordan Canning Co. has signed a contract with the cherry growers of Great Lakes Cherry Growers Association, for 14 cents per pound and with the stipulation that the company will take all that they can handle, according to William Sherman, partner in the company.

Elk Rapids Canning Co. has filed a half million dollar suit against Great Lakes for damages and punitive measures.

Great Lakes has filed a counter-suit in an undisclosed amount against Elk Rapids Canning.

JOE POPMA, field man in Michigan for Great Lakes Cherry Growers Association, said that according to a news release the association's marketing co-op has adopted a policy of releasing the growers to sell to northern Michigan processors at 14 cents or more per pound for tart cherries. The members that do this are requested to report the tonnage taken to processors individually for dues to the association.

Furgeson Clan Gathers for Reunion

The Furgeson family held a reunion July 31 to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Grant Furgeson's birthdays. Furgeson was 81 on July 29 and Mrs. Furgeson will be 77 on August 17.

Furgeson is the longest subscriber to the Charlevoix Courier. He has taken it since 1906.

About 24 members of their family were present. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Furgeson Jr. of Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Furgeson and family of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Furgeson and family of Petoskey, Mr.

and Mrs. Floyd (Viora Furgeson) Baker of Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence (Marie Furgeson) Burke and family of Petoskey and special guest Mrs. Dorothy (Furgeson) Green and daughter, Marilyn of Romeo River, Ore.

The Furgesons have 16 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Furgeson said that he thinks they are the oldest couple in the Furgeson family.

The family enjoyed a dinner and birthday cake and ice cream.

Jordan Millage Passes

ONCE owned by King Strang's brother, Charles, this chair will be donated to Beaver Island Museum by Mrs. Fred Tyler.

EAST JORDAN--The nine mills proposed by the Board of Education passed Aug. 1 by eight votes. A total of 682 votes were cast of which 343 were for the levy and 335 against. Four votes were invalid.

This is the second time the issue has come up for a vote. On June 13 the issue was defeated by 53 votes.

The money will be used for additional teachers and increased teachers' salaries, according to Max Danuth, superintendent.

Three full-time teachers and one half-time teacher are needed in the elementary grades. Danuth hopes to release Don Peters, elementary principal, from one-half day teaching duties so he will be a full-time administrator. The school also hopes to release Mrs. Stokes from her one-half day teaching so she can teach reading improvement full-time.

THE BOARD would like to have four sections of kindergarten, four sections of first grade and three sections of third grade which are necessitated by increased enrollment in these grades.

In the high school, Danuth plans to re-establish a foreign language and broaden the commercial course.

Depending on qualifications of newly-hired teachers, the system also would like to re-establish physical science, speech and sociology.

A wage increase for teachers also is in the offing.

Medusa Profits at Peak

Medusa Cement Co. rang up record profits for the first six months of 1966, according to Ellery Sedgwick Jr., chairman of the board, and Robert W. Fort, president.

The company reports net income of $1,759,000 through June 30, equal to $1.05 per share. Last year net profit for the same period amounted to $1,181,000 per share, equal to 69 cents a share.

Billings to customers (less discount) during the six-month period amounted to $20,259,000. Income before taxes was $3,096,000.

Billings through June 30 last year amounted to $17,226,000 and income before taxes amounted to $2,072,000.

IN THEIR quarterly statement, Sedgwick and Fort said financing arrangements have been completed to provide funds for all present projects.

The company is presently building a multi-million dollar cement plant at South Pointon Lake Michigan.

Despite a current slowdown in housing starts, the company expects sales volume to be up slightly in the last half of the year. Earnings for the half are expected to be at least equal to those of the last six months of 1965.

TRUTHS ARE NEVER OUTMODED

A half century ago the dinner bell, so called because its principal function was to call the toiling men from the fields to dinner at noon, was standard equipment to almost every well-kept and well-managed farm.

Today the bell, because of modern machinery and changed farming methods, has become almost obsolete. Few now stand near the kitchen door of the farm home. They are no longer needed.

Good farm management, which means primarily conservation and practical utilization of the soil, however, is not obsolete. This truth, as exemplified and enumerated in the Bible, has never become outmoded. "The Earth is The Lord's" and all that it implies—that we are merely stewards of the soil—is just as true today as it was in the beginning. Man is held answerable to God for this stewardship. The "land of milk and honey" became an almost barren, eroded waste because the Children of Israel failed in this stewardship—and that is not the only instance. Nations before and after Israel have sunk into oblivion.

Thus, whether we be farmers or not, it behooves all of us to see that the soil is conserved and its fertility replenished. Regular attendance at the church of our choice will keep us a God fearing and informed Nation able to measure up to our stewardship of both soil and soul.

Dutch Elm Disease Invades E. Jordan

Many Trees Doomed

By Ruth Ann Miller
EAST JORDAN-- The City Council has appealed to the citizenry to help control Dutch elm disease. The Council acted after Ed Rehman, County Extension Agent, reported that the only way to combat the disease is a city-wide campaign to destroy and burn diseased trees.

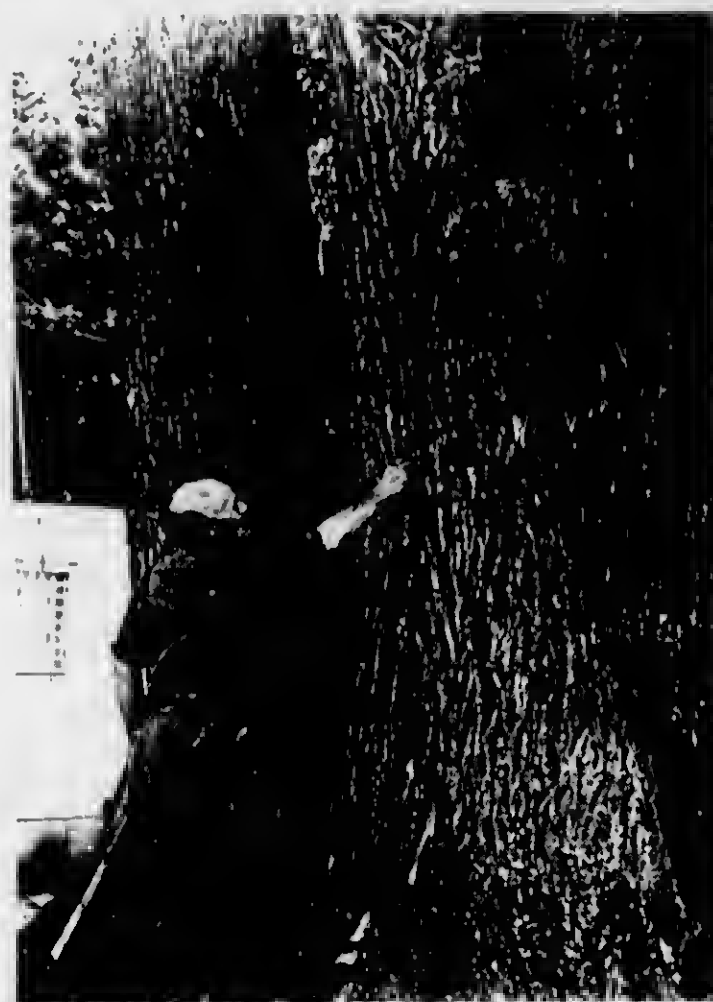

According to Jack Lockwood, forester at the Michigan Department of Conservation Field Office in Boyne City, the disease is fairly widespread in northern Michigan this year. He recommends cutting all diseased trees in forest areas to prevent it from spreading further.

Scottie Scott, caretaker at the East Jordan Tourist Park, says that many of the park's big shade trees are elms. "There won't be much shade left, if they have to be cut," he said.

DUTCH ELM disease was first described by plant pathologists in the Netherlands -- hence the name. It was brought to the United States from Europe about 1930 and is now found in 20 states where native elms grow.

The first instance of the disease in Michigan was discovered in Wayne County (Detroit) in 1950. Since then the disease has spread throughout the state.

The disease is caused by a fungus (Ceratocystis ulmi) which is carried by bark beetles from tree to tree. Fungal spores live and reproduce in the water-conducting tissues of living elms. Eventually, gum forms in the tissues as the fungus grows, causing the tree to wilt and die.

Native elms are more susceptible to the disease than the Asiatic species; however, all elms can be infected. Adults beetles leave a diseased tree and the spores cling to their bodies. These spores enter a healthy tree through the feeding punctures made by beetles.

The disease can also pass through root grafts of diseased and healthy trees. Elms less than 20 feet apart often have connecting roots. The roots simply grow together, much like grafts performed in a nursery.

THE MOST noticeable sign of Dutch elm disease is the wilting of leaves. They become yellow, then brown. Young trees (one to two years old) often show depressed oval beetle feeding areas at the crotch.

A sure means of identifying the disease is to have the twigs and branches examined by a plant pathologist.

First cut six twigs or small stems about seven inches long and one-half to one inch in diameter from the diseased branches of each tree.

Mark the samples, then wrap and bind them securely in a cardboard box for mailing. Do not send material that has been dead for some time or which does not show discoloration rings under the bark.

Mail the samples immediately after cutting to: Dutch Elm Disease Identification Laboratory, Michigan Department of Agriculture, Laboratory Division, Lansing, 13, Mich. Reports take about 14 days.

THREE METHODS of coping with the disease are sanitation, destruction of root grafts

Lynette Mayne, Carl Mitchell Are Honored

BIG RAPIDS-- Lynette M. Mayne and Carl S. Mitchell carried their high scholastic standings right through their final quarter at Ferris State College.

Miss Mayne and Mitchell, both of whom were graduated this spring, were among more than 700 students named to the Dean's Honor List during the last quarter. Dr. Robert L. Huxol, vice president for instruction, has announced.

To be named to Dean's Honor List a student must maintain at least a B average while carrying a full academic load.

Miss Mayne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mayne and Mitchell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mitchell, all of Charlevoix.

and chemical controls. Sanitation means keeping old and dying branches pruned out of trees and removing diseased trees and others that are low in vigor from insects, flooding, soil fills, lightning and other injuries.

Beetle breeding places in weak trees and wood piles should be destroyed by peeling tight bark and burying logs at least six inches deep. Felled trees should be sprayed with dieldrin emulsion or DDT before they are burned.

Root grafts can be destroyed by spraying the soil with a sterilant, Vapan, which kills roots in a limited area.

Chemical treatment of healthy trees is now possible in wooded areas. Unaffected trees, or those in the early stages of wilt, can be rendered unsuitable for beetles by treating them with either Atlas D Herbicide or potassium iodide. Atlas D is very toxic and should be used only in unpopulated areas. Potassium iodide can be used in populated areas.

Chemical control means misting or spraying trees with an insecticide to kill beetles before healthy trees are infected. Trees must be thoroughly sprayed or misted. Spray operators must be careful not to contaminate non-target areas.

Bidrin, a new, highly toxic, systemic insecticide, was granted a federal label for control of the European bark beetle. Only personnel who have completed a course of instruction in applying bidrin can purchase or administer the chemical.

Injected through the bark, the chemical moves through the tree and accumulates in the leaves and bark of the branches. If properly administered, it will kill beetles.

Art Cross, right, office manager/salesman has been with Parker Motor Freight for 20 years. Parker truck driver, Arlo Gokee, has serviced this area for 13 years.

Take one Art Cross plus one Arlo Gokee, and what do you have?

A team! One of the many teams that keep Parker Motor Freight rigs rolling throughout Northwestern Michigan. They've got a big job... business and industry throughout the area depend on them for fast, reliable truck delivery of everything from eggs to engines.

For over 40 years the men of Parker Motor Freight have been providing this vitally important service. As a result, both Parker and the communities we serve have profited. Parker has modern terminals, an up-to-date truck fleet, and a responsible, reliable work force. Our communities profit from Parker's million dollar-plus annual payroll, plus the availability of dependable, on-time delivery.

It's no surprise, therefore, that a competitive trucking firm is seeking to do business in our area. We oppose this move for a reason that should be of importance to every area businessman:

The addition of an outside trucking firm would, in our opinion, reduce rather than improve the high level of service presently available. Over the years Parker has built up its service based on increased freight volume. Today we reach more than 54 communities in Northern Michigan. If this volume is divided between two carriers, neither would be financially able to provide consistent pick-up and delivery to all points in the area.

The growth of Parker Motor Freight and of Northwestern Michigan is in the future, however, not in the past. With this in mind we have applied to the Michigan Public Service Commission for permission to operate in the Southeastern part of our state, including such key points as Detroit, Flint, Pontiac, Saginaw, Bay City, Lansing, Midland and many others. If the Michigan Public Service Commission decides there is a need for single line service between the areas involved, it is our hope that such authority will be granted to us, based upon our past experience and record of service to Northwestern Michigan.

We welcome your support of our application.

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The fifth week of our camp season started off on another hot day, with the new campers eager to get started in their activities. Every activity had a full enrollment and the men were anxious to get these new boys into the swing of things. Three cabin groups left for an overnight to Youngs State Park. Rusty Smith took his boys, Greg Cramer, Scott Kortan, Chip Little, Ken Parls, Dick Skaft, James Stutz, and Martin Timkovich. Jerry Sandy took his boys, too. These boys were Steve Aberg, Paul Dancer, Tom Herrington, Mark Herschede, David Hudson, Keith Smilie, Steve Storms and Scott Strawbridge. Louis Saloom, also took his boys on this trip. They were Jim Abbott, Bill Beck, Bill Carey, Gary Hill, Ben Hudson, Dennis Hudson, Peter Oakley, and Marc Saunders. About 6:30 in the evening it finally happened. It rained. Everyone was so pleased and it was a real hard storm, raining until about 8:30 p.m. Station wagons and cars went down to Youngs State Park and brought back the overnights. They had their tents up, and were out of the wet, but we felt that it was best to bring them back as the countryside was really soaked. The rest of the camp had a movie "Heroes of the Deep" which was most educational. Boys loved it.

Tuesday morning dawned bright, sunny, and the whole camp took on a new light. Trees were green, dust was washed away, and everyone was most thankful for the storm. Regular activities were held and immediately after supper, cabins 18, 19, 20, and 21 left for a dance over at Camp Chippewa Hill. The boys were dressed in Bermudas and sport shirts and our C.I.T. land went along. From all reports it was a very fine party and boys immediately asked for a repeat dance. On Wednesday, three cabin groups went on an overnight down to Youngs State Park. John Delsorone and Gil Haynes' cabins were taken by truck. These boys were Bill Earle, Bill Jensen, Tom Kirby, Jay Postle, Greg Rouse, Ron Uroet, Henry Whiting, David Alaras, Tom Cramer, Mark Hildebrandt, Brian Ingersoll, Jeff Ireland, Allan Johnson, Mark Propator and Mark Ruffin. A sailing trip was undertaken by Joe Anzelino's boys, with Chuck Sullivan in charge. These boys were Bill Baue, John Cooper, Kim Covall, Colin Hamilton, Grant Herman, Chuck Limbach, Ken Mahbutt and John Park. In the evening we had the first Capture the Camper event for the new campers, and the whole camp took to the woods, staff to find boys. As it was Green-Grey competition, it was very exciting. At the end of the event, the team with the fewest boys caught was the Greens. This made the score at this point, Greens 19, Greys 12.

Thursday morning at the breakfast table, we had a farewell for Hans van Essen, our boy from Groningen, The Netherlands. Our nurse, Pat Welday, and Alice Ross, who works in the office, came tripping in singing the "Ballad of the Cowboy Cabin", where Hans had been living. Several of the men gave him gifts to remind him of camp, such as a fake snake, a fake mouse, a whistle, a magnifying glass, a lanyard, some camp stationery, an address book, Ruth Townsend gave him a small Greyhound bus, to remind him of his upcoming bus trip. Rusty Smith gave him a camp pennant, as the CAMP CHARLEVOIX pennant has been higher than any other camp pennant, being taken into the Stratosphere by Dr. Piccard in his balloon back in 1934. Bill Townsend gave him our arrow "C", and Ken gave him a certificate made out to a "Guest Par Excellence", for his good humor, his smile, his cooperation, and his congeniality. There was a huge sign (made by Doug Laing and Paul Phillips) hanging in the dining room. The festivities closed with everyone singing "Sing Your Way Home". It was a gala affair, and as Hans left on his trip, there was a crowd around the car and both boys and men realized that it had been a distinct pleasure to have had Hans with us. Later in the morning, our cabin of oldest boys, Cabin 21, took off by Station Wagon for a three day trip into the Upper Peninsula. Ron Hall is the counselor of this group, and the boys were very excited as they were to spend their time traveling seeing the Mackinac Bridge, the Soo Locks, going over into Canada, coming back to the famous Tahquamenon Falls and camping there at the State Park.

Several of the Green-Grey teams had to elect new lieutenants due to boys having left last Saturday. Elected were Prep Greens; Tim Washburn and Dick Skaft; Prep Greys; Dan Scherer and Randy Chapman. Intermediate Greens, choose Bert and Chuck Limbach, while the Greys picked Bob Scherer. More trips pulled away from camp. The first three Junior Cabins went down to Youngs State Park. The staff on this trip were Gary Keithly, Scott Porter, Russ Washburn, Paul Phillips, and Lee Fernstrom. The campers were Scott Ireland, Paul Jurusov, Nick Ladney, Jeff Reece, David Townsend, Bobbie Elkins, Greg Grow, Brad Mast, Robbie Quinn, Paul Welday, John Lockett, Jim Hartig, Bill Otte, David Reece, Billy Slater, and Ron Stevens. Cabin 17, Fred Casey took his boys also down to Youngs State Park. The boys were David Bauer, Andy Case,

THE GEIERSBACH family of Bay City tried fishing all around Lake Superior, but luck didn't strike until they hit Nowland Lake. Twelve-year-old Daryl caught this three-foot northern pike weighing eight to nine pounds using a flatfish. The family stayed at the Open Gate campground.

Scott Cummings, Bill Freyfogel, Gus Cluck, Mike Kelly, and Doug Ladney. It was a beautiful day, sunny and bright and the temperature in the 70's. Great for camping.

By the way, it should be remembered that all trips that leave camp come back to camp. We don't record their arrivals back, so we don't want parents to think that cabin groups are just left out in the woods indefinitely. Just a thought.

Friday was another glorious day, with Chuck Sullivan and Ernie Krug taking their cabins out to Fisherman's Bay. These boys were Steven Boothroyd, Peter Bowers, Randy Chapman, Dan Drewyer, A. G. Hayden, Dan Noel, Bob Philip, Tom Spurgeon, Tommy Earle, David Herrington, Gary Hillis, Kevin Morrissey, Dan Scherer, Clay Smith and Steve Phillip. Late in the evening, Tom Kennedy, popular Waterfront Head of last season, came to visit, and boys were very happy to see him again.

Saturday was picture-taking day, with Bill Townsend busy taking cabin groups so that the second four-weeks boys will have a chance to get pictures of their cabin group. In the evening, skills were given. Boys always enjoy these as they permit the boys to perform for the rest of the camp and it is always interesting to see whom the actors are. On Sunday morning at chapel, Joe Anzelmo, was the speaker and he chose his subject as "Gratitude". It was one of the finest talks we have had this year, and gave the boys much to think about. He made some very pointed remarks about boys' lack of gratitude, and urged the campers to show their gratitude for the many things their parents do for them. In the afternoon, we had a waterfront afternoon, and it was started off by a clown sit

Farmers May Use Soil Bank Pasture

Because of drought conditions, the state Disaster Committee has agreed to let Charlevoix County farmers cut hay and graze cattle on land now diverted from production under federal government subsidy programs.

The program will go into effect as soon as Gov. George Romney certifies that a drought exists.

OTHER COUNTIES cited by the Disaster Committee are Arenac, Emmet, Gladwin, Grand Traverse, Iosco, Kalaska, Missaukee, Ogemaw, Ontonagon, Osceola, Otsego and Wexford.

Throughout the northern part of Michigan and most of the Upper Peninsula, the rainfall of the last three months has been from one-tenth to one-half of normal.

In addition to this year's drought, the situation is additionally severe because last year rainfall was much below normal. There was no surplus of feed carried over and the 1965 new seedlings failed. Many farmers have had to partially or totally dispose of their beef and dairy herds because of lack of roughage.

THE RELEASE of acreage diverted under USDA programs will permit land owners to harvest hay, or graze such acreages, or rent their land out for grazing or the harvesting of hay. In the past when such a program was in effect, producers' payments have been reduced accordingly to the value of the crop harvested or grazed.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman may authorize this program as soon as the Governor's certification that a drought exists is received.

SENIOR CITIZENS An Attempt to organize the Charlevoix area senior citizens in cooperation with the city Recreation Department has been attempted this summer. They held another meeting last night at the Administration building of the city airport in which discussion and ideas were to be exchanged on the possibility of year-around organization in Charlevoix. Interested persons should contact the city recreation department.

TENNIS As the tennis school draws to a close the class stressed game play, scoring, and doubles play. Nearly twenty youngsters have enjoyed the instructional program, in spite of poor facilities.

GOLF The five week session of golf ended this week with small groups playing several holes and concentrating on course rules and etiquette. Thirty youngsters and adults took part in the program.

SWIMMING Enthusiasm was very evident during the week in the large adult class as they continued to be pleased with their on skills given by John Delsorone and Louis Saloom, our water-skilling instructor. After the events were all through, races, sailing race; etc. the Greens had picked up three more points, and now lead in the season scoring, Greens 22-Greys 18. This coming week is "Augwun" week, and there is a chance that points will be added to either side. The season is going very well, boys are happy, and campers are making great progress in the activities. High scores are being made in riflery, boys are becoming proficient sailors and riders, and everyone is trying to earn stars in their activities. More next week.

development of newswimming skills. They are now swimming out to the platform and are learning to stroke on the back as well as polishing their crawl strokes.

Junior and senior life saving classes are being separated now and blocking and carries are being introduced. All classes are making remarkable progress and are pointing to the city swim finals to be held late in August.

ADVENTURE CLUB The Adventure Club met Saturday morning and was introduced to the game of volleyball. A new net and balls are now available at Depot Beach, and so drilling and team play was taught and short game followed. The group then played some water games to conclude the day's activities.

Talk of the Town Mrs. Frank Gengle and two daughters are visiting in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark, Sr. of Phoenix, Ariz., are visiting at the homes of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark Jr., and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Supernaw.

Mrs. Margery Malone and son, Paul, of Lansing have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Edwards. While there they visited Mackinac Island and Beaver Island. They were joined over the weekend by Miss Esther Belcher of Lansing.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Feindt were her mother and sister, Mrs. Ernest H. Bastian of Albion and Leland Bradley of West Lafayette, Ind., and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hinkley of Kalamazoo.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
It was a relatively quiet week in the fastball league with the race settling down to a two team affair. The big game of the week will pit the two teams, American Mold and Lake Construction, against one another on Saturday night. The teams split the first two meetings, both being decided by one run. The winner will be a definite favorite to win the city title.

American Mold greeted Wilson-Mayhew of East Jordan rather rudely with Ken Wojan blasting a first inning home run and Ken Balch stroked one right behind him. Losing pitcher Larry Drenth pitched strong ball then until the seventh when Ken Wojan's base-loaded double highlighted a four run inning. Meanwhile Nate Boss was scattering four hits and pitching shutout ball.

In one of the wildest slugfests to date, Lake Construction used three pitchers before outlasting County State Bank 20-15. The winners had 23 hits while the losers chalked up 13. No more need he said.

Oleson's handed the Servicemen an 8-4 loss to move into second place. Pitcher Rich Heeris broke a 4-4 tie with a bases-loaded homerun that eluded the shoe string grasp of fleet center fielder Bob Ganzel.

MEDICINE CHEST WINS

FIRST ROUND IN BLOOPER
In the special playoff game with Novak's insurance, the Medicine played very well to defeat the defending champs 8-1. Ed McNamara banged out a double and single for the winners while Bob Bliggs did likewise for the losers.

Hamiltons defeated Freedman Seniors 7-2 in a well played contest. Elde Potter had two hits for the boys in green while Gene Bergman did the same for Freedmans.

Boys City hopped on American mold Seniors for a 16-5 win with Dick Erber blasting out four straight hits. Guy Smith and Lloyd Cummings carried the loser's hitting attack with two each.

KALAMAZOO CANCELS ALL STAR GAME

A rained out game in Kalamazoo caused postponement of the local all star game here Saturday night. Although five of Kalamazoo's AllStars were here the others couldn't make it because a rainout had been scheduled for the same night. Arrangement was sought but at the late date it was unsuccessful. Local players voted on the roster and the following were elected to represent Charlevoix:

INFELDERS
Ken Batch, Des Milligan and Harv Cole, American Mold; Ike Boss, Steve Faculak, Lake Construction; Norm Helms, County Bank; Dennis Warner, Olesons.

OUTFIELDERS
Don Kowbel and Dave Smith, American Mold; Rick Grunch, Lake Construction; John Newman, East Jordan.

PITCHERS
Nate Boss, American Mold, Larry McBride, Lake Construction.

CATCHERS
Ron Grunch, Lake Construction, and John Ferguson, Olesons.

Honorable mention went to Larry Edwards, County Bank, Don Kelly, Lake Construction and Bob Ganzel, servicemen.

The Recreation Department will attempt to set up an all-star game at a later date.

CHS Grad Is Named Dean at Slippery Rock

Dr. James N. Roberts has been academic dean at Slippery Rock State College, Slippery Rock, Pa., beginning Sept. 1.

The son of Mrs. Bertha Roberts of rural Charlevoix, Dr. Roberts was graduated from Central Michigan University in 1951. He is a veteran of two years in the U. S. Army.

For the past three years he has been academic dean of the College of the Ozarks at Clarksville, Ark. He resigned from his post to fill the position at Slippery Rock.

DR. DON DAVIS, president of the Arkansas school, called Roberts "one of the finest administrators in the profession of higher education."

"While administration, faculty and students alike regret that he will no longer be with us, we are pleased that this excellent and merited opportunity for professional advancement has been offered him."

Dr. Roberts, his wife, Ila, and daughters, Michele and Kimberly, will visit his mother in Charlevoix later in August en route to Pennsylvania.

HOLLYHOCK LADIES
By Mrs. Clyde Smith
My hollyhock ladies

Stand all in a row,
Nodding and curtsying,
When the wind blows.

These lovely ladies
Are dressed up so fine,
With colors so brilliant,
Red, pink, yellow and wine.

My hollyhock ladies
Are prim and sedate.
They smile at me,
Both early and late.

These lovely ladies
Teach me to say
Thank God for the beauty
Of a bright summer day.

Let's End Bridge Tie-Ups

Something has to be done about the bridge. Bridge tenders counted as many as 70 openings between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. last Thursday, and every other day last week was almost as bad.

Many of the boats which signaled for the bridge to open were pleasure craft which easily could have passed under it if it weren't for their radio antennas, most of which could have been lowered without a great deal of trouble.

MEANWHILE on Bridge Street, hundreds of ears backed up time and time again all the way through town waiting for the bridge to close.

The bridge detains not only tourists, who might find it an interesting curiosity, but also workers, shoppers, doctors, lawyers and long-distance truck drivers all of whom have places to go and things to do. They are left cooling their heels in clouds of exhaust fumes on both sides of the bridge. Sometimes they can't even see the little dinghy causing the tie-up, except for the tip of an antenna.

So far we've been lucky. There have been no babies born at the Weathervane Inn or the Beaver Island Boat Co. office. Ambulances have been held up, but somehow they have always managed to get their passengers to the hospital in time. There have been no serious fires on the North Side while the bridge has things tied in knots downtown.

(Whenever a large vessel comes through, one of the fire engines is taken to the north side of the channel; yet fire trucks are on their own coping with run-of-the-mill traffic jams caused by the bridge.)

OF COURSE there is a solution: Open the bridge twice an hour for the passage of pleasure craft, perhaps on the hour and the half hour. It will be surprising how many of them suddenly develop collapsible antennas. The bridge would continue to handle commercial traffic as it arrives. In the event of a storm, the bridge, of course, would be allowed to break its schedule to permit small craft to seek shelter in Round Lake.

GRAND HAVEN, which also is blessed with a bascule bridge, limits the coming and going of pleasure craft to this extent. It's time a similar set of rules went into effect in Charlevoix.

If you would like to see something done about the bridge, clip this editorial and mail it to The Army Corps of Engineers, Detroit District Office, Detroit, Mich.

Coho Salmon Offer Hope in War Against Alewives

(Like other Lake Michigan communities) Charlevoix has become the final resting place for thousands of alewives this summer. Some days their bodies line the shore in windrows, the aroma driving bathers to inland beaches. Following is a report on the problem—and a possible solution—which appeared in the Grand Rapids Press recently.)

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Call them shad, alewives, herring or what you will, they still stink.

They stink now and have stunk up the beaches along Lake Michigan periodically for the last four or five years. They will continue to wash up and rot along the shore for that many more years, biologists say.

But there is one silver, slender finger of hope—coho salmon planted in streams leading into Lake Michigan and superior for the first time this spring.

Native to the Atlantic Ocean, the fish worked its way through the Welland Canal and into the western Great Lakes less than 20 years ago, according to Harry Westcott, biologist-in-charge of the Wolf Lake Fish Hatchery west of Kalamazoo.

Westcott said the shad in a new environment free of natural enemies reproduced at astronomical rates.

"WE NOW ESTIMATE that the shad accounts for 90 percent by weight of the biomass, fish-life, of Lake Michigan," Westcott says.

What kills them off to leave them floating in the lake and eventually to wash up on the beaches?

Westcott says it is a phenomenon of nature that when fish or animal populations reach a certain peak of density great numbers start dying off for no apparent reason other than over-population.

The hope of cutting back this massive shad population lies in the introduction of natural enemies, Westcott says.

Michigan's Department of Conservation, in its search for such an enemy of the shad, turned to the coho salmon, a Pacific Ocean fish.

Westcott's experiments proved the coho could successfully adapt to an all-fresh water life of living and reproducing. The tests were conducted in California and Alaska. In its natural habitat, the coho lives on shad or herring. Another important factor is that the salmon spawn inland in streams where the eggs are safe from hungry shad.

Last March, the first batch of 250,000 coho fingerlings were carefully transferred from tank trucks to Bear Creek in Manistee County.

In April more fingerlings were released in the Little River in Benzie County and in the Big Huron River in the Upper Peninsula. About 800,000 of the fingerlings were introduced to the streams.

WESTCOTT says a crucial point of the experiment will be in three years when the salmon are due to return to the streams to spawn.

"We will know at that time whether they can adapt to their new environment. Selective breeding may occur and establish the coho here," Westcott says.

The coho salmon could also be a boon to fishermen, adding an exciting game fish to the Great Lakes and Michigan streams. Planting of the Cohos will continue through 1967.

Another source of competition for the shad may be the comeback of lake trout and whitefish, Westcott says. The lake trout has been successfully brought under control. The lamprey had all but erased the lake trout and whitefish in Lake Michigan and most of Lake Superior.

The biologist says the overall influence of the shad on fish and marine life in the Great Lakes is not known, that it may be reducing the number of perch and other species by competition for food and living areas.

tion for food and living areas.

Although a few shad are rejected by commercial fishermen for processing into animal food uses, the market is limited. Westcott says that although the shad may be suitable for human consumption, there is no market for the products at present.

BUT BACK on the beaches, the problem of stench and the flies attracted to the rotting fish remains unsolved at this time.

South Haven and some other communities, during periods of heavy washup, have regular early morning rakesups.

State and county park beaches are not raked regularly and at times the dead fish lie in a silver line two to four feet wide, stretching for miles in either direction along the shore.

Seagulls thrive on the shad and for part of the swimming season do their share to keep the beaches clean. But during the hottest part of the summer the gulls are in their nesting areas in the north, leaving the dead fish to pile up on the sand.

Some inveterate beachgoers, after an unpleasant session or two with the malodorous fish, arm themselves with rakes and shovels to clear a picnic or sunbathing area.

ends

A "WELL DONE" is due those hard-working committees of the Venetian Festival who did such a fine job of pulling the event out of the doldrums. . . . Everyone was talking about the fine street parade on Saturday afternoon. . . . It was great fun. . . . And another thing everyone seemed to like was the fact that it was held on State-st. where there was no fuss about traffic, where everything was unhurried and where there was shade along a good part of the route. . . .

And the boat parade Sunday night could certainly be called a success compared to recent years. . . . A new format was presented and proved most successful. . . . A lot of work went into these particular sections of the festival. . . . I hope some of you took the time to tell the chairmen about them. . . . Bob Hamilton, Ken Empey and Lyle Miles. . . . and their assistants. . . . Other things went well too but I think these two events deserve special mention. . . . Oh yes, and the fireworks, which to me are part of the boat parade, everyone loved. . . . It has taken a great deal of hard, hard work, but the people responsible have made it possible to make a great stride in the right direction. . . .

AND NOW for the future. . . . Sure hope the weather lasts for the Waterfront Fair scheduled for Aug. 13. . . . This year's looks like a fine one with more than a hundred entries and many more expected before the deadline. . . . To me this is the finest thing that Charlevoix sponsors. . . . It's a leisurely sort of thing with people wandering through the park and looking at art in all sorts of media. . . . I guess you'd call it a comfortable sort of thing. . . . And since it's an all-day thing, there's never a time when it's so crowded you can't enjoy yourself. . . . I admire anyone who can do things with his hands. . . . and, believe me, these people are talented. . . . all the things are originals. . . . nothing done from molds or other means. . . . and though you might not love everything in the show, you will appreciate the time and thought that's gone into the end products. . . . As always a few people are devoting a great deal of time to bring this about. . . . and don't forget the Artmobile from the Detroit Institute of Art which this year will bring exhibits of "American Landscape Painters at Home and Abroad."

NEVER THOUGHT I'd live to see the day when kids would enjoy school in the summer time. . . . but that day has arrived. . . . During the past month youngsters have been enrolled in a series of classes. . . . mostly math and reading for those who needed these subjects. . . . But going to school in the summer time is different from everyday school for the classes are smaller, the teachers less hurried and there's more time per student. . . . I think it's a great program and I hope it grows. . . .

But the thing that was strictly for fun was the class in art. . . . where the young fry touched various phases of art and had a ball doing it. . . . I hope the day isn't far off when we'll have a full fledged art program in our school system. . . . If you've ever taken the time or had the opportunity to visit the schools you've noticed that those youngsters in the early elementary grades have no inhibitions about their concept of what they see. . . . Some of the stuff may be "way out" but these brave souls make no apologies about their work. . . . It's when they get a little older that the majority of them lose their individuality and become a part of the pack. . . . I think if you can get them started early enough they will keep this and become artists in their own right. . . . This summer the students, all there out of choice, dabbled in several phases of art ranging from painting with water colors and oils to planning model houses, doing finger painting and ceramics. . . . Oh, to be a kid again!

FRIDAY WILL be a great day. . . . For football fans that is. . . . For it will mark the "opening" of the 1966 season. . . . With All-Stars meeting the Green Bay Packers at Soldier's Field in Chicago. . . . I'll admit that this game isn't always football at its best because the weather is hardly conducive to a top-notch performance. . . . but it's football and once this date arrives, we all know that it won't be too long before we'll be seeing a game or two or three every weekend. . . .

AND HOW ABOUT all those beautiful craft from the Mackinac race that visited our harbor enroute to their various home ports. . . . That continues to be the greatest of fresh water races. . . . and this year it attracted one of the largest fields yet. . . . There's nothing any lovelier than a sailing vessel, no matter what the size.

Letter to the Editor

Lake Charlevoix Can Still Be Saved

Mr. Robert Clock, Editor
The Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Mr. Clock:

I am writing in regard to the interesting feature titled "Land of the Lime Green Water." As a tax paying "Summer Visitor," I am suggesting that the citizens of Charlevoix and Charlevoix County, and those people living near Lake Charlevoix wake up to what is happening to your priceless natural heritage, through your own carelessness and indifference. The "lime green water" which I noticed on the July 4th weekend is the visible evidence of the bloom of blue green algae, which feeds upon nutrients present in the water. These nutrients are the result of pollution from industrial wastes, chemical fertilizers and organic materials from sewers, septic tanks and boats. I am sending to your attention two articles dealing with the problem of water pollution. Print them if you wish.

The bloom of algae in Lake Charlevoix has little to do with "The South Point Horror." That dusty monster will make its own contribution to the degradation of your area in the future, and it will take another 100 years to erase the devastation which is spreading over South Point like a cancerous growth. I, too, bow my head—"In Memoriam-1778-1966", and add "Sic Transit Gloria Mundi!" South Point is past helping, Lake Charlevoix is not!

I suggest that the citizens of your still beautiful city start by taking some of the taxes that are to be collected as compensation for the death of South Point and use that money to improve and increase the restroom facilities in the parks on Round Lake. Now is the time when you must face the unpleasant fact that Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan will become what Lake Erie is today, unless you act to prevent it. You can't afford to say, "To Hell with the landscape!"

I am aware of the fact that this letter will no doubt displease many people who are not in touch with the realities of water pollution and its resultant detrimental effects on the natural beauty and economy of an area. Ignore those people and concentrate on saving Lake Charlevoix! On ye dwellers on the shores of "The Lime Green Water," OPEN YOUR EYES NOW, BEFORE YOU HAVE TO START HOLDING YOUR NOSES!"

Claims Constable Was Her Father

Dear Sir:
My mother (Mrs. Charles Lamphear) and I believe you have misidentified the first man in the front row of the picture of the "law enforcement officers" of 1910-1915 in your July 13 issue. He is my mother's father, my grandfather, Elmer L. Johnson, who served as constable for many years, including the period when the picture was taken.

Mother is a subscriber to the Courier. She lives with me here in Little Rock, Arkansas. We both enjoy your picture feature: Charlevoix of Yesteryear. She can identify most of the faces and places in these old pictures, having moved to Charlevoix in 1896. She occasionally disagrees with some of the identification and we have thought of writing before but time passes so quickly and we just haven't done so. However, we just couldn't let this pass without calling it to your attention.

Sincerely,
Mrs. F. E. Greifenstein,

"BY THE PROPHET'S beard," swears Abdul the Egyptian, gazing over the trackless wastes of desert sand near Giza. Things aren't going to be the same around here if Cheops goes ahead and builds his damn museum right smack in the middle of the desert. It'll spoil the whole view for miles around. Why, we'll never have another sunset in these parts unless someone stops him."

"Right you are," says brother Gamal. "And that's not all. Have you heard that they're going to build a huge statue of a cat with a man's head nearby, and put a temple between its paws."

"Nonsense," shouts Abdul. "Who would imagine such a thing? The whole idea stinks!"

"That's it," cries Gamal. "That's what?"

"That's what they're going to call the cat," Gamal explains. "The Sphinx."

TWENTY THREE hundred years pass, Nicholas Nikopolis and his friend, George, are sipping fermented honey in an Athens bistro. "Have you ever heard the best of it?" asks Nick incredulously. "That crazy Pericles is going to build some kind of shrine right on top of Acropolis."

"I have heard," says George dismally, "the man must be out of his mind. What would honor say?"

"The worst part of it is, he has hired Phidias to draw up the plans. Can you imagine? The most expensive architect in all Athens! The city will never finish paying him. We might as well change the name to Phidiasville."

"What I'm worried about is what's going to happen to all the wildlife on Acropolis, George whines. Where will the birds go? Where will we hunt deer?"

"And if that's not all, he's going to ruin the view. I've always liked standing downtown and admiring stony old Acropolis watching over the city," Nick says dramatically.

"I suppose the gods have to live somewhere," George answers, softening a little.

"But why here?" Nick protests vehemently. "Why right on the top of our mountain?"

"You're right," George concedes. "Besides, no god in his right mind would want to live in downtown Athens. By the way, what are they going to call this temple, if they ever get it built?"

"The Parthenon," Nick answers disgustedly. "Makes it sound like a big deal, doesn't it?"

IT'S 800 YEARS later, Primus Evictus and his friend, Flavius, are enjoying a sausage pizza in a little Italian restaurant just off Campus Martius.

"I'm leaving Rome. That's idea of Emperor Vespasian even thinking about building such a gigantic playpen right here in the middle of Rome! You are quite right," Primus," his friend says sadly, tearing off a wedge of his pizza. "I don't object to the Emperor's games, but why here? There's lots of room outside Rome."

"I haven't mentioned this before," Primus says confidentially, leaning across the table, "but I had planned on putting up a little motel myself near where the Emperor plans to build his—how do you say it?—Colosseum. But not any more. Can you imagine anyone wanting to spend a night in Rome, with all the unwashed mobs that thing is going to attract?"

Flavius swallowed a big mouthful of pizza before answering.

"If the Emperor feels he must build his Colosseum, why must it be so large. I heard at the Forum today it will seat 87,000 people! Can you imagine? No, Primus, I'm with you. First thing tomorrow we shall move together to Pisa where the people—have better sense."

ANOTHER 1,800 YEARS pass—give or take a decade or two. The year is 1888 and Flavius and his friend, Jean Jacques, are walking down Paris' Champs Elysees.

"One more year—just one little year— and la belle Paris, the Paris we remember from our boyhood, will be no more," Pierre says sadly.

"What do you mean?" Jean Jacques asks much alarmed.

"Why haven't you heard?" Pierre answers. "The government has given that fool Alexandre Gustave Eiffel permission to go ahead and build his gigantic iron monstrosity right in the middle of Paris!"

"It is no joke, my friend," says Pierre. "I read it yesterday's Journal. The paper said the tower would be 984 feet high and be visible for miles and miles in every direction."

"But surely it won't last," Jean Jacques protests. "Is it not just for the fair next year?"

"Who knows?" Pierre answers. "If the city spends a million dollars on a tower, it is bound to be torn down in a few months."

"The city's helping Monsieur Eiffel build the tower, you say?"

"That is what my paper said."

Witnesses Aware Of God's Pleasure

Taking up Jesus' yoke is a sure way to carry out the second commandment. "Thou shalt love the neighbor as thyself," the Rev. M.S. Krake told his congregation at the United Missionary Church in Charlevoix on Sunday morning.

Rev. Krake said that by taking up the Lord's work, one can actually do what pleases God. People occupied with the Lord's work are aware that they have His pleasure.

He said that many times during his ministry he has been aware of God's pleasure.

Rev. Krake said he was taking part in a baptismal ceremony under the auspices of the United Missionary Church at Charlevoix on Sunday morning. Some German placed persons attended the ceremony and later told him they were there.

THE PASTOR said he also felt God's presence very clearly during his first pastorate at Bad Axe during a call to witness at a home near the church.

Rev. Krake said he first felt God's blessing when he was 12 years old and attended a camp meeting at Brown City. But he was afraid to commit himself to God in front of his friends, although there was not a cloud in his spiritual sky.

He added that another five years was to pass before he began Christ's work in earnest, and then he had things to report.

REV. KRAKE said loving one's neighbor means loving one's self and "fellowshipping" with him, all the while making him aware of God's message.

It is the rebellion in us, he said, that gets us into trouble, he said.

The pastor praised one of the missionary workers in the church who took God's word where it was least expected. One time, the worker visited the home of an alcoholic and found him surrounded by empty bottles.

"Brother Joe Kimball sat right down on the floor among all those bottles and talked about God," Rev. Krake said. "This is what it means to love thy neighbor as thyself."

He said that many times during his ministry he has been aware of God's pleasure.

Wrong Cannery

It was incorrectly stated in last week's Courier that cherry growers were picketing the plant in Ellsworth. Pickets actually were at the Elk Rapids cannery. The Ellsworth cannery does not process cherries.

A NATIVE of Finland Falls, Ont., the former Minnie Jane Routley was born in 1875 and came to Michigan as a young girl settling near Hart with her family.

In 1894 she married William Louisselle and the couple lived at Hart until moving north 50 years ago. They lived first in Ellsworth, moving later to Hayes Township. Mr. Louisselle died in 1949.

She was an honorary member of the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix and the Pilgrim Holiness Church in Ellsworth. She also belonged to the International Church of Foursquare Gospel in Fort Wayne, Ind., and the United Foursquare Women's Organization.

The former Coral M. Chandler was born in Dickson, Tenn., Dec. 26, 1893 and married Ernest Chew in 1914. The family moved to Charlevoix in 1920 and Mr. Chew died in 1930.

In 1939 she married Albert Holmes, who died in 1952, and in 1959 she married Mr. Dean, who survives her.

MRS. DEAN was a member of the Methodist Church and the Methodist Guild. Besides her widowhood, she survived by a son, L. Col. Harold B. Chew of Rantoul, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Carlton (Marguerite) Kins of Charlevoix and Mrs. Harold H. (Ernestine) Hunt of Van Horn, Iowa, nine grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. M. O. Holt of Florence, Ala. A son, Emorad, died in 1963.

July 23, Don Meggison duplicated the feat in a match with Grover Genett.

Club Manager Keith Carey says the last hole—in one on the Charlevoix Course was shot in the summer of 1964 by a minister from Anderson, Ind.

"I don't remember much about him, except that his name was Carey," Carey said.

Funeral for Mrs. Datus Dean, 72, was held at the Winchester Funeral Home Aug. 2, the Rev. Leona Winegard officiating. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Dean, who had been in failing health for some time, died July 31 at Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for 3½ weeks.

The former Coral M. Chandler was born in Dickson, Tenn., Dec. 26, 1893 and married Ernest Chew in 1914. The family moved to Charlevoix in 1920 and Mr. Chew died in 1930.

In 1939 she married Albert Holmes, who died in 1952, and in 1959 she married Mr. Dean, who survives her.

for any type of performance," Begrow said.

Rev. Wood said the fund was being labeled the "Park Stage" fund rather than the band stand fund, because the completed stage will lend itself to a variety of activities.

There was considerable discussion as to whether the completed structure should have a built-in public address system or rely entirely on natural acoustics. To cover the lake front, Begrow thought a P.A. system probably would be needed.

Rev. Wood said another meeting would be called after manufacturers have been contacted and more information is available on the cost of the proposed shell.

It was decided to include the names of donors of $100 or more on a plaque which will be permanently affixed to the stage.

the processors keep a record of the tonnage but this year there is no contract for Great Lakes but rather for individuals.

Aug. 1 the board of directors of Great Lakes said that many major canners will pay 14½ cents to individual growers but not to Great Lakes as a group.

MAJOR CANNERS still uncooperative are Morgan-McCool in Traverse City, Northport, Smeltzer and Michigan Fruit Canners, largest fruit canner in Michigan.

According to Win Klutzbau, manager of Traverse City Cherry Growers Inc., the corporation does not support Great Lakes demands directly but they feel that 14½ cents is a fair price.

Mitchell, Paradis, district director of Great Lakes, said that the corporation is buying cherries from the members at 14½ cents.

5 Take Draft Tests

Five Charlevoix County men will leave today (Wednesday) for pro-induction physical examinations in Detroit.

They are George F. Krehak of Charlevoix, David E. Howard of Boyne Falls and Mark Bryan, Peter C. Haartikainen and Richard Dods of Boyne City.

Three county men—James C. Whitfield Jr. of Wailoon Lake, Jerry D. Holley of Ellsworth and Lewis W. Kitson Jr. of East Jordan will leave for induction Aug. 25.

Eighteen more will be sent for physicals Aug. 31, and five will be inducted from the county Sept. 26.

Mrs. Ronald Balch, Selective Service Board secretary, says she has received word that the local board is to review the draft status of teachers and persons in other professions not directly involved in national health and safety. She also said that all college students must have on file with the draft office a passing report card on the Selective Service qualification test or certification from their college that are in the percentile of their class exempt from service. Freshmen must be in the upper half; sophomores and juniors in the upper two-thirds; and seniors in the upper three-quarters.

Mrs. Balch said all freshmen will be classified 1-A pending satisfactory completion of their first year of college.

'Open Gate' Opens Gates

The Open Gate Resort campground is opened for its third season on Nowland Lake about four miles south of Charlevoix near Ironston.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sherman of Northville and Ironston are the owners. The SHERMANS were campers but got tired of seeing no vacancy and full signs in state campgrounds and decided to open their own campground.

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Council Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chieftains.

The mission church is the handwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, taking part in a protestant movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

Later Greensky became disenchanted with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes. Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife.

At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent church began. The building is 26 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs. When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18, services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

Jay Oliver, a spokesman for the congregation, says the church is presently trying to buy back some of the nearby land which has been bought by the white man. Much of the area is Indian burial ground, marked by rude crosses and tumbledown fences.

CURRITUCK

The Currituck has close to minimum equipment for convenient operation, yet is elegant and serviceable. It is recommended particularly for waterskiing and other short haul activity in protected waters; for open water where carrying capacity is more important than comfort; and when fitted with platform, bow rail and flying top set (see also page 12). It makes an excellent camper with room for three sleepers. We do not favor it for steady duty in open water because passengers and pilot must sit. Standing, which is easy and natural part of the time in other models, makes for more comfort in heavy going. The Currituck is exceptionally good for water-skiing and skin diving, with large horsepower capacity, lots of room, ease of boarding and ease in cleanup.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

Boat Battery Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Too many boatmen forget about the battery until the day when they turn the starter key and nothing happens.

The seashore sand locust endures dune temperatures up to 135 degrees F. simply by jumping about. The grasshopper leaps into air that may be 50 degrees cooler a few feet above the hot sand's surface.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey Stones is to look for them at the water's edge. The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry. In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bells Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patrolize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Have a Bacon "Ball" Month

Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.

Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Where to Send for Charts

Coastal and Intracoastal waterway charts, U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Washington Science Center, Rockville, Maryland, Great Lakes and connecting waterways, U.S. Lake Survey, 630 Federal Building, Detroit, Michigan, Mississippi River System, Office of Division Engineer, U.S. Corps of Engineers, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois, TVA Lakes, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee, Lakes and rivers under jurisdiction of U.S. Corps of Engineers, write Chief of Engineers, Department of the Army, Building T7, Gravelly Point, Virginia.

THE COST--The Administration's budget works out to just under $10 a week for every person in the U.S.

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

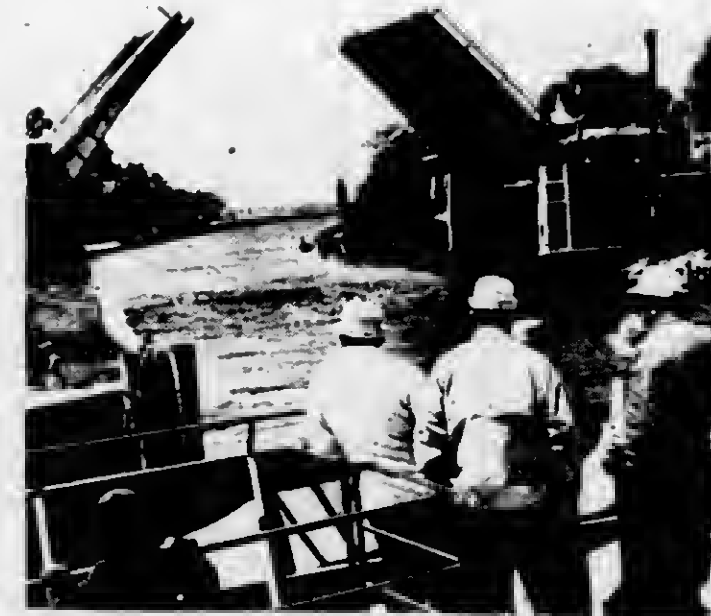

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million - dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushiest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office
worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor
and ask him to remove it.

Don't try to work the hook
out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with hooks: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point
with a small cork.

A Wyoming buffalo ranch
does a brisk trade in a strange
by-product--bleached buffalo skulls. Interior decorators snap them up.

Bell's Bay State Forest
Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing

shoreline, the campground
provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest
of spectacular sunsets.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered.
Fresh running water, toilets
and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the world is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of
of being near a community
equipped to fill their every need, Bell's Bay is the perfect spot. The campground is located on the Lake Shore
Drive about three miles from town. Ask at a service station, your motel, grocery store, restaurant or elsewhere for directions.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park
on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on
Beaver Island at the county's
Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and
Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

BEAUTIFUL BELLS BAY is located just south of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan.
National Forest campsites are available.

ON TASTE AND ITS APPLICATION. (CRACK!-short right)

Good taste is a practiced habit of the eye, strengthened by a sure and cultivated instinct for creating beauty.
Taste separates more than it unites and, paradoxically, the lack of taste, unlike the lack of money, position, power or education, never seems to make people unhappy. They simply don't know it when they haven't any.

The development and application of good taste is the primary principle in our approach to interior designing which suits the individual. We exert every effort to leave nothing to chance. Style, color sense, scale balance, proportion and expense are our disciplines. (BIM!-BAM!-the old one-two)

We believe you will find us more-than-able to please, real fun to work with and thoroughly capable of practical solution of your particular decorating problem, whether the solution be gayly light-hearted or serenely elegant-and always with flair. Also, the solution can be had strictly within your budget. Good taste need not be costly.

Learn to Swim For Summer Safety, Fun

As the outdoor swimming season approaches once again, the safety experts predict with certainty that more than 6,000 Americans will drown in the coming months.

They will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing swim and others will fall out of boats or off docks and piers.

Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen.

The magazine, "Today's Health," offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family.

LEARN TO swim and to relax in the water. Never swim alone.

Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

Do not overestimate your ability and endurance.

East Jordan's History Dates to Logging Days

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley.

The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and at a longboat. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art

THE CHARLEVOIX Public Library welcomes summer visitors. The library is open from 1:30-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to Noon on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test.

Side brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only.

KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves through college" by waiting table at Charlevoix restaurants.

Many fine restaurants are located right in the heart of town. However, a few minutes' drive in almost any direction will bring you to many other fine dining establishments.

Had Early Beginning
The 101st engineer battalion and the 182nd infantry regiment of the Massachusetts national guard can trace their history back to 1636, when they were first formed into militia regiments.

Alma Mater

The expression "alma mater" was applied to universities during the Middle Ages and probably was first used by a student in referring to his college at the University of Bonn, Germany. A statue of the Virgin Mary at Bonn was called "Alma Mater," or beloved mother.

Castle Van Haver

HIGHWAY M-66 JUST 2 MILES SOUTH OF CHARLEVOIX

Legendary medieval atmosphere, an enormous complex of gardens, courtyards, fountains, Norman arches, Gothic arches, towers, battlements, porticulis, heraldic arms, and a great hall 250 feet long.

A recreational and educational experience for the whole family, with visions of King Arthur, Sir Lancelot and the Knights of the Round Table. The great medieval complexes, with living quarters, defense towers, shops, crafts, etc. Here is a glimpse back into times immemorial, to the crusades, to the great heritage of the western world.

Castle Van Haver is perhaps the closest approach to medieval European atmosphere in America. It is the restoration of the renowned Loeb Estate.

COME AS YOU ARE--EVERYONE WELCOME

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with

Library Is Open to City Visitors

The well-stocked Charlevoix Library stands ready to be of service to visitors as well as year-round city residents.

Located at the intersection of Clinton and State Streets, the library was built in 1909 with a grant from the Carnegie Foundation.

Hours are 10 a.m. until noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 1:30 until 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

A NEW LIBRARY is now under construction on Clinton Street between Bridge and State.

Designed by the Charlevoix architectural firm of Begrow and Brown, the new building will be ready for occupancy next spring.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play..." is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health".

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading. It may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY--$400,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing? The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Refrigerator Cookies

Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a snack.

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops--The Treasurer Cove--actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank in the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoixan Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oaken ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, deacon's benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "Tween Decks" bar under Irv Drost's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and welded anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material in them to keep him busy ten years.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a blustery November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 hands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning. It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan.

Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore.

The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasurer Cove, at Leland.

THIS IS what the Sawyer's timbers looked like after being dredged from the bottom of Bells Bay. The keel section (center above) is now the "Tween Decks" bar.

Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and jewelry which had an enormous appeal among his customers.

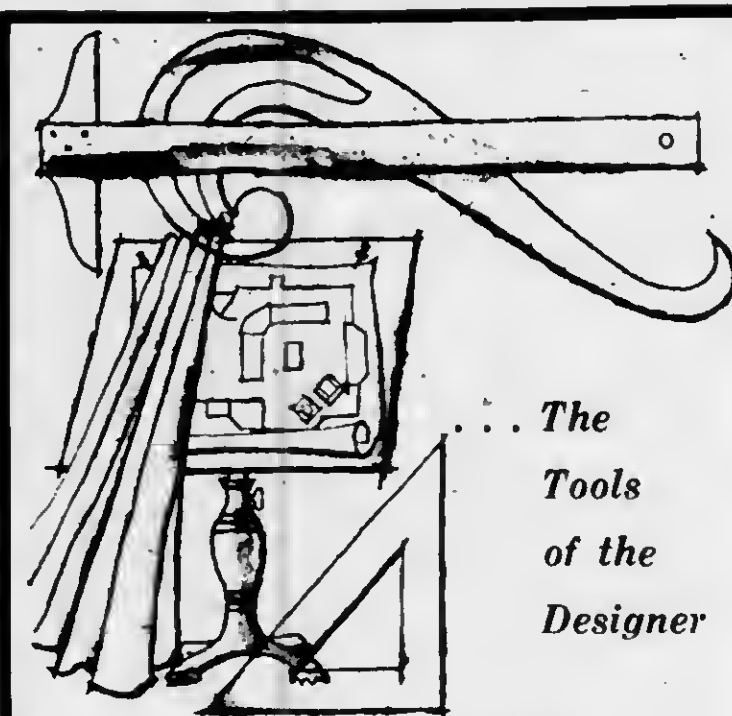

JEWELRY PIECES are polished to a rich luster, but most of the furniture is left semi-rough, a pleasing blend of wood grain and texture. Blemishes are left pretty much as they are.

A professional diver, Sawtelle says he first became interested in making articles from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship in Bells Bay about five years ago.

The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

The earth's home galaxy, slowly wheeling, has 200 billion suns. Earth's sun makes a full revolution every 230 million years.

Kingston, Jamaica, with a population of 123,500, ranks as the Western Hemisphere's largest English-speaking city south of Miami.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is a better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods--an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Protar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders aches and pains.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles off Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplane operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a true program of revelry in full Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts, rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and deer, turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Disliked Smoking

King James I of England was an unremitting opponent of smoking and once wrote, anonymously, "A custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and, in the black, stinking fume thereof, nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard

Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds.

First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up on ever again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial lures try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevils, spinners.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Leeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm. If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Horton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, jig-a-dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers, Hawaiian Wiggles.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass, smallmouths.

--Newland Lake, for pike, bass, panfish.

--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walloon Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

LEWIS AND DAVE Juilleret of Charlevoix display some of the fine rainbows being taken in Lake Charlevoix. This catch, weighing in excess of 18 pounds, was taken in the Horton Bay area.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba is a pleasant hour's drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. Located in a deep valley and utilizing a natural flow of icy spring water, the hatchery will produce seven million fingerling trout a year for restocking the Great Lakes.

State Police Advice to Boaters

With the coming of summer, State Police have urged boaters to match motor horsepower to boat use. They also ask boatmen to watch for sudden changes in weather, heed storm warning information and follow all boat safety rules. THE CAUTION was coupled with a report that the State Police underwater recovery squad is now up to full strength of 40 for the 1966 water activity season. These men are assigned to 29 posts throughout the state. Assistance in water accidents can be obtained by notifying any State Police post or other law enforcement agency.

The State Police divers are all certified American Red Cross water safety instructors. Each is fully equipped for underwater searches, including lights. For assignments under special conditions the department has available amphibious trucks based at East Lansing headquarters and Brighton.

Marine Growth Slows Vessels Use Tachometer to Check Engine

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpm's) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations. Just because your boat has

"room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry. If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

Take Good Care of Boating Gear

Boating accessories require only a minimum of care, but too often they don't even receive this. To add to the appearance of your rig and increase the life of accessories, the following steps:

Floor mats, seats and convertible tops should be washed periodically. This is true for both fresh and salt water craft. A mild soap solution-avoid harsh detergents-will remove dirt and smudge marks. This should be followed by a thorough rinsing with fresh water.

CG Auxiliary Inspects Boats

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Courtesy Examination is safe boating insurance.

The program is now underway at most launching ramps and marinas in the country. The examination, conducted by auxiliary members, is free.

When storing tops between boating outings, make sure they are thoroughly dry. When you store a wet top, you're inviting mildew.

March Is Deadline for Grandvue Wing

EAST JORDAN - The new wing of the Grandvue Medical Facility will be completed on or before March 17, 1967,

There Are Jobs In Youth Corps

CHARLEVOIX--There are still openings for unemployed youths 16 to 21 years of age in the Neighborhood Youth Program, according to Roger Rehberg, NYC director in M. Pleasant. The program is sponsored by the Northern Michigan Community Action Program (NORCAP), one of the federal government's field forces in the war on poverty.

Youths from low income families who are interested in the program are asked to contact Charlevoix Superintendant of Schools Rex Mulligan, Liberty 7-6741.

Jobs available are as aids in schools, hospitals, parks, libraries, playgrounds, and with local and state government agencies. The pay is $1.25 an hour.

at a cost of about $142,593. Mrs. Hilda Hartlep, administrator and director of nurses, said that the wing will be used for expansion of present patient dining room and new dining room for the staff, physical therapy, diversional therapy and 12 patients' beds. She also said the present staff dining room would probably be converted into a beauty shop.

The contractor is McCready and Sons of Gaylord.

GRANDVUE was first housed in the old Community Care Building from 1948 to 1958 when the present facility was ready for occupancy. The facility is completely county-owned and operated and receives no other government aid.

The facility is full and has a waiting list. Any patient will be admitted if there is room and the doctor feels that the patient needs more care than is available in a private home but less than in a hospital. Patients under 65 are admitted if they have a chronic disease. Ages of patient at the facility range from 99 years old to 40.

March Is Deadline for Grandvue Wing

EAST JORDAN -- The new wing of the Grandvue Medical Facility will be completed on or before March 17, 1967.

There Are Jobs In Youth Corps

CHARLEVOIX--There are still openings for unemployed youths 16 to 21 years of age in the Neighborhood Youth Program, according to Roger Rehberg, NYC director in Mt. Pleasant. The program is sponsored by the Northern Michigan Community Action Program (NORCAP), one of the federal government's field forces in the war on poverty.

Youths from low income families who are interested in the program are asked to contact Charlevoix Superintendant of Schools Rex Milligan, Liberty 7-6741.

Jobs available are as aids in schools, hospitals, parks, libraries, playgrounds, and with local and state government agencies. The pay is $1.25 an hour.

at a cost of about $142,593. Mrs. Hilda Hartlep, administrator and director of nurses, said that the wing will be used for expansion of present patient dining room and new dining room for the staff, physical therapy, diversional therapy and 12 patients' beds. She also said the present staff dining room would probably be converted into a beauty shop.

The contractor is McCready and Sons of Gaylord.

GRANDVUE was first housed in the old Community Care Building from 1948 to 1958 when the present facility was ready for occupancy. The facility is completely county-owned and operated and receives no other government aid.

The facility is full and has a waiting list. Any patient will be admitted if there is room and the doctor feels that the patient needs more care than is available in a private home but less than in a hospital. Patients under 65 are admitted if they have a chronic disease. Ages of patient at the facility range from 99 years old to 40.

To Keep Man Free

Scientists have not always been free to work unhindered on the theories and investigations that led to the discoveries that have been such a great boon to mankind. There was a time when they were compelled to study and work in secret, in constant danger of being persecuted and thrown into prison. Men such as Galileo worked in secret and wrote in code because churchmen believed they were advancing theories and teachings contrary to the teachings of the Bible.

In modern times we have seen this procedure reversed. In some countries churchmen have been imprisoned and "brain washed." Some peoples proclaimed that religion is an opiate, God a myth, that man is sufficient unto himself.

Gradually, however, it is dawning in men's minds that with God removed from the picture man's discoveries and inventions are paving the way for his destruction, that science and the Church must work together. They are beginning to realize that it takes science and the Church working hand in hand to reveal the TRUTHS that make and can keep man free.

U. S. Earmarks Funds to Study Poverty in Area

Democrats Raymond Cleveland, congressman from the 11th District, and Michigan Senator Philip Hart have announced a federal government grant of $18,761 to Charlevoix and three other northern Michigan counties to study the problems of the poor and the causes of poverty.

The money also will be used to survey local resources that might be used to help the poor and to develop anti-poverty programs.

The funds have been allocated to so-called "Two Cops," an affiliate of Northern Community Action Programs (NORCAP).

Other counties sharing the funds are Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego.

Recent visitors at the William Parsons home were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Pierce and son of Grand Rapids.

PED-PAD Participants get ready for their bicycle trip from Mackinaw City to East Jordan.

Boys Travel by Bicycle, Canoe at Lutheran Camp

EAST JORDAN -- A unique summer recreation program incorporating long distance bicycling, canoe trips and overnight camping is being sponsored again this year by the Rev. Warren Salvesson, of the Evangelical Lutheran Church here. Called Ped-Pad (for pedaling and paddling) the program was started two years ago by Rev. Salvesson. About 50 senior high school boys take part in the program each year, in groups of about eight.

THIS YEAR'S itinerary includes a cycle-trip from Mackinaw City to East Jordan. At East Jordan the group embarks on canoe trips on the Jordan River and Lake Charlevoix.

The boys camp out every night during their six-day excursion.

The program is carried out under the auspices of the American Lutheran Church and is licensed under the state as an official camp.

THERE ARE four full-time staff members, including two counselors and their assistants. One of the counselors is a Wayne State University graduate and the other is a second-year seminary student from Columbus, Ohio. The assistants both are high school graduates.

Participants, who must be in grades 10 through 12 to apply, come mostly from the Detroit-Toledo area. A fee of $30 is charged each boy to help pay counselors and buy equipment.

REV. SALVESSON says the unusual camping experience is designed to help youngsters relate their Scriptural training to real life situations. He said the number in each group is limited, because he believes camping in small groups is more thought-provoking.

Ped-Pad will end Aug. 27 with an experimental co-educational trip.

Next year Rev. Salvesson hopes to expand the program to include canoeing and camping on the Chain-of-Lakes.

Guest Pastor Talks Sunday

The Rev. William Reed of New York City will be guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday at Christ Episcopal Church.

Rev. Reed, who is staying at the Don Swinton cottage, is affiliated with Trinity Episcopal Church in New York and is in charge of the Lower East Side division. He will discuss his work in the nation's largest city.

Miss LaClair Repeats Vows At St. Marys

Miss Judy Rae LaClair of Ellsworth and Arthur William Miller of Ellsworth were united in marriage August 6 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Rev. E. Francis Denay officiated the double ring nuptial mass.

Miss LaClair is the daughter of Mrs. Edith LaClair and the late William LaClair. Miller is the son of Mrs. Daniel Webb of Detroit.

Mrs. Frank Oleksy was organist and Art Hellig was soloist.

Escorted by her brother, Ronald LaClair of Lansing, the bride wore a floor-length modified sheath of skinner satin. Re-embroidered Alencon lace accented the scalloped neckline and decorated the skirt and bodice.

The dress featured a removable lace-edged court train. She wore a full length French illusion veil. Her bouquet was white sweetheart roses, stephanotis, white Phalaenopsis orchids and upright ivy.

MISS GAIL ANN Yettaw of Detroit was maid of honor. She wore a gold-colored crepe floor length gown with a deeper gold brocade bodice and floor length coat train. Her headpiece was gold crepe roses on a bow with a short veil. Her bouquet was cascading bronze daisy pom poms and upright ivy.

Miss Shirley Gibson of Charlevoix and Miss Mary Bob Mathews of Indianapolis were bridesmaids.

Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor's except the bridesmaids wore mint and emerald green. They carried bouquets of cascading yellow daisy pom poms and upright ivy.

Jerry Yettaw of East Jordan was best man.

Ushers were Maurie Taylor, Ed Drenth, and Wayne Goeman, all of Ellsworth.

Miss Judy Rae LaClair

Dr. Catton Refutes 'God Is Dead' Idea

Dr. Ione Catton of Claremont, Calif., addressed the Charlevoix Congregation at Church Sunday morning. Dr. Catton, sister of the author Bruce Catton, first came to Charlevoix in 1910 where she taught English at the High School seven years. Since then she has served on the Congregational Church Board in state and national offices.

Dr. Catton said she doesn't put much stock in the current 'God is dead' philosophy. "Take a tree, for example. Only God can make a tree and keep it alive," she said. "Who else but God could arrange to have a tree draw sap 100 feet or more to nourish its furthestmost boughs?"

Dr. Catton, who spent two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wexstaff, went to Benzonia Monday where she will spend a month visiting at the cottages of her brothers, Bruce and Robert.

Coffee Honors Air Force Wife

Mrs. George Mosey was honored at a farewell coffee at the home of Mrs. Leon Condiot.

The Moseys will be leaving Charlevoix for Hawthorne, Nev., where Mosey will be stationed with the Air Force.

Attending the coffee were Mrs. Jack Poff, Mrs. Jack Chaffins, Mrs. Gerald Ohmer, Mrs. William Cardwell, Mrs. James Cook, Mrs. Wallace Bennett, Mrs. Robert Early, Mrs. Charles Parsons, Mrs. Don Lee, Mrs. James Hignite and Mrs. Robert Ganzel.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
The lead in the fastball league, became firmly established as a result of last Saturday's game between American Mold and Lake Construction. Mold won the crucial contest 9-7 and thus goes a game up with just three weeks left to play. In the all-important game, Mold saw an early lead disappear then battle back with three runs in the bottom of the sixth for the win. Ken Balch and Ron Grunch traced homers in the slugfest.

Earlier in the week American Mold had nothing but fun with the servicemen, who were without their pitcher, as they won 18-3. Dave Smith had two hits one a double for the winners while the servicemen picked up three scattered singles.

County State Bank won a fine game against Oleson's defeating them 4-2. Gary Crain picked up the win, and his two hits led the Bank boys. John Ferguson's double was the only extra base hit for Olesons.

Wilson - Mayhew of East Jordan scored twice in the first and fifth innings to whip Oleson's 5-2. Losing pitcher, Rich Reeves picked up two of the three hits off the offerings of Glen Mayhew, one a long home run.

PEANUT LEAGUE
The Cardinals won the crucial game in the Peanut League defeating the Cubs 4-0 behind the steady shutout pitching of Larry Potter. The Cards collected only four hits from the offerings of pitcher Dan Tollas but combined them with a couple of misplays by the losers and it was just enough.

The Astros defeated the Pirates 12-4 combining walks and errors for a good portion of their runs. Roger Crain was winning pitcher.

BLOOPER LEAGUE

The Medicine Chest tossed a sharp shutout at Freedmans Seniors winning 12-0. Don Demcor and Ralph Doan had a double and single for the winners while Cooper chipped in with a home run. John Swanson banged out two hits for the losers.

Novaks bounced American Mold seniors 16-10 behind a 15 hit attack paced by Bill Lusk's triple and single.

Boysie City scored five times in their final time at bat then shut out Ilimitons in the bottom of the same inning for a 9-5 win.

WOMENS LEAGUE

Edwards nearly clinched the city title by whipping Paul-Reed 11-3. Six runs in the second sealed the win and Jane Norton's triple was the big blow. Myrna Boss allowed but three hits.

All's Texaco scored eight times in the third to beat the Dairy Queens 12-4. Mary Cummings had two hits for the victors while Connie Smith's single and triple led the losers.

Ralph Foster Captures 'Arm of Honor' Golf Title

CHARLEVOIX -- Ralph Foster of Good Hart and Lake Worth, Fla., captured honors at the fourth annual Arm of Honor and second annual Eastern Michigan University golf tournament held at the Municipal Golf Course here Saturday.

He posted a score of 87 to capture both trophies. The runner-up was Dr. Lloyd Olds of Ypsilanti, 1964 champion, who covered the course in 88. George Driggett of Milwaukee, the defending champion, came in third with a 90.

Callaway champions were: Ed Mills of Wayne, first; Leroy "Rip" VanWinkle of Tecumseh, second and Dr. Jack Barker of Centerville and Bud Brown of Ferndale who tied for third.

DR. OLDS was presented with the first Dr. "Dad" Dose Award, named for the founder and patron of the Arm of Honor fraternity. The award was given in recognition of Dr. Olds' work in behalf of the fraternity.

Twenty-one fraternity members and E. M. U. alumni participated in the event here Saturday. On Saturday evening the group and their guests numbering 54, gathered at The Woodshed for the annual dinner at which awards were made and a brief business meeting held.

Guest awards were presented to Ron Rossman of Jackson and Glenn Chappell of Detroit who placed first and second among the guests playing in the tournament.

MAYOR WILLIAM Fochtman and Mrs. Fochtman and Fran Martin attended as guests of the group.

At the election of officers, the following were unanimously re-elected president, Driggett who served as master of ceremonies; vice president, Wayne Kennedy of Long Lake; secretary, George "Les" Coatta of Torch Lake and treasurer, Walter Draper of Franklin.

SENIOR CITIZENS

The second summer meeting of the Charlevoix area senior citizens attracted over 40 persons, and the enthusiastic group proved that there is a definite need for such an organization here year around.

The club decided to hold a potluck supper at the Church of God Fellowship Hall on Friday, Aug. 12 at 6 p.m. All those interested in the senior citizens are urged to attend. People are asked to bring their own service and a dish to pass. Coffee and tea will be furnished by the club. The potluck meeting is especially important because officers will be elected to serve for a year. A social hour will follow the meeting.

At the meeting held last week George Driggett spoke of his senior citizen club in Wisconsin and told of their activities and organization. Roy Bennett, told the large crowd of the organization steps taken this summer, and Recreation Director Deano Davenport told of what steps were still necessary to become well organized and spoke on the responsibilities of club officers.

TENNIS

The summer tennis school officially closed with last week's class playing actual games and reviewing the contents of the five week course.

RED CROSS SWIMMING

The swimming class continues to progress nicely with the adult class working on the sidestroke and other resting strokes. The junior and senior lifesaving class have concluded the endurance section and are currently working on holds and carries. They are building up to using aids in the water to save victims.

ADVENTURE CLUB

The Saturday morning Adventure Club concluded its summer activities with softball games, water games, and a large group game of capture the ball.

Says Mammon Adulated Here

Dear Mr. Clock,
Your analogy comparing the Medusa plant to the temples of the ancient world is an apt one. Just as their temples showed where their covetousness lay, this construction makes clear that in our country and in our time the god Mammon takes precedence over all others. We judge the Greeks by their monuments and I suppose future generations will be entitled to judge us by ours. Yours very truly,
Peggy Broder

How to Run a Perfect Newspaper

(The following is reprinted from the Manistique Pioneer Tribune, David Rood and James Tagg co-publishers.)

The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion and to furnish that cheek upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide.

We don't have enough special weeks in the year as it is now, so let's add another one and promote an appropriate observance.

We have Anti-Noise Week and Anti-Litter Week, so now let's all get together and have Anti-Newspaper Week. From all indications it should be a tremendous success.

It will be an appropriate time to join together to blame the newspaper for what's wrong with the community and with the people in it. Everybody can get it all off their chests and then sit at home in the evening and drink beer and watch television, secure in the knowledge that they have done their part.

A committee can be organized to work out all the details, but certainly special attention should be given to news reporting. Hundreds of people are convinced weekly that the news reporting idea is all wrong, and they would be glad to serve to help correct it. Perhaps they can emphasize that the newspaper should only print good news, and glad tidings, and nice things about nice people. They can campaign to do away with bad news, and prohibit newspapers from reporting that people do get drunk, get involved in auto accidents, receive traffic tickets, make fools of themselves, go into bankruptcy, shoot their wives, assault their neighbors, set fire to the church, embezzle money and spend tax dollars foolishly.

PERHAPS a special award can be given for the newspaper that doesn't offend anybody.

Of course this paper couldn't run wedding stories, on the off chance that the bride may be pregnant, or the groom a fortune hunter, or both seeking matrimony on the rebound from unhappy love affairs.

This perfect newspaper could never print the church notices, for there are those who don't believe in churches, and who oppose organized religion, and the newspaper should not offend these people.

This perfect newspaper would carry no advertising, because advertising is competitive, and it isn't fair for one store to buy an ad in the paper because it might help the store sell more merchandise at the expense of some other competitor who didn't buy an ad. That's not fair, and besides, everyone knows that newspapers have all the money they need anyway. Why give them advertising?

Our perfect newspaper will carry no pictures, because there is a very good chance that someone might be offended. The camera doesn't lie, they say, but maybe the newspaper does. The picture may be too close to the truth for many people to stomach, and it's easier to blame the newspaper for printing the pictures than it is to blame whoever or whatever is represented in the picture. If a news photographer takes a picture of a bank robber fleeing with the cash, his paper would be better off not to print it, for they'll be blamed for the bank robbery and the thief will complain because the photo didn't capture the real him and was of his worst profile.

IT GOES WITHOUT saying that the perfect paper will never carry news reports of city council sessions or school board meetings or court trials or public hearings. We can't have the newspaper offending politicians and elected officials and bureaucrats who as everyone knows are the only ones who know how to run the government. There will be no embarrassing quotes, no reports of what they did or how they acted. Government will reach a new high in efficiency.

This newspaper can't carry social items, for fear someone will be hurt because they weren't invited to Mrs. Whosit's social; there will be no obituaries because there is the possibility that one might be longer than that of some other person, or might omit a pallbearer; no weather reports, because everyone knows it's 15 degrees cooler (or warmer) at the lake than in town; no legal notices, because they cost money and the judges and the lawyers want to keep the estate costs as low as possible; no minutes of public meetings, because they are too expensive and nobody reads them except taxpayers.

THERE WILL be no news stories of happenings or new stores or new people because someone may get a little free publicity and that's not fair to anyone else who doesn't have his name in the paper that week. If a Democrat comes to town it will be ignored, for fear of offending Republicans. If a Republican comes to town, same thing.

There will be no sports stories, for in every game there is a winner and a loser, and we can't mention losers in the perfect paper. There is also the chance that the paper would forget to mention that Junior Glutz scored three points and Mr. and Mrs. Glutz would never forgive the editor for such an omission.

More important, there will be no editorials or columns; no attempt to explain or to comment or to lead the community. This is the best way possible to offend people, so let's cut it out right now. Who cares if we have a better community? Who cares if someone attempts to speak for the people? Who cares, if the newspaper doesn't care?

So there we have it—the perfect newspaper. No news, no pictures, no editorials, no ads. Take an imperfect newspaper and color it black and blue from the lumps it takes while doing its job. Take the perfect newspaper and color it nothing—leave it blank and drab and colorless, for that's exactly what it is.

Not only is it a perfect newspaper, but you'll still be able to wrap your garbage and line the birdcage with it.

What more do you want?

Bermuda Will Miss Coasties

(The following editorial is reprinted from the Bermuda Royal Gazette dated June 13, 1966. It is indicative of the high esteem in which the U.S. Coast Guard is held, even in foreign ports.)

The U.S. Coast Guard pull-out from Bermuda will be a severe loss in a great many respects.

Economically speaking, the unit forms a not unimportant sector of the contribution the U.S. Forces make to our economy, day in and day out.

This deprivation alone would make last week's announcement sorrowful enough, because the steady presence of U.S. personnel in our midst is reinforcement of our basic national business, although we cannot consider Uncle Sam's Coast Guardsmen as tourists.

Probably of greater import to the colony, however, is the service the U.S. Coast Guard renders us in times of emergency and distress -- their traditional role in home waters.

what has been the value of the search and rescue services rendered to Bermuda by men of the U.S. Coast Guard.

They have never stinted in their efforts to succor those of our people who have encountered hazard off our shores. For this alone, we owe them an irreparable debt.

The role they play here has been given immediate point by consideration of alternative arrangements by the local authorities.

No matter what these arrangements may be—and we presume they will be the best we can effect -- we shall be unable to deploy the facilities the U.S. Coast Guard can bring to bear.

THE MOST philosophical approach, we suppose, is to be thankful that we have had their services for so long.

We live in a fairly constant state of uncertainty as to what may be done concerning the U.S. Forces here, but it has usually been the case that Bermuda finds a favouring flaw, no matter what the shifts of high policy may be.

AND THE RAIN came... and, though it didn't add up to quite an inch it was a beautiful rain... that's done a world of good for lawns that looked as though they'd about had it till this came along... now they're all looking so pretty and green again... as do the flowers, trees and shrubs... I guess it gave just everyone and everything a new lease on life...

AND SPEAKING of weather, a letter came in the mail the other day from Little Rock, Ark... I figured I could count on one finger the people I knew in Little Rock... and besides I didn't recognize the name on the envelope... Seems I'd mentioned the hot weather in one of my recent columns and this gal just had to make some comment on it... She wrote: "Today I can't resist a comment on your reaction to the dry, hot summer. Don't know what your temperatures are but here in Little Rock we had 100-103-105 degrees most of the time since mid-June. Yesterday it was only 89 and we felt chilly... So it's all in what you get used to! I dreaded moving South because of the heat but I've grown used to it... But I must admit we're well prepared for heat... everything's air-conditioned including our cars and houses... But you ought to see this whole city take cover when it snows. No big snowplows or salt to clear the highways, or city streets. The only ones out driving in the snow are the Yankees... Also we have low humidity usually... no lake to cool us or load the air with moisture. Here again, it's point of view. We're grateful that our lakes are 10 miles away so we can keep dry... All that from a real Yankee who once had the idea that she couldn't live far from the shores of Lake Michigan... I mean, Mrs. F. E. Greifenstein, the former Bernys Lamphear... whom I hadn't heard from for ages and ages..."

HAD QUITE an experience on Clinton st. the other day... I was in the block east of the tennis courts when I saw a little black squirrel enjoying a treat in the Orn Bergeson Yard... I stopped and watched him for a while and then continued toward him... where upon, he scampered a few feet up the nearest tree, found himself a place to sit where a branch had been cut off and proceeded to scrutinize the approaching enemy... Very cautiously I moved right up to where he was sitting, hauled out a camera and snapped away while he watched from his lofty perch... no more than six feet above me... We have one in my neighborhood who knows where the easy pickin' is... every morning I observe him coming to a house down the street where there are several children... Kids will drop food and he spends more time eating all kinds of treats, I've noticed...

OPENED a magazine that just came in the mail and while thumbing through it noticed an ad publishing an "air shuttle that is the 12th busiest commuter service"... I wouldn't have given it a second thought any other time but with the air strike on... well, this sort of seemed like a waste of space...

Some of us were trying to get home after a visit to the midwest... it was time to Chicago but trying to get out of there was next to impossible... Getting train reservations wasn't any easier... Seems that if you want a good reservation for July you make your initial call in March or so... It's hard to believe there's that many people on the move sans cars... but guess it's so...

REMEMBER not long ago I mentioned the lovely house? Received two perfectly beautiful white ones last night from Mrs. Mabel Graves... the first from a plant she's been nursing along for about three years... but they were worth waiting for, they're so lovely... They're slowly opening up and I'm enjoying them so much...

WAS SHOCKED at the small number of people who voted in Tuesday's primary election... By one a.m. Wednesday morning, all precincts had reported with the exception of Hudson township that never did get their totals in till some time Wednesday... I think it's a crime when people fail to vote... "You shouldn't have a September primary in August"... So Americans are people of habit... or, should I say, Michigananders are people of habit... It's about time they "kicked" the habit and went to the polls when they're supposed to... Neglecting to vote is giving radicals a chance to get that well known tie in the door... The people of Germany once thought they had nothing to fear from a radical when they classified as a crazy paperhanger... But he had quite a fling for himself for quite a few years... Just because people weren't interested enough to do something about him... It couldn't happen here? Wanna bet?

Clockwise

Aside from birthdays, nothing makes a fellow feel older than remembering things other people have only read about in history books.

Take the lumber camps, for example, I don't carry a cane, yet, and I try not to say "By cracker!" but I remember when at least one town in Michigan--Ontonagon in the Upper Peninsula---was supported almost entirely by the lumber industry.

In fact, I worked for the Gorman Lumber Co. one summer as a section hand on the company-owned railroad. The line ran east from Ontonagon along the Lake Superior shore to bring in logs from the woods.

Judging from the reports of recent visitors, Ontonagon isn't half the town it used to be in its rip-roaring lumber heyday. When I worked there in 1948, the town had a population of 2,100 people. It was a matter of pride with the local citizenry that in an emergency, the entire population could be accommodated in its 21 bars without crowding. (To be truthful, one bar was closed while I was there for allowing nefarious activities in the booths, but that's another story.)

THE LUMBERJACK was much in evidence on the streets of Ontonagon in those days, although only a fraction of the fellows working in the woods were ever in town at any one time. They would work two or three weeks and then come into Ontonagon on the train to live it up in the saloons for a few days.

There were stories about "jacks" who would hand over big bank rolls to their favorite bartenders and tell them to let them know when they had drunk it up. There was one bar which allegedly had a chute in the back room leading to the basement. Glin-soaked "jacks" were dropped down the chute where they slept it off in the basement on mattresses supplied by the management. There were lots of stories about "jacks," and I believed every one of them.

THE SHANGHAING of lumberjacks by logging camp operators was accepted as a matter of course. Sunday morning after a busy Saturday night the pickings were particularly good. A dozen or more lumberjacks would be sprawled along the walk in front of the mess hall.

One morning I came upon an operator who was coming into town every Sabbath morn with his pickup truck. He would survey the wreckage of the night before lying on the sidewalk, select five or six strapping specimens, hoist them into the truck and off he'd go into the woods.

Once sober, the "jacks" worked just long enough to finance another binge in town. The system was so well established I never heard one worn against it, not even from the lumberjacks themselves. Many, undoubtedly, were agreeably surprised to wake up and find themselves still in Ontonagon County rather than some far corner of Hell.

THE JOB of Section hand is not the easiest in the world, but there's no better way for a young fellow to keep in shape. My first day on the job was spent tamping railroad ties. Gandy dancing, we called it. I don't think I've ever been so tired in my life. Then, to make matters worse, I gandy danced all that night in my dreams. By morning I was ready for the scrap heap.

After a while, the work, like most work, became routine, but it was a pleasant routine. We'd leave town at 7 a.m., every morning aboard our little gasoline powered speeder. Before we reached the village limits we would startle a dog or two browsing along our right-of-way. Sometimes they'd lope along in front of us for a while before striking off into the woods.

Before long we'd be rumbling over the Flint Steel River trestle. If we were lucky there'd be a buck standing knee deep in the river, drinking. When he'd hear the speeder he'd take off at a lazy gallop through the marsh grass along the river, his wet flanks glistening in the morning sun. Beyond lay all of Lake Superior, cold and blue.

I DON'T BELIEVE it's generally known that section hands developed a very excellent dietary tradition over the years. They eat lunch twice, once at 9 a.m. and again at noon. My first day on the job, the 9 a.m. lunch break came as a complete surprise. I downed both the Spam sandwiches I had packed, along with a thermos of hot tea, I was equally surprised, but also chagrined, when, at noon, we knocked off for the main lunch hour and I had nothing left to eat. Thereafter I packed two lunches and I never ceased to be amazed at how hungry a fellow can get by 1 p.m.

As soon as we finished lunch, little Boris Koslovich, our Russian-born foreman, would survey the wreckage of the night before lying on the sidewalk, select five or six strapping specimens, hoist them into the truck and off he'd go into the woods.

at the first meeting of the Park Stage Fund Committee. "People come to look at that pond seven days a week," Neff said, adding that band concerts are only held once a week in the summer.

Mrs. Carson said she understands the pool is leaking into what was to have been the band storage room under the stage.

Jim Taylor added that the pool near the Chamber of Commerce office is leaking so badly it either will have to be removed or completely rebuilt.

Robert Somerville asked the Council when he could expect water and sewerage hook-ups to his home on Palmer Street. Taylor said he would make the connections as soon as possible.

Council agreed to study for two weeks a petition to the County Road Commission asking that Division Street from Mercer to U.S. 31 be closed and the land be divided among adjoining property owners.

The Council also:

--Turned down a request by Mrs. Alwood Shaeffer Jr. of Boyne City to waive yard zoning restrictions on a piece of property at Kleech and Division where she intends to build a home. The property presently is owned by Ralph Klosser.

--Agreed to repave Michigan Avenue in the near future. Preliminary preparation will be done by the city, with capping let out to a contractor.

--Took note of a request by Nate Cummings that there is a nationwide trend toward the use of small jet planes and that the Charlevoix Airport must have an additional 1,000 feet of paved runway to accommodate them.

--HEARD a complaint by Del Terrill that Glenn Rose has blacktopped the area between the curb and the sidewalk for parking.

--Took note of a suggestion that more land at Ferry Beach be filled in to provide park area.

Heard an offer from Clares, one for children, adults and an evening class.

THE COMMITTEE is composed of Collis Cantine, Parker Seller, Mrs. Cyndee Riley, Mrs. Doris Huokle, Mrs. Wilma Sayles, Mrs. Gladys Rogers, Mrs. Marce Acker, and Mrs. Betty Boswell.

One year the group sent money to the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts to help a needy art student.

The committee is a non-profit organization and makes expenses by entry fees and donations.

The fair gives artists and craftsman an opportunity to see and become acquainted with our north country and, perhaps, to capture some of its beauty.

The small group deserves a big hand for a job well done. I hope to see many more fairs like this.

WET ON WET IS THE type of water color painting done by Mrs. Betty Rison of East Jordan and Mrs. Dorothy Pelton of Boyne City in the art class sponsored by the Portside Art Fair Committee.

ONE OF CHARLEVOIX's newest tourist attractions is Castle Van Haver, located on M-66 about two miles southeast of the city. The former Loeb dairy barns, reminiscent of a medieval castle, have been converted into an art foundry and gift shop by John Van Haver. This photo, taken at the beginning of restoration by R. Armstrong, took first place in a photo contest sponsored by the Flint Lensmen Camera Club.

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Council Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chieftains. The mission church is the handwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, taking part in a protestant movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area.

Later Greensky became dissatisfied with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes. Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife.

At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent Church began. The building is 26 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs.

When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18, services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

Jay Oliver, a spokesman for the congregation, says the Church is presently trying to buy back some of the nearby land which is being bought by the white man. Much of the area is Indian burial ground, marked by rude crosses and small wooden crosses.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE -- is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Boat Battery

Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Too many boatmen forget about the battery until the day when they turn the starter key and nothing happens.

The seashore sand locust endures due temperatures up to 135 degrees F. simply by jumping about. The grasshopper leaps into air that may be 50 degrees cooler a few feet above the hot sand's surface.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge.

The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry.

In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bells Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter-million visitors.

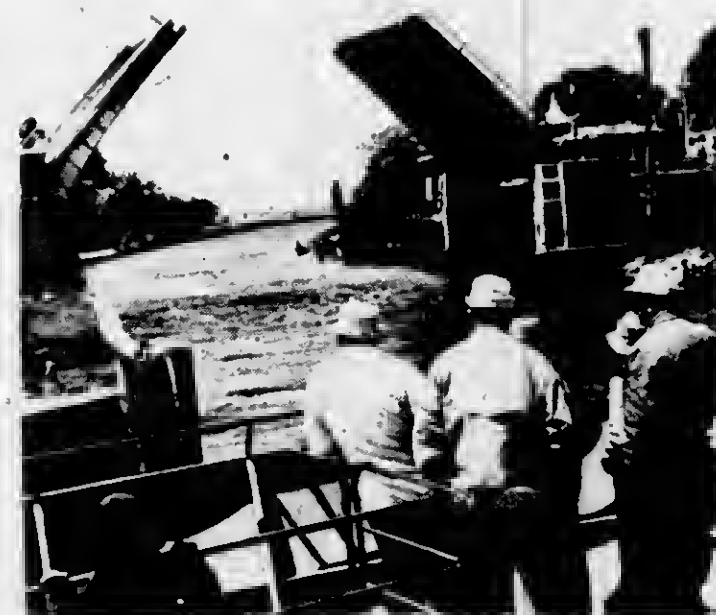

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the highest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business. There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-chug across the neck of the South Arm.

Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life.

The Ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at scenic Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

Musical Adventure

The soothing combination of concert music under cool skies beside a yacht-filled harbor is offered every Wednesday evening at 8:30 p.m. in Charlevoix's East Side Park on Round Lake.

The City Band, a group of young and adult volunteer musicians led by Clarence Odmark, present the music. There are seats -- either on benches or the soft turf (bring your own blanket) -- for everyone. Bring the children, our happy summer people are always glad to see them.

Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it. Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with hooks: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point with a small cork.

A Wyoming buffalo ranch does a brisk trade in a strange by-product--bleached buffalo skulls. Interior decorators snap them up.

BEAUTIFUL BELLS BAY is located just south of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan. National Forest campsites are available.

Looking for a Campsite?

Bell's Bay State Forest Campground offers one of the most scenic settings in northern Michigan. Overlooking Lake Michigan's ever-changing shoreline, the camp ground provides one of the most dramatic views in the Midwest of spectacular sunsets.

Approximately 20 rustic campsites are offered. Fresh running water, toilets and picnic tables are also available at campsites. The finest Petoskey Stone hunting area in the World is right at your doorstep when you're camped at Bell's Bay.

For the family that wants to enjoy the remoteness of

Use Marine Charts For More Boat Fun

Marine charts are guides to more boating fun, but surprisingly few boating families take advantage of them. Perhaps this can be explained by a fear that they're too technical and designed only for professional pilots.

This isn't true. Marine charts are no harder to understand than ordinary highway maps and usually a great deal easier to fold up. They carry a variety of helpful and interesting information. Quite obviously charts show the depth of the water, expressed in either feet or fathoms. Check the chart legend to make sure which!

CHARTS outline the navigable channel. Although this is designed primarily for larger vessels, you can't go wrong if you stay within its bounds. Lighthouses and checkpoints along the shore or located in the channel are also noted. These are handy reference points, and it's a nice feeling to look out and see the marker "just where it's supposed to be."

Harbors and shelters, along with the channel leading into them, are a handy guide to emergency facilities.

Special markings indicate unusual obstructions such as a dangerous rock formation or a sunken wreck. Survey chart No. 1 of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey lists all of these symbols and abbreviations. Most charts are available at a very nominal price, usually less than $1.00.

All charts are dated, and this is for good reason. Sand bar shifts and rivers cut new channels. Make sure you have the latest edition.

Golf, as it is played today, originated in Scotland, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Camping facilities are also available at Young State Park on Lake Charlevoix, at the State Forest Campground on Beaver Island at the county's Whiting's Park on Lake Charlevoix, at private campgrounds on Nowland Lake and Susan Lake.

Camping is usually permissible at Public Fishing Sites.

Learn to Swim For Summer Safety, Fun

As the outdoor swimming season approaches once again, the safety experts predict with certainty that more than 6,000 Americans will drown in the coming months. THEY will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing swim and others will fall out of boats or off docks and piers. Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen. The magazine, "Today's Health," offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family.

LEARN TO swim and to relax in the water. Never swim alone. Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold. Do not overestimate your ability and endurance.

Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard. If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim alone distance to shore.

NEVER DIVE into waters of unknown depth. Try new activities, such as water skiing or scuba diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

MANY families will do most of their swimming this season in private pools, in their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor. There also are some special safety precautions for private pools.

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified.

WALK, DON'T RUN, about the pool. Horseplay should be forbidden.

Fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children.

Keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring buoys.

Keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

A scherzo movement in music is one that is humorous and capricious in character. Annual per capita consumption of beef in the Argentine is well over 200 pounds, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

East Jordan's History Dates to Logging Days

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

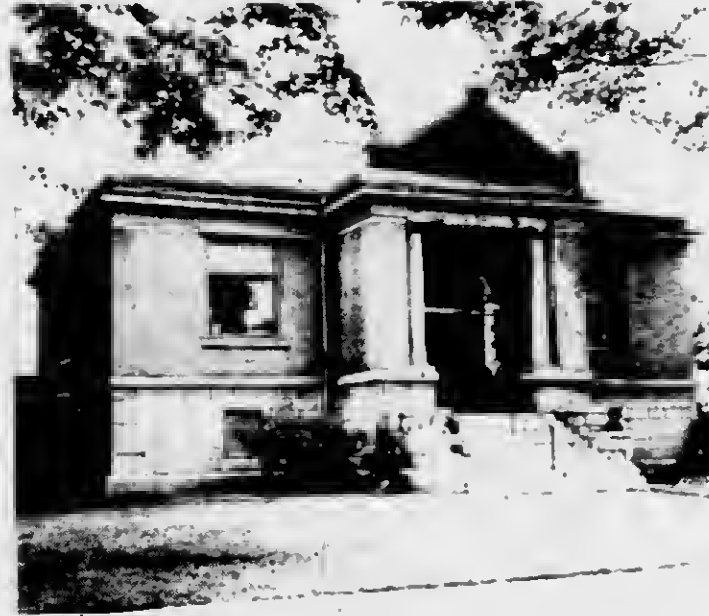

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art

THE CHARLEVOIX Public Library welcomes summer visitors. The library is open from 1:30-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to Noon on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test. Side brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only.

KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves through college by waiting table at Charlevoix restaurants.

Many fine restaurants are located right in the heart of town. However, a few minutes' drive in almost any direction will bring you to many other fine dining establishments.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smetana's, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with

Library Is Open to City Visitors

The well-stocked Charlevoix Library stands ready to be of service to visitors as well as year-round city residents.

Located at the intersection of Clinton and State Streets, the library was built in 1909 with a grant from the Carnegie Foundation.

Hours are 10 a.m. until noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 1:30 until 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

A NEW LIBRARY is now under construction on Clinton Street between Bridge and State.

Designed by the Charlevoix architectural firm of Begrow and Brown, the new building will be ready for occupancy next spring.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play...is still very sound advice."

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health".

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading. It may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY--$600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing?

The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a snack.
Use hard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 99 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops...The Treasurer Cove...actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank in the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oaken ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, deacon's benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "tween Decks" bar under Irv Drost's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and welded anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material in them to keep him busy ten years.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a blustery November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 bands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning. It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan.

Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore.

The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasurer Cove, at Leland.

THIS IS what the Sawyer's timbers looked like after being dredged from the bottom of Bells Bay. The keel section (center above) is now the "Tween Decks" bar.

Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and jewelry which had an enormous appeal among his customers.

JEWELRY PIECES are polished to a rich luster, but most of the furniture is left semi rough, a pleasing blend of wood grain and texture. Blemishes are left pretty much as they are.

A professional diver, Sawtelle says he first became interested in making articles from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship in Bells Bay about five years ago.

The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

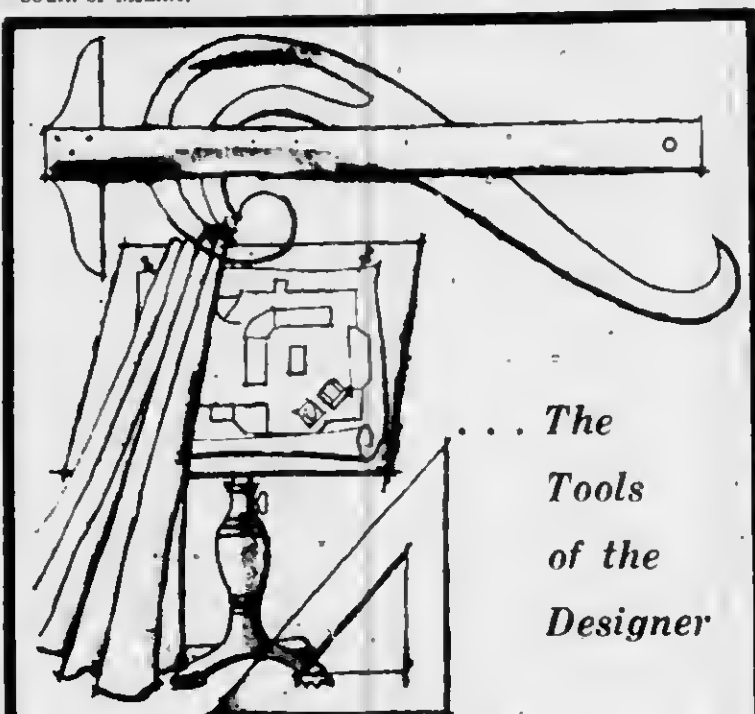

The earth's home galaxy, slowly wheeling, has 200 billion suns. Earth's sun makes a full revolution every 230 million years.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society, which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study". In the woods—an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders aches and pains.

Marine Growth Slows Vessels

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance. If your engine is turning faster (more rpms) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

State Police Advice to Boaters

With the coming of summer, State Police have urged boaters to match motor horsepower to boat use.

They also ask boatmen to watch for sudden changes in weather, heed storm warning information and follow all boat safety rules. THE CAUTION was coupled with a report that the State Police underwater recovery squad is now up to full strength of 40 for the 1966 water activity season. These men are assigned to 29 posts throughout the state. Assistance in water accidents can be obtained by notifying any State Police post or other law enforcement agency.

The State Police divers are all certified American Red Cross water safety instructors. Each is fully equipped for underwater searches, including lights. For assignments under special conditions the department has available amphibious trucks based at East Lansing headquarters and Brighton.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations. Just because your boat has

"room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers

you can safely carry. If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

Take Good Care of Boating Gear

Boating accessories require only a minimum of care, but too often they don't even receive this. To add to the appearance of your rig and increase the life of accessories, the following steps:

Floor mats, seats and convertible tops should be washed periodically. This is true for both fresh and salt water craft. A mild soap solution-avoid harsh detergents-will remove dirt and smudge marks. This should be followed by a thorough rinsing with fresh water.

CG Auxiliary Inspects Boats

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Courtesy Examination is safe boating insurance.

The program is now underway at most launching ramps and marinas in the country. The examination, conducted by auxiliary members, is free.

When storing tops between boating outings, make sure they are thoroughly dry. When you store a wet top, you're inviting mildew.

Sunday Open House Marks Tenth Year for Hospital

CHARLEVOIX -- Charlevoixans and summer residents are invited to inspect Charlevoix Hospital Sunday, Aug. 21, from 2 until 5 p.m. The occasion is the tenth anniversary of Charlevoix's up-to-date medical facility.

Miss Anne Baumgartner, hospital administrator, says many new pieces of equipment will be on display. Most of them have been donated either by the Charlevoix Hospital Guild or summer residents.

The new equipment includes a sensitive electronic device to monitor a patient's heart-beat during surgery. A companion piece is the defibrillator which is used to restart a patient's heart following a cardiac arrest.

Zolton Ferency Will Visit City

Charlevoix County Democrats will host a breakfast for Zolton Ferency, Democratic candidate for governor, at Mont's restaurant Tuesday, Aug. 23, at 7:30 a.m., according to Archie M. Murphy, county chairman.

Ferency and his party will spend Monday night in Charlevoix, attend the breakfast and depart at mid-morning for Emmet County.

Mrs. Dan Genett is general chairman of the breakfast.

Schools Opening Sept. 12

Board Sets Dates

CHARLEVOIX -- The first day of school for Charlevoix youngsters will be Sept. 12, the Charlevoix Board of Education decided Monday night.

Approval of the school calendar was one of several steps taken by the board to prepare for the 1966-67 school year. Board members also: --APPROVED pay increases for bus drivers and cafeteria workers.

--Accepted bids for gasoline, fuel oil, milk and bread.

--Hired two new teachers, completing the regular teaching staff, and;

--Adopted a policy whereby all school board news is made public immediately following each board meeting.

THE SCHOOL calendar actually starts Sept. 9 when teachers will report for their annual pre-school conference. Sept. 12 is the first day for youngsters.

Oct. 6 and 7 youngsters will have off for Teachers' Institute and Nov. 24 and 25 have been set aside for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Christmas vacation will begin Dec. 16 and continue until after New Years. School resumes Jan. 3.

Good Friday, March 24, and Easter Monday, March 27, in the event of excessive snow days during the winter, the Easter Monday holiday will be cancelled.

School will let out for the Memorial Day holiday May 30. Baccalaureate is June 4, Commencement June 7 and June 9 is the last day of school.

BUS DRIVERS this year will receive a base salary of $1,200, plus two cents a mile and a one-cent-a-mile bonus if they complete the school year. Following is the salary to be paid on Charlevoix's eight routes:

Pincherry, $1,581; Barnard, $1,431; Ironton, $1,347; Soud, $1,339; Leeb, North Point $1,332; Marion, $1,413; Maple Grove, $1,506; and Norwood, $1,512. Driver salaries next year will total $11,521.

Drivers rehired were Mrs. Dale Boss, Albert Thorpe, Jim Elzinga, Charles Bleha, Mrs. R. G. Goble, Richard Smith and Abe Howard.

CAFETERIA workers will receive a 14 percent increase, the same as other school employees. Board members agreed to rehire Marie Bilssett, cafeteria manager, at $76.95 a week. She had been getting $67.50. Rose Hilton and Norma Cunningham each will receive $68.40 a week.

Golf Tourney In Wind-Up

The Men's Golf Tournament at the City Course is almost completed, according to clubhouse manager Keith Carey.

The championship flight has narrowed down to Bob Wallace and Bob Livingston. The winner probably will be decided Sunday.

In the first flight, Bruce Livingston defeated Ron Callner, 1 up. In the second, Bill Van Loo and Don Meggison were to decide Monday who will play Del Terrill in the finals. Terrill defeated Norm Helms in the semi-finals 7-6.

IN THE THIRD flight, Art Krullik defeated Glen Taylor, 4-2; fourth, Bob Koteles over Jim Alger, 3-2; and the fifth, Jerry Burke over Jim Lewis.

In the sixth flight, Tom Aceton will play Don Kowbel for the title. No date has been set.

Bruce Livingston was winner among the 17 and 18-year-olds, defeating Bill Gengle, 6-3. Gary Beitel took the crown for the 15 and 16-year-olds, downing Paul Fiedorek 5-4.

Among 14-year-olds, Tom Anderson defeated Stuart Coleman, 6-4.

In the senior finals, Buck Dillefson defeated Lee Scott, 2 up.

LAKE CHARLEVOIX TOWNHOUSES

TOWNHOUSES like these will soon be under construction on the former Hemingway plantation across the South Arm from Ironton. Builder is American Central Corp. of Lansing, which has several land development projects under way in the area.

Firm to Build Townhouses Near Ironton

IRONTON -- American Central Corp. of Lansing has announced plans for a multi-million dollar "Townhouse" development on Lake Charlevoix called Charlevoix Townhouses.

Howard J. Bohnet, American Central vice president, says his firm has acquired the former Homer Bundy property on the peninsula. He said the land already is being cleared for roadways and that construction of the first, five-house unit will begin within two weeks.

Ben Fink of Detroit is general construction superintendent.

THE SITE was once owned by George Hemingway who turned it into a pine plantation during the 1930's with the help of the Civilian Conservation Corps (C.C.C.). Bohnet said that as many pines as possible will be saved. Most of them are 35 to 40 feet high.

Eventually, the company plans to build up to 40 Townhouse units (200 homes) on the site, which has 2,300 feet lake frontage and covers about half-a-mile square.

The Bavarian-style dwellings will be sold to families looking for a second home in the north, Fink said. They will have one to three bedrooms and individual heating plants.

American Central will maintain a crew of workmen on the site to operate water and sewage disposal systems and keep the roads open in winter.

The first unit is expected to be completed by late October.

Bohnet says the Charlevoix Pines development marks the first time his company has gone extensively into the construction business. The firm recently announced plans for subdivisions at South Lake and Bay Shore.

Richard Wells New Patrolman

CHARLEVOIX -- Richard Wells, assistant fire chief for two years, has been appointed a city police officer.

He will work nights, assuming his new duties when the fire department finds a relief man.

Wells has been employed by the city for 15 years, first on the street department then as relief man at the fire hall and then as assistant fire chief.

He is married and has three children.

Quartet to Sing Twice Sunday

The Harbor Lights quartet of Battle Creek will present a concert of sacred music at the Community Church of God at 11 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 21, and at the Community Reformed Church at 3 p.m.

The quartet has made hundreds of personal appearances throughout the Midwest since organizing in 1961. The group has appeared in churches of nearly 30 different denominations.

Members of the quartet are Arnold Burch, tenor; Arden Field, lead; Leon Smith, baritone; Dean Latta, bass; and Dan Pierce, accompanist.

The public is invited to attend both performances.

Luncheon, Show To Benefit School

The Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's will hold a benefit luncheon and style show Thursday, Aug. 25, at 12:30 at St. Mary's School Hall. Proceeds will be used to purchase audio-visual equipment for the school.

Shops and helpers include the Carriage Wheel, Mrs. Edith Stenman, Lieberman's, Mrs. Gerald Left Jr. and Polly Kay, Mrs. William Haggard.

General chairman is Mrs. Jack Begrow. Mrs. Bernard de L'Etoile is head of food and dining room. Mrs. Josh Barnes is in charge of tickets.

Stage set-up head is Mrs. Francis Murdock. In charge of advertising are Mrs. Edward Buday and Mrs. Edward Hansen. Posters are being made by Janet Peters and Kathy Begrow.

Stage Committee Meets Aug. 18

The next meeting of the Little Flower Guild Stage Committee will be Thursday, Aug. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Community Room of the City Hall, according to Mrs. Alexander Wood, chairman.

The committee is attempting to raise money to complete the stage in East Park. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Robert Pfeiffer Married in East

Robert Pfeiffer, 34, of Hudson, Wis., was married recently to Miss Mary Ann Mobley, 24, of Hudson, Wis. The ceremony was held at the First Congregational Church in Hudson, Wis. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiated. The bride was escorted by her father, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pfeiffer. The groom is employed by the Wisconsin Dept. of Transportation. The bride is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. They will reside in Hudson, Wis.

Judith Mae Koteskey Repeats Marriage Vows

Miss Judith Mae Koteskey became the bride of John Richard Nickelsen Jr. of Racine, Wis., Aug. 6 at the First Congregational Church. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiated the double ring rites in the presence of 250 guests. Miss Koteskey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Koteskey of Charlevoix. Nickelsen is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John R. Nickelsen of Racine, Wis. Mrs. Walter Fairbairn played an organ recital before the ceremony.

Mrs. John R. Nickelsen Jr.

Warrew Shapton Promoted by State

Warren W. Shapton, a former resident of Charlevoix, was promoted to deputy director in charge of Conservation Department field operations by Director Ralph A. MacMillen. The promotion was effective Aug. 8.

Shapton has been manager of Region III which covers 36 counties in southern Michigan since May, 1964.

MacMillen said Shapton has shown he is an outstanding administrator of field activities and in his new position he will assume direction of field operations throughout the state. Because of his broad experience in research, wildlife management, administration and previous service in all three regions of the state he is exceptionally well qualified for the important position.

Shapton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shapton, is a native of Charlevoix. He is married to the former Ernestine McKenney. They now live in Lansing and have two daughters.

He received his bachelor's degree in wildlife management from Michigan State University in 1939 and joined the department.

In 1942 he entered the Navy. He returned to his duties at Charlevoix in the Upper Peninsula.

1 Card of Thanks

TO EXPRESS MY GRATITUDE for the kind sympathy and assistance rendered so sincerely by so many of our friends and neighbors at the time of our bereavement, in the death of our wife and mother, Nellie L. Tyler, would be difficult indeed. It helped very much in being ourselves to the long days ahead. We thank you, dear friends, for your sympathy and love. Fred V. Tyler and Mrs. Marian Housard. 8/17c1

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and relatives who remembered us during our recent bereavement. It is a comfort to our hearts. Fred V. Tyler and Mrs. Marian Housard. 8/17c1

WE WOULD LIKE to bid a fond farewell to our dear friend and neighbor, Nellie L. Tyler, who passed away on August 10, 1966. We thank you all for your sympathy and love. Fred V. Tyler and Mrs. Marian Housard. 8/17c1

THIS MAY not overlook the kindnesses and love shown during these past few days by the family of Sylvia B. Miller. We take this means of expressing our everlasting gratitude. Your love, shown in so many ways, was essential to our well-being. With love and gratitude, the Walker Family. 8/17c1

By the Way... Funny Things Happen On a Newspaper Job

By Ruth Ann Miller

With only one issue of the Courier left before I return to school, I got to reminiscing the other day about some of the funny things that have happened to me since I started my job in May.

At the time they didn't seem funny, but they're becoming so, the further away they get. Take my whole first week on the job, for instance. It was Michigan Week and I took dozens of pictures of visiting mayors, and other activities. I got names and other information and then, surprise! None of my pictures turned out. I was discouraged as well as embarrassed. Later I found out the camera was broken and that it wasn't entirely my fault.

NEXT THING was cart trouble. Twice in one week my car quit near Ironton. The first time I ran out of gas. My gas gauge didn't work and like a dope I thought I had enough fuel to make it home from East Jordan. Thank goodness it wasn't raining—or hailing—because I had to walk a mile with all my gear—purse, camera, notebook and coat—through clay which stuck to the soles of my shoes. I must have looked pretty funny trudging along with shoes weighing a ton.

The next time it was the fan belt. Playing mechanic, I opened the hood and proceeded to try to fix the darn thing. After I had grease up to my elbows, two nice young men from East Jordan stopped and gave me a ride back to Charlevoix. I was a mess, to say the least, and looked more like a "grease monkey" than a lady reporter.

THEN THERE was the time I took a picture of a man to be used with a story. Only the picture, didn't turn out. It was a good thing, though, because I found out later he was the wrong man. That could have proven embarrassing.

Oh, by the way, the gas gauge fixed itself the day after I ran out of gas. Maybe it was because I kept hitting it.

Talk of the Town

The Clifford Gennetts visited his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Mason, in Traverse City Sunday. Tuesday afternoon, the Gennetts' guests were his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stafford of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Darrow of Cadillac.

Like Father, Like Son

He's going to be a writer, just like Daddy. He's playing the part down to the last detail, even to the pencil behind the ear. Boys are like that. Even while quite young they have a natural ambition to follow in their father's footsteps. Many of their growing years are spent trying to grow to be a man just like Dad. Such being the case a father's main efforts should be to set a fair, square and noble example.

To do this, regular attendance at church can be a source of great help to the father. He should avail himself of it, for the son watches everything that he does and if Dad goes to church he will want to go also. Then the second reason is that Dad himself will be getting a weekly inspiration in how to set the kind of example a model father should set. He will then be proud to have people say, "like father, like son."

Circlin' the Bases

with DEANO

FASTBALL LEAGUE
American Mold continued its lead over Lake Construction in the two team race for the fastball league title. In their game with County State Bank they scored nine times in the first three innings to hand a 9-3 defeat on the Bank boys. Dave Smith and Nate Boss each banged out three hits for the Mold while Gary Stutzman had a triple and single for the losers.

Lake Construction kept their slim hopes alive when they won a forfeit against Olesons, who were unable to field a complete team at game time. County State Bank scored in every inning to whip the Servicemen 14-2. Warren Belding's two doubles and Larry Edwards' line home run paced the winners' attack. Gary Cain pitched a neat two hitter.

The fastball league battle is still up for grabs. Yearlong leader Steve Lach continued to lead the pack, but veteran Ken Belding has made a strong effort to displace him. The race appears to be one that perhaps will be decided in the season's final game.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
Jerry's Gulf continues its hold on first place, but Electra is right on their heels, just waiting for a break and a chance to move in on the league leadership. Jerry's lost a forfeited contest to Electra when they failed to field a complete team at game time. However, they scored six runs in the fifth and sixth innings to break open a close contest with Freedmans and coasted to a 13-1 win. Against A & W it was more of the same as they posted an 18-0 win with Steve Smith's four hits pacing the attack.

Electra needed extra innings before disposing of Freedmans 8-7. It was a game full of exciting and wonderful plays, with the winners scoring without benefit of a hit in the bottom of the eighth. An infield error, passed ball, and sacrifice fly brought in the winning tally. Putnam and McCallen paced the winners while Mike Lord banged out a homer and double for the losers.

PEANUT LEAGUE
The Carls continued to lead the second round with a perfect 8-0 record. They posted a 10-1 win over the Tigers to remain unbeaten in Peanut League play. Chris Hillman banged out three card hits, while Leon Perron collected all three of the Tiger hits.

The Astros scored their nearly every inning to beat the Dodgers 15-8. Dennis and Roger Crum and Joe Jones all had three hits apiece for the Astros.

The Cubs hung a 6-3 defeat on the Pirates with Bo Cudd blasting out a home run. Ned Bentley led the Pirates with two base knocks.

The Tigers battled from behind to defeat the Cubs in extra innings 8-7. Leon Perron and Dave Pinn had two hits each for the winners while Dale Boss and Ron Simpson had two each in a losing cause.

KIWANIS YOUTH LEAGUE
The Red Sox closed out the regular season whipping the Green Sox 23-18 and ended up winning the second round to go draws to a close with the final week devoted to testing and evaluation. The Junior and senior life saving classes are preparing themselves for their long distance swim. The adult class continued to progress nicely and well as the early nonswimmers class.

BEACHES
Colder weather held down beach attendance, however the water temperature still was high enough to make swimming enjoyable. Guards will continue to be on the beaches until Labor Day when the season officially comes to a close.

Mrs. Josephine Conley of Prestonberg, Ky., and Mrs. Doretta Hale of Waverly, Ohio, visited at the home of their niece, Mrs. Bernie Ward Sr., and with their sister, Mrs. Mollie Prevost. A cousin, Mrs. Virginia Fitzpatrick of Springfield, Mich., also visited with them.

HOLY COW! MILK'S GONE UP, TOO?

In these times of "higher prices for everything," the economic facts of life leave the dairy industry no alternative but to raise the price of dairy products.

FACT NO. 1. A dairy farmer received no more money for his milk at the start of 1966 than he did in 1952.

FACT NO. 2. The price of milk from your dairy or grocer was no higher during 1965 than 1952.

IN THE MEANTIME

FACT NO. 3. The cost of operation of a dairy farm or your local dairy has risen continually since 1952.

Automotive pay in 1952 was $4,708.00, in 1965 $9,701.00. Farmers and dairies must compete for this labor market.

Construction costs have risen 40 per cent since 1952.

Adequate farm machinery and dairy plant equipment costs have almost doubled since 1952. For example, a farmer's 3-plow tractor cost $2,000 in 1952. He paid $3,600 for a comparable tractor in 1965!

FACT NO. 4. There are less than half as many dairy farmers and dairy plants in Michigan now than there were in 1959.

FACT NO. 5. Unless the dairy industry can receive a reasonable price for its goods and services, it can't stay in business.

FACT NO. 6. Population expansion plus increased use of dairy products calls for more milk production. An adequate supply of milk and dairy foods can only be supplied by an economically sound dairy business.

People receive 28% of their food nutrients from dairy food, while dairy foods cost only about 18% of their food budgets.

DAIRY PRODUCTS ARE STILL YOUR BEST FOOD BUY!

Camp Charlevoix Corrall Chatter

The seventh week of our season started off with the boys taking off on a three-day horse trip. It was quite a sight as they left camp. The boys on this trip were Bob Scholter, Mike Hogan, Tim Wadsworth, Dave Townsend, Greg House, Bill Smith, Bob Phillips, Walter Hutterli, Mark Proplator, Steve Storms, Mike Kelly, Dave Pliskin, Gus Gluck, Keith Smille, Bob Sweet, Jimmy Chalat, Peter Oakley, David Thoren, and Alan Johnson. All were going well when a terrific storm broke about four o'clock in the afternoon, and cars and station wagons immediately left camp to pick up the boys. They were able to get back to camp, and when the storm stopped, the boys and men went out to ride the horses home. In the evening, the entire camp saw a live "The Three-boys Meet Hercules". It was very funny and the boys enjoyed it. This was the day that the boys started training for the Final Indian Ceremony, and it is always a thrill to hear the best of the tom-tom as the boys practice their dance steps.

Tuesday dawned sunny and bright with a few dark clouds in the sky. The long canoe trip down the Manistee River to camp early, about 7:30 a.m. These boys were John Park, Marc Samuels, Dave Miskop, Bill Carey, Carl Webb, Dave Scholter, Scott Cummings, Scott Strawbridge, Dave Underhill, Colin Hamilton, Mark Griffin, Tom Cranmer, and Matt. Chuck Linn, and Jim Mabbatt. The staff on this trip are Van Ludwig, head of canoeing, Bill Hering, Rusty Smith and C.L. Webb.

Wednesday was the day that the sailors left camp for their day sailing on Lake Charlevoix, making Whiting's County Park their headquarters. The staff on this trip were Fred Casey, Chuck Sullivan, Al Broderick, Doug Laine, Tom Casey, Rick Osborne and Tom and Bob. Boys chosen for this trip were Andy Case, Bill Hering, Doug Laine, Dan Hering, and Dale Champagne, Bert Lewis, Chuck France, Jim McCollum, Grant Herman, Woody Boydell, Ken Mabbatt, Bill Beck, Tom Fernstrom, Jeff Ireland, Chuck Herrington, Ross Dickson, Paul Dancy, Tom Green, Tom Spurgeon, Brian Ingersoll, Larry Boardman, Kim Nicholson, Henry Whiting, Mark Hildebrandt, and Dave Herrington. In the evening, the 80 boys left in camp were given a pre-view of the Indian Ceremony that Monday boys busy rehearsing. The boys were impressed.

Thursday was cloudy and dark and dismal. The horse trip returned and the riders reported that it was a great trip. Regular activities were held both morning and afternoon. The cook-out was ruined out, but tables were set on the porch of the Clubhouse and one in the Bigman and the meal was served buffet style as usual. Later in the evening, the campers in the Bigman and saw slides taken this summer and there were yells, and clapping as popular campers and staff appeared on the screen. Pictures were shown of 1965, 1964, and 1963, too. The boys were surprised to see some of their friends when they were years younger.

ON FRIDAY, the sailing trip was brought home by cars as the lake was rough and the sailing men didn't want to take a chance with the big waves. The boys were happy and reported a very enjoyable trip. We had an early supper so that our older boys could take off for Camp Chick-O-MI (a girls' camp) for a dance. The boys looked great! All dressed in their best and-tucker and they returned to camp really excited after having a great time. Thirty-four boys were taken to the dance and seven staff men.

Saturday was another great day, sunny and just cool enough to be invigorating. Two of our counselors, Vin Ludwig and Bill Diem, put on a "Treasure Hunt" that was a treasure hunt such as we have never seen. It took all morning, all afternoon, had 71 clues, and the boys were really kept busy, as was the staff which was also divided into Green-Grey and assisted the campers. It was a thrilling event, and a great success. It was a very important event, as the Greys needed points to still stay in the running for honors for the season. This event was worth four points, one for each section, and Greys winning would tie the score at 28-28, Greys winning would make it 32-24, meaning that Sunday's Obstacle Relay would not matter as to the winner. The Treasure Hunt went on into the evening and it ended at 8 o'clock. At 8:15 the entire camp was gathered by the Clubhouse and when it was announced that the Greys had won, there was shouting and yelling. It was a thrilling climax to a very fine Treasure Hunt. Everyone was very excited, and only then was it learned that Vin Ludwig and Bill Diem had been up all night Friday planting the 71 clues, getting to bed at 6 a.m. on Saturday morning. A great event making it a great day.

SUNDAY MORNING chapel was held in the woods and we had several visitors. Mike Manning, Deference College, a member of our trips department, was the speaker and he chose as his subject "After Camp-Now What?" It was a very worthwhile talk, and he challenged the boys to go home from camp, not only being proud of their activity accomplishments, but also to remember that camp gave them something more. He said

Aldermen Peer Into City's Future

Campers should have improved physically, morally and spiritually. In the afternoon, the big event of the year, the "Obstacle Relay", was held. This is the event we use to close the Green-Grey Competition, and it takes in about 146 boys who swim, shoot a gun, ride a horse, paddle a canoe, roll an orange with their noses, shoot arrows, hit a ball over second base, run backwards, canoe across the bay, eat peanut butter on a cracker and whistle, make two free throws with a basketball, saw a log in two, throw up a ball until it breaks, drive two spikes into a log, and other activities. It is a great relay and as the teams were tied at 28-28 going into the event, there was much excitement. The Greys, who had been ahead all season, and were tied yesterday, led most of the way. In fact they were about three minutes ahead going into the final event, starting a fire and bringing water to a boil. Bus Cluckey for the Greys (the team way behind) did a great job, and the Greys eked out a victory. So the honors this year go to the Greys team, which will be given a banquet by the losing Greens on Tuesday night. It was a thrilling afternoon. In the evening, the entire camp met on the shore of the lake for the final Vesper Service of the season. We had a long songfest with our cowboy from Mexico, Angel Moreno, leading the singing with his guitar. Dave Oberhelman played his guitar, too, and several of the boys led the singing. Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, and Ken spoke to the campers, bringing into focus the many aspects of living that camp should have given them. The service closed with the singing of hymns.

THIS HAS BEEN A glorious season, weather perfect, great staff and mighty fine boys. The camp is grateful to Mr. Harold Hartger of Grand Rapids for his fine gift of a library of books on sailing. These books will be used again and again by the boys and men in sailing. Three of Mr. Hartger's sons are in camp this summer.

As you can imagine, as we enter the Final Week of Camp, everyone is busy trying to finish up their stars in activities, and with Rodeo Practice and Indian Dancing the place is really "jumping". Committees are meeting for the two long banquets, and boys are already feeling a little sad that the season is about over. More next week.

commodate the tourist industry.

He said it would be desirable if Charlevoix could keep its retail commercial section confined to the valley, rather than having it strung out along the highway.

However, he said the city needs new outlets for car sales, establishments with ample parking and room for display.

THOMPSON further said that professional type businesses -- like doctors' offices, lawyers' offices and others -- need not be located on Bridge Street, which is prime retail commercial. He said they should be located on the west side of State Street.

He said his firm is divided about what should be the eventual fate of businesses on the east side of Bridge Street. Some personnel favor leaving them as retail stores. Others would like to see the entire east side of the street as a park.

Working is going to become an even greater problem in Charlevoix, he predicted, particularly if parking is ever banned on Bridge Street. However, he said there is plenty of room for parking in the big back yards along State Street and the cross streets downtown.

"In New York City," he said, "people are happy to

This is your opportunity to enjoy a new concept in apartment living in Charlevoix. This apartment complex has been designed to achieve maximum efficiency and convenience for the occupants.

Nestled in beautiful setting of pines and maples, on Charlevoix's northside, this new structure offers many features seldom found in outstate Michigan that include electric heat, wall to wall carpet, ceramic baths, new kitchen appliances, cable TV outlets and graceful contemporary design.

With only 16 units available (one and two bedrooms) you owe it to yourself, if you are interested in a rental, to see these units.

Shown by appointment -
Phone LI 7-2531 or LI 7-2697 evenings & weekends.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. David Hamilton and two children of DeKalb, Ill., who have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Hamilton, received word Monday that her only brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Peterson and two children, of St. Louis, Mo., had been killed in an automobile accident. They have returned to DeKalb.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Supernaw and two children visited briefly with relatives here enroute to their home in Rochester from a vacation trip to Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Davis and family of Jackson visited from Saturday until Wednesday.

day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Davis. He has served with the Training Division of the Michigan State Police on a temporary basis since December. The appointment has been made permanent. The family will move later this month to Lansing where he will now be stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Winsor Dunbar of Mt. Pleasant spent the weekend with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Farmer.

Dr. and Mrs. William Southern and three children have returned to their home in DeKalb, Ill., after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Looze, while vacationing in northern Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil G. Martin had as their guests earlier this week her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grottsch and children of Itasca, who were enroute to southern Michigan.

Pvt. and Mrs. Larry Brock

Ellsworth Couple United in Wedlock

Miss Carolyn June Denny became the bride of Pvt. Larry Frank Brock Aug. 3 at the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix. Rev. Don Schorsch officiated the double ring rites in the presence of 120 guests.

Miss Denny is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denny of Ellsworth. Brock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brock of Ellsworth.

Miss Lynda Brock was the soloist and Terry Vanderslik was the organist.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon lace over taffeta. The scalloped neckline was accented with rhinestones. Her shoulder length veil was secured by a rhinestone tiara. She carried a Bible covered with pink roses and white carnations.

Miss Sherie Lynn Denny was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown was sleeveless, floor length, pink satin brocade with a scooped neckline. Her pink veil was secured by roses. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white Shasta daisies.

GORDON DENNY, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Richard Denny, brother of the bride, and Maurice Way.

Mrs. Denny chose a blue lace dress and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of Shasta daisies.

Mrs. Brock wore a blue dress and a corsage of Shasta daisies.

A RECEPTION hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denny was held at the American Legion Hall.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinaw Island, the couple will reside in Ellsworth. For traveling, the bride wore a black and white dress.

The new Mrs. Brock is attending Ellsworth High School and works as a waitress. Brock is a private in the U.S. Army.

Round Lake Can Be Saved

Another summer is just about shot and no constructive steps have been taken by anyone in authority to do anything about the growing pollution of Round Lake.

The situation in the yacht basin is particularly offensive. On warm evenings, the aroma of garbage, dead fish, seaweed, and raw sewage combines into a virtual symphony of bad odors. It is certainly incongruous to see a fleet of expensive yachts bobbing up and down on a sea of toilet paper and sanitary napkins. Our city fathers certainly are kidding themselves if they believe yachtsmen are going to continue coming to Charlevoix under such conditions.

THE FIRST THING we need, of course, is a new toilet and shower building in East Park.

The second thing we need is a city ordinance authorizing the harbor master to lock the head or the holding tank of every boat tying up at Charlevoix Harbor.

THE THIRD THING we need is the cooperation of all marina operators on Round Lake in providing sanitary facilities for their guests. When these are complete, the harbor master should deputize all marina operators, authorizing them to lock heads and holding tanks--the same as the city harbor master will be doing downtown.

THE FOURTH THING we need is a standing committee to investigate a long-range solution to our sewage disposal problem. It now appears that even treated sewage in time will rob us of the crystal clear water which has been Charlevoix's heritage since time immemorial. Whether treated or not, sewage is a nutrient for plant life. And an abundance of plant life is one of the early steps in the death of a lake, according to marine biologists. Long time residents will remember 1966 as the year the algae "bloomed" in Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix.

A POSSIBLE solution to the sewage disposal problem might have been hit upon by Ford Motor Co. and Bethlehem Steel. In order to dispose of harmful industrial wastes, both companies have dug deep wells--some more than 4,000 feet deep--and are pumping fluid wastes down into a porous strata of sandstone where they remain harmlessly sealed forever below the water level.

IT STANDS to reason that with the population of the world increasing, steps must be taken to preserve our supply of fresh water--a supply which will never grow any larger.

We believe Ford Motor and Bethlehem Steel may be pointing the way toward eventual control of water pollution. It might pay us to look into what research has been done along these lines.

In the meantime, we must move to clean up our own doorstep--Round Lake.

Little Things Mean a Lot

Not long ago something told Mrs. Fred Tyler that other folks might be interested in seeing an ancient wooden desk chair which had occupied a place of honor in her living room for many years.

It wasn't an ordinary chair. It was made from Beaver Island pine and the entire seat had been cut from one log. It once belonged to Charles Strang, brother of King James J. Strang, Mormon dictator of Beaver Island in the 1850's.

CHARLES STRANG had owned the chair when he edited a newspaper in Charlevoix many years ago. Along with other paraphernalia of the newspaper trade, it had been passed from one publisher to the next as the newspaper changed hands.

When A.J. Usher was editor-publisher, Mrs. Tyler mentioned one day how much she admired the chair. Mr. Usher promptly made a gift of it.

Mrs. Tyler's decision to give the chair to the Beaver Island Museum prompted the Courier to go up and take a picture of Mrs. Tyler and the chair--the same picture which appeared in the Courier Aug. 3, the day before Mrs. Tyler's death as the result of a long-standing heart ailment.

WE ARE HAPPY Mrs. Tyler got to see her picture in the paper. We are equally happy that there are people like Mrs. Tyler in the world--folks whose first thoughts are of others, even at times when they might be concerned more legitimately with their own health and personal welfare.

Clockwise

Stories about Paul Bunyan and his miraculous feats in the north woods have become legend over the years. Most of the stories, particularly the older ones, are true, having been passed down by word of mouth.

Since the main folk tales and folk music started a few years back, however, one can't always be sure he is dealing with the genuine article. There are few backwoods men today who would hesitate to make up their own stories, just to amuse their or delight anthropologists.

I CONSIDER myself lucky to have known Paul Bunyan's intimates in the flesh, so to speak. I refer to John Balcorn and Oscar Peterson, my co-workers on a logging railroad operated by the Gorman Lumber Co. at Ontonagon. Right had tales aplenty to tell about Paul Bunyan and it took no more than a rainy afternoon to put them in story-telling mood.

Like most lumber companies, the Gorman Co. made its money by logging and building--usually the creek shanty--standing at each logging site after the lumberjacks moved on. This was to be used as shelter for wanderers lost or stranded in the woods at night. On rainy days, our section to get in usually managed to find work near one of the abandoned shanties so his crew would have a place to build a fire and dry out.

I'll never forget one August afternoon we were working out near Camp VI when a late summer storm rolled in from Lake Superior. We were no more than a hundred yards or so from an abandoned creek shanty, and when the rain started in earnest, we dropped our pickers and ran for cover. Inside was a huge sheet metal stove and a pile of

John Balcorn touched a match to the wood and the rest of us pulled up dry logs to sit on. Oscar found an old lantern with some kerosene in it so we had a little light to brighten a dark afternoon. Before long the stove had taken the chill off the cabin, despite a raw wind howling off the lake.

"IT WAS A DAY something like this that the bridge over the Flint Steel River went out," John said matter of factly, putting another log on the fire.

"You're right," Oscar answered, looking back and forth gently on his log. "And we would have been in one helluva mess if Paul Bunyan hadn't been working with us in the woods that day."

The rest of us exchanged knowing glances.

"What did Paul do?" I asked, taking the bait.

"Mr. Bunyan, to you," John said, directing a jet of tobacco juice through the open stove door. His remark was an oblique reference to my relative newness to northern Michigan.

"Why, what would you expect him to do?" Oscar interrupted. "He waited for the train that night, uncoupled engine and cars and lifted 'em one by one onto the other bank, logs and all."

"You know," John said, "I wouldn't be surprised if that wasn't where Paul caught cold, standing in that icy water so long. He was in there for the better part of an hour, with the waves sloshing over his boot tops."

"WHAT I'll never forget is when Paul got back to camp that night," Oscar said. "Remember, John, you and I were right here in the creek shanty at Camp VI when he got back. He was about the worst looking specimen of manhood I ever laid eyes on. His face was all puffy and his whole body was trembling something awful."

"Just before he stepped inside," John cut in, picking up the thread of the story, "he turned, sucked in his breath and let loose with the most powerful sneeze ever to shake northern Michigan."

"Darn near took down every tree in Ontonagon County," Oscar laughed, slapping his thigh. "It's a fact," he added, suddenly serious. "Nobody had to fell another tree in these parts for almost 40 years. We just cut up what Paul had knocked down with that sneeze."

Oscar took out his pipe, filled it from a worn leather pouch and tapped down the tobacco with his finger.

"You know," he said finally, "this here creek shanty--the one we're in now--used to be on the other side of the track, but the backwash of the sneeze blew it up where it is now."

"BUT WHAT about Paul, er, Mr. Bunyan?" I asked. "Did he ever get over his cold?"

"Well, I can tell you we thought we were going to lose him for a while," Oscar said. "We fixed a bed for him right here in the shanty and cookie got busy mixing up mustard plasters in a wheelbarrow. But as the evening wore on, it looked pretty bad for Paul. We all thought he was a goner for sure, but then, 'long about one o'clock in the morning, a funny thing happened."

Here Oscar paused dramatically and although the rain was still tapping on the roof, inside you could hear a butterfly cough as we waited for the rest of the story.

"PAUL WOULD have met his Maker that night, sure as shootin', if he had had only one kind of germ," John broke in. "As it was, he had two, and they wasn't ordinary little germs either that you couldn't see. They was as big as coons and as it turned out, they was blood enemies, just like cats and dogs. Why, I've never seen anything like it in all my life. They tore up and down this here creek shanty after each other, growling, snapping and the fur flyin' in every direction."

"And, would you believe it," Oscar went on, "by five o'clock that morning there was a pile of dead germs over in the corner that reached clear to the ceiling."

He made a wide arc with his arm to indicate where the germs were piled.

"Then damn germs had killed each other down to the last one," he added. "By mornin' Paul was sittin' up and laughin' and eatin' pancakes like it was his wedding day."

"Then germs sure had nice pets," John said after a moment. "The next day we skinned 'em out and sold the fur to John Jacob Astor for enough money to set Paul up in a logging business of his own in Canada."

A LOG FELL in the stove and a spray of sparks could be seen through the chimney flue. John rose heavily to his feet and walked to the window where the rain was beating a steady tattoo on the pane.

"Yessir," he said slowly. "It was a day something like this that the bridge over the Flint Steel River went out."

"And we would have been in one helluva mess if Paul Bunyan hadn't been working with us in the woods that day," Oscar said, almost automatically.

A Stroll Through the Art Fair

BILL AND BONNIE STAFFEL, owners of the new gift shop south of town, pose with their wares at Artists and Craftsmen's Fair. Their home is in Maumee, Ohio.

POPULAR exhibit at the fair was the metal sculpture done by Clyde and Belva Ball. The Balls come from Gary, Ind.

FRANK ROTHSCHILD JR. of Chicago poses with wood and metal sculpture by Julius Gilbert of Charlevoix. Gilbert's favorite subject is the hippopotamus.

SANDY SOMMERVILLE of Bay Shore with oil painting of bull executed by her husband, Charlevoix barber Darrel Somerville. The exhibit was Somerville's first in Charlevoix.

PHYLLIS STERNE of East Lansing didn't let any grass grow under her feet at East Park. She continued working on note paper designs while talking to customers.

FREE LANCE artist John G. Heath from Skandia in the Upper Peninsula always enjoys the Charlevoix Fair. Here he poses with some of his oils.

Odds & Ends

By Fran Martin

WHAT DID YOU think of that storm last week... the hall storm... never have I seen such funny hall storms... Instead of being just plain everyday-round, some were flat, of ice, with lines etched through them. I'd never seen anything like them... We measured a couple big ones and were amazed to find them an inch and an inch and a quarter across... Elsewhere, I'm told, there were some large as golf balls, and as round... It was frightening, the way they battered the windows... Guess they did quite a lot of damage to aluminum siding and car tops... I'll bet they have been out in the storm... They beat down with such force they shredded the leaves which started falling as though it was autumn... This has certainly been the season of screwy weather... But the warm weather I've enjoyed as most everyone has... It's set a precedent... I'll bet for years to come I'm sure people will be referring to the summer of '66 as the long, hot, dry summer...

WHAT'S CUTTER than little animals? Spotted a young Siamese kitten the other day and had to stop and pet it though I didn't know its owner... A little girl about nine or so... She was as proud as she could be of her little pet... Some people say you have to love Siamese cats to think the kittens are cute... But this one sure was... Then a day or so later I had an opportunity to see a couple Siamese husky puppies... and they were precious... one dark with the beige markings around its eyes that made it resemble a raccoon... and the other an off-white bundle of fur... you'd have loved them both... but they grow to be such monsters! I'll take a kitten... If you're not a golfer perhaps you haven't noticed that the municipal golf course is just about one of the busiest places in town... I don't spend much time there, not being particularly interested in the sport... but many of my friends are... From an early hour every day till it's well on its way to dusk, the course is covered with players... The increase in the number of players plus the increase in the community's population is another reason why I think the course should be enlarged to an 18-hole golf course... With the season starting as early as it does and lasting well into the fall... and with more and more people taking up the sport... a larger course would relieve the congestion... I haven't seen the figures for this year but this is one of the city-operated facilities that goes a long way toward supporting itself... Therefore I think more than a little thought should be given this project... And if it could be enlarged, then the Michigan Amateur which launches our summer season here could be enlarged to make it even more worthwhile in the community... I hope our honorable mayor and aldermen are giving this some thought... Can you believe it? In another week, many of our youngsters will be returning to campuses for another school year... that's right... Western at Kalamazoo and Michigan at Ann Arbor are among those that start at this early date... with other schools starting classes at various times for the next month... What are we going to do about the housing situation? At least three or four times a week I get a call from someone looking for housing of some kind... Just now it was for a furnished apartment... Maybe tomorrow it will be for a three-bedroom house... If you have any facilities at all, won't you please let someone know about it? There's a need, believe me, so if you're planning to convert a part of your house into an apartment, get with it... If it's comfortable it will be rented around the calendar... and the same is true of a house... you'd be surprised at what some people have had to take because nothing else was available... If you happened to be at the municipal dock last week, you'd have made a quick inquiry... What was happening on Beaver Island?... the answer was easy... it was the annual homecoming and August dinner... and everyone who'd ever heard of the island returned for the event... I can't tell you what it is about the island but there's an intangible something that calls these people back... year after year... Perhaps it's because they were so dependent on each other as they grew up on the island, but you find a feeling there that you find no place else in this world... These people are the salt of the earth perhaps it's that that makes people who aren't native Islanders return... but whatever it is, it's a bit of magic... that works year after year.

List Four Tips for Better Snaps

Four common errors account for thousands of ruined snapshots.

Before clicking the shutter this summer, run through these checks quickly: (1) Hold the camera steady; (2) Move in closer; (3) Be careful of background interference; and (4) Don't try and crowd too much into a single picture.

Petoskey Stone Hunt

PETOSKEY STONES, the state stone of Michigan, are a plentiful commodity on the beaches around Charlevoix. And hunting for them furnished many a relaxing afternoon for visitors to the area. The stones actually are "colony corals" many millions of years old. Polished, they make attractive jewelry. For more about Michigan's new state stone, turn to Page 15.

Greensky Hill Has Proud History

Church Dates To 1850

High on a hill not far from the shores of Susan Lake, stands an enduring tribute to the faith and fortitude of the Indians who inhabited this region in the middle of the last century.

It is the Greensky Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Nearby stand nine gigantic maple trees, their lower boughs twisted outward as a symbol of peace among Indian tribes in the area. The tall maples are all that are left of 30 Couocil Trees which once formed a solemn ceremonial arena for tribal chieftains. The mission church is the taking part in a protestant handiwork of Peter Greensky, an Indian brave who received training at a small Methodist settlement in the Upper Peninsula at Bay Mills. In 1838, Greensky moved southward, movement then under way in the Grand Traverse Bay area. Later Greensky became dissatisfied with the Grand Traverse mission, and, along with 27 families, left the area to establish his own church where he and his followers could worship as they saw fit. Their travels took them to the mouth of Pine River Channel, the future site of Charlevoix, across Round Lake and into Pine Lake, which later became Lake Charlevoix.

They were delighted with the area, particularly when they came across the Council Trees which had been planted and bent into their peculiar shapes by earlier Indian tribes. Greensky and his followers decided this was to be their home. He named the sparkling little lake nearby "Susan" in honor of his wife. At first a small church was built of boughs covered with cedar bark, but in 1850 work on the present permanent Church began. The building is 26 by 32 feet and has eight windows, three on each side and two on the end. The logs were laid one above the other, each one notched at the corner to make a snug fit with the ones above and below it.

The crevices were filled with pieces of wood and mud and the floor was made of rough boards split out of logs. When the church was completed in 1860, about 300 of the 500 Indians living in the area were members. Today, although membership has dwindled to 18, services are conducted every Sunday by the Rev. Leona Winegarden of Charlevoix.

Jay Oliver, a spokesman for the congregation, says the Church is presently trying to buy back some of the nearby land which has been bought by the white man. Much of the area is Indian burial ground, marked by rude crosses and tumbledown fences.

Shipwrecks Foster New Industry

One of Charlevoix's newest shops--The Sawyer's Cove--actually had its beginning 86 years ago when the schooner Sawyer sank in the shallow waters of Bells Bay, south of Charlevoix.

Charlevoixan Jim Sawtelle has used the Sawyer's oaken ribs and planking as raw material for coffee tables, deacons benches and other items of so-called "shipwreck" furniture.

His wife, Nancy, turns smaller pieces of the durable Kentucky wood into exquisite inlays for bracelets, necklaces, cuff links and tie clips.

Over the years, iron oxides in Lake Michigan have turned the oak several shades darker than when it came from the mill, and have given it a soft patina.

Sawtelle says the timbers are about 95 per cent moisture when dredged from the lake bottom. They are all kiln-dried before he begins working with them.

ONE OF SAWTELLE'S largest projects to date has been the building of the "Tween Decks" bar under Irv Drost's cocktail lounge on Bridge Street. Shipwreck timbers, nautical line and welded anchor chain combine to give the bar an authentic sea-faring look.

Recently, Sawtelle has located two other wrecks near Beaver Island. He believes there is enough raw material in them to keep him busy ten years.

THE 200-FOOT SAWYER, a three masted cargo carrier of Canadian registry, came to grief in the shallow waters of Bells Bay on a blustery November night in the year 1880. When she was driven onto the rocks, all 11 hands aboard climbed into the rigging to save themselves from drowning.

It was there rescuers found them the next morning, frozen to death in the teeth of an icy gale off Lake Michigan. Until recently, the wreckage of the Sawyer lay in about seven feet of water. Then Jim Sawtelle discovered the sodden remains and had it dragged up on shore. The first shipments of wood from the wreck were taken to Sawtelle's former gift shop, the Treasure Cove, at Leland. Using the heavy, darkened wood, Sawtelle began to fashion all kinds of furniture and jewelry which had an enormous appeal among his customers.

A professional diver, Sawtelle says he first became interested in making articles from the timbers of shipwrecked vessels when he found the rudder of a sailing ship to Bells Bay about five years ago. The massive rudder was raised, dried and finished into a gigantic coffee table. His "shipwreck" furniture business was on its way.

Take Good Care of Boating Gear

Boating accessories require only a minimum of care, but too often they don't even receive this. To add to the appearance of your rig and increase the life of accessories, the following steps.

Floor mats, seats and convertible tops should be washed periodically. This is true for both fresh and salt water craft. A mild soap solution-avoid harsh detergents-will remove dirt and smudge marks. This should be followed by a thorough rinsing with fresh water.

Large Lake The second largest freshwater lake within the boundaries of the United States is Lake Okeechobee, 40 miles northwest of Palm Beach, Fla. The lake covers an area of 700 square miles, but its maximum depth is only 15 feet.

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Boat Battery Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter - million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Short Escape

The Ironton Ferry takes its passengers for a short visit into a world where there can be no hurry. There's just no way to speed up the ferry in its short chug-thug across the neck of the South Arm. Even if you don't especially want to go where the ferry takes you it's worth the 35¢ fare just to briefly know you've escaped all the pressures that make people rush through life. The Ferry crosses the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at scenic Ironton, about 7 miles southeast of Charlevoix on M-66.

THE IRONTON FERRY carries cars and passengers across Lake Charlevoix from Ironton to the South Arm Peninsula. The pleasant trip saves many miles of driving.

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations.

Just because your boat has "room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry.

If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushiest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it.

Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with hooks: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point with a small cork.

"Castle" Open to Public

THE FORMER LOEB dairy farm on M-66 has been converted into an art foundry and crafts center by John Van Haver. The medieval-looking buildings have long aroused the curiosity of tourists to the Charlevoix area.

Former Loeb Farm Is Now Art Foundry

The storied Loeb dairy farm on M-66--long a tourist attraction with its turrets and battlements--is open for business this summer, but there are no cows on the premises.

The property has been purchased by Muskegon foundryman John Van Haver who has turned it into a year 'round art castings foundry. During the summer the buildings will be open to the public.

A gift shop has been opened and a tea room offers refreshments to visitors.

Once owned by the Loeb family of Chicago, the property has not been farmed in the past 40 years and the buildings have long resembled medieval ruins.

Van Haver has turned some of the fieldstone walls into attractive garden settings. Other buildings have been repaired for use.

ON TROUT - AND OTHER MATTERS:

The town, nestled in the foothills, beneath the massive shoulders of the Dolomites, is built on the banks of a river which has its source in the springs of the high altitudes. The icy waters of the stream abound with trout and it was the lure of the fish (we try to mix some pleasure with business) that attracted us to the spot. The fishing was good. Better still was our discovery of a small ceramic works. For beside the abundance of trout, in the vicinity were a number of clay-banks providing a fine, white clay, free of impurities, from which is made a ceramic nearly as good in quality as porcelain.

The ceramic people were there, of course, because of the plentiful proximity of the fine clay - the owner, his wife, the young men and women who do the work -- (a disappearing breed of artisans in most places) - and a young man, highly talented, the possessor of a Ph.D. as an art major.

To make a long story short, we and the young "Dottore" mutually created some small ceramic trays and accessories, basing the designs on antique Venetian playing cards. Late this past spring, on our way to northern Italy, we were in Paris - and there - in the boutique of Christian Dior were our ceramic pieces.

Now we have them - recently received along with other smart and attractive accessories - in our summer season's final Italian shipment. Obviously what is good enough for our clientel, is good enough as well for Christian Dior's. (Thanks to the trout!)

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test. Side brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States. The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only. KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves through college by waiting table at Charlevoix restaurants. Many fine restaurants are located right in the heart of town. However, a few minutes' drive in almost any direction will bring you to many other fine dining establishments.

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and Ausable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, sportsman's park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play..." is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health".

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading, it may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY—$600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing? The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smetana, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard
Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds.

First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up on ever again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to-four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevils, spinners.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Loeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm. If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, jig-a-dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northwestern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings, you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers, Hawaiian Wiggles.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marion), for pike, bass, smallmouths.

--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass, panfish.

--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walloon Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

LEWIS AND DAVE Juilleret of Charlevoix display some of the fine rainbows being taken in Lake Charlevoix. This catch, weighing in excess of 18 pounds, was taken in the Horton Bay area.

THE NEW JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery near Alba is a pleasant hour's drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. Located in a deep valley and utilizing a natural flow of icy spring water, the hatchery will produce seven million fingerling trout a year for restocking the Great Lakes.

State Police Advice to Boaters

With the coming of summer, State Police have urged boaters to match motor horsepower to boat use.

They also ask boatmen to watch for sudden changes in weather, heed storm warning information and follow all boat safety rules.

THE CAUTION was coupled with a report that the State Police underwater recovery squad is now up to full strength of 40 for the 1966 water activity season. These men are assigned to 29 posts throughout the state. Assistance in water accidents can be obtained by notifying any State Police post or other law enforcement agency.

The State Police divers are all certified American Red Cross water safety instructors. Each is fully equipped for underwater searches, including lights.

For assignments under special conditions the department has available amphibious trucks based at East Lansing headquarters and Brighton.

George Washington was the only president who never lived in the White House. But he did choose the site and approve the design.

Marine Growth Slows Vessels

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpms) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors --, and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count, exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Disliked Smoking
King James I of England was an unrelenting opponent of smoking and once wrote, anonymously, "A custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and, in the black, stinking fume thereof, nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and deer, turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Blight Caused Migration
The great Irish famine of the 19th century was caused by a blight to the potato crop. Between two and three million people died and many others emigrated to the United States, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods--an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Protar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders' aches and pains.

Born Of Confidence

"See that fellow over there rolling up his sleeve. He's got something, one of the best workmen on the job. He does his own work well and has time to help others—and brothers, this is a hard job. On this job he stands out alone. He speaks ill of no one, and he has something! He has a God that is just as real to him as you are to me right now. Do you know why? Because, with his family he goes to church regularly each week and it pays off for him. He has a real, personal God, for through the kind of faith it inspires, is born confidence in the MIGHT OF RIGHT."

Road Funds Coming

LANSING -- Charlevoix County will receive $89,267 in second-quarter collections from the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund, according to Howard L. Hill, State Highway Director.

Hill said net receipts of the Highway Fund during April, May and June amounted to $24,616,824, an increase of $1,668,431, or 3.7 percent compared to the same period last year.

ALL STATE gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees to the fund, which is also shared by incorporated cities and villages.

Following are the amounts cities and villages in the area will receive from second quarter collections.

Charlevoix, $6,819; East Jordan, $4,534; Ellsworth, $1,940; Bellefleur, $2,168; Boyne City, $6,643; Boyne Falls, $950; and Central Lake, $2,235.

Sundew Tows Yacht to Safety

CHARLEVOIX -- A 30 foot yacht belonging to C.A. Bernadine of Charlevoix, Ind., was towed to Harbor Springs Aug. 12 by the 44-footer from the Coast Guard Lifeboat Station. The boat reported that it was taking on water off Good Hart.

The Coast Guard Cutter Sundew towed the 37-foot yacht Somerset II to Charlevoix for repairs Aug. 7 after the boat went aground west of Grey's Reef.

The Sundew, which was in the area relieving a buoy, received a Mayday distress signal from the stricken vessel and hurried to the scene.

THE $35,000-pleasure craft was operated by Capt. Sam Sax of Chicago, president of the National Exchange Bank. Seven persons were aboard.

The craft was heading for Mackinac Island when it ran into a shoal in the fog and damaged its screw on a rock. Repairs were made at Beltinger's marina.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Chanda

Patricia Mousseau, Ken Chanda Wed

Miss Patricia Ann Mousseau became the bride of Kenneth B. Chanda July 30 at St. Mary's Church in the presence of 150 guests.

Rev. Francis Denny officiated the double ring ceremony.

Miss Mousseau is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mousseau of Charlevoix. Chanda is the son of Mrs. Thelma Chanda of East Jordan.

Mrs. C. D. Geiken was the organist and Mrs. Bea Warner was the soloist.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with lace inserts accented the skirt. It featured lace sleeves and a lace-covered satin bodice and a satin train. Her fingertip veil was secured with a tangle of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and white carnations.

Miss Peggy Lee Mousseau, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue satin print skirt with a white satin bodice. Her blue veil was secured by a blue velvet bow.

MISS ELLA Jane Mousseau, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her gown was identical to the maid of honor's.

James Chanda, Jr., was best man. Robert Rebec, Ray Williams and Jack Landblum were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pink suit with white accessories. Her corsage was pink roses.

THE GROOM's mother wore a navy blue suit with light blue accessories. Her corsage was red roses.

Reception was held at Maple Grove Hall. Serving the dinner and cake were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Landblum and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dillon.

The new Mrs. Chanda wore a turquoise and white tuxedo suit for traveling on their week-long wedding trip to Canada, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

They will live in East Jordan temporarily.

The bride attended Charlevoix High School. The groom attended school in Lansing.

Out of town guests were present from Detroit, Grand Rapids and Ohio.

FASTBALL LEAGUE
American Mold moved a step closer to clinching the Fastball League title with a 10-0 shutout of Oleson's. Nate Boss threw a neat four hitter at the boys in green and nearly everyone in the lineup had at least one hit.

Meanwhile East Jordan Wilson-Mayhew dealt Lake Construction on a crippling blow when they edged them 2-0. The loss dropped the Construction gang two full games behind Mold. Just one more victory for the league leaders and the race will be all over. Larry Drenth proved to be the hero as he shut out LC and then drilled a late inning home run to spark a two run rally. Earlier LC had thumped East Jordan by a 9-3 score paced by Steve Faculak and Ron Grunch's two hits.

Oleson's scored six times in the fifth inning to break open a tie game with the Servicemen, and posted a 10-9 win. Dennis Warner, John Withers, John Ferguson, and Mark Bourcohn all had two hits apiece. Tex Vining had a home-run losing cause.

County State Bank scared Lake Construction before falling 4-3. The winner's Larry McBride doubled in the bottom of the seventh for his fourth hit of the game. An infield out moved him to third where he scored on a wild throw.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Jerry's Gulf remained in first place maintaining its one game lead over Electra. Both have one game left and it's up to youthful Novak's to upset Jerry's if Electra is to get a chance at the title.

Electra posted a 6-1 win over Freedmans with L. McClellan and Ron Putnam leading the attack. Winning pitcher Bill Gengle allowed the winners only two hits.

A & W displayed good hitting power in beating Novak's 7-1 behind Fred Wabinknee's four hit pitching. Lee Cross, Al Lusk, Brad Carey, and Wabinknee all collected at least two hits apiece. Norm Ostrum continued his fine hitting for the losers with two bingos.

Jerry's scored five times in the late innings to defeat Freedmans 8-3. Dave McDougall banged out three of the winner's hits while Gary Plumm had two for the losers.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The Cards appear to be "in" as far as the Peanut League championship is concerned. The Tigers remain one game behind, but the Cards need only a win over the Lions tonight to win the title.

The Tigers posted a hard-fought 9-7 win over the Lions with Bill Carey and Dave Plumm emerging as hitting heroes. Mike Mol, Bruce Meggison, and D. Sitzema paced the loser's hitting attack.

The Cardinals bombed the Pirates, posting 18-0 win. Larry Potter hurled a neat two hitters, and his teammates backed him up with an 11 hit attack.

THE LIONS upended the Cubs 11-5 with Bob Edume leading the attack with three singles. Lee Shumpton put on a slugging show in a losing effort blasting out two long home runs.

The Tigers had little trouble with the Dodgers winning 11-2. Leon Perron had three of the winner's hits.

The Cards posted a 5-2 win over the Astros with M. Bereman and Bob DeYoung each collecting two hits. The Jones boys, Clay and Joe, had the only hits for the losers.

NEW APARTMENTS FOR RENT

This is your opportunity to enjoy a new concept in apartment living in Charlevoix. This apartment complex has been designed to achieve maximum efficiency and convenience for the occupants.

Nestled in beautiful setting of pines and maples, on Charlevoix's northside, this new structure offer many features seldom found in outstate Michigan that include electric heat, wall to wall carpet, ceramic baths, new kitchen appliances, cable TV outlets and graceful contemporary design.

With only 16 units available (one and two bedrooms) you owe it to yourself, if you are interested in a rental, to see these units.

Shown by appointment -
Phone LI 7-2531 or LI 7-2697 evenings & weekends.

Ours.

You can dry more than five loads in a Gas dryer for the cost of doing one in an electric. Which means you save enough over an electric dryer for your Gas dryer to pay for itself in seven years. What's more, most Gas dryers last for more than ten years.

Gas dryers save on installation, too. Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will connect new and used Gas dryers free in the areas we serve. And maintenance expense is negligible. In a survey of more than 300 families who owned their Gas dryers an average of five years, a great majority had no service calls at all. And total maintenance costs for the total group averaged out to less than 20¢ per year per dryer.

Isn't the dryer that costs the least and does the best the dryer for you? Free installation makes it an even better buy. See the new models at your dealer's or Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showrooms.

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The final week, the eighth week, of camp started out with a bang. For the first time in its history, the campers' activities and work for the week were planned and coordinated. The campers, who had been working hard all week, were given a full day of rest. The campers, who had been working hard all week, were given a full day of rest. The campers, who had been working hard all week, were given a full day of rest.

In remembrance of this summer, it was one of the finest Green-Grey banquets we have ever had, and Joe's (our 12-year-old) banana cream pie (real whipped cream) as the desert brought forth a loud and meaningful Chinese Toast.

Wednesday it was a really hopping around camp with Indian Dancing, going to full moon, and in the afternoon a dress rehearsal for the Rodeo. You never saw so much activity up at the Rodeo Ring with the riders going through their events, and men putting up the equestrian and the cowboys trying to get the boys to follow directions. Excitement it was in our camp this final week, and already boys were becoming the fact that the season was about over and soon they would be leaving friends and all these activities. In the evening, the five top cabins winning cabin clean-up, were taken into town to see the movie "The Russians are Coming." The rest of the camp had cabin nights, and Tim Crowell, Cabin 15 had a taffy pull for his group of boys. Ruby arranged the ingredients, and they had a great time, good taffy, too. And the pop-corn took a beating, too, several cabin groups popped corn.

Thursday was the final day for activities, and boys were busy and staff was more busy. In the morning the dress rehearsal for the Indian Ceremony was held, and the boys put through their paces to be ready for Friday night. About four o'clock in the afternoon, boys started to shower, and dress for the Final Banquet which started at seven o'clock. The decorations committee, with Brian Dicken as chairman did a very fine job, ably assisted by Bill Townsend. Dick Dennis was chairman of the whole banquet with Jerry Sandy as Toastmaster. Taking part in the program were Bert Lewis, Dale Chapman, Mark Hirschfeld, Mark Hirschfeld, and several counselors. Phil Salvadore, our camper from Venezuela, spoke for the campers, and John Delserone gave the talk for the staff. Bill Townsend talked, and Ken Smith gave his usual final remarks, closing off with a dialogue with Pat Weldy, our nurse, in which they recalled certain events and certain campers and staff of this summer. Twenty of the staff marched in holding lighted candles, and in the dark dining room, sang several familiar songs, opening and closing the meal with the "The Whiffenpoof Song." It was most impressive and there were many tearful faces in the dining room as boys and staff realized that another season was about to end, and that soon everyone would be leaving for home and their homelands. The evening was closed with the entire camp standing in darkness, singing taps, and then hearing it played from the lake by Wendell Jank.

Friday morning the boys packed their trunks for going home, and the Rodeo riders were up at the stable getting their saddles and horses ready for the big event in the afternoon. Rodney Deyo was busy putting up lights and his Indian dancers were helping him get ready for the Final Council Fire. Then, at 6 o'clock right on the dot the Grand Entry for the Rodeo started and it was a brilliant sight to see the flags flying, the horses galloping in to the rodeo ring, with music playing. It was very fine indeed, and the hundreds of people there were pleased and amazed at the riding ability of our boys. Our cowboys did a great job this summer. The boys winning ribbons were very happy, as it was the first time we have given ribbons. Those presenting ribbons to the boys were: Mrs. Harold Hartger, Grand Rapids, Mrs. Jack Postle, Petoskey, and Ruby Smith, Ruth Townsend, Pat Weldy and Mable Bingham. They all added beauty to the rodeo and were delighted that they accepted this responsibility. At 8:30 Friday night, the Final Indian Council Fire was held and it was another in Rodney Deyo's long string of great Indian Dances. It was a beautiful night, and the boys did a fine job with many dances. At the close of the evening, everyone stood, faced the west and listened to taps, as Wendell Jank played it from the lake shore. It was a most fitting close to a truly great season at Camp Charlevoix. The weather was perfect, the staff was great, and the boys were a wonderful group. Our 11st season will go down in history as one of our finest.

Mrs. Geoffrey Carl Enlund

Miss Nielson Wed In Methodist Rite

Miss Tiffany Lynn Nielson became the bride of Geoffrey Carl Enlund, Aug. 20 at the First Methodist Church in Charlevoix, Mich. George Chaffee officiated the double ring ceremony in the presence of 100 guests.

Miss Nielson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nielson of Detroit. Enlund is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Enlund of Charlevoix.

Miss Betty Wilson played the organ. The bride wore a gown of white tulle over satin with a long train. Her bouquet was of white gladioli and lilies.

Maid of honor was Sharon Ray Nielson, sister of the bride. She wore a gown of white tulle over satin with a long train.

Best man was Norman Bailey and Richard McPherson.

A reception was held at the church and an open house at groom's parents followed.

FOR A WEDDING trip to New Orleans the bride wore a green and white dress with white accessories.

The new Mrs. Enlund is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, attended Ferris State College and is presently employed as a secretary at Upjohn Pharmaceutical Co. in Kalamazoo.

The groom is a Michigan State University graduate in Police Administration and is presently employed at the Probate Court in Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Ray Rheingruber has returned to Forest Park, Ill., after visiting her uncle, Charles Martini, a patient at the Charlevoix Hospital, and Mrs. Martini.

Miss Ethel Clemens has returned to Lansing after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Tutton.

Sgt. and Mrs. George R. Mosley and family left on Wednesday for his new assignment at Hawthorne, AFB, Nev.

A Waterfront Fair to Remember

The 1966 edition of the Waterfront Art Fair undoubtedly was the most successful in the eight year history of the event. More than 160 artists and craftsmen displayed their wares and uncounted thousands of visitors milled through scores of displays in East Park from mid-morning until evening.

Unlike last year, many of the artists reported excellent sales. Visitors apparently were in a buying mood.

FOR MANY, the Waterfront Fair is the high point of the summer season in Charlevoix. And East Park offers an exquisite setting to best show off an artist's handiwork.

For most of us, whose artistic talent is limited to doodling on the telephone pad, a trip through the fair is like a visit to Oz.

THE CREDIT for the success of this year's goes to Mrs. Paul Olsen, whose organizational ability was evident from start to finish, and to her assistants, Mrs. Charles Duerr and Mrs. Jack Rader and all of their willing helpers. They have given Charlevoix a Waterfront fair which will be remembered a long, long time.

Coroners vs. Medical Examiners

(Following is an article on the coroner-vs.-medical examiner question which appeared recently in the Grand Rapids Press. It was written by Al Sandner of the Associated Press. Next November Charlevoix County voters must decide whether to replace their coroner with a qualified medical examiner.)

In this age of specialization and regulations it's still possible for the layman to dabble in medicine—legally.

There's no danger of his killing his subject. In fact, his subject must already be dead. The layman, however, must first get himself elected.

He is the county coroner. Fifty-three of Michigan's 83 counties still have elective requirement for holding elective office—the ability to get votes.

Most of these are funeral directors, says Sen. Sander Levin-D-Berkley, sponsor of a bill to abolish the office and replace the coroners with a qualified medical examiner.

But among their ranks, he said, he found one gas station attendant, three salesmen, one photographer and one man who was unemployed.

The state sets standards to protect the general public in cases of unusual death—but in most counties does not set any requirements for the man charged with the responsibility of making the examination, he said.

It's something like building a multi-million-dollar plane and not bothering to train the pilot.

"We should make sure that such investigations are carried out by a person with enough knowledge and expertise actually to protect the public," Levin said.

"Instead we have amateurs meddling in functions that require expertise," he added. "In one instance no one could be found to testify in a case of unusual death—because there were no expert witnesses."

In House debate over the bill this year, Rep. George Sietsema, D-Wyoming, owner of a private detective agency, argued for the bill, saying:

"You can go rent a cottage in some northern county, strangle your wife, tie a rope around her neck, and haul her body up over a pipe. The coroner will rule suicide because he doesn't even know enough to see that the nap on the rope is running the wrong way."

Gov. George Romney vetoed the bill, saying that counties have the option of going to a medical examiner system if they feel it fits their local needs. In addition, Romney said in counties with a population of more than 250,000 the coroner must be a doctor—in effect, a medical examiner.

"I see no need to remove from the people the right to choose a system which most nearly meets their particular needs in this area," Romney said in his veto message.

There were hints from Democrats that Romney's action was politically inspired. The bulk of the 53 elected coroners are Republicans, they say.

AND WHILE the office may not be that important to Republican strength—it would result in 53 fewer campaigners bringing in votes and financial support.

Two Republicans, however, lead the fight for the bill in the House.

One is a former county prosecutor—Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena—and the other is a northern Lower Michigan lawyer—Rep. Donald Holtbrook, R-Clare.

Charlevoix-A Four-Season Town

At the end of the summer season at hand, visitors to this corner of Michigan are reminded that Charlevoix is now a four-season town.

Take October, for example. The aspens on Park Island across Round Lake turn a lemon gold, set off by a frame of dark green firs and hemlocks. Through the channel, Lake Charlevoix waits, sparkling and blue, an open invitation to photographers.

In November, hunters come to our nut-brown land, savoring the end of a dying year. There's usually a brisk wind off the lake, but it puts you to sleep at night whistling under the eaves. It's a time for blazing fireplaces and warm sweaters.

Winter--Charlevoix at its best! Mountains of powder snow piled high on every gabled roof. Ski trails and ski parties. Warm friends and good times. An old world town in Michigan.

With spring comes the fisherman and his creel, the gradual appearance of boats on the lake, and flowers bloom in every yard.

There's no doubt about it. Charlevoix is a four-season town.

Clockwise

Back a couple of months ago when I was waging a losing battle against dandelions in the garden, a seven-year-old philosopher from the neighborhood stopped by to see what I was doing. He watched silently as I furiously rooted out one dandelion after another.

"You don't like dandelions?" he asked shortly. "Not particularly," I said. "Especially who they're growing in the garden."

"My mother doesn't like dandelions, either," he said. Then he added: "Isn't it funny how the older you get the more things you hate?"

I didn't destroy any more dandelions that day and I've been doing a lot of thinking since about the wisdom behind my little philosopher's remark. Of course, he was right. Dead right. In the process of growing older, we not only cultivate new tastes but also pick up a mass of dislikes. Too many of us, I think, spend more time stewing about the things we don't like than enjoying the things we do. End of sermon.

TALK ABOUT the value of advertising. The Courier carried pictures and a story a few weeks back about Mrs. John Willis of Bay Shore and how she weaves baskets from native ash wood.

"The paper was hardly out when a steady stream of customers bought up my entire stock," Mrs. Willis reports.

IF YOU'RE in business and have any simple, repetitive operation that needs doing by hand, your regular employees to distraction, contact Mrs. Robert (Lillian) Bergmann at the sheltered workshop. Mrs. Bergmann has several willing hands in her employ, but needs jobs to keep them occupied. The workshop isn't interested in "busy work." Ever since the program started last year, youngsters have been engaged in worthwhile, profitable activities. Packaging small parts. Doing sub-assembly work. Sanding. Painting. Polishing.

The retarded youngsters not only experience the thrill of accomplishment, but receive wages as well. You will get your nuisance jobs done promptly and efficiently.

"We'll even paint your whole plant for you," Mrs.

Bergmann laughed. "If you'll just bring it to us a brick at a time."

This summer the workshop has been operating out of the Retarded Children's School on Garfield Avenue. Come September, Special Education classes sponsored by the public school system will move in, and the sheltered workshop will move back to the basement of the Bergmann home on old U.S. 31 in Hayes Township.

LEAVES brought down by the hailstorm a few weeks ago are beginning to turn brown and some neighborhoods already are starting to look like fall. Out at the cemetery, Carl Mitchell and his crew have done a nice job of cleaning up the debris. It still looks like summer out there.

SPEAKING of the cemetery, I wonder how many burial grounds there are in the country with a bonafide trout stream as part of the scenery? A recent state survey indicates that Stover Creek is presently supporting as many fat trout as it is able and will not have to be stocked, at least for the present. Next spring, the city hopes to post the stream for the use of youngsters--only. Some folks in town have an idea that if you don't experience the thrill of landing a big one--or two--while you're young, you won't ever become a dyed-in-the-wool angler.

AND SPEAKING of fish, the State Ways and Means Commission has scotched an idea advanced by Julius Gilbert to improve the fishing hereabouts. Julius suggested sinking several junk cars off shore and marking the site with a fishing buoy. Recent studies indicate there may be something about oxidizing metal that attracts fish.

MANY CHARLEVOIXANS and visitors are nostalgic about having the Holiday Beach Hotel open for one last summer season. Mrs. M. M. Caldwell of Lansing enjoyed visiting the hotel for the last time, and browsing at the El Catedral giftshop. "This is where my graduating class from East Jordan had its senior prom," she said wistfully. Mrs. Caldwell is a grandmother.

odds FRAN MARTIN ends

Just saw Jack Bacot go past with his old car...you know, the real swank run-about with the rumble seat...1909 vintage...it should have been in the antique car group that was here over the weekend...Had occasion to talk with one of the visitors, a former resident, Scott Supinger, who now lives in Midland...He drove his '32 Ford sedan here for the event...To my way of thinking, no one in their right mind would start out on a trip that far with a car like that...I was soon informed that it was in tip-top condition, that it hadn't given him a minute's trouble and that he'd made the trip in about five hours with only one stop...These antique car buffs are something else...and if you don't believe it, get the going...People like Dave Parrie, Harvey Varnum, Bob Hooper, Max Novak to name a few...They're serious about this business...

GOT A REAL jolt the other day...you know what wonderful weather we have been having...Only once or twice since mid-June have I had my windows closed...so I stopped cold as I cruised down the alley past Mrs. Charles Hamlin's Burns st. home for there on the side porch, all ready for use in an emergency (and it would have to be that right now), was the biggest, newest, sturdiest and brightest snow shovel I've seen since last winter...I was afraid to ask if she had some special insight into the future and, therefore, was expecting an early winter...so I'll just let you draw your own conclusions...

But I didn't take this lightly and started looking around for the usual signs...nuts on the beach trees, lots of acorns on the oaks and berries on the mountain ash trees to name a few...It's too early for the nuts and acorns but the mountain ash trees I've seen have only a less than normal number of berries...so we shall see what we shall see...and if you've any sure signs let me know...

YOU KNOW the fable about the grasshopper who danced all summer and the ant who worked so diligently preparing for the winter...I know quite a few ants who are preparing for now and the months ahead by raising beautiful gardens...vegetable gardens that are as lovely as any flower garden you'll ever see...There are probably many of them around town but the ones I have in mind are on the north side where the Charlie Bergmanns and the Albert Lehmanns are as busy as any ants you ever saw...and over on Central ave. Frank Zedek has a smaller but equally as lovely vegetable garden...Why is it things always taste better when you raise them yourself?

AND NOW ABOUT that Waterfront Fair I had caston to talk with some of those people...a few of whom have been coming since the Fair started...On of these was Bob Engle of Harbor Springs who spends his winters at a college in Ohio...He just returned from seven months in Japan on a Ford Foundation Grant...Potters, in Japan, are members of a highly respected profession...He spent time in various communities where they had pottery factories, so to speak...The pots were turned out in large quantities by individuals who took great pride in their work...He said they had an utterly different thinking on pottery there...Here one does it as a hobby...there it is a trade in which they take great pride...

There were so many lovely things one couldn't start to list them all...but the thing that I like best about it all is the fact that everything is original...and lovely...I had a chat with a Fair visitor from Indianapolis who had just visited the Artmobile...she thought it was the greatest...that we were fortunate to have an opportunity to have such art brought to us...via the trailer...it is such a fine addition to the Fair.

WHAT WERE headlines 40 years ago? One would hardly remember but I had occasion last week to see a collection of headlines and news stories from Aug. 16, 1926...Dave Hamilton had put together a collection of newspaper stories that appeared in the New York Times that date...on which his parents were married...A family dinner marked the 40th anniversary where I saw the collection...You might be interested to know that the French government was having troubles, even then...that Rudolph Valentino, THE great movie idol of the '20's had been admitted to the hospital he died within a short time, leaving the female population of the land in mourning, plans were being made for a flight to France on which hot food, prepared in New York, would be served enroute...the Gibson-Hall murder case was in the news as were a number of other things now considered history...

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

THE TALL SPARS of sailing ships were a familiar sight on Round Lake in 1896 when this photo was taken. If you have sharp eyes, you can even pick out some of the names of these lumber schooners anchored in the lake, just below the Parkside Dining Room. Many of the houses on Hurlbut Street are still standing.

A PHOTO TAKEN this summer from approximately the same location indicates the continued popularity of sailing vessels in these waters. Only these are pleasure craft, not work boats. There is considerably more vegetation on South Hill when this picture was taken.

Poet Raps Medusa, And 'Mr. Wiseclock'

To you, Mr. Wiseclock:

Tho' silence is golden,
We now are beholden
For the hiss and the boom
And the roar
To Medusa who's busy
And all in a tizzy,
A-urckin' and tearin'
our shore.

The bikes go 'round buzzin',
The jets go 'round screamin',
And the peace and the quiet are past.
But who's complainin'
When we are all aimin'
For temples and silos that last.

It now is our duty
To love progress, not beauty,
For then, in some future year,
They can dig up our city,
And look on with real pity,
Only a cement plant lies here!

We sure are delighted
With landscape so blighted,
For now we know what to do,
Treat Lyndon with honey,
Ask Congress for money,
And get Lady Bird to blot out that view.

With apologies to all poets everywhere...

Says Widow Suffers Abuse by Neighbors

To the Editor:

I have lived in this community for 15 years, and have found its people to be, for the most part, warm, generous and kind. These attitudes add up to a live and let-live sort of feeling that is rare in most small towns and is one of Charlevoix's most outstanding attractions. However, in the past two weeks it has come to my attention that there are those who are ready to follow the law of the jungle. There are still those who are ready and willing to take advantage of one who's position is weaker than their own. There are those who feel that they have the right to discriminate against a neighbor.

I ask you give them that right? Who has elevated them to the position whereby they may, without a tinge of guilt or conscience thought, look down on others? I ask where is the line drawn to make their level of social standing?

I loathe this type of snobbishness that is being tolerated, and, yes, even encouraged, by people who should be ashamed to involve themselves in the persecution of a widow and her children. I wish I could believe that anyone of these people who are ready to slander a widow and rob her of the right to own her own home could truly live with themselves. If only they would put themselves in her position and try a little kindness! One never knows. We may need a little kindness ourselves one day.

Raps Restaurant On Service, Food

Dear Bob:

A certain proprietor of an eating establishment in Charlevoix wrote me a letter last winter bemoaning the fact that after buying a good deal of food and preparing it for a large group of people, they failed to show up after eating their first meal there, which was breakfast.

Now, from the experience I had at this same establishment, I can see why they failed to show up. We were in a group of four that ordered a meal and when it came, we would hardly believe that anyone could have the nerve to charge such a price for so little amount of food. The steak my wife had ordered was so small and burnt so bad that she could not eat it so she decided that being hungry she would ask for another slice of bread, (we only got one slice with our meal). When the time came to pay our bill, believe it or not this proprietor had the nerve to charge me 25¢ for that one slice of bread. On top of all this we got no water with our meal and we paid .15¢ extra for our coffee.

If this proprietor thinks that anyone could recommend his place for eating, he is badly mistaken. I for one certainly will recommend to my friends and any strangers that might ask, that this place is a good place to stay away from. At the rate he is now going, he will drive himself out of business in just about another year.

A delegation of about ten teenagers came to the meeting to defend the center as they thought it was going to be closed. Mayor Robertson told them it would stay open. She told them to back and have fun but to keep the noise down. SUPERINTENDENT Gee said that many trees have to come down because they are interfering with the sidewalks and roads and that some are diseased.

Pilot Lost

Coast Guardsmen assigned to the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station have been ordered to remain on the lookout for signs of a missing F-84 photo reconnaissance plane believed to have crashed in Lake Michigan last Thursday about 15 miles northwest of Charlevoix. The pilot, Lt. Kenneth R. Knott, 25, assigned to the 15th Tactical Reconnaissance Group at Alameda, is missing and presumed dead.

The 44-footer and the 30-footer from the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the 30-footer from the Beaver Island Lifeboat Station were dispatched to the area immediately. The search was called off at darkness Saturday and all Coast Guard patrols were ordered to be on the lookout for evidence of the downed plane or its pilot.

the most vocal of the neighbors opposing the housing project. As mobile homes, she said, the units constitute a fire hazard and are apt to deteriorate rapidly. She also envisioned sewage and garbage disposal problems in the neighborhood. "We have accepted Charlevoix as our permanent home," she said. "We don't want to see it turned into a shanty town." COUNCIL decided to discuss the matter with the Planning Commission Wednesday night. They will decide at a special session at 10 p.m. the same night whether to restore Van Loo's building permit. Attorney Hoffmann says if the permit is not restored his client will seek a writ of mandamus from the Circuit Court allowing him to proceed with the project. He said Van Loo also would ask damages for any delay in the project.

COLONY CORALS

Parallelopore (DEV.)—Left, belongs to the Stromatopora, an uncertain group of extinct coral-like marine organisms which built laminated irregular lime masses on coral reefs.

Hexagonaria (DEV.)—Right and below, are six "Petoskey stones" (type of Trilobites).

Top view

Side view. Above, note younger colony developed on top.

Polished specimen, below. The reason for "hex" in the generic name is apparent.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Boat Battery Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Too many boatmen forget about the battery until the day when they turn the starter key and nothing happens.

The seashore sand locust endures dune temperatures up to 135 degrees F., simply by jumping about. The grasshopper leaps into air that may be 50 degrees cooler a few feet above the hot sand's surface.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge. The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry.

In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bells Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

live a little!

Use Tachometer to Check Engine

A tachometer, which measures the revolutions per minute of your outboard motor, is one sure way to check performance.

If your engine is turning faster (more rpm's) than it should, a propeller change could solve the problem. Select a new prop with more pitch to the blades.

Musical Adventure

The soothing combination of concert music under cool skies beside a yacht-filled harbor is offered every Wednesday evening at 8:30 p.m. in Charlevoix's East Side Park on Round Lake.

The City Band, a group of young and adult volunteer musicians led by Clarence Odmark, present the music. There are seats --either on benches or the soft turf (bring your own blanket)--for everyone. Bring the children, our happy summer people are always glad to see them.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test. Side brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States.

The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only.

KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves through college by waiting table at Charlevoix restaurants.

Many fine restaurants are located right in the heart of town. However, a few minutes' drive in almost any direction will bring you to many other fine dining establishments.

THE CHARLEVOIX Public Library welcomes summer visitors. The library is open from 1:30-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to Noon on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

East Jordan's History Dates to Logging Days

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and Ausable long boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creeks full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, sportsman's park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine. Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

Castle Van Haber

HIGHWAY M-66 JUST 2 MILES SOUTH OF CHARLEVOIX

Legendary medieval atmosphere, an enormous complex of gardens, courtyards, fountains, Norman arches, Gothic arches, towers, battlements, porticulis, heraldic arms, and a great hall 250 feet long.

A recreational and educational experience for the whole family, with visions of King Arthur, Sir Lancelot and the Knights of the Round Table. The great medieval complexes, with living quarters, defense towers, shops, crafts, etc. Here is a glimpse back into times immemorial, to the crusades, to the great heritage of the western world.

Castle Van Haber is perhaps the closest approach to medieval European atmosphere in America. It is the restoration of the renowned Loeb Estate.

COME AS YOU ARE—EVERYONE WELCOME

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Care's are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:

Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.

Have a Bacon "Ball" Month

Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.

Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Where to Send for Charts

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter-million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers Power advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesdays. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard
Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds.

First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up on ever again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to-four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a "shoal" area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevils, spinners.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Loeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm.

If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass-try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, jig-a-dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northwestern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitter-burs, Thula Toppers, Haxington Wigglers.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass, smallmouths.

--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass, panfish.

--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walloon Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

LEWIS AND DAVE Juilleret of Charlevoix display some of the fine rainbows being taken in Lake Charlevoix. This catch, weighing in excess of 18 pounds, was taken in the Horton Bay area.

"Castle" Open to Public

THE FORMER LOEB dairy farm on M-66 has been converted into an art gallery and artist colony. John Van Haver, the medieval-looking buildings have long aroused the curiosity of tourists to the Charlevoix area.

Former Loeb Farm Is Now Art Foundry

The storied Loeb dairy farm on M-66—long a tourist attraction with its turrets and battlements—is open for business this summer, but there are no cows on the premises.

The property has been purchased by Muskegon foundryman John Van Haver who has turned it into a year 'round art castings foundry. During the summer the buildings will be open to the public.

A gift shop has been opened and a tea room offers refreshments to visitors.

Once owned by the Loeb

family of Chicago, the property has not been farmed in the past 40 years and the buildings have long resembled medieval ruins.

Van Haver has turned some of the fieldstone walls into attractive garden settings. Other buildings have been repaired for use.

EXCELLENCE KNOWS NO SEASON

Ours is a 'seasonal' business—four seasons, that is. Most of you are aware we are here, in the old P.M. Rose-dale Station for the summer (and we love it)—Many of you know we are in Naples, Florida for the winter (we love that too—the Naples shop is open year 'round—four trained personnel on the job all summer). A comparative few of you may not know we spend a large part of the spring months abroad, buying, and part of the autumn months travelling here in the States—designing and installing interiors—with an infrequent, brief trip to London and Paris thrown in; (we love that as well.)

Sounds like a busy life, doesn't it? Well, it does keep us busy. It also keeps us young (we like to think) and it most certainly stimulates us to search harder, dig deeper, observe and absorb more and stretch ourselves to an even hotter pursuit of unexcelled excellence—in interior designing—in designing and purchasing (exclusively) for our gift boutique—in prowling about for rarer, finer quality antiques and bibelots—(the hours spent studying in the British Museum and the Victoria and Albert are priceless)—and it most assuredly exposes us to a variety of art (from the sublime Louvre to the absurdity of the Biennale)—and a growing potential for our gallery.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the Czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and later made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' aches and pains during the first quarter of this century, wouldn't recognize his old log home on the island if he returned today. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shaken on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders.

Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

A SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the fork of Bonner's Bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods—an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the Czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders' aches and pains.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run-of-river years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half-dozen other points on the island and at the resorts, there are other bathing beaches.

Blight Caused Migration
The great Irish famine of the 19th century was caused by a blight to the potato crop. Between two and three million people died and many others emigrated to the United States, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar decorated the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Disliked Smoking
King James I of England was an unremitting opponent of smoking and once wrote, anonymously, "A curious loathsomeness to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and, in the black, stinking fume thereof, nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play, makes a dull boy," is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health."

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuit to quiet activities, such as reading. It may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENTS--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY--$600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Amos, small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing?

The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

Refrigerator Cookies
Now's the time to put in a supply of rolls or cookie dough in the refrigerator. They can be sliced and baked with no notice and served with frosted beverages, fruit or alone just as a snack.

Use lard as the fat of your choice when making this type of cookie so it will be "short" and tender. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any fat. Since it's also 97 per cent digestible, lard is also a smart choice for any food item which is as popular for eating as cookies!

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter, ice fishing, smelt fishing, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with

Library Is Open to City Visitors

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations. Just because your boat has "room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry. If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

Sunlight reflected off small particles of matter in space produces the high noctilucent clouds that glow at night.

Area Schools Kick Off Football Practice

VARISITY COACH "Shorty" Smith puts the East Jordan team candidates through the "Blaster", in the second day of practice. Several more boys are expected to report for practice in addition to the 36 who were on hand for the first session. Seven lettermen returned to the squad this year.

ELLSWORTH Coach Bob Lewis wastes no time in getting the Lancers into shape for their September 16th date at Central Lake. Twenty-five boys reported for the first practice to compete for a spot on the eight man Ellsworth squad.

NINETY-THREE Charlevoix High School boys turned out for the first day of practice, considerably more than the number who signed up last year. Although equipment was handed out last week, Coach Don Carey had the boys work out in shorts and helmets Monday, one of the hottest days of August.

Father and Son

Bankers Cash In on Golf Trophies

CHARLEVOIX -- A father-and-son team captured three of the ten trophies offered in the annual Men's Golf Tournament at the Charlevoix Golf Club.

They are Bob Livingston, cashier at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, and his son Bruce, 17, who has worked at the bank this summer as a teller.

The senior Livingston took the Championship Flight, defeating Bob Wallace, 4 to 3. Livingston also won the Championship flight in 1963 and 1964.

BRUCE not only won the First Flight, but also a special flight for 17 and 18-year-olds.

In the First Flight, Bruce defeated Ken Cellner, 1 up, and in the junior league flight he defeated Bill Gengle, 6 to 4.

Young Livingston, who has been playing golf "seriously" about three years, admittedly has acquired some helpful advice from his father.

OTHER champions in this year's tourney were: Fourth Flight, Bob Koteles over Jim Alger, 3-2; Fifth Flight, Jerry Burke over Jim Lewis, 5-4; 15 and 16-year-olds, Gary Beitel over Paul Fiedorek, 5-4; and 14 years and under, Toni Anderson over Stewart Coleman, 5-4.

The Sixth Flight, between Tom Acton and Don Kowbel, is still to be decided.

Early Deadline

Because of the Labor Day holiday, the deadline for all news items, locals and advertisements this week will be 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2.

RETIREMENT promises to be active for the Weststaffs. Mrs. Weststaff is northern Michigan representative for the Joan Jewett Career School in Lansing which specializes in training girls for modeling, secretarial and airline work. She also will continue to write for the Michigan Deverage.

VanLoo to Appeal Council Decision to Circuit Court

CHARLEVOIX -- Jack VanLoo says he has definitely decided to appeal to the Charlevoix County Circuit Court a decision by the City Council that a two - section prefabricated home he planned to locate on May Street is a house trailer.

VanLoo says he hopes for an early decision by the court so he and his brother, Roy, can go ahead with an eight-home development on a two and one-half acre site on the west side of May Street near Skover Rd.

If the court denies his petition, he says he will move his trailer sales outlet on U.S. 31 North to the May Street site. "I have to make some use of the land," he told the Courier Tuesday.

THE DWELLING units VanLoo plans to put on the site are prefabricated by Guerdon Industries, Inc., of Marlette and are equipped with wheels for the trip to the buyers lot. There, two units are placed back to back on a permanent foundation and bolted together.

VanLoo was granted a permit to build a pre-fabricated home on the site, but City Superintendent James Taylor withdrew the permit when he saw the type of construction.

NEIGHBORS in the area complained that trailers were being moved in violation of C-2 zoning. Several of them attended the last Council meeting to complain, but a decision on the matter was postponed until the Council had a chance to sound out the Regional Planning Commission on the problem at a joint meeting Aug. 24.

The Planning Commission did not come up with a recommendation one way or the other, but Everett Thompson, representing the firm of Williams and Weeks, said the property is not a choice residential site since it lies in the path of the City Airport's main east-west runway.

COMMISSION member Dan Gennett mentioned a proposed subdivision ordinance which the Commission has been studying which would not permit such developments unless paving, water and sewers are installed first.

Later at a special Council meeting, aldermen voted four to one to deny VanLoo a building permit on grounds such a building is in violation of C-2 zoning. Alderman Bob Gill opposed the motion, and Alderman Bob Neff was absent.

IGA Girls Claim Title

CHARLEVOIX - Women's league champions, Edwards IGA, has been designated host team in the upcoming State Class D finals to be held at Traverse City this weekend.

Their first game in the double elimination tournament is set for Friday at 7 p.m. against Baldwin.

The local girls in their new crimson and white uniforms printed for the tournament with a double header last Saturday night when they defeated two of the top teams in the local league, beating Al's Texaco in extra innings 15-10 and Paul-Reed 11-3.

Manager Max Novak has three pitchers on the roster: Myrna Boss, Sue Crain, and Connie Smith. Novak indicated that he probably would start Myrna Boss, but that in a double elimination tournament all three pitchers could see considerable action.

Last year the team won regional and district playoffs but was defeated by Owosso in the state finals.

Area Grid Schedules Posted

Grid awards at Charlevoix, East Jordan and Ellsworth already are working out in preparation for their first games Sept. 16.

Ellsworth will play at Central Lake. East Jordan will meet Kalkaska at home and

Boy, 4, Drowns at Ironton Dock

A four-year-old Ironton boy drowned Tuesday afternoon when he fell off a dock at Scott's Marina while fishing.

The victim was Eric Rotunno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rotunno, who live in an apartment above the Ironton laundry.

The boy had his lunch and went down the hill to the dock about 1:30. At 2 p.m. his parents began looking for him to take him shopping in Petoskey.

The body was discovered about 4 o'clock by marina operator Mearle Scott.

Bosses Welcome Fraulein

CHARLEVOIX -- An exchange student from Kallenberg, Germany, has joined the Dale Boss family at North Point for the 1966-67 school year, making it an even ten now living at The Gay Chalet.

She is Hannelore Muller, an attractive brunette who arrived at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport from Europe Aug. 22. The Bosses met her, and already she is "one of the family." In addition to their own five children, the Bosses have two foster daughters, Hannelore (who prefers to be called Hanna, with both a's soft) will enroll as a senior at Charlevoix High School this year. When she returns to Germany she will complete Grade 13, before entering a university. Eventually she plans to teach.

HANNA's home is in a small town about seven miles from Wolfsburg where Volkswagen automobiles are made. Her father, Heinrich, is a civilian administrative official working for the German Army. She has two sisters, Rose Margrit, 13, and Hildemarie, 16, who was an exchange student two years ago at McBain, Mich.

Hanna says her father wants his daughters to visit America to learn about the American way of life.

As a newcomer, Hanna already has fallen in love with Charlevoix's lakes and outdoor life.

Recovery, Inc., Meets at East Jordan

Self-Help Therapy Calms Nerves

EAST JORDAN--Recovery, Inc., is a self-help organization for former mental patients and others who are chronically nervous.

The East Jordan group was started in 1955 by Mrs. Albert Giacomelli. She suffered intense nervous symptoms and was introduced to Recovery by a friend.

Since there was no group meeting at the time in northern Michigan, Mrs. Giacomelli read a book on Recovery by Dr. Abraham Low, the program's founder, and founded the local chapter.

East Jordan is one of the few rural areas in the country to support a Recovery program.

RECOVERY meetings are informal and only first names are used. Last names are disclosed only if a person so desires.

At meetings, members discuss their symptoms and tell what they do to combat them. There is always Dr. Low's book to refer to for additional advice and information.

The main problem for most people seems to be determining the cause of their nervousness, whether it's an ungrounded fear or an angry temper. Once the cause is determined, Recovery methods are applied. Therapy may consist of conscientiously slowing down muscle movements, or a concerted effort to relax.

Most Recovery members are encouraged to try to be "average" rather than "exceptional" in their goals and accomplishments, since striving for excellence is often the cause of undue nervousness.

PEOPLE from all walks of life attend the meetings: housewives, professionals, laborers, truck drivers, factory workers. Most of those attending are referred to Recovery by doctors who find no physical malfunction at fault for their illnesses.

Anyone is welcome to attend Recovery meetings without a doctor's recommendation, but it is suggested that all members have thorough physical examinations once a year.

Recovery, Inc., does not offer "diagnosis, treatment, advice or counseling." It is made clear that the leader is not a physician or expert in the field, but is there only to demonstrate Recovery methods. It is a group process. Members are given the telephone number of a senior Recovery member who can be called any time help is needed in applying Recovery methods.

RECOVERY, Inc. was started in Chicago in 1937 by Dr. Low to prevent relapses in former mental patients and chronic nervousness in others. Dr. Low was psychiatric director at the University of Illinois as well as associate professor of psychiatry and neurology at the University of Illinois Medical School. He saw a need for self-help among his patients.

FROM CHICAGO, the Recovery movement has spread to 27 states and Canada. Michigan's first chapter was started in 1947, and until 1953 there was only one unit. Since then the movement has spread to all parts of the state.

There presently is a bill before the 89th Congress to make Recovery, Inc., a national corporation with a national Charter. Although Recovery already is national in scope, it still operates under the laws of the various states.

Recovery meetings are held every Monday night at 8 p.m. at the Presbyterian Hall in East Jordan. Anyone with a tension problem is welcome to attend.

Miss Muriel Lang Is Married Friday

Miss Muriel V. Lang became the bride of Everett M. Swartz on Friday, Sept. 2, at the First Methodist Church in the presence of 100 guests. Rev. Leona Wingard officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Jerold Mordick of Charlevoix. Swartz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Madden of Ellsworth. Mrs. Donna White was organist.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white tulle covered with lace. Her shoulder-length veil was secured by a pearl tiara. She carried a cascade of carnations.

Mrs. Guy Best was her only attendant. She wore a greenish-rod suit and carried a bouquet of carnations. Harold McClanathan was best man.

Ushers were Gary Mordick, step-brother of the bride, and John Mordick, cousin of the bride.

MRS. MORDICK wore a beige dress and a corsage of yellow carnations. Mrs. Madden wore a black and white suit with a pink carnation corsage.

A reception hosted by the bride's parents was held at Harmony Hall. The couple will reside in Ellsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klooster

Ralph Kloosters Wed Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klooster will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 1, at an open house from 2 until 5 at the Community Reformed Church Fellowship Hall.

They were married in the Charlevoix Methodist Church in 1916 by the Rev. Walker and have spent all their lives in the Charlevoix area.

FOR 33 YEARS they were caretakers on the Ayres Boat farm on the Boyne City Road before retiring to their home on Division Street.

The Kloosters have two daughters Mrs. Harold (Esther) De Young of Ellsworth, Mrs. James (Dorothy) Willis of Charlevoix. A third daughter, Marie, died in 1948.

Benjamin S. Gill Is Promoted by Fire Department

CHARLEVOIX—Benjamin S. Gill has been appointed assistant fire chief to succeed Richard Wells, who is now a member of the police force, according to James Taylor, city superintendent.

Gill is a native of Charlevoix and a veteran of 22 years in the U.S. Navy in which he reached the rank of chief electrician's mate before retirement.

He was formerly employed at the Tri-City Concrete and Meggison's Shielair Service.

Barbara Elaine Schwab

Ken Cellners Tell Daughter's Troth

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cellner have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Elaine Schwab, to Russell E. Jay of Grand Rapids. Jay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jay of Grand Rapids.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and attended Davenport College. She returned to Michigan last week after having been employed at the offices of Stone and Webster Engineering Corp. in Los Angeles. Jay is a graduate of Ottawa Hills High School and Davenport College where he was a member of Phi Theta Phi. He was formerly employed at the Lockheed Corp. of Los Angeles before returning to be with the Rust Meat Packaging Corp. in Grand Rapids. The wedding will be Oct. 8 at the First Methodist Church here.

Now Hear This----

"But those who desire to be rich fall into temptation, into a snare, into many senseless and hurtful desires that plunge men into ruin and destruction. For the love of money is the root of all evil; it is through this craving that some have wandered away from faith and pierced their hearts with pains." — 1 Timothy, Chap. 6: 9-10.

One has but to look in the pages of newspapers any day to realize the striking truth of the above warning—a banking official or public servant gone wrong, a home broken, crimes committed.

Money has its proper place in the essentials of any life. It is only when love of it causes us to place it in a position out of all proportion to its importance that the tragedies mentioned in the Bible quotation descend upon us.

There are many messages of power in the Bible that will help us avoid pitfalls and aid in building a successful life. A wonderful assist in discovering and using this power is church attendance, for being a part of church fellowship is living out these rules of conduct found in the Bible.

We Need a Building Code

A building code to insure that all new home construction meets minimum standards is urgently needed by the City of Charlevoix.

The housing shortage in the city is nothing short of desperate. If anyone is ever going to make a buck on get-rich-quick housing developments, now is the time.

At present, the only restriction on a dwelling is that it meet certain square footage requirements as set forth in the various zoning classifications.

So far as the city cares—officially—the floor joists could be made of matchsticks and the roof fastened down with chewing gum.

TRADITIONALLY, Charlevoix has been a city of fine homes and for years it was unthinkable to build anything less than the best.

But the winds of change are shifting our way.

The City Council would do well to adopt a building code before we are besieged by an army of home developers more interested in quick profits than in building homes which will be assets to the community for years to come.

A building code will not discourage housing development; it will merely attract the right kind.

No Gun Can Pull It's Own Trigger

(The following editorial is reprinted from the Lapeer County Press.)

Consider the inanimate gun. Since an irrational man in Texas shot and killed 16 persons, the cry for legislation to curb the sale of firearms has increased. Even the President now is urging Federal curbs stronger than the Dodd bill.

The Dodd bill would ban all interstate mail-order sale of handguns, all direct sale of handguns to persons under 21 and of rifles and shotguns to those under 18. A person buying a rifle or shotgun by mail would have to swear he was not a criminal. His affidavit to the seller would be forwarded to police in his home community.

Curbs on mail order sale of firearms were included in a batch of anti-crime legislation the President proposed last spring. Controls on firearm sales were proposed in a measure in Congress months before President Kennedy was assassinated. For a good many years, in fact, there have been bills to curb in one way or another the sale of guns to individuals. None have ever been enacted. Opposition is longstanding. Many individuals and groups regard such bills as attempts to curtail individual liberty. Sporting arms and ammunition makers see them as threats to their business. Trap, skeet and target shooters, hunters and collectors, bring pressure against them.

Also, there is the second amendment to the Federal Constitution (Article II of the Bill of Rights). It reads: "A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." (Some quarters, however, interpret this as implying a public or group responsibility having nothing to do with individual ownership of guns.)

Today nearly all states have some prohibition against selling handguns to persons convicted of crimes of violence. Some states require a permit to purchase a handgun, or to carry one concealed.

Few have restrictions on the sale of rifles and shotguns—which have the image of sporting arms. Most hunting regulations outlaw fully automatic firearms, which must be registered with the Federal Government.

No one knows how many guns are in private hands in the United States. Of 6 persons working in The County Press front office, 2 own no guns and 4 own 14 among them. City Manager Arnold Whitney owns 5. Bud Burch at Lapeer Hardware says he sells between 200 and 250 guns a year.

A gun industry spokesman estimates more than 100 million guns are owned by U.S. residents. One rifle was used to kill President Kennedy. The sniper in Austin had 7 firearms. The killer of 8 student nurses in Chicago had one but used a knife instead.

All the guns mentioned in the 2 paragraphs have one thing in common—not one can pull its own trigger.

For that fact alone, a Federal law curbing the sale of firearms will do no more to stop assassination and murder than the Volstead Act did to stop drunkenness.

Those who would prohibit the sale of guns have the same blind spot as the supporters of Prohibition who failed to see, as philosopher George Santayana put it, that liquor does not stand drunk in the bottle.

There should be a law—but it should be aimed at the misuse of guns. It will be difficult to write because misuse is a complex problem for the conscious man—not for the inanimate gun.

odds ends

LABOR DAY'S coming up this weekend. . . it doesn't seem possible, does it? The last hand concert will be played tonight, weather permitting. . . the last softball game has been played and trophies awarded. . . Football practice has started and there's a touch of fall in the air like the cool nights, the roar of Lake Michigan, orange sunsets so typical of the season. . .

All in all it's been a good summer. . . But we'll soon be losing all our part-time residents that are so much a part of our lives. . . I'm sure everyone is sorry to see them go. . . but there'll be another summer. . . Have a good winter and come June, God willing, we'll see you then. . .

And speaking of seeing you. . . be careful over this coming weekend. . . we'd love to see you around, come Sept. 6. . . so drive carefully, be careful on the water, watch out for drivers if you're a pedestrian and we'll see you after the last big summer weekend. . .

YOU'VE BEEN reading the ad in the Charlevoix Courier relating to the sale of the furnishings of the Beach Hotel. . . Like everyone else I hate to see the last of Charlevoix's summer hotels becoming a thing of the past. . . The history of this one dates back to 1898 when Mrs. John Baker, probably one of the greatest of hotel managers, built the hotel into the cliff overlooking Lake Michigan. . . That gal had foresight for the hotel became one of the greatest in the north. . . I can remember when I was a kid the average person didn't any more than walk past the place. . . It was full from late June till Labor Day and every night was like New Year's Eve. . . with the place lighted from top to bottom, the guests dressed for dinner. . . and I mean in formal and luxuries, with dinner music and later dancing in the ball room. . . Those were the days when all the flames on that street housed the overflow from the hotel and there was an annex overlooking Lake Michigan behind what is now Puhke's Sunset Lodge. . . Another annex located on Lewis st. housed hotel employees. . .

THEN CAME the depression of the early '30's followed by improved transportation. . . cars, buses, boats and planes that could whisk you thither and yon. . . and people no longer came for the summer. . . The big old summer hotels were on their way out. . . and during the last two decades Charlevoix has seen most of the "old timers" go by the board. . . first the old inn at the end of Dixon Ave., then the Belvedere Hotel in the '50's followed by Hallett's Hotel, Hallett's Inn and more recently the Lakeview. . .

They all held more memories than you'd ever dream. . . With the passing of the Beach Hotel another era will be tucked away into history. . . And, you know, I feel more than a little sorry for those people who didn't have even a glimpse of it. . . It's like something you'll never believe. . . but those who lived through it wouldn't have missed it for the world. . . I hope, before everything is gone, to obtain some small memento from the Beach Hotel to add to those from the others. . .

I DON'T KNOW if it's because so many kids have birthdays in the summer or what, but it seems that every youngster I've seen lately is sporting a new bike. . . and they all have the marks of battle to prove it. . . Learning to ride a bike is no small thing for the average kid. . . and most of them end up taking falls that they'd scream about any other time. . . but crying means putting the bike away and you can't do that, for heaven's sake. . . I've seen more kids take tumbles recently. . . The drug stores are doing a real business in band-aids, no doubt. . .

SO IT'S BRIGHT and beautiful and visibility is great. . . so why is the foghorn blowing? I wondered, too, so I checked. . . and I found that it has to be checked occasionally and that's what is being done right now. . . It seems that it has an auxiliary generator that can be used should the local source of power kick out. . . And it's the auxiliary system that's being checked out for bugs at the moment. . .

AND SPEAKING of bugs, have you ever seen a summer when there's been so few bugs, moths, butterflies and such. . .

AND WHILE I think of it, don't forget to get yourself registered for the forthcoming general election. . . If you're from out of state you have to be in Michigan six months in order to vote Nov. 2. . . However, if your six months will be up by that date, register now. . . the deadline for registering is late next month. . . But do it when you think of it or time will get away from you. . .

When we finally swung into the livery stable drive, Jack was waiting to meet us. . . "So you really made it back!" he cried, taking Nancy by the hand. . . Come to think of it, there was a note of genuine surprise in his voice—that would have been truly alarming, if we hadn't been past caring. . .

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

THE CHARLEVOIX Municipal Golf Course has always been a favorite spot for Charlevoixans, as these pictures taken in 1906 will attest. A pagoda-type structure provided shelter from the sun and rain for spectators and players.

FASHIONS on the golf links have changes considerably since these pictures were taken 57 years ago. Knickerbockers were high style for boys and some men preferred them while golfing. Women's skirts brushed the turf, even at sporting events such as this.

Hemingway Once Again Tramps Michigan Woods

"Hemingway in Michigan," by Constance Cappel Montgomery, Fleet Publishing Corp., $5.95.

Although it bears many marks of the amateur, Miss Montgomery's book will undoubtedly find a wide readership in Charlevoix and Emmet counties, since it deals mainly with the days Ernest Hemingway spent in northern Michigan.

Although Hemingway's first home was in Oak Park, Ill., the family began coming to northern Michigan for their summer vacations about the turn of the century. Hemingway came to know the area thoroughly—Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Walloon Lake, Horton Bay, Charlevoix. Most of the things he did in northern Michigan and the scenes he remembered turned up sooner or later in his short stories or novels.

NEW INFORMATION so far as this reviewer is concerned is the fact that he spent the fall of 1919 and the winter of 1920 writing in a boarding house at 602 State St. in Petoskey. At the time he was recuperating from wounds suffered as an ambulance driver in the Italian army during World War I. It also came as a surprise that he was married for the first time in the Methodist Church (now gone) at Horton Bay. Hadley Hetherington was his bride.

The book chronicles in some detail the author's break with his family, citing chiefly letters from Ernest's father to his mother. Of particular interest are three short stories published in Hemingway's high school literary magazine, the Tabula. One of them, "Sepi Jingen," takes place at Horton Bay. Miss Montgomery is weakest when she leaves her subject. Early Michigan history, Jesuit missionaries and the massacre at Fort Mackinac—as absorbing as they may be—have no place in a book about Hemingway and his boyhood haunts. The going becomes pretty heavy when she attempts to link Hemingway's catholicism to Father Marquette. "But Hemingway's religious sympathies had their roots in the religion that Father Marquette first brought to the Indians of northern Michigan," she writes.

AS AN HISTORIAN, Miss Montgomery might have done well to check her facts, since she has Michigan becoming a state in 1805.

Nevertheless, her book will provide a good evening's entertainment for Hemingway buffs in the area. JRC.

Clockwise

Unlike other northern Michigan islands which are bathed in clouds of pine-scented oxygen, Mackinac Island has an aroma all its own. You can pick up a half-mile or so out in the harbor, and it grows stronger as you near shore. The sweet smell of steaming fudge kettles predominates, with gentle undercurrents of "horse." Surprisingly, the combination is not displeasing. In fact, it's a good advertisement for two of the island's principal attractions—fudge and buggy rides.

LAST YEAR Judy, Kathleen and I "did" the island by bicycle. This year Grandma and Grandpa came along, so we hired out to Jack's livery stable and rented a rig.

Jack, or a reasonable facsimile (he certainly looked like a Jack), eyed me suspiciously.

"Have you ever driven a horse before?" he snorted. I was quite flattered. It was like being asked in a bar if you are 21.

"I've driven a democrat and a cutter," I confessed, "but that was a good many years ago."

"I'll do it," he said brusquely, inscribing my name in a ledger in front of him. "We don't have a rig at the moment, but one will be shortly. Six dollars, please."

I paid and Jack gave me a map of the island and some instructions on how to drive a horse. Among other things, it was recommended that the horse be held back going down hill. As it turned out, it would have made more sense to give the instructions to the horse.

Outside I started getting a little nervous about the driving. The vehicles I had mentioned to Jack were the safe means of transportation of a great aunt of mine whom I used to visit in Canada as a boy. Her power plant was an ancient Indian pony named Bud who was afraid of heights. He never would go down a steep hill unless you dismounted and let him lean on your shoulder.

MY FEARS were groundless, because in a few minutes a slow clip-clop was heard in the street and the great-grandmother of all the horses on Mackinac Island have unsteadily into view. She was a long, sway-backed mare with blinders and a fly-jacket. Her passengers, who looked as though they had just completed a long and arduous journey across Asia, emerged from the surrey and disappeared quickly into the crowd. Jack was calling my name from the stable door.

"She's all yours," he cried happily. "Name's Nancy, have a good time!"

We piled in as the stable boy gave Nancy a long drink of water from a 10-quart pail. Then he turned her around facing the street and we were on our own.

I slapped Nancy's rump with the reins. Nothing happened. "I tried it again. Still no sign of life."

"Hey, giddyap, there," I shouted, slapping the reins loudly just above her right rear flank. Slowly Nancy moved forward, resigned to the fact that she had to drag her old bones around that island one. . . more. . . time.

WE HAD scarcely turned out to the main road around the island when a youngster rode up on a spirited young mount.

"Is that Communist Queen?" he asked excitedly, bending down for a close look at Nancy's long face.

"Her name is Nancy," I said defensively, surprised to find I was developing a rather proprietary interest toward the old girl.

"Nancy! he scoffed. "She's just as bad as Communist Queen."

We really didn't need anyone to tell us that Nancy would never win the Kentucky Derby. She would take a few brisk steps, and then for no apparent reason, stop dead in her tracks. Then I'd have to swat her five or six times with the reins to get her back in gear. Apparently Nancy's lethargy was a standing joke on the island. Most of the coachesmen we met coming in the opposite direction knew her by name.

"You aren't having any trouble holding her back, are you?" one of them called cheerfully as he passed. Nancy at the time had stopped to watch a butterfly and had fallen asleep.

Quite by accident we discovered Nancy liked music, particularly "The Surrey With the Fringe on Top" from Oklahoma. The faster we'd sing, the faster Nancy would trot. Once, as an experiment, I broke into "C amptown Races," and Nancy almost hit a gallop. In the interest of highway safety, I switched back to "The Surrey With the Fringe on Top."

THE ROUTE Jack had laid out for us followed the western shore to British Landing where there is a soft drink stand. From there he suggested we head inland, cutting across the island diagonally to the village. Unfortunately, some time previously Nancy had made an arrangement with the owner of the British Landing soft drink stand, because there she stopped and there stood until we spent all the loose change in our pockets. The road from British Landing climbs slowly uphill. It was along this stretch that something snapped in poor Nancy's digestive tract. It was pretty bad. At one point Kathleen threatened to get out and walk.

ONCE we reached high ground the going was a little easier. Nancy obligingly stopped at every historical marker, whether we wanted her to or not, even pulling over onto the gravelled turn-off. She stayed just long enough for us to read the message, then moved on. By the time we reached the village we had run up a $3 bill for overtime so we decided to forego a side trip along the front of the Grand Hotel. Besides, Nancy was getting baky again.

When we finally swung into the livery stable drive, Jack was waiting to meet us. "So you really made it back!" he cried, taking Nancy by the hand.

Come to think of it, there was a note of genuine surprise in his voice—that would have been truly alarming, if we hadn't been past caring. . .

Suggests Answers To Lake Pollution

Dear Mr. Clock:

Your constructive suggestions concerning pollution control in general and Round Lake in particular, deserves serious consideration, however alternative proposals should also be considered.

A station could be provided on Round Lake where boats could safely empty their holding tanks, this may be more convenient for yachtsmen.

The pumping of harmful fluid industrial wastes 4,000 feet deep into porous sandstone strata where they remain harmlessly sealed forever below the water level, is not the solution to the sewage disposal problem. As you pointed out, "sewage is a nutrient for plant life". It is the animal material half of the plant and animal life cycle. To short circuit this cycle forever, in this manner, would be an additional mistake in the balance of nature that already has too many violations against it.

THE RAIN PHASE of the hydrologic cycle is composed of distilled water which naturally leaches the soluble minerals from the land on the way to the sea, when it is not absorbed by plant or animal life. By adding animal wastes directly to streams through sewage systems man greatly reduced the mineral and organic matter that should have been returned to the land.

After World War II the urban centers added garbage to the sewage disposal systems resulting in even greater pollution of streams and less natural mineral and organic matter returned to the land.

The problem is to devise the most efficient system possible of reducing the "waste nutrients" released to the streams and returning them to the land where they are needed.

Sincerely
Ray E. Peltz

Wexstaff expects to keep busy at what has been his avocation--making gunstocks.

THIS WINTER the Wexstaffs plan an unusual trip to Florida. They will retrace the exact route they took during their first trip South in 1925. "It's going to be a job, because many of the roads have been relocated," Mrs. Wexstaff said. "We'll probably have to cover quite a bit of the route on foot or motor bike."

COUNTY CORONER James Stuckus was called by the seaver, he said death was due to drowning, but he had no idea how long the boy was in the water.

Eric was one of seven Rotunno children. Steven, Loraine and Cynthia are older; twins Gilbert and Gilda and Nancy are younger.

THE FAMILY moved to Ironton about six weeks ago from Saginaw when Rotunno was hired as a boilermaker at the Medusa Cement Plant site. The family came originally from Santa Fe, N.M.
Mrs. Glen Williams, operator of the Ironton laundry, said Eric had gone fishing several times this summer by himself without mishap.

COLONY CORALS

Parallelopora (DEV.)—Left, belongs to the Stromatoporoids, an uncertain group of extinct coral-like marine organisms which built laminated irregular limey masses on coral reefs.

Hexagonaria (DEV.) Right and below, are six "Petoskey stones" (type of Tetracoral).

Top view

Side view. Above, note younger colony developed on top.

Polished specimen, below. The reason for "hex" in the generic name is apparent.

Beach pebbles, above.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found no where else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Boat Battery

Needs Attention

Your boat battery, used to start your outboard motor and power electrical equipment aboard, should be checked periodically.

Too many boatmen forget about the battery until the day when they turn the starter key and nothing happens.

The seashore sand locust endures dune temperatures up to 135 degrees F. simply by jumping about. The grasshopper leaps into air that may be 50 degrees cooler a few feet above the hot sand's surface.

Hunt Stones by Water's Edge

One of the best ways to find Petoskey stones is to look for them at the water's edge. The water brings out lines and patterns that may be missed when the stones are dry.

In spite of the name, Petoskey stones are not confined to the shores of Little Traverse Bay. Some excellent specimens have been found at Bells Bay, just south of Charlevoix.

Although Charlevoix has

many fine sand beaches, many long stretches provide a veritable paradise for rock collectors.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery presently is conducting tests to determine the best diet for lake trout raised in captivity.

The Party's Over

THE END OF SUMMER is a busy time -- and a nostalgic one -- for Charlevoix visitors. There is the boat to be pulled from the water. The cottage must be sealed tight against the coming winter. Water pipes need to be drained, and the lawn furniture must be put away for another year. Packing the car is the last step before waving goodbye to Bridge Street until next summer.

Retail Showroom of Shipwrecks Unlimited, Inc.

We invite you to inspect some of the most unusual, hand-crafted furniture to be found anywhere.

Unique furnishings, designed and originated by Mr. Jim Sawtelle, made from sunken ship's lumber.

Nearly 100 years of aging beneath the surface of Lake Michigan, brings out the rich warmth of solid rustic oak. Every piece is one of a kind.

If you admire the unusual, a trip to Treasure Cove is a must during your visit to Northern Michigan.

Attach Motor To Your Canoe

A canoe trip doesn't have to be an endurance test. Side brackets, priced at about $15.00, are available for mounting small outboard motors. Square stern canoes also allow easy outboard installation.

Gourmets Love Charlevoix

Charlevoix area restaurants offer some of the finest eating in the United States. The specialties range from whitefish and lake trout, which are practically found at Charlevoix's doorstep, to prime ribs of beef, done just the way you like 'em.

Many restaurants are open year 'round. Others cater to summer visitors only. KITCHEN and dining room help is recruited from among local citizens, although no small number of college girls and boys help put themselves

THE CHARLEVOIX Public Library welcomes summer visitors. The library is open from 1:30-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to Noon on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

East Jordan's History Dates to Logging Days

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley. The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix. Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and AuSable longboats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art city sponsored recreational programs, including softball. Visiting trailerites and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

Charlevoix the Beautiful

By Mrs. E. A. Butler

I stand and gaze at thy beauty,
With waters so clear and blue,
At peace with the world and mankind,
Lake Charlevoix brings memories anew.

Lake Michigan reaches an arm out,
To embrace channel made by man,
And channel through lake to Lake Charlevoix,
As far as the eye can span.

The breeze is cool and refreshing,
As it blows across my face,
Cares are all tossed and forgotten,
All worry it seems to erase.

I'm reminded of a picture
Of Round Lake on Venetian Night;
The waters are gay with color,
Boats and fireworks where all is bright.

It is fine for boating and fishing,
For a swim it can't be beat.
To take a picnic supper
On lake Charlevoix sure is a treat.

It is a glorious place to be,
So dear to the heart of man,
It is better than pills or vitamins,
In Charlevoix I live again!

Water Safety Tips Offered

- With outdoor water activity increasing, State Police suggest these safety precautions:
- Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.
  - Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jacket for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard for emergencies.
- Have a Bacon "Ball" Month
- Why not have a bacon "ball" to celebrate this tasty meat between May 17th and June 13th? Roll cream cheese balls in cooked, crumbled bacon as a garnish for fruit salads.
- Water chestnuts wrapped in pieces of bacon, secured by a wooden pick, then broiled, make a nice meat garnish.

Worldly Audience

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant has become a symbol of Charlevoix's unique blend of dynamic progress and dramatic beauty. Set along Lake Michigan amidst some of the most scenic shoreline in North America, the nuclear plant's Information Center has attracted more than a quarter-million visitors.

Tens of thousands of these people would not have come to Charlevoix, except for the power plant. Today Consumers advertises its Information Center on billboards throughout the state.

This series of "Courier Camera" photos shows some of the hundreds of people who visited the Information Center on a typical afternoon. In the last month visitors have come from 47 states and 20 foreign countries.

Chuck England, Information Center director, reports the biggest rush is on Wednesday. The most often asked question is how nuclear power compares economically with coal. Assisting England at the Information Center are Pat Kujawski, James Stewart, Claudia Hartman, Mike Allen and Tony Duerr.

Hello There.

Trout Return to Lake Charlevoix

By Glen Shepard
Trout are finally the big news again in Lake Charlevoix.

After nearly two decades of absence trout are back in Michigan's fourth largest, most beautiful lake. The comeback of the fighting steelhead was first noted early this spring when anglers unexpectedly started nailing fish that weighed up to four pounds.

First reports of successful trout fishing were skeptically received by local anglers, who had given up on ever again seeing them in Lake Charlevoix. The trout disappeared shortly after World War II due to the invasion of sea lamprey and heavy commercial netting.

But in 1964 the Conservation Department decided things were ripe for the trout to return. Thousands of small trout were planted. This spring they showed up as battling two-to-four-pounders.

MID-SUMMER isn't the best time to catch them. But if you're interested in trying, wait around until late evening near a shoal area. If things are right, which they are more often than not, you'll spot trout feeding on, or just under, the surface.

Some nights they may take surface flies or nymphs. Other evenings artificial lures or live bait will be the best. In artificial try flatfish, jig-a-dos, daredevilis, spinners.

YOU SHOULDN'T have any trouble spotting the feeding fish. Likely areas include the Pine River channel, the bay off Loeb's Point, Horton Bay and sections of the South Arm.

If you're after faster action stick to bass fishing. Lake Charlevoix still offers some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world.

Bassy looking areas of the South Arm, near Ironton, East Jordan, and the shores of Lake Charlevoix are the places to try. Your best bet is to troll just offshore near the dropoff. If you don't find them on your first pass try trolling further from shore or closer to it until you do.

One thing's sure: There are plenty of scrappy smallmouths in the lake. Once you locate them trolling you can shut the motor off and cast. Use minnows, worms, spinners, jig-a-dos, Super Dupers, flatfish, and other proven lures.

For tips on current bass hotspots ask a local fisherman.

IF YOUR INTEREST runs more to smaller lakes you're really in business. The Charlevoix area offers many inland lakes.

Some of these lakes can only be found by using a map as they are hidden from view. Most of them are in southwestern Charlevoix County and northern Antrim County.

If they are on private property ask permission to fish them. Chances are the landowner may even have a boat he'll rent you.

Some of these lakes get little fishing pressure. Many evenings you'll be the only person fishing them.

Weeds and snags are one of the biggest obstacles you'll confront in catching bass, pike and panfish on these smaller lakes. So try a weedless lure, like the new Arbogast Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers, Hawaiian Wigglers.

HERE'S A LIST of smaller lakes that are guaranteed to have fish in them. It's up to you to catch them.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass, smallmouths.

--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass, panfish.

--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and muskie.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walloon Lake, for trout, bass and pike.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, panfish and pike.

--Deer Lake, for bass and pike.

--Adams Lake, for pike and panfish.

"Castle" Open to Public

THE FORMER LOEB dairy farm on M-66 has been converted into an art foundry and crafts center by John Van Haver. The medieval-looking buildings have long aroused the curiosity of tourists to the Charlevoix area.

Former Loeb Farm Is Now Art Foundry

The storied Loeb dairy farm on M-66—long a tourist attraction with its turrets and battlements—is open for business this summer, but there are no cows on the premises.

The property has been purchased by Muskegon foundryman John Van Haver who has turned it into a year 'round art castings foundry. During the summer the buildings will be open to the public.

A gift shop has been opened and a tea room offers refreshments to visitors.

Once owned by the Loeb

family of Chicago, the property has not been farmed in the past 40 years and the buildings have long resembled medieval ruins.

Van Haver has turned some of the fieldstone walls into attractive garden settings. Other buildings have been repaired for use.

Court of the Lions

John Van Haver

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE awaits the summer visitor at Castle VanHaver. A tour through the medieval styled structures will take you back centuries into an era dreamed of by story book readers. The small admission charge helps to maintain and preserve the grounds and building for the enjoyment of future generations.

Marine Growth Slows Vessels

Marine growth and grime can collect on the bottom of your boat and rob it of performance. Whether your boat is in fresh or salt water, check the hull periodically and give it a thorough washdown. Excessive marine growth can cut as much as 30 percent off top speed.

An Afternoon With Dr. Protar

Beaver Island is rich in stories about Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who was sent to Siberia by the czar for his liberal ideas. Dr. Protar escaped in the guise of a priest and made his way to Beaver Island.

The old Russian who took care of the islanders' clinics and the first quarter of the century, wouldn't recognize his old home. The grass is knee high and the ancient cedar shingles on the roof have dried, cracked and curled. They wouldn't keep out a heavy dew. The property is owned by the Beaver Island Historical Society, which apparently is trying to keep things just the way the doctor left them.

Nearby the doctor's tomb is in better repair. A fieldstone enclosure marks the doctor's burial place, and a bronze plaque attests to the esteem in which he was held by the islanders. Directly behind the tomb is a huge boulder upon which Dr. Protar used to sit in a chair and read. It was one of his favorite haunts. A railroad formerly passed close by, and the doctor enjoyed watching the trains lumbering past.

DOWN THE ROAD a piece is a wooden cross in a small fenced-in enclosure. A train jumped the track one day and a crewman by the name of David Chase was crushed beneath the engine. Dr. Protar was deeply moved by the death and shortly after erected a cross on the exact spot Chase died.

The first year the cross was painted red as a symbol of the tragedy that had taken place. The second year Dr. Protar painted the cross black, to signify mourning. The third year the cross was painted white, meaning that Chase's memory was still alive. The islanders have kept the memorial just the way the doctor planned it. Not long ago the cross was replaced with a new one, and a coat of white paint is added every few years to keep the monument fresh.

SHORT distance from the tomb and the cross there is a cul-de-sac at the brink of Bonanza's bluff, a dizzying escarpment that drops off sharply to the western shore of the Island. This also was one of Dr. Protar's favorite spots. At the foot of the cliff he built a "study" in the woods—an island in the middle of a flowing spring reached by means of rustic bridges.

The doctor often came here to study and meditate. After his death, some well-meaning islander fenced off the "study" as a memorial to the doctor, but it soon became overgrown with tall grass and shrubbery. The fence not only kept people out, but it also barred deer which had kept the area browsed clean. Today you can't tell Dr. Pro-tar's "study" from the surrounding woods.

ONE OF the historic landmarks on island is the log home of Dr. Protar, the Russian nobleman who fled the czar and found asylum on Beaver Island. His later years were spent attending to the islanders' aches and pains.

Beaver Beckons Wanderers

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles off into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on

at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Cene-sareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and deer, turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever suffers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.

Disliked Smoking

King James I of England was an unremitting opponent of smoking and once wrote, anonymously, "A custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and, in the black, stinking fume thereof, nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

Play-A Tonic for All Ages

Summer is an excellent time to remind ourselves that the ancient saying, "All work and no play..." is still very sound advice.

Everyone knows that recreation is important, but all too often we become so busy with work and home duties that we forget to play.

Every parent knows how important play is to the young child. Through play, he gains physical strength, develops physical skills, and establishes warm relationships with his parents, brothers and sisters, according to the magazine "Today's Health."

BUT THE values of play and recreation are not restricted to the young. All ages need relief from boredom, relaxation from tensions and the self-fulfillment found in recreation.

Recreation is not all physical activity. Recreation may range from active physical pursuits to quiet activities, such as reading. It may bring excitement or relaxation. It includes both solitary activities and those with groups. It may range from cultural and educational pursuits to trivialities.

MANY AGENCIES--governmental, voluntary, and religious--offer recreation programs. Many of these are fine, but the home still remains the most important center, not only for recreation itself, but also for developing lifelong recreation interests, skills and tastes.

COSTLY DELIVERY--$600,000 annually could be saved by the Post Office if a single money order or Treasury check were prepared daily or weekly for each shipper having multiple C.O.D. collections. Postmasters are now required to pay each shipper for each transaction, according to the General Accounting Office.

Among small cities, Charlevoix has one of the most comprehensive recreation programs in the state.

The possibilities for home and family recreation, combined with the neighborhood parks and other play centers, are almost unlimited. Each family will have its own special tastes. Some of the drawing, photography, home improvement projects, gardening and many others. The backyard can accommodate equipment for all sorts of games and sports.

LEISURE activities are powerful forces in the home. They can cement family ties, create wholesome attitudes, and foster understanding among members of the family. Many an avocational interest has turned into a career.

Summer is a good time for American families to take stock of their approaches to play and recreation. Some things can be done by the family as a group; others by family members as individuals. This month might be the time when Father and Mother can ask themselves: Do we play enough in our family? Are we becoming too busy to do some of the things we enjoy doing?

The time may be ripe to add a new dimension to your family life through increased participation in recreation activities as a unit.

LOCATED on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix, the community of Horton Bay was one of the favorite haunts of the late Ernest Hemingway. One of his earliest successful short stories, "Up in Michigan," takes place near Horton Bay.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area

Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonists along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon lake.

Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May.

Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who headquarter here.

Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smetlandia, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors.

Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors.

Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with

Boat Overload Can Be Fatal

Overloading is one of the most common and dangerous boating violations. Just because your boat has

"room" for eight people, don't crowd them aboard. Check the boat's capacity plate to be sure of the number of passengers you can safely carry.

If your boat doesn't have a capacity plate (most newer boats do), check with your marine dealer or the manufacturer.

Let Doc Remove Fishhook

Fishing is highly recommended by doctors as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and sunshine, and help to clear away mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries.

Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents. Fishhooks are designed to catch and hold fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it. Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor has the instruments and know-how to remove the hook with a minimum of pain and further damage.

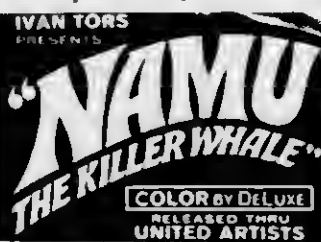

Hooks left lying in the bottom of a boat or on a dock are a real hazard. Many fishermen follow a simple rule with hooks: When not in use for fishing, cover the barbed point with a small cork.

When army ants bivouac at night, each ant clings to a neighbor to form a living rope with their tens of thousands of bodies. The mass of bodies, hanging from a vine or log to the ground, makes a snug, safe camp for the queen.

Study CMU Plan For Student Help in Recreation Dept.

CHARLEVOIX--This city's Summer Recreation Program has attracted the attention of Central Michigan University, according to Director Deano Davenport.

Davenport said the university is interested in enrolling recreation students as workers in the department next year. The students would receive college credit for their work under his guidance.

THE CITY in turn would pay the students' tuition and a stipend for room and board. They also would receive from six to eight hours college credit toward a degree.

Davenport said the plan is gaining popularity, particularly in cities too small to hire a year-round staff.

He said he is excited about the possibilities of such a program, adding that it would be particularly appealing to local college students interested in recreation work as a profession.

"They could live at home and earn college credit at the same time," he said.

DAVENPORT said students need not attend CMU, since the credit could be transferred to other schools.

Anyone interested in the program should contact Davenport in care of Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.

State May Adopt East Jordan's Street Forms

EAST JORDAN--The state has taken an interest in several street department work forms developed by City Clerk Ben Bustard.

Floyd Waugh, local government field examiner for this area, has asked for copies of the forms. He thinks the state may be interested in using them state-wide.

Bustard drew up the forms because during the last quarter East Jordan did not receive state aid on time for work done on state-maintained streets. The reason given was lack of adequate records and supporting material.

The new sheets are considerably more detailed than those formerly used, giving not only the work done but also the equipment used and the time expended.

Local Girls Bow

CHARLEVOIX--The city's Women's League champions went down to defeat in the State Class D Finals Saturday at the hands of Baldwin and Ovid, according to Manager Max Novak.

The girls were defeated by Baldwin 11 to 3 Saturday morning and by Ovid 9 to 4 Saturday evening. They were originally scheduled to play their first game Friday night but were rained out.

Hoskins Doubles Plant Size Wing Will Provide Room to Expand

CHARLEVOIX -- Hoskins Manufacturing Co. is doubling the size of its plant on M-66 just south of Charlevoix, Plant Manager John C. Lachman has announced.

Lachman said the 10,000 square-foot addition is scheduled for completion Nov. 1. The work is being done by the Austin Construction Co. of Detroit.

The new section will be used to relieve overcrowding in the present plant, and to provide room for storage and expansion.

WITH LARGER quarters, Lachman says employment probably will increase about 20 percent in time. The firm presently has 50 employees and the new addition will provide working space for from eight to 10 more.

One of the features of the cement block and brick wing will be an employee lunchroom.

A shipping and receiving area is being improved at the rear of the building with a walled truck well.

A BRANCH OF Hoskins Manufacturing Co. in Detroit, the local firm specializes in reducing the diameter of wire supplied by the parent firm.

Earlier this year, the company announced it was producing a fine metallic yarn used to make space trousers for U.S. astronauts.

The plant also is engaged in the processing of thermocouple alloys -- wires which emit a small electro motive force (EMF) when heated. As the heat increases, so does the EMF.

Such alloys have been found valuable in measuring extremely high temperatures accurately, Lachman said. The EMF may be recorded either by a dial indicator or a chart recorder.

AN ORDINARY mercury thermometer is reliable only at relatively low temperatures but a Chromel-Alumel thermocouple -- one of the most common manufactured by the plant -- can record temperatures up to 2,300 F., with excursions up to 2,500 F. for brief periods.

Other thermocouple alloys incorporating tungsten and rhodium can accurately record temperatures up to 4,500 F.

Before the advent of thermocouples in the early 1960's the only way to read extremely high temperatures was optically, comparing the color of the heated material against a color chart.

"This is where we get such phrases as 'red hot' and 'white hot'," Lachman said. Today, thermocouple alloys have many uses.

Pilots use them to tell how much heat is building up in the jet exhaust.

Astronauts use them to measure the amount of heat caused by re-entry friction. Nuclear physicists use them to record temperatures inside atomic reactors.

And it's very likely moon has one inside her kitchen range so she won't burn the apple pie.

Community Chest Kickoff Is Sept. 19

Charlevoix Community Chest solicitation will get under way on Monday, Sept. 19, according to John Lachman, chest president.

Industrial, Commercial and Professional division workers, directed by Jesse Penn, Tom LaPlante and Jim Williams respectively, will attempt to complete the canvass of their assigned prospects within the week.

RESIDENTIAL workers, led by Mrs. E. D. Mason, and workers in the outlying areas, led by Frances Martin and Mrs. Phil Martin, will swing into action on the following Monday, Sept. 26.

Of the Charlevoix Chest's $14,305 total budget, $11,261, or 78.7 per cent, has been allocated to 11 city, county and regional agencies, and $2,234, or 15.6 per cent, has been allocated to the Michigan United Fund.

The Michigan United Fund will, in turn, distribute this amount among 16 state and 19 national agencies. The largest single amount, $464, will go to the Michigan Heart Association, the smallest, $2, to the National Committee on Employment of Youth.

The USO will get $213, the Arthritis Foundation $163, the Epilepsy Center $107, the Kidney Foundation $100. Of the others, 28 will get amounts ranging downward from $100 to 17 of them less than $20 each.

LACHMAN emphasizes that while many of these allocations seem almost inconsequential in relation to Charlevoix's total budget, they do, in fact, represent Charlevoix's share of the total.

These agencies under the Michigan United Fund's quota system.

Were it not for the Michigan United Fund, he points out, such economical support of state and agency services would be impossible. If these agencies had to apply directly to the local chest, the task of evaluating their requests would swamp the budget committee and the agencies would have to ask much more.

AN EMPLOYEE lunchroom will be included in 10,000 sq. ft. addition at Hoskins Mfg. Corp.

Do Laws Apply in Emergency? Yes, Says City Traffic Judge

Should a private vehicle operator be immune from traffic laws in an emergency?

This was a question brought up in a speeding trial in Justice John Connolly's courtroom Friday morning.

On trial was Byron Lee Jenkins of Petoskey, chief medical technologist at Lockwood-Macdonald Hospital. At the end of the trial he was found guilty of speeding and fined $15, plus $10 costs, or sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Jenkins, who was represented by Petoskey attorney Howard Campbell, was stopped in Charlevoix the night of Aug. 13 by officers Glenn Pemberton, Gene Milligan and Richard Wells.

ALL THREE testified that Jenkins was clocked at 55 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone and at 65 m.p.h. in a 35-m.p.h. zone. Jenkins was driving north on Petoskey Road.

Jenkins said he told the officers, all of whom were in the same squad car, that he was on an emergency call for the hospital.

On Pemberton's instructions, Milligan wrote a ticket against Jenkins, charging him with driving 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile-per-hour zone.

When they found out the folksingers were not scheduled, the party moved to the Holiday Beach Hotel where Jenkins telephoned the hospital to tell the night staff where he would be.

He was told that an expectant mother was hemorrhaging and he was needed immediately. Jenkins was on his way to the hospital when he was stopped for speeding.

JENKINS pleaded not guilty to the charge, although there appeared to be little doubt in his mind or his attorney's that he was exceeding the speed limit.

Prosecutor Harvey Varnum pointed out that although many vehicles are immune from traffic control in emergencies the list ranges from ambulances to the cars of volunteer firemen. Private vehicles are not included.

Judge Connolly asked Jenkins if he knew of any community that grants traffic law immunity to medical technologists in emergencies. Jenkins said his only other experience had been at the Grace Hospitals in Detroit. There he said, technologists are on duty 24 hours a day, and there is no need to have any one on emergency call.

He added that the situation in northern Michigan is different, since there are few technologists in the area.

Jenkins, who has been working at Lockwood-Macdonald Hospital since February, said he was the only man in the lab until an assistant arrived about a month ago.

AFTER SENTENCING, Campbell urged his client to appeal to the Circuit Court, but Jenkins said he could not take any more time off work and paid the fine.

Campbell who is also justice of the peace in Petoskey, said he thought the court had lost sight of the "spirit of the law" in finding Jenkins guilty.

Marina Starts On Isle

ST. JAMES -- Phil Gregg has started construction of his marina on St. James Harbor.

The building will measure about 50 by 70 feet and be of pole-type construction. The roof will be of corrugated aluminum and the walls of corrugated steel.

A translucent panel around the entire building near the roof will allow light to enter.

GREGG says the building will accommodate from 40 to 50 boats up to 26 feet in length. Small boats will be stacked three deep. He already has 16 reservations for the winter.

Gregg says the building will be ready to use this fall. The concrete floor was poured last weekend by contractor Walter Wojan.

The building is across the road from the harbor, just south of McDonough's store. Boats will be hauled into the marina aboard rubber-tired dollies, Gregg said.

Elsewhere on the island, work is progressing in the $67,000 addition to the Beaver Island School.

MRS. MARCIA RABY puts flag in new G.A.R. standard, one of 14 donated to Charlevoix by Tent 19 of the Daughters of the Union Army.

First in a Series on Community Planning

How to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of a series of articles formulated by the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission in order to explain the relationship of comprehensive community planning to the Charlevoix Region.)

Planning, by itself, is, by no means, a new or unusual process. In the daily pursuit of everyday living, everyone plans to some degree how and when to purchase a new car, where to go for vacation and when to ask the boss for a raise.

Community planning, as a conscious, formal activity, however, has become generally accepted only within the relatively recent past. Throughout history, although planning was effected in certain cities and areas, the majority of city and regional development occurred primarily as directed by external forces, growing and dying in bits and pieces. As this happened, many problems began to become evident, and with increased growth in population and drastic changes in transportation, many urban areas found themselves facing serious issues.

THE REALIZATION of the consequences of these issues, if allowed to remain unchecked, thus provided the impetus for the knowledge of the necessity for comprehensive planning. The first application of planning was, therefore, as a cure for the various ills which had developed in the community.

Thus, even today, community planning in many areas is thought of as a panacea for problems. In reality, however, this is only one facet of community planning, and basically planning should be done for three primary purposes: 1. To meet anticipated change; 2. To create desired change; 3. To prevent or avoid unwanted change. Thus, community planning is vitally concerned with change for this is the basis for most concern within the community.

MANY REGIONS today are growing quite rapidly. Others are growing more slowly and a few are not growing at all. But all are changing to some extent.

Residents move from one part of the community to another, from city to suburb or from one city to another. The people themselves change; there may be more children or older persons, so that the demands upon the community may vary even though the total population does not change appreciably.

Businesses are established, some expand, others leave, locations are changed. Farm lands become subdivided. Isolated suburbs become part of the urban center. Demands for public services increase. Quiet lakes and streams become cluttered with cottages. Change is evident everywhere,

IN ORDER TO effectively cope with this change, many decisions must be made. If it is to be done in an orderly, desirable manner, if we do not make these decisions when they are needed or when their effect will be the greatest, we will lose the opportunity to guide development in a sound pattern.

Many people and agencies are involved in these decisions--municipal officials who are called upon to provide public services as they guide development; investors, who provide capital for development and change; businessmen who provide much of the economic base of the community; and finally by each citizen, who builds his home and raises his family in the community.

The Charlevoix area is fortunate in that it has not experienced many of the problems commonly associated with change to the degree that many other communities have. Change, however, is occurring, and more change is inevitable. Therefore, if we are to maintain the image of "Charlevoix the Beautiful," we must plan for means by which change and its effects can be guided and controlled to the advantage rather than the misfortune of the Charlevoix region.

(Next week: Some of the factors in the Charlevoix region which necessitate planning for the future.)

County Planners Adopt Program

The Charlevoix County Regional Planning Commission has approved its work plan and has reached agreement with Williams' and Works for a comprehensive survey of the area.

The study will cost a total of $32,480, one quarter of which, or $8,120, will be paid by the county. The balance will come from federal funds.

Members of the commission are Walter Thorsen and Bruce Malpass of East Jordan; James Porter, Robert Davis and Ed Robinson of Bryn Mawr; George Hutchinson, Dr. Howard Messmore and Carlton Smith of Charlevoix; and Alfred Hase of Walloon.

The study will be similar to that being carried out by the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission, only on a larger scale.

Hunt Kin Of Victim

CHARLEVOIX -- The Sheriff's Department has tried without success to locate relatives of the late Roy Ackerman whose body was found in a clump of cedar trees near his fronton cottage Sept. 1.

County Coroner James Stackus has ruled that death was by a self-inflicted rifle wound in the head.

Graveside rites were held at the Eveline Township Cemetery Sept. 3 after a police check in Mt. Pleasant, Lansing and Grand Rapids -- three places Mr. Ackerman was known to have lived -- failed to turn up any relatives.

HOW MANY SECONDS UNTIL ETERNITY?

The sands of time will have run through the hour glass many times before the Kingdom of God will have come to earth. Someone has described the Kingdom of God as being the state of things when God's will is wholly done by all men in all things.

If this definition be true, then certain it is, we must all become as little children in order to bring such a kingdom to earth. This means, also, that we must accept certain things on faith alone, for our minds as yet, cannot comprehend them.

How then can we acquire such faith? First, we can start by taking our children to church with us at an early age. Bring them up in the faith. Then we can, through our own attendance, be strengthened in faith until we all strive to bring about that state necessary for the Kingdom of God.

They'll Run Together

MICHIGAN'S Republican Convention ended on a note of good cheer and confidence as Governor George Romney and the party's nominees for State-wide offices got together. From left, Mrs. G. J. Huebner of Bloomfield Hills, nominee for the University of Michigan Board of Regents; Lawrence B. Lindeman of Stockbridge, Attorney General; United States Senator Robert P. Griffin; Governor Romney; Lieutenant Governor William G. Milliken of Traverse City, nominated for a second term; George Washington of Detroit, Director of the State Department of Administration; nominee for Secretary of State; and Norman Stockmeyer of Wayne, nominated for re-election to the Wayne State Board of Governors. Rear, left to right, are: Dr. Alfred Sokolowski of Detroit, for the Wayne State Board; Robert J. Brown of Kalamazoo, for the U. of M. Board; James E. O'Neill of Livonia, and Dr. Leroy Auerbach of Holt, both for the State Board of Education; Judge Thomas E. Brennan of Detroit, for the Michigan Supreme Court; Frank Morrison of Deckerville, and Ken Thompson of Birmingham, both for the Michigan State University Board of Trustees. Meyer Warsawsky of South Haven, for the Supreme Court, is not included in this photograph.

Legion Ladies Will Care for Grave Markers

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 226 has formed a cemetery committee to look after grave markers and flags of deceased members each spring and fall.

Committee members are Eva Smith and Esther Shearer, who were appointed at the Aug. 15 meeting at the home of Lydia Johnson. Twelve members attended.

The service committee chairman reported sending one rose bowl, a sympathy card and four get-well cards during the month.

A letter was read from Bob Nowakowski, commander of the Legion Post, thanking the auxiliary for helping in their booth during the Veterans Festival.

Next district meeting will be in Marquette Sept. 11. Next auxiliary meeting will be at the home of Jessie Knudson on Alice Street Sept. 19.

Family Attends Schantz Reunion

The following members of the Schantz family attended a family reunion recently:

Paul Schantz of Charlevoix, George Schantz of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Art Crain and five children of St. Clair Shores, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Reid and three children of Windsor, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Steffen and four children of Traverse City, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rinal and child of Traverse City, Joseph Schantz of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Schantz and nine children of Flushing, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Schantz and five children of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schantz and two children of Petoskey, Pete Schantz of Flint, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thompson of Holt, Mich.

Others were Bruce and Jasslyn Hill of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Muskrat and two children of St. Ignace, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Schantz of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Jonnelly and two children of Petoskey, Mrs. Alfred Schantz and child of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Price and five children of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Schantz of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. John Schantz and nine children of Saginaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Scott of Charlevoix.

A going-away party was held Aug. 28 for Lynda Brock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brock, who has joined the armed forces. The party was planned by her boyfriend, Maurice Way.

Mrs. John Bos attended a bridal shower in Petoskey in honor of her granddaughter, Miss Patricia Cooling.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeVries attended the wedding of her brother, Larry Walburg, in Grand Rapids. Their daughter, Luann, was flower girl. Mr. DeVries' niece, Barbara Kamps, returned with them.

Chief Pageau underwent minor eye surgery at Charlevoix Hospital. He returned the same day.

Rev. Paul J. Veenstra and William Dale Mason of Comstock Park visited the Jacob Veenstras before a trip to the Upper Peninsula.

The John Benlins of Lynden, Wash., visited Rev. Vander Griend and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bos, accompanied by Mrs. Vot Shooks of Hillsworth visited friends in Cadillac last Thursday, picking up their grandson, Tom Bos, at the Traverse City Airport enroute home. Tom lives in Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. Elizabeth Veltkamp and sister Mrs. Irene Jellima of Chicago visited their cousin Boot Training Is Completed by Rex Milligan Jr.

Seaman Recruit Rex B. Milligan Jr., 19, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex B. Milligan of Charlevoix has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

IN THE FIRST weeks of his naval service, he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

Visitor Trains Viet Recruits

IRONTON—Recent visitors here were Col. and Mrs. Robert Piper of Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. He is a cousin of astronaut Allen Shepard, and commanding officer of a basic training brigade for Vietnam recruits.

The Pipers flew to Charlevoix airport in their own aircraft and spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Englund.

A veteran of 25 years in the Army, Col. Piper took part in the Normandy invasion as a paratrooper and has more than 300 jumps to his credit.

HE HAS SERVED in Japan, Korea, Germany and France. At present he is commanding officer of a training brigade at Ft. Leonard Wood, turning out a class every two weeks. Fifty per cent of his recruits will see service in Vietnam eventually, he says. Col. Piper himself expects a Vietnam assignment in another year.

Talk of the Town

The William Potter family were in Howell Aug. 27 for the wedding of their niece, Miss Nancy Hawley. Returning home with the family were Blane and Brian, who had spent some time with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Hightfield of Pontiac Lake.

Friday for Aspen, Colo., where he will take a 10-day Wilderness Trail ride to the mountains of the Continental Divide. Twenty-five will take the trip, arranged by the American Forestry Assn. Following the ride he plans to travel to Page, Ariz., with Dr. Michael Miller of Wisconsin for a boat ride down the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon.

Mrs. Fred Malmstrom (Ellen Miller) visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Miller, for a few days on her way home to Davis, Calif., attending summer school at McGill University, Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foster and family have returned to Flint after spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Copeland. They also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kelly and children, Patil and David, have returned to New Richmond, Ohio, after spending a week with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bennett.

Circlin' the Bases

with DEANO

CIRCLIN' THE BASES

Another exciting softball season is now history. Looking back one can find many moments of excitement and also of exasperation.

Before closing the column for another season it's only fitting that we putlet thank the many volunteers who donate their time and energy so that young people can have supervised adult leadership. Here are the managers and coaches that spent endless hours teaching young boys the fundamentals of softball and the many democratic lessons stemming from participation in athletics:

Max Novak and Elden Potter-Cardinals, Bill Carey and Randy Carey of the Tigers, Bob Lieberman and Jack Mot of the Lions, Roger Westbrook of the Astros, Dwight Boss of the Cubs, Del Terrill of the Pirates, and Ralph Doan of the Dodgers.

In the Kiwanis Youth League, Jim Pettis and Norm Empey of the Red Sox, John Michaels, Jim Alger, and Dale

Foster of the Blue Sox, Stan Whittle and Pug Russell of the Black Sox, Chuck and Del Terrill of the Green Sox.

In the Junior League, Larry Cole piloted the champions Jerry's Gulf, Max Novak and Glenn Crain Novak's Insurance, Bill Seese and Stan Lord of Freedmans, Bill Lusk of A & W, and Ron Grunch for Electra.

In the Fastball League, John Boss handled Lake Construction, Tod Potter atded Oteson's, Jim Wilson the Servicemen, Glen Mayhew led the East Jordan, Witson-Mayhew, Norm Helms County State Bank.

In the Womens league it was Max Novak and Bill Lusk teaming to led Edwards to the title, John Sladek Paul-Reed, Dave Smith coached the Dairy Queens, Elden Potter and Glen Crain combined to handle Al's Texaco, and Bob Ganzel of the Military Wives.

Many more added one time or another and I'm sure I've left out the name of others who desire some community recognition for their efforts.

We are continually looking for managerial help and if you could find the time to add the young people of this community next summer as a manager or coach see me early in the summer because we need you.

Umpires that worked hard all summer and turned in fine performances in a thankless job include: Jack and Bill VanLoock, Bill Supernaw, Steve Faculak, Dwight Boss, and Norm Helms. We need more of these capable people as our program is growing too big for such a small handful of dedicated men.

The City again cooperated to see that Charlevoix has the best playing field in Northern Michigan. A second field has been added to the facilities and no doubt will be used even more next season.

As a fall breeze whips through the empty stands, one can't help but feel the excitement of the past and the anticipation of another season ahead...until next year...

Students Return to Books

Many Charlevoixans have returned to school for the fall semester.

Three members of the Charles Duerr family will be attending the University of Michigan. Sons Tony and John already have enrolled, as has their son-in-law, John Logie. Logie and Tony are in Law School.

The Logies have moved to Ann Arbor from Arnold, Md., where he served with the U.S. Naval Reserve.

JOHN BLEHA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleha, also has returned to U. of M. His folks dropped him off, then continued on a trip through Canada.

Robert Odmark has returned to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor after spending the summer with his parents, the C.A. Odmarks.

Returning to Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo are Noreen Wojan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wojan; Marilyn Novak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Novak; and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wagner.

Ruth Ann Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, and Gerald Boss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Boss Sr., also are attending Western.

Brenda Brown arrived last week from San Diego, Calif., to visit her father, Floyd Brown and her aunt, Mrs. Frank Courter.

Vance Wood left Saturday via plane for Phoenix, Ariz., where he will continue his studies at Phoenix Junior College.

Rec Ramblin'

SENIOR CITIZENS

The game party night planned by the Charlevoix area senior citizens attracted 45 members to the St. Mary's Hall last Friday night and fun was had by all. Bingo was first on the agenda and several hilarious prizes were awarded the winners. After a break for coffee and cookies, Roy Bennett, president, welcomed the group and introduced Richard Allen from NORCAP, specialist in programs for the aging. He gave a brief talk on how happy he was to see such a fine start at organizing such a club in Charlevoix and how his office would be glad to help keep the ball rolling after Summer recreation Director Deano Davenport left for his teaching job. After a brief question and answer session the meeting was adjourned and the rest of the meeting was spent in playing cards and other table games. The next meeting was set for Sept. 22. A committee was formed to look into securing a bus for a color tour and picnic in October.

RED CROSS SWIMMING

The junior and senior life-saving classes under waterfront director Joel Arvittia swam across the lake to Oyster Bay and back, and nearly all the class made it without stopping for a rest in the Coast Guard boat accompanying the group. The following received junior life saving certificates:

Those receiving Senior life-saving badges include: Junior: Kit Leberman, Tim Reedy, Kay Fedorek, Gary Fortrie, Terri Wood, Brenda Fortrie, Kitty Cudd, and Kathy

Evelyn Peters and Sandra Tuomela who had spent the summer here with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Lattie Tuomela, have returned to their teaching positions in the Clarkston school system.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bussey of Detroit spent the Labor Day weekend with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Tenhopen.

It's $mart to $tay in $chool

With the start of another school year, President Johnson has announced a nationwide campaign to reduce the number of so-called school dropouts.

The President's arguments for staying in school make sense. For example: The dropout is more likely than the graduate to be unemployed or to hold a poor paying and undesirable job.

The dropout has less chance to advance, and his job is more likely to be taken over by a machine.

OVER A LIFETIME, the high school graduate earns 16 percent more than the person who completes only one to three years of high school and 80 percent more than one who does not finish eight years of school.

The college graduate can expect to earn two-thirds more than the high school graduate.

The unemployment rate for school dropouts, aged 16 to 21, is 15 percent as compared with 8.4 percent for graduates. The jobless rate for everyone in the labor force over 18 who did not finish school is 7.4, as compared with four percent for the graduates.

Twice as many 1965 male graduates are white-collar workers or craftsmen, while greater proportions of dropouts are laborers.

Among women, more graduates have clerical jobs. Most girls who dropout are employed on assembly lines or as household workers.

OF COURSE there are exceptions. Everyone has heard stories about the boy who couldn't sit still in the classroom, so he went out and earned a million dollars before he was 25. Needless to say, for every smashing success among dropouts there are thousands of dismal failures.

To finish school is more than common sense. It's good business.

Boredom-A Sad Excuse for Riots

One of the saddest complaints we have heard in some time is the cry of Negro young people in Benton Harbor that they have "nothing to do and no place to go."

In fact, Negro leaders in Benton Harbor claim that tense race relations and rioting in that southern Lake Michigan community last week stemmed directly from resentment by Negro teenagers over the lack of recreational facilities.

MICHIGAN NEGROES and others who voice such complaints are only betraying their own lack of inventiveness. It is hard to imagine anyone living in the heart of one of the world's finest vacationlands not having enough to do to fill a 24 hour day, and then some.

It doesn't cost a million dollars to enjoy a swim in Lake Michigan, and you don't need an athletic director to organize a softball game.

IF SOMETHING constructive is desired, there's volunteer work galore at hospitals, orphanages, old folks homes and charitable institutions of all kinds.

And when everything else is done, there are sunsets just begging to be watched and meadow larks just waiting to be counted.

Nothing to do? From the other end of the lake that sounds like a pretty thin excuse for turning a town upside down.

Clockwise

I have just finished one of those Sunday supplement articles on education which are carefully calculated to elevate my blood pressure 25 points and make me decide that no kid of mine shall even set foot in a public school.

Entitled "The Brain Revolution," the article was an interview with Charles F. Lehmann, Ph.D., assistant dean of education at the University of Michigan. The interviewer was William T. Noble, Detroit News staff writer.

The thesis of the article is that parents who send their little tykes toddling off to the First Grade this year probably won't even be able to recognize the knowledgeable young giants who will emerge from the jaws of our educational machinery 16 years hence. The secret lies in new electronic teaching gadgets and courses designed to give every graduate some kind of salable skill, regardless of talent.

SO FAR SO GOOD, our present schools are far from perfect. Just ask any Charlevoix businessman or manufacturer how well trained our bright young graduates are to enter the workaday world.

But then Dr. Lehmann comes up with glibberish like this:

"If these changes come about, high school graduates of 1978 will know more than their university-educated parents. A 10th grader today has more knowledge than a college student of 15 years ago."

Oh, brother! I don't know how distinctly Dr. Lehmann knows 10th graders, or university students, for that matter. I had an opportunity to teach 10th graders in 1964 and 1965. Perhaps I had exceptional classes, but their accumulated knowledge was so sketchy I often wondered how they managed to dress themselves every morning.

IF ANYTHING, I would say that as we attempt to educate more people every year, the quality of our education is diminishing. Something has to be sacrificed. I know for a fact that my own high school education certainly was not as thorough as that of my parents, and I feel certain that high school graduates of 15 or 20 years ago certainly were better equipped to go out and face the world than they are today.

And it's not because the world has changed so much, either. Our schools have had to lower their standards in order to pump through kids whose education otherwise would have stopped with the Sixth or Eighth Grade. And this is a good thing. However, to get the same quality education that used to be the equipment of every high school graduate, students must now go to college.

I believe what is significant today is not that our high school kids are so ill-fitted smart (they're not), but that so many of them will go on to college and really begin to learn what they failed to pick up in high school, and a few other things besides. It is this training that eventually will lift man to the moon and stars and find a cure for the common cold.

DR. LEHMANN's high regard for today's high school student makes you wonder about some of the other things he says. Discussing the need to educate everybody for something, Dr. Lehmann says: "In spite of computers and automation, civilization will need service people. This class could be trained on-the-job, and never have to worry about the declassification of a French verb."

His argument sounds pretty slick until you remember that you don't "declassify" French verbs; you conjugate them, declassification being the province of nouns and adjectives. It makes you wonder about some of the fuzzy thinking being done at the university level by--of all people--those charged with educating teachers.

DR. LEHMANN says that we are entering what he calls the non-verbal approach to teaching.

"There will be more gadgets, on-the-job training and students will have more to say about how their schools run." This is a real shocker. Ever since man first crawled out of the quagmire, we have been engaged in one long struggle to improve our verbal machetes. In order to cut through a jungle of ignorance and misunderstanding. Language--more than any other tool--has helped man reach his present level. It is only through language that we can communicate with each other about such intangibles as love, hate, honor and pride.

Now Dr. Lehmann says teaching is going to become

"non-verbal." He foresees a "culture machine" that can be plugged in to instant information. In its memory bank will be the works of all living and dead scientists, writers and theologians.

He doesn't say how these living and dead sages are going to impart their vast stores of information, but apparently they won't do it with words in their non-verbal schools. They'll probably do it with pictures.

THIS BUSINESS of letting students have a hand in running the schools also is a bit of academic nonsense. From what I've been of students, they have no more business running a school than a chimpanzee has running a zoo. And kids, if you ask them, are the first to admit their need for adult leadership and example. Yet listen to Dr. Lehmann on the subject:

"A school has no right to ask a child to surrender his civil rights to go to school," he says. "If a youngster wants to cut his hair like the Beatles or come to class in Mod clothes, the teacher should not be able to expel him."

This is new. Real new. For years teachers have known that a student's behavior is linked very closely to the way he dresses. If he dresses like a hood, then he'll act like a hood. If he dresses like a gentleman, he'll act accordingly. I've seen this principle in action time and time again. Dr. Lehmann either has come across new information on the subject, or else he's trying to butter up to the Junior League.

He conveniently sidesteps the question of discipline by saying tomorrow's schools will have no discipline problems, since everyone will be doing what he wants to do most.

ALL THIS NEW fangled education, of course, will cost more money. Dr. Lehmann admits, but that's not problem since its time the federal government stepped in anyway and dissolved the inequities in education. Like many of his bery lower colleagues, Dr. Lehmann doesn't seem to realize that we in Michigan will be forced to support not only our own schools, but schools in every other state less affluent than ours. It's not a very pleasant prospect for anyone who has planned to sail away a little something for a rainy day.

PERHAPS I'm all wet on this education business; but I can't see why so many people who achieve any status at all in education circles want to junk the old system and start afresh with new and untried methods. Education seems to be the only profession hell bent on throwing out the bath water--and the baby--every few years. You don't find doctors trying to remove gall bladders through the nose or lawyers who stand on their heads to argue cases in court. They're content to do things pretty much as they have been done in the past, providing the system works and gets results. Changes, when they do come, come gradually and they make sense and are beneficial.

I DON'T BELIEVE there is anything wrong with our schools being "verbal." Institutions, in fact, I can't think of a better way to pass ideas around, whether they're ideas about auto mechanics or celestialisism. I don't believe there is anything wrong with learning to "conjugate" French verbs, or even Latin verbs, regardless of how a student eventually earns his livelihood. It may take long hours of lonely work, but when a better understanding of the beauty of the order, the majesty of a language emerges it's certainly worth the effort.

Nor do I find anything wrong with discipline--strict discipline--when one is young. Without it, too many things in life become intolerably chaotic. Military discipline is the magic ingredient that wins wars. Academic discipline, in time, will conquer space. Discipline is certainly one of the by-products of our school system we cannot afford to lose.

I REALLY don't see much advantage in plugging youngsters into brain machines and letting them acquire all their knowledge as passively as electric toasters. Learning is an active process. It takes work to assimilate knowledge, sort it out, and make connections between them. It involves more than simply absorbing facts, as Dr. Lehmann seems to believe.

In the last analysis, however, I suppose I really don't object too strenuously to men like Dr. Lehmann. After all, the folks who manufacture blood pressure medicine have to make a living, too.

SO THE SUMMER'S over and you're picking up all those toys around the sandbox and on the front porch. . . now that the grandchildren have returned home. . . But, please, don't toss them in the trash can. . . I've found a use for them. . . even if they're broken or parts are missing. . . The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is planning on opening up an annex to Santa's toy shop and would like all your discarded toys, dolls, skis, tricycles, bicycles or anything else that might be re-painted, re-built or re-invented for use as a Christmas gift for some youngster whose Christmas might be a little slim. . .

I know it's hard to realize that other people may not have as much as you have. . . but with prices the way they are some families have all they can do to buy the essentials such as food, clothes and a roof over their heads. . . So, with fall coming on and storage becoming a problem, sort out those things you no longer use and drop them off at the Sheriff's Office on Antrim Street next door to the county building. . . And, if by chance, you haven't any way to get it there, I'm sure they'll send a car to pick up your contribution to the cause. . . P.S. Even if you think something's beyond repair, send it along. . . there's always need for parts, you know. . . And, come the holidays, there will be quite an assortment of goodies that Santa will be picking up to deliver to little guys and gals all around the county. . .

SO YOU THINK I'm pushing the season? . . . Well, it's September. . . In fact, one whole week of this month is no more. . . And if you think I'm jumping the gun, how about Mother Nature. . . Just about every where you look you'll see the leaves turning red. . . Certainly it hasn't been the frost so it must be the lack of moisture. . . If this continues we should have a beautiful Indian summer if the storms at the time of the equinox don't blow all the dry leaves from the trees before Indian summer can arrive. . .

USING THE WORD Indian made me think of something. . . Do you happen to have a copy of "Indian Drum" that you'd like to sell? Seems there's quite a demand for this book that's now out of print. . . so if you have a copy you'd like to dispose of, give me a jingle. . .

AND SPEAKING of jingle, I'm looking for stable bells. . . you know, the kind they fastened to the horse's harness and sounded so pretty as you skinned along over the snow. . . There probably aren't too many around who remember actually doing what everyone sings about. . . "Frigging in one-horse open sleigh." . . like it says in the song. . .

AND WILL you do me a favor? Pull that ragweed that's growing most every place you look, especially along alleys and other roadways that are closely bordered by loose soil. . . Don't know why the stuff always grows there. . . There may not be a good crop of anything else but there's sure plenty of that around. . . Remember when the school kids used to pull it and the city offered prizes for those who brought in the most? It sure freed us of it for a while but it's coming back. . .

WAS INVITED recently to a reunion of World War I veterans at Dobble Allard's house. . . I don't know if you realize it or but he's one fine cook and prepared all sorts of goodies for this reunion that was attended by 13 members of an outfit that dates back to 1916. . . when four fellows from Charlevoix, Dobble, Frank Coatta who was there, Elwyn Johnson and Harold Usher enlisted in Co. 1 of the 33rd Infantry of the Michigan National Guard. . . There are more members of the group that later became a part of Headquarters Co. of the 125th Infantry of the 32nd or Red Arrow Division that played a major role in World War I. . . Though their experiences date back nearly half a century, they bring them alive and make them sound as though it was only a few years ago. . . The outfit did border patrol. . . that is, spent time on the U.S. Mexican border at El Paso, Tex., before going overseas. . . I was loaned a copy of "The Border Patrol" published at El Paso. . . This one was dated Jan. 1, 1917. . . Among the headlines were "Prefers one aeroplane to Regiment of Cavalry" . . . which related the striking demonstrations of the value of the aeroplane for reconnaissance work which brought the headline remark from General Pershing. . . "Pontoon Bridges and Caterpillar Trucks," an experiment in using the "cats" to haul the bridge components. . . "Co. 1 placed under quarantine" . . because of the mumps. . . One might say that any resemblance between the Army of 1917 and today's is purely coincidental. . .

EXCEPT for the addition of automobiles, some of Charlevoix's quiet, tree-shaded streets have changed little over the years. Above is Park Avenue with the Congregational Church on the corner in 1906. To take this picture, the photographer stood in the middle of Park at the end of State Street. Residents along this section recently asked the City Council to do something about speeders.

MASON STREET looking west. This picture was taken from approximately the point where the Elementary School stands today. The young maples in this picture today have arched completely over the road. This picture also was taken in 1906.

HERE IS MICHIGAN Avenue sometime before 1913 when this picture postcard is dated. Note the cement curbing and paved sidewalks even at that early date.

Visitor Here Gets 'Fuller' Brush Off

Letter to the Editor:
After reading your column I decided that's for me--a media to voice a warning to the people of Charlevoix. What I say here may be scoffed at, but think it over--it has some "meat." After two wonderful days in Boyne City I arrived at Charlevoix and was appalled at the rudeness, lack of interest and door slamming that I encountered.

This is a black mark against Charlevoix. Always (I have heard), and has been my experience these past two years, the Fuller brush man has been welcome. By and large they are all responsible, good people. My main mission was to hire someone here--but, would they survive? Shame on Charlevoix!

A Fuller Brush Manager
Out of Traverse City

To meet the challenges of the day successfully the most important words to say are "we can." The success of the day depends not on circumstances but on attitude. Our attitude must be one of faith rather than fear. We can! These words can become a part of us--for through the power of God, we can!

 probably took place about Aug. 13, the last day he was seen alive by residents in the Iron-ton area.

Ackerman was to have appeared in Charlevoix County Circuit Court Aug. 15 on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a minor male. When he didn't show up, sheriff's deputies called at his cottage several times in an attempt to locate him. The building was always padlocked from the outside.

Sheriff Philo Sumner said there was no note in the Ackerman cottage, or any indication that he planned to take his own life.

The body was discovered by a vacationer from Ionia who asked Sumner not to reveal his name.

Community Chests throughout the state.

WITHOUT the Michigan United Fund, however, most of these agencies would probably choose to campaign independently, in competition with local Community Chests for workers as well as donations, according to Lachman. In this case, he says, their fund-raising costs, as well as those of the local Chests, would certainly skyrocket. Furthermore, local donors would have no way of deciding among themselves how much each agency ought to receive out of their com-lined giving.

 As it is, Lachman says, the campaign and year-around administrative costs for both the Michigan United Fund and the Charlevoix Chest will require only 6.72% of the local budget-leaving $93.28 out of each $100.00 for the agencies.

"The Charlevoix Community Chest and the Michigan United Fund," says Lachman, "are associations of the givers of Charlevoix and of Michigan. Together, we make available to ourselves the most comprehensive 'package' of volunteer agency services in the nation."

Joel W. Arvilla Claims Bride in Flint Ceremony

Mrs. Joel Arvilla

Flowering tapers, white gladioli and white Sin carnations graced First Presbyterian Church in Flint Saturday for the wedding of Patricia Taylor Graff and Joel William Arvilla.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Henry Graff of Flint and Mrs. L.P. Arvilla of Charlevoix are parents of the couple.

Dr. Mullenau, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Cross, officiated at the service at which Albert Arvilla, brother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Lee Moorland, also of Charlevoix, sang. They were accompanied by William Renaecker at the organ.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of antique ivory satin. Fashioned with classic simplicity, it was accented by a high-rise bodice and a sweeping court train. Fine pleating detailed the high neckline and continued down the long tapered sleeves. Her matching mantilla of English silk illusion was heavily edged with re-embroidered Alencon lace. She carried a triangular cascade of white bridal roses.

Attending their sister were Mary Lou Graff, maid of honor and Mrs. Michael Fried of Ann Arbor, bridesmaid. Mrs. Fried's daughter, Carlotta, was flower girl.

Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Roger Covert, cousin of the bride, and two sets of twins, Mrs. Spencer Perry and Robert Wood both of Birmingham and Ellen and Erin Arvilla of Charlevoix, sisters of the bridegroom.

THE ATTENDANTS were attired in floor length gowns of aqua mist shantung, styled with Empire bodices and slim skirts. Flat boys at the neckline topped their hemline-length Watteau trains. They wore matching Dior bows in their hair. Their bouquets were spray arrangements of stephanotis, line green California carnations and baby's breath.

Erik Arvilla of Hartford, Conn., was his brother's best man and another brother, Albert Arvilla of Charlevoix was an usher. Also seating the guests were the bridegroom's cousin, James Stewart of Charlevoix, John and David Bueley of Chicago, Patrick Arsenault, Peter Paul, James Stabileford and the bride's brother, Max Henry Graff Jr.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Graff wore an Italian brocade ensemble in peacock and gold. Over a sleeveless sheath with a batteau neckline, she wore an opera-length coat with oiled length sleeves and a wedding ring collar. Mrs. Arvilla's three piece brocade ensemble was in blue and green and featured a straight skirt and sleeveless shell topped by a jacket with elbow length sleeves. Both mothers carried purses adorned with green Cymbidium orchids.

AFTER THE CEREMONY the newlyweds greeted 400 guests at a reception at the Flint Golf Club. Bonnie Norton was in charge of the guest book.

At the club entrance was a large pyramid of blue, green and blue carnations. In the center of the pyramid was a large arrangement of white green gladioli and line green and blue carnations.

Green tapers flanked the bride's table which was skirted in blue satin and organza. White wrought iron pedestals were topped with hurricane lamps holding elongated apron ornaments of carnations, blue and white tapers of Delage completed the decoration.

A table skirted with white lace over Wedgewood blue satin held the wedding cake which was topped with a nosegay of stephanotis, baby's breath and line green and blue blooms. The same combination of flowers encircled the base of the cake.

The bride was wearing a three-piece aqua knit ensemble with navy accessories when she and Mr. Arvilla left for a northern Michigan wedding trip. They will make their home on Frank St.

Mrs. Arvilla is a Michigan State University graduate and a member of Delta Delta Delta society. Mr. Arvilla studied at the University of Michigan and is a graduate of Northern Michigan University. He has done graduate work at Central Michigan University. His fraternity is Phi Sigma Epsilon.

Others attending from Charlevoix were Mrs. L.P. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stewart, Jerry Stewart, Beverly Trimble, Elva Leigh Trimble, and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Trimble.

Mr. and Mrs. William Arvilla of Flint, Mich., were the bride's grandparents. Mr. Arvilla is a member of the Flint Golf Club.

John Zeller, Sr., 70, was Sept. 9 from St. Mary's Church in Lake Worth, Fla.

Mr. Zeller, the member of a family in the Charlevoix area, died Sept. 6 at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach.

He was born in Houston, Tex., 29, 1896, and lived there until moving to Charlevoix as a young man.

A Charlevoix, Mr. Zeller was a member of St. Mary's church in Charlevoix and was a member of the church board.

He and Mrs. Zeller, the former 10th Novland, have been spending their winters in Lake Worth, Fla.

IN ADDITION to his wife, he is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Jean Gallagher of Lake Worth, Mrs. Gibson (Mary) of Detroit, Mrs. Ronald Thoreson, a housewife of Cleveland, and Mrs. Leonard (Janet) of Chicago.

Also surviving are a brother, Frank, of Charlevoix, two sisters, Mrs. Anna Britz of John, Ill., and Mrs. Rose Orvis of Charlevoix, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Peter B. Scott, 59, a retired U.S. Lighthouse service man, was Sept. 10 at the Winchester nursing home.

VFW Ladies Want Paid-up Membership

CHARLEVOIX -- An all-out drive for 100 percent paid-up membership has been launched by Charlevoix VFW Auxiliary Post 1153, according to chairman Mrs. Elmer Gibson.

Mrs. Gibson said 38 percent of the members have paid their 1967 dues at present. The Department of Michigan slogan for the 1967 membership drive is "What auxiliary will be the first to walk across the Mackinac Bridge?" Reference is to a Michigan Department meeting at Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula later this fall.

The Charlevoix post was first in the 13th District to achieve 100 percent membership last year.

AT THE SEPTEMBER meeting, plans were made to attend the Michigan Department Post Nov. 8 and 9 at Traverse City.

A rummage sale will be held Sept. 16 and 17. Anyone with articles for sale should bring them to the post home Thursday night. Profits from the sale will buy cancer insurance for the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Homer Brady and mother, Mrs. Guy-Smith Sr., Mrs. Brady's daughter, Mrs. Thomas Swanson and two children have returned from a three week visit with Mrs. Brady's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. James Brady of Foley, Ala., and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Olfing and daughter of Blox, Miss.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

He has a right to be proud!

LITTLE FISH ADD UP TO A BIG CATCH...
...AND IT'S THE SAME WAY WITH SAVINGS!

For a young fisherman, it isn't the size of the fish that counts most. It's the pride he takes in his very own catch. Little things often do make a big difference! Take savings, for example. Little by little, they really add up.

A Savings Account may start small, but if you add to it regularly, it has a big future... and so do your youngsters. Why not open an account now? And for even greater earnings, inquire about our special high-rate Savings Certificates.

Linda Lee Clark, Sam Snowden Wed

Linda Lee Clark became the bride of Sam Snowden in a double-ring ceremony Aug. 20 at Eastport.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Clark Jr. of East Jordan and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Snowden of Route 1, Ellsworth.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert White of the Eastport Baptist Church before an altar decorated with pink and white streamers, white bells, pink gladioli, white mums and pink sweetheart roses.

Linda Donaldson of East Jordan was organist and Carol Eastman of Ellsworth sang "O Promise Me."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the bride wore a ball-length gown of white Chantilly lace and a crown of pearls. She carried a Bible covered with Chantilly lace and a bouquet of stephanotis, ivy and white streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Nancy Gray, a cousin of the bride from Farmington, Mich. She wore a crown of pink Chantilly lace, ballerina length, with a pink hat to match. Her flowers were pink sweetheart roses with white carnations.

Best man was Jack Snowden, a brother of the groom, and James and Timothy Clark, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

THE BRIDE'S mother wore a pink blouse, plum-colored skirt and matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Gray, an uncle and aunt of the bride from Farmington, Mich., were hosts at a reception in the church parlors.

The bride is a graduate of East Jordan High School. The bridegroom attended Michigan School for the Deaf in Flint and presently works for Freedman Aircraft Corp. in Charlevoix.

Following a three day wedding trip through Michigan, the couple are living in Ellsworth. Friends attended the wedding from Southfield, Plymouth, Farmington, Port Huron, Three Rivers, Central Lake, East Jordan, Charlevoix and Ellsworth.

M.K. Chew, who has made his home in Bay City with his daughter, Miss Alice Chew, is now a patient at the Potosky Geriatric Center where friends may visit him.

Mrs. Robert O. Bergmann has returned from Birmingham where she spent several days with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mol and family. On her return Saturday she was accompanied by her grandchildren, Robbie and Colleen, who will spend the week with them and with their paternal grandparents.

Mary Moore Wed in St. Marys Rite

Mary Elizabeth Moore became the bride of Michael William Hough in a double ring ceremony Saturday, Sept. 10 at St. Marys Catholic Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Belfy Jr. of Charlevoix and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Boileau of Pullman, Mich.

The Rev. Fr. Francis Denay officiated at the service before an altar decorated with white and yellow gladioli. Mrs. C.D. Geiken was organist and soloist.

Area Teachers Have New Voice In MEA Affairs

Mrs. Maurine Wyatt, a teacher in the Traverse City area for the past 18 years, has been appointed field representative for the Michigan Education Association, serving Regions 14 and 15. Region 14 includes Charlevoix county.

Mrs. Wyatt began teaching in the Traverse City public schools in 1954. Prior to that, she taught in rural schools in Grand Traverse County. She received her bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University and her master's from the University of Michigan.

In her position as field representative, Mrs. Wyatt will act as liaison between the state teachers' organization and its local units including the Charlevoix Teachers Club-administrators, and the public in extending the services and programs of the MEA.

Soo Manager Is State Week Chief in Area

City Manager Richard Larsen of Sault Ste. Marie will be associate deputy general chairman of the 1967 Michigan Week in the 25-county section of the state which includes Charlevoix county.

He was regional chairman in 1966 for the central area of the Upper Peninsula.

His new Michigan Week appointment is announced by Keith Forsberg of Marquette, deputy general chairman for the northern third of the state. It is a new post in the Michigan Week organization.

Retirees Need Proof of Birth to Get Benefits

Gordon Sattelmeyer, officer in charge of the Potosky Social Security office, advises that when applying for social security benefits a person should present a birth certificate or baptismal record established before the age of five.

A delayed birth record is acceptable but other pieces of proof would probably have been presented like church records, school records or marriage records.

If assistance is needed in obtaining proof of your age, contact the Potosky office, at No. 2 Penn Plaza. Hours are from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mol, Randy Lemcke of Elgin, Ill., visited briefly with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dyrton Stockwell and with friends.

Talk of the Town

The Reno W. Hamiltons of Boyne City had as their guests over the weekend Mr. and Mrs. George Stengel of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McDonald of Hastings, Mich. and Largo, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDonald of Alanson and Venice, Fla.

TIME William E. Roesink and Mrs. Roesink announce the birth of a daughter, Tracey Lynn born Sept. 2, 1966 at Portsmouth Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va. The Roesinks have one other child, a daughter, Rhonda Christine, Roesink was graduated in 1960 from Charlevoix High School and used to live at 206 Mason St.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gill returned to Siren, Wis., Friday following a two-day visit with his mother, Mrs. Fred Gill and other relatives.

Mrs. Dale McCann of Flint visited last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chvátal and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy France of Lakeview, former local residents, visited friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hanna and children have returned from a three-day Canadian vacation trip.

Teacher Has The Right Idea

Her life has been filled with more work than play, more sacrifice than gain or acclaim, but she considers the results worth all she has given of herself. She has learned to fulfill responsibilities with a glad heart, finding contentment and tranquility in accomplishments. Her brilliant mind and talents would have earned her much more in material endeavors. She chose teaching as her profession, with the conviction that if just one boy or one girl each year was turned about and started in the right direction it was worth more than all the material gain she had sacrificed.

She finds contentment too, in her regular attendance at church. It buoys her up to face the problems of each day and week. It restores her spirit, as the psalmist promised, and it renews her strength and convictions. It aids in many ways. It will do the same for you if you but give it a sincere trial.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in the adjoining columns.

To a sharp cutback from last year, the Department is offering about 143,000 permits for antlerless deer hunting this fall in the 56 special areas shown above. Upon buying 1966 firearm or archery license, hunters can pick up permit application forms from the Department's Publications Bureau or from some 1,000 dealers throughout the state. They have until Oct. 15 to get their applications completed and postmarked for return mailing to the Department's licensing office. Sportsmen are reminded that the permits do no guarantee access to private lands within the antlerless deer areas. They will still need the O.K. of the landowner to hunt these lands. In applying, they should note that some antlerless deer areas in the eastern part of the Lower Peninsula and those in southern Michigan are closed to public lands. Another point to remember is that Livingston County deer hunting areas 50-53, is closed to Sunday hunting. —Mich. Dept. of Conservation

BEER - A big boost to the economy!

The brewing industry each year contributes over 1.4 billion dollars in federal, state and local excise taxes. Wages and salaries in the brewing industry account for almost 500 million dollars, and the purchase of packaging materials from other industries runs over 550 million. So next time you enjoy a cool, refreshing brew after hard work or play, remember—BEER is good in more ways than one!

Charlevoix Court News

CHARLEVOIX -- The following cases were heard by Justice of the Peace John Connolly through noon Sept. 12.

Miss Elsie Marie Elizabeth Shanahan, 17, of Petoskey waived examination on a charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile and was bound over to the October term of the Circuit Court. She was released on $500 bond. Sue Luff of St. Paul, Minn., charges Miss Shanahan drove her car away from Walloon Lake.

Paul D. Konawicki, 46, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery. Bond of $100 was not furnished. Trial will be held later.

Harold Bickelhaupt, 28, of Charlevoix was fined $5 for disregarding a stop sign. He was ticketed by sheriff's deputies.

Chris T. Wood, 17, of Charlevoix paid a $50 fine and $5 costs on a charge of reckless driving. He also surrendered his license to the court.

Harold Lang, 34, of Charlevoix was fined $15 and $4.30 costs for speeding. He was stopped by State Police.

Dorothy E. Ward, 48, of Charlevoix was fined $5 and $5 costs for making an improper turn.

Hazel J. Miller, 32, of Charlevoix was fined $10 and $5 costs for allowing an unlicensed minor to operate a motor vehicle. She was ticketed by State Police.

Douglas E. Smith, 20, of Charlevoix was assessed a total of $10 for violation of the basic speed law. City police wrote the ticket.

Richard Heerses was fined $5 after city police stopped him for improper passing.

Hal M. Hill, 17, of Charlevoix was fined $5 for improper passing.

Irvine K. Pettigrew, 65, of Kewadin was fined $7 and $5 costs for disregarding a stop sign. City police signed the complaint.

Dorothy Mae John, 48, and Mary Lou John, 21, were each assessed a total of $16 and sentenced to 10 days in jail on a charge of assault and battery signed by Clara Wasagshik. If the fine and costs are not paid, they will spend an additional 10 days in jail.

Richard Lee John, 17, was fined $27.50 and $5 costs on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He also was sentenced to 20 days in jail. City police signed the complaint.

Robert L. Dimis, 17, of Ellsworth was fined $37.50 and $5 costs for sentenced to 25 days in jail as a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages.

Norman Setlad, 18, of Charlevoix was fined $25 and $5 costs or sentenced to 25 days in jail as a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages.

Thomas Thomas, 65, was fined $5.50 and $5 costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He will serve an additional 10 days if the fine and costs are not paid. City police signed the complaint.

John Andrew Fortune, 20, of Clinton was fined $27.50 and $5 costs or sentenced to 25 days in jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Kenneth D. Essenburg, 18, of Ellsworth appeared before Judge Connolly on charges of reckless driving, littering the highway and possession of alcoholic beverages as a minor. Essenburg pleaded guilty and Judge Connolly held judgment on the three charges in abeyance. Instead, he invoked an earlier 60-day sentence Essenburg had received for furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors. The earlier sentence was suspended on condition that Essenburg seek psychiatric help.

Gregory D. Kurzhals, 20, was fined $15 and $5 costs for speeding. City police stopped him.

Charles Snyder, 19, of Rose City was fined $15 and $5 costs for speeding.

Trio Charged With Assault

CHARLEVOIX -- One man is awaiting examination and two others are awaiting trial on assault and battery charges filed by Donald J. Nelson of Beaver Island.

Carl E. Baber, 25, of East Lansing, demanded examination and was released on $150 bond by Charlevoix Justice of the Peace John Connolly. Date of the examination has not been set.

Baber is charged with aggravated assault, a felony. If sufficient cause is found he will be tried in Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

John Francis Martin, 54, of Beaver Island and Bruce R. Anderson, 22, of Jackson both pleaded not guilty and were released on $100 bond each. They are charged with the lesser offense of simple assault and will be tried at a later date by Judge Connolly.

Nelson, who is building an addition on the Beaver Island School, claims the trio beat him up along the King's Highway south of St. James Labor Day evening. He suffered numerous cuts and bruises.

What Are We Waiting For?

United States Senator Robert P. Griffin, Michigan Republican, has called for a citizens' crusade to clean up the polluted waters of America's lakes and rivers. To dramatize his position, he has introduced a resolution before Congress authorizing the President to designate the first week of April as National Clean Water Week.

If Griffin's resolution is adopted--and even if it isn't--the first week of April would make a convenient target date for completion of the city's sanitary facilities building in East Park. Such a building would be used by yachtsmen docking in Charlevoix each summer. Construction of such a building will be the first step to curb the growing pollution of Round Lake.

Everyone is agreed that such a building is needed. There's money in the city treasury for such a project ($8,000) and some federal money also will be available on a matching basis. Not as much as we'd like, but some. Estimated cost of the building is $40,000.

We Don't Have to Accept Noise

(The following editorial is reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor. Apparently Charlevoix is not the only city in the nation with a growing "noise" problem.)

Cities have never been quiet places. Before the swish and squeal of the automobile tire was heard on the asphalt, iron-shod hoovers clattered on cobblestones. Before loud radios split the morning air, the crowing of back-yard roosters woke sleepy urbanites.

Now industry is doing much to reduce the noise of its machines. The aviation industry carries on a multimillion-dollar research program to soften the peace-shattering swoops of planes. Homes are made quiet by wall-to-wall carpeting and acoustical ceilings. All this is good. Still city noises increase--at an estimated rate of one decibel a year. (Not counting sonic booms.) So steady is the

Surplus Worriers Lose Cause

Self-appointed worriers over the wheat surplus can relax. The surplus is gone. The nation was saved from eventual suffocation under a mountain of grain by droughts in India and Morocco and by a smaller-than-anticipated harvest in the United States.

We sent eight million metric tons of wheat to India for famine relief this year instead of the usual five. Another 500,000 tons went to Morocco under the Food for Peace program.

As a result the nation's all-time peak of 1,411 billion bushels has dwindled to a paltry 536-million-bushel carryover.

IF THE WORRIERS still want something to gnaw on, how about a wheat

Listen for a moment to Senator Griffin on the subject of Clean Water Week: "If we had a National Clean Water Week each year, I would expect community organizations of all kinds to focus their attention upon water problems and possible solutions for these problems in each area. Citizens of all walks of life would be encouraged to meet with Government officials at all levels to discuss the problems and to make plans for solving serious problems of water pollution."

In Charlevoix, the talking has already been done. The only objection to the project we have heard is that some taxpayers may balk at the outlay of additional city money to benefit the yachting crowd. They are over looking the fact that a fresh, clear, sparkling Round Lake will be a year-round asset to the whole community, both aesthetically and from a health standpoint.

What are we waiting for? Buildings don't build themselves. And the first week in April is closer than we realize.

rise that many people accept the increasing clamor as normal.

This they should not do. We agree with Frank D. O'Connor, president of New York's City Council, who thinks much of the increase is preventable, and who is calling for a modernized antinoise law for his city.

He is right in insisting that city dwellers should give up this defeatist attitude. Perhaps city folk like a certain amount of clutter because it means activity. Few enjoyed the comparative silence of depression years when there was almost no building and very little trucking. But they should not put up with noise that modern inventions can subdue. We hope New York will furnish an example of a city that keeps it to a minimum.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman has authorized two increases in acreage allotments totaling 32 percent, but the harvest won't come in until next summer. Freeman is being criticized for not acting sooner.

Department of Agriculture officials see no cause for alarm, although they admit they're keeping a close eye on reserves.

The situation reminds us of the old days of laissez faire agriculture when it was either a feast or a famine down on the farm. It appears that an army of agronomists, equipped with a battalion of computing machines, is still no match for Mother Nature.

Clockwise

By Bob Clock

The stock market slump is sort of like having a great uncle sick in New York City. Nobody knows exactly what is wrong with the old boy, and the reports we get out here in the Midwest are pretty sketchy. Closer relatives are pretty upset. They're going to have to pay the hospital bill, and already it has cost them plenty. The rest of us can be excused if we just send "get well - quick" cards and hope uncle pulls through. He has had some pretty rough times in the past, but he's a stocky little son-of-a-gun and always manages to rally. He had one check-up of a time back in 1929 and we thought sure we were going to lose him. It took a long time, but he finally snapped out of it.

Fortunately, his overall condition is pretty fair. He has been taking LMB (Limited Marginal Buying) vitamins and a host of other SEC (Securities Exchange Commission) drugs since the days of the New Deal. His doctors in Wall Street say he's sound as a dollar, except for a little bloating around the billfold. As even as they come up with the right treatment, he'll be up and around in no time.

IN PHILADELPHIA they're telling the story about the investor who had been watching the long decline in market prices with grave misgivings. From February through August the Dow-Jones average had dropped about 20 percent and he decided it was time to give his own portfolio the once-over to see how he stood. To his amazement, his holdings showed a net increase of two per cent. Although all of his blue chip stocks were in the doldrums, the losses were more, than off-set by some crazy South American gold stock his mother-in-law had given him almost as a gag. It had doubled in value.

Although some investors actually have profited during the present bear market, the Wall Street Journal estimates their number at less than one per cent.

MY FIRST CLOSE brush with the stock market came after I left the Army and managed to nail down a job as a copyreader for the Pontiac Press. As soon as the New York Stock Exchange closed at noon, our AP wire began rattling off stock quotations for the day. Part of my job was to rip them off the wire and run them back to the linotype machines to make the first edition.

I really didn't know anything about the stock market, but I ran pretty well and caught the eye of one of our senior editors, an attractive widow in her 50's who was a member of one of the first stock clubs in Pontiac. She was enthusiastic about the investment club movement and asked me if I would be interested in organizing a club among Pontiac Press employees.

In making money in the stock market, and learning how Wall Street operates in the bargain. They met once a month, usually with a licensed broker, to hear reports by three or four members who have made intensive studies of individual corporations. Members vote on which firm appears the most promising and everyone kicks in $10 to buy a block of stock.

ALTHOUGH I scarcely had $10 a month to spare, I liked the idea and thought I might be fun to try. My mentor promptly invited two distinguished brokers in bowler hats and alpaca coats up from Detroit for dinner one evening at her spacious home in Indian Village. I was the only other guest.

Our pre-dinner conversation over cocktails was pleasant and informal and our hostess was gracious and witty. Shortly she disappeared into the kitchen and moments later announced that dinner was ready--a lovely repast of broasted chicken halves, baked potatoes, french-cut green beans and hot Parker House rolls. The table also was adorned with jellies, relishes and condiments of every description.

Unfortunately, when the party moved to the dining room, the conversation suddenly became very technical and I was in a quandary trying to keep up with talk about Dow-Jones averages (I thought it was a bowling team) and wrestling with my chicken at the same time.

I HAVE ALWAYS maintained that it was an understandable error when I mistook a tiny bowl of lemon sherbet at my place for a butter dish and slathered the contents all over a Parker House roll.

Of course I was alarmed at how fast the substance started to melt. There even was a little puff of steam as the cold sherbet touched the hot roll. My anguish knew no bounds when I put the roll in my mouth and realized the full extent of my faux pas. The two brokers had stopped eating and were looking at me in bewilderment. I noticed for the first time that they each had a small dish of sherbet in front of them. I had never seen it served with the main course before.

THANKS TO My Army training, I decided immediately on a brisk and effective course of action. I complimented the hostess on the quality of her rolls, slapped the rest of the sherbet on the remaining section and popped it into my mouth before the unbelieving eyes of the distinguished brokers.

That one simple action more or less sealed my fate, so far as the stock market was concerned. The conversation once again became pleasant and informal and not another word was said about my starting a stock club at the Pontiac Press.

THEY'LL BE off and running... the Charlevoix Raiders football team which takes to the turf Friday... it doesn't seem possible, does it? ... The summer's hardly over and here we go into my favorite fall sport... Our little ole Raiders will go against Rogers City Friday and then into the run for the title... which we missed by a yard on the last play of the last game of the season last fall... But that's the way it happens some times...

And speaking of football... anyone like to make a little wager that there will be a shake-up in the Detroit Lions coaching staff before long... and that heads will fall... Like everyone else I'll continue to follow them because they're a great bunch of guys... the players, that is... The front office better take a second look or the Lions will be looking up from the bottom of the standings before the season ends... and they don't deserve that...

IT WAS A big weekend on Beaver Island, I'm told... scads and scads of people from here decided to have one last fling before settling down to the routine of the fall... Everyone seemed to have the same idea as they took off for St. James... Before the weekend was over, a small convention of postmasters was held on the steps of Dick LaFreniere's store... Seems Dan Genet who was spending the weekend with Dick was sitting on the front steps when who should drive up but Jack Dickout, Boyne City's postmaster and his wife who holds a similar position at Union Pier near the Indiana border... (Don't ask me to explain how come, please)... A few minutes later the St. James PM, Frank Nackerman, stopped by, accompanied by his wife who is a postal clerk... The unplanned conference was transferred to the island's favorite meeting place... the Shamrock (where else?) where shop talk was the main topic of conversation with Mrs. G. and Dick as the listeners... Small world...

TELL ME, why do golfers pull their carts... at least the ones I've observed do... while the postmen push theirs... Just wondered...

GOT A BIG boot out of the Bergmann family recently... As you know they're just about the 'hunts' family in town... They hunt just about anything... birds, fox, rabbits, deer and bear... Four members of the family took off recently for the U.P. where there are scads of bear, if you can find them... Seems that the bears are filling up now in preparation for their long winter naps... At the moment one of their delicacies are choke cherries... those deep red berries that used to pucker your mouth when you tasted them as a kid... The trees on which they grow aren't too sturdy so these daring bears climb the tree and inch out on a branch which then snaps off... They hit the ground with the branch in their paws if it's too strong to break off, sit down and proceed to eat the berries... nothing stupid about them... This is one of the the bruits are... They then drag all the roadways, that have ever been traveled, with a spring tooth drag and then, early in the morning, make the rounds to find prints where bears have crossed these roads... If they find a bear track, they give the scent to their bear dogs and the hunt is on... The hunted bear, being a big animal, takes to the wooded areas in an effort to get away, crosses streams like a veteran, and does a good job of eluding the hounds... But every now and then one is treed and taken... The Bergmanns, Gene and Bud, each got one but gave one away to a Bellare group hunting with them... After all, they just hunt for sport... In all, the party came home with nine...

TWO WEEKS now and a month beginning Oct. 1 are the only times you can hunt the big animals with a dog... And it seems that the only place you can hunt them now is the U.P. though I'm told there are nearly as many in this section of Michigan... Me! I'll just take their word for it... If I even saw one in the woods while driving past I'd be long gone...

Just checked with the school to see how many youngsters who were in our school system last year were registered Wednesday, the official registration day if you weren't here last spring... And would you believe 113? I know it doesn't seem possible but it's true... Maybe the enrollment will reach that mythical 1,000 mark that I've been doubting all summer... Come the opening day when the losses are stacked up against the gains and we'll have the answer... though 'count day' at the end of the month is the important day for the registration on that day determines your state aid...

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

NATIVE OTTAWA Indians have long played a colorful role in Charlevoix's history. This photo from the Courier's archives depicts an Indian family from the area probably about 50 years ago. The group is identified simply as Chief Shomin and family.

ANOTHER PHOTO from the Courier's files depicts this Indian couple. Anyone able to identify any of the members of these two families is asked to contact the Courier.

Pride in Charlevoix Among City Strong Points

Editor's Note: The following is the second of a series of articles on community planning.

The first article in this series on community planning, as published in last week's Courier, outlines general background information on the subject. The purpose of this week's article is to explain some of the problems facing the Charlevoix area and the role which planning could play here.

The Charlevoix region has, during the relatively recent past, begun to evidence the effects of two dynamic forces--growth and time. Unlike many of Michigan's northern communities, the Charlevoix region has been growing not only in tourism but also in industry, business and the actual number of inhabitants.

Each of these factors has, separately and in combination, transformed much of the area from an already somewhat a typical small town to a modernizing community complete with increased demands upon the various facilities and elements necessary to provide the essential services upon which urban areas are dependent.

TIME ALSO has left its effects upon the Charlevoix region. Through the natural processes of aging, the arrangements of land, the playsical condition of structures and the facilities which service them, have become, in certain instances, outmoded and inadequate for modern precepts.

Despite these factors, the Charlevoix region still is the proud possessor of certain physical and social characteristics which distinguish it from most communities. Physically, the natural setting dominates the scene; socially, the pride in the community is stronger than in even most similar areas. In common with many communities; however, is the fact that if these desirable characteristics are to be retained, some means must be established by which they might be preserved and reinforced before the yet relatively minor disturbances of today mature into real problems for tomorrow.

With this realization in mind, the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission, consisting of representatives from Charlevoix City and Charlevoix and Marlon townships, was formed with the primary objective of formulating a comprehensive development plan for the region. Subsequently, the Planning Commission employed Williams & Works, consulting engineers and planners from Grand Rapids, to assist in accomplishing this goal.

Next week: The planning commission and its members.

THE LARGEST pleasure craft to visit Charlevoix Harbor this summer was the 116 foot Lauvonnia from Florida. The Lauvonnia berthed in the yacht basin for several days.

Iron-ton

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
117-2037

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lynkipp and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynkipp and family have returned to their home in Detroit after spending several weeks in their cottage.

School started last Tuesday with an enrollment of 31, which is more than we have had in several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shepherd and family from East Jordan were guests Sunday at the home of Ole and Edna Nielsen. Mrs. Frank Taylor returned to her home in Oak Park, Ill., last Wednesday, after spending the summer in her cottage at Sequanota.

There were 78 in church this

Sunday morning and 65 last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell and friends from Bay City spent the Labor Day weekend with Mrs. Pauline Cantfield and sister, Mrs. Ada Alderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Gislve returned to their home in Detroit after vacationing several weeks in their cottage.

Mr. Clyde Ogden from Asheville, N.C., and daughter Mrs. Perry Fassett from Hastings, Mich., called on old friends and neighbors last week, having lived in our community many years. They and Mr. and Mrs. Vann Ogden from East Jordan attended our church service this Sunday morning. We were all happy to have them with us again as Mr. Ogden was an active church member and our Sunday School Superintendent many years. He is now nearly 93 years old and a most active and enthusiastic worker in the gardens of his son, Doan in Asheville. Our very best wishes are with him.

Helen Thompson and sister, Edith Thompson from Kalamazoo are spending two weeks at Sequanota.

The carpenters and joiners say they have been working without a contract since the Melusa project started.

MEMBERS of the negotiating committee which has been meeting at the Charlevoix City Hall are C. D. Connolly, labor relations counsel for Darin and Armstrong; John DeBona, D & A vice president; George A. Martin, Nickel-son Co. vice president; Paul L. Osterberg, superintendent; Hal Bell, director of labor relations for the Michigan Association of General Contractors; Frank Oleksy, President of Local 2316; Earl Holborn, steward for millwrights on the site; Archie Karlskin, business representative for the union and Howard Carson, steward for carpenters on the job.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Madill of Calgary, Canada, arrived to spend a week with his aunt, Miss Mayme Orlovski, and other relatives and friends.

Talk of the Town

Joseph M. Foster left Wednesday for a ten-day visit in Kalamazoo with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster.

Bruce Kroken and Patti Penn, who will play with the marching band at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, left last week to begin practice with the band. Classes will start there this week.

Cpl. Jack Stockwell, who has been serving in Korea with the U.S. Army for the past 13 months, has arrived home via Seattle, Wash., to spend a 45-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stockwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Carey and family have returned to Midland after spending the summer here. They managed the municipal golf course for the past three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davenport and family left Wednesday for Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where he will begin his coaching duties at Iowa Wesleyan College. He was recreation director for the city of Charlevoix during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Kili Carson and two children have gone to Stands where he will teach.

Mrs. Vernon Snyder and son, Vernon Jr., have returned to Milwaukee after spending the holiday weekend with her mother, Mrs. Fred Gill Sr.

Martha Bradley has returned to her home in West Lafayette, Ind., before going on to her studies at Purdue, Ind., after spending the summer with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Feindt.

The Bruce McDonough and other relatives.

Lynette Mayne has returned to Detroit after spending the long weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mayne.

program has been estimated to cost $4.50 per $1,000 valuation for a period of 26 years.

Operational costs of the new building have been estimated at about $35,000. How much of this could be saved by better utilization of teachers and by a reduction in use of present building use can not be determined at this time.

OPEN MEETINGS to discuss the proposed merger are being planned and all citizens are invited.

mediator of question, Robinson said. Some systems, like Ellsworth, which presently is taxed heavily for school operation (20 miles) might find it less expensive. Others may find it costs more.

Robinson is convinced that the reorganization will offer certain specific benefits, such as a broader curriculum, more efficient use of teachers, the ability to attract better qualified teachers and full North Central accreditation. Of the three high schools, East Jordan presently is the only one fully accredited.

"It's not that there's anything wrong with the other two systems," Robinson said. "They simply fall short of certain minimum standards."

A VOTE for reorganization in Charlevoix and Iron-ton will mean that the present one-room Iron-ton School, grades K-6, will be merged with the Charlevoix District and the present three-man-board at Iron-ton dissolved next July 1.

Robinson said there is a possibility the Charlevoix School Board might find some use for the present Iron-ton School, which was finished in 1963, but he doesn't think it is likely because of its location and size.

One problem will be the $25,000 bill owed on the Iron-ton School. If the reorganization passes, under the law, the debt retirement will continue to be spread over the old district for two years.

ROBINSON said it is possible that the Iron-ton teacher, Mrs. Aaron Brock, could be fully qualified to teach in the Charlevoix system by next fall.

He added that Charlevoix and Iron-ton will vote as one political entity in the Oct. 3 election, voters from the communities casting ballots in Building B at the Charlevoix High School.

East Jordan electors will vote at the city hall; Ellsworth will vote in the kindergarten room, and at Central Lake balloting will be in the school library.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Obituary

Mrs. Laura Hannaford

Funeral services will be held today (Wednesday) for Mrs. Laura Hannaford the former (Laura Van Dusen) of Painesville, Ohio. Mrs. Hannaford was born in Norwood Township, Charlevoix County, over 80 years ago. Mrs. Hannaford is the aunt of Mrs. Clarence Murray, Mrs. Carrie Brown and Orville Hilton of Charlevoix.

Youth Workers Address Groups

Two veteran youth workers addressed the annual mission meeting of the Atwood and Charlevoix Community Reformed churches and the Atwood and Ellsworth Christian Reformed churches Sept. 9 in the Ellsworth Community School gym.

ART STALEY

There's a buck in his future...

Art Staley Plans Hunting Trip at 90

CHARLEVOIX -- With almost 90 years under his belt, Art Staley is looking forward to another deer hunting expedition this November.

Staley, who will begin his tenth decade on Thursday, Sept. 22, was born in 1876 near Capac in Michigan's Thumb. He moved to Charlevoix County at an early age and spent most of his life on the Peninsula north of East Jordan.

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ken Staley, says he hasn't missed deer hunting in as long as she can remember. "And he says he's going again this year," she laughed.

Staley has worked at many jobs in his lifetime. He cooked in the lumber camps as a young man and later farmed. He owned grocery stores in Detroit and Mancelona and was proprietor of Staley's market on Antrim Street until his retirement in 1950.

He has lived with the Ken Staleys since the death of his wife, Mildred, in 1949. In addition to his son, Staley has two daughters, Mrs. Audrey Hilliker of Ada, Mich., and Mrs. Dorothy Richards of St. Louis, Mo. There also are five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Beaver School Jammed

ST. JAMES--Beaver Island is in the midst of a population explosion. If school enrollment figures are any indication...

Sister Kenneth Marie, O.P., new principal of the Beaver Island Community School, reports an enrollment of 75 students this fall, 18 more than the 57 enrolled last year.

Most of the new students are members of five families which moved to the island over the summer. The school lost only two students through graduation in June.

SISTER KENNETH Marie reports classes are "a bit crowded" but that the situation will be eased Dec. 1 when a $67,000 wing on the present schoolhouse will be completed.

The addition will include two classrooms, an all-purpose room, storage room and principal's office.

THE BEAVER Island Community School is one of the few public schools in the country operated by Catholic sisters, all of whom are college-trained and state licensed. Because of the remoteness of the island, the Board of Education has found it impossible to attract lay teachers.

In addition to Sister Kenneth Marie, the teaching staff this year consists of Sister Wilma, O.P., Sister Florian, O.P., and Sister Julia Mae, O.P.

Gets License

Attorney Robert Hoffman of Charlevoix passed his flight test at Traverse City Sept. 13 and has received his private pilot's license.

Park Restroom OK'd

CHARLEVOIX -- The City Council Monday told Superintendent Jim Taylor to do whatever is necessary to draw up plans for a sanitary facilities building in East Park at the foot of Clinton Street. Construction of such a building, incorporating showers, toilets and a harbor masters office, is intended to help eliminate a growing pollution problem in the yacht basin. The building will be designed specifically for the use of yachtsmen. The city set aside $8,000 to its 1966-67 budget for such a building, with an intention of appropriating the remainder next year. Half of the cost of the structure will be borne by the State Waterways Commission.

BOB NOWAKOWSKI and Larry Pearsall, representing the American Legion, presented the Council with three metal "Protect Our Children" signs and asked if the city would place them in strategic locations around the schools. Council agreed.

RON PETERSON, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presented a lengthy report on activities of the Chamber. He said out of a total budget of about $12,500 last year ($6,000 of which is donated by the city) the Chamber paid the salaries of a secretary-manager and his clerk (total $9,000); earmarked $2,000 for the Venetian Festival; $500 for postage $200 for telephone bills; $350 for the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament; and $150 for bicycle races, for a deficit of $300.

He said the board of directors is satisfied with the job being done by the present secretary-manager, Archie Dayton, and praised the role the Chamber played in securing payment of $15,000 in debts accrued by a construction company in Charlevoix this summer.

PETERSON said the Art Fair is the only Chamber-endorsed activity which really pays its own way. "Mrs. (Paul) Olsen did a fabulous job this year," he added.

THE COUNCIL also approved a request from William West for a five-foot easement north of the Parkside Restaurant to build an elevated entrance way. The easement will be granted after plans and specifications are drawn up, including a stairway at the east end of the walk.

TOOK NOTE of a copy of a letter from the Department of Commerce to Nathan Cummings, who had pointed out earlier the need to extend the runways at Charlevoix Airport to accommodate jets. The Commerce Department said the federal government would participate 50 percent.

Pat Kill Skimpy on Isles

ST. JAMES the early grouse season on Garden and High Island was a disappointment to most of the hunters who took advantage of the Sept. 15 opening.

Jerry Duveneck, game biologist for the conservation Department's Houghton Lake Research station, reported Tuesday that a total of 54 birds had been killed by 198 hunters. Garden Island produced 34 birds for the bag, out of 540 reported individual flushes. Hunters spent 72 hunting hours in the field, covering the seven square miles of Garden Island for a flush rate average of .72 grouse per hunting hour.

HUNTERS on High Island killed 20 grouse after flushing 262 birds on the five square miles of that island. It took 337 hunting hours to produce a flush rate average of .78 grouse per hour.

Each hunter was required to register at the St. James Conservation Office before hunting the islands. Data cards and maps were given to each hunter to record locations of kills, flushes and hours hunted. Duveneck made his report from this information.

MANY early season hunters drew the conclusion that the grouse population would offer unlimited flushes and shooting on the islands. This however was not the case.

The main objective of the early season was gather data on what hunting pressure might do to the grouse population in a controlled area. Flush maps turned in at the Conservation Office by the grouse hunters indicated that there was an even distribution of birds on both High and Garden Islands. This is somewhat different than in other areas of northern Michigan where birds will be found in small areas while the hunting will be a short distance away.

Data gathered on woodcock flushes, which were not included in the early season, indicated that there was a good population on both islands. One hunter reported has many as nine individual flushes in one hour.

The Conservation people feel that heavy cover was one biggest handicap to filling the game bag with grouse. Late October hunting on Garden and High Islands should produce a much higher percentage of flushes and kills for the grouse hunter who hunts these islands after the foliage is down.

Moms Dine Like Queens at Charlevoix Hospital

CHARLEVOIX -- New mothers at Charlevoix Hospital dining like royalty, thanks to a new "Sork Club" instituted by the Corotty Food Service of Boston, Mass.

Robert Ball, new manager of the hospital kitchen, has drawn up a "feast for a queen" menu for patients in the obstetrics wing.

"After all those months of dieting and counting calories, they deserve it," he said.

THE MEAL, which is served whenever the new mother's appetite returns, offers a fresh fruit cup, tomato juice cocktail or French Onion soup with croissants as an appetizer. Entree can be a broiled choice New York cut sirloin steak, broiled filet mignon, sautéed in mushroom caps; roast stuffed rock - Cornish hen; or French fried jumbo fan tail shrimp with tangy hot sauce.

The meal also includes a variety of potatoes and vegetables, choice of salad, freshly baked rolls and butter. For dessert there's baked Alaska or an ice cream sundae.

Robert Ball

THE COROTTY Co., which began handling all food preparation at the hospital two weeks ago, also has started a "selective menu" which enables most patients to choose what foods they want. There's usually a choice of two or more items in each course, Ball said.

Every afternoon, patients receive copies of the next day's menu and indicate their choices. "We've got one man up there who checks off everything on the menu every day. He's a big man and needs a lot to eat," Ball said.

He added that special meals are prepared for patients who are on restricted diets.

BALL SAID that so far patients seem to be in favor of the system.

"Mealtime is an important time at any hospital, and the selective menu gives patients something to look forward to that they know they are going to enjoy," he said.

Ball's last permanent assignment was at St. Louis, Mo., although he was worked at hospitals throughout Michigan this summer.

He and his wife, Rowena, have two children, Noel Leon, 22 months, and Loreta (Lorrie), 11 months.

Promotions Mean Dunking in Channel

CHARLEVOIX -- Two promotions -- and two dunkings -- are announced at the Charlevoix Lifeguard Station and Group Charlevoix.

Itard D. Speer was promoted to Warrant Officer (W-1) machinist, effective Sept. 1.

Engineer 1st Class Daniel Discianno at Grays Reef Light Station was promoted to Chief Engineer.

SPEER has been assigned to the Charlevoix Station since August, 1964. He enlisted in Portland, Ore., Dec. 18, 1950 and advanced through the ranks.

He has served aboard many ships and at shore stations throughout the United States.

Meteor Lights Charlevoix Sky

CHARLEVOIX -- The gigantic meteorite which apparently exploded over southern Michigan Saturday night was plainly visible in Charlevoix and caused considerable alarm among many residents.

The sheriff's office reports a deluge of telephone calls from people who wanted to know what happened.

In Port Huron, the light was so brilliant that sensitive electronic eyes turned off all the street lights in town.

SHERIFF'S deputies here quote State Police as saying the object was visible as far west as Wisconsin, as far south as the Gulf of Mexico and as far west as Buffalo, N.Y.

At last report, folks down below were still looking for the pieces.

Students to View Program on Atom

CHARLEVOIX -- The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will present a program on peaceful uses of atomic energy Oct. 11 at Charlevoix High School, Congressman Raymond F. Cleveland (D-11th Dist.) has announced.

A 40-minute assembly program, will outline basic principles of nuclear physics, radioactivity, chain reaction, reactors and their uses, and transmutation and application of radioisotopes in medicine, industry and agriculture.

A RADIATION counter, a reactor model, a Van de Graaff generator and electrically activated panels will be used by the lecturer to demonstrate his talk. A more detailed discussion of nuclear science will be presented to science classes after the assembly.

THE LECTURER, who holds at least one college degree, has received intensive training at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies at Oak Ridge, Tenn. He returns to Oak Ridge periodically to be brought up to date on the latest developments in atomic research.

AEC will present the program at 26 northern Michigan schools between September 12 and October 18. There will be no charge to the schools.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

He has a right to be proud!

LITTLE FISH ADD UP TO A BIG CATCH...

...AND IT'S THE SAME WAY WITH SAVINGS!

For a young fisherman, it isn't the size of the fish that counts most. It's the pride he takes in his very own catch. Little things often do make a big difference! Take savings, for example. Little by little, they really add up.

A Savings Account may start small, but if you add to it regularly, it has a big future... and so do your youngsters. Why not open an account now? And for even greater earnings, inquire about our special high-rate Savings Certificates.

A MEETING to organize a Council of Social Agencies in Charlevoix County was held last Friday noon at the City Hall. Twenty-four representatives from all parts of the county attended.

Agency Council Formed

CHARLEVOIX -- Twenty-four representatives of social agencies in Charlevoix County met Sept. 17 at the city hall here to form a Council of Social Agencies.

Don Fuller, diagnostician for the Charlevoix-Elliott Intermediate School District, was elected general chairman and Mrs. Frances Hooper of Charlevoix was elected secretary-treasurer.

Meetings will be held every second Friday of the month at noon.

Purpose of the organization is to coordinate all of the social agencies in the area with the activities of the others and to coordinate their activities of some extent.

Mrs. Hooper said similar organizations existed a few years ago, but was allowed to die.

The second meeting will be held Oct. 14 at the Charlevoix City Hall. The County Probate Court is in charge of the meeting.

Country vegetable stands are blooming despite super-market competition. The number of stands reportedly has risen 25 per cent in the past decade.

Ironton

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
LI 7-2037

Our summer friends and neighbors are returning to their winter homes. Our best wishes go with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vanderwall from Kalamazoo were guests at the home of the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwall this Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keating have returned from their home in Detroit and will spend two weeks in their cottage.

Phil Miner is a medical patient in the Charlevoix Hospital. We extend him our very best wishes for a quick recovery.

John Roberts and mother, Mrs. Bertha Roberts, from Detroit are spending several days at their summer farm home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ansell of Detroit were guests last week at the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Wm.

Crowe. Both couples celebrated their 38th wedding anniversaries.

Mr. and Mrs. William LaValley have exchanged their trailer home for a larger one and plan on staying here later this fall before going to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dean, who have been visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Bergmann, left last weekend for Detroit where they will visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Teasdale, before going to their home in Venice, Fla., for the winter. Enroute they will also visit in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Edwards Hosts Gardeners

The September meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Edwards, assisted by Mrs. Robert Tillas. Members brought plants to exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Deak on Meech St. received the plaque for the winning Garden-of-the-Month.

The various committee chairmen gave annual reports. Keeping the flower beds adequately watered is a problem, but the Civic Committee is in hopes this problem will be solved next year with the cooperation of the City Water Department.

Members discussed the district meeting of garden clubs in this area, which was held Sept. 20 at Shanty Creek.

Mrs. Jack Rader presented a most interesting program on the subject of "Flower Shows."

POINTING OUT THE "ONE" WAY

The careful, prudent operator of a motor vehicle doesn't ignore the one way street signs he sees in town and city. He doesn't drive in a direction opposite that indicated by the arrow sign. No matter how successful he has been in material affairs, how much influence he wields or how great his financial standing, for the sake of his own safety he heeds and obeys the signs.

However, some who have been greatly successful in material ways will ignore the one-way signs that point to the triumphal destination of their souls. Their church or synagogue will, if they will let it, not only point but light the way upon this important one-way thoroughfare. The minister, priest or rabbi conducts services that take care of this most important need in all lives.

It Was Tom St. Charles Day

SATURDAY WAS Tom St. Charles Day in East Jordan and most of the town turned out to help plant sod, paint the washrooms and refurbish docks and boat ramps at the tourist park. Some folks even came from as far away as St. Ignace—like Bob Davis who is seeking election in November as representative from this district.

Jordan Works in Park

EAST JORDAN -- A bee to clean up and refurbish the East Jordan Tourist Park was a smashing success Saturday as dozens of townspeople and visitors turned out to lend a hand. They called it Tom St. Charles Day in honor of the city's park commissioner of long standing. And even St. Charles himself was on hand to lead the parade past the lunch counter at noon.

PARK COMMISSIONER Tom St. Charles himself led the parade through the cafeteria line set up for hungry workers. Council agreed at the last meeting that a new road through the park will be named for St. Charles.

Directed by Chamber of Commerce President Tom Gahm, projects slated for the day were sodding some three acres of land, painting the park restrooms, repairing docks and pouring concrete for boat ramps.

Staff Invited

All volunteer workers for the Community Chest in the Residential and Outlying Areas Divisions are invited to attend a morning coffee at the Weathered Terrace on Sept. 26, at 9:30. They will receive their campaign kits at this time and are urged to complete their calls during the ensuing week. These volunteers will call on every home in their assigned areas. They are seeking contributions from people who do not contribute at their place of employment. If the resident has already made a donation to some other division of the campaign he need only tell the volunteer where the contribution was made. At present, $3,370.00 has been turned in, mostly from summer residents and summer business places. This is

Stage Officers Elected

CHARLEVOIX -- The Park Stage Committee has elected the following officers: The Rev. Alexander Wood, president; Phil Lawrence, vice president; Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, secretary; and Mrs. Kit Carson, treasurer. The committee was formed several weeks ago to raise money to complete the band shell in East Park.

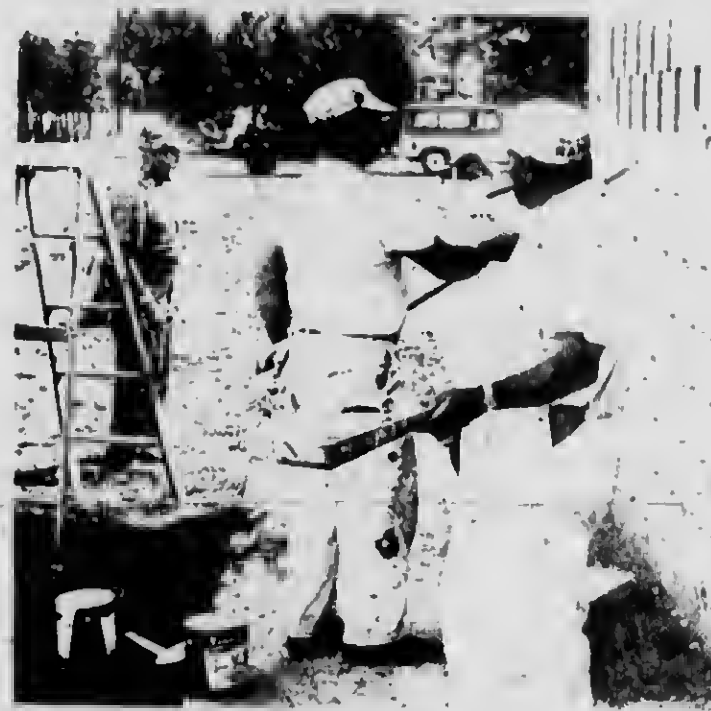

ROY BENNETT, a spokesman for Charlevoix Senior Citizens, attended the meeting to look into the possibility of incorporating quarters for the Senior Citizens into the park stage project. If so, he said federal funds probably would be available. Rev. Wood said another public meeting of the group will be called when more information is available on costs. The present stage was built several years ago, but the backers ran out of funds before the shell was completed. The committee expects the finished band shell will be used not only for band concerts but other civic programs as well.

Obituaries

Mary A. Smith
Funeral for Mary A. Smith, 63, who died Sunday at Grandview Medical Care Facility was held Tuesday at St. Mary's Church, the Rev. E. Francis Denay officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Inaugural service was held at the Winchester Funeral Home Sept. 19. Miss Smith was born in Charlevoix Nov. 9, 1902, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William F. Smith. She lived her entire life in Charlevoix. She is survived by a brother John L. Smith of Potosky and three sisters, Mrs. H. E. Bingham and Mrs. Hugh Mayne of Charlevoix and Mrs. Fitch Tooley of Boyne City. 25 percent of the 1966 goal of $13,412.00.

SEVERAL willing hands turned out to help spruce up the washrooms with a fresh coat of paint.

EVEN SOME OF East Jordan's famed swans turned out to see what was happening.

Let a gas dryer do your ironing.

A gas dryer does your ironing for you. The new gas dryer takes clothes out of the dryer looking like they just came back from the cleaners. All wrinkles are gone. Creases are razor sharp and neatly in place. Clothes are ready to wear. You'll be buying more and more permanent press clothing and you'll love the gas dryer.

A gas dryer dries clothes quickly and economically. Less than a load of clothes takes 30 minutes faster, too. Maintenance is easy. For all the advantages a survey shows the gas dryer is the most popular choice for a gas dryer.

Gas dryers are available in 120 and 240 volt models. They are as easy to install as a washing machine. They are the perfect choice for the home. They are the perfect choice for the home. They are the perfect choice for the home.

Isn't it time you bought a gas dryer?

Red Devils Win, Rayders Lose

KALKASKA'S Delwin Campbell gets some excellent blocking from teammates in tilt with East Jordan Friday. East Jordan won 27 to 13.

QUARTERBACK STEVE SMITH dodges two Rogers City players in some of the early action in Friday's game. Charlevoix lost 26 to 13.

Rogers City Wins Kipke Field Tilt

CHARLEVOIX -- The Red Devils went down to defeat Friday 13 to 26 in their non-conference opener with the Rogers City Hurons. The game was played under lights at Kipke field in Charlevoix. The contest remained scoreless until the final minute when Rogers City's Steve Witulski broke away from the crowd on the nine-yard line and carried the ball across. CHARLEVOIX came back in the second quarter after a long drive sent Lee Cross over from the 12-yard line. Steve Smith kicked the conversion point, putting Charlevoix ahead 7 to 6. Before the quarter ended, however, the Hurons' fleet-footed Art Santini grabbed the ball and went 80 yards to score. Again the conversion point was lost. FOR THOSE who missed Santini's long run, he repeated his performance in the third quarter, running 70 yards for Rogers City's third TD. This time they tried for the point on the ground, Jeff Paradise laterally the ball to Tom Adrian who took it over. In the final period, Santini scored again on a pass from Paradise. Santini also made good on the conversion. Then, with only 40 seconds to go, Al Lusk added another marker for Charlevoix, scoring from the eight yard line. The conversion point was lost.

East Jordan Initiates Scoreboard With Win

EAST JORDAN--The Red Devils were the first to chalk up a TD on their new scoreboard Friday, going on to beat Manclona 27 to 13. The game was played at East Jordan. The touchdown came when Al Graul sprinted six yards over the line with the ball. Jim Lanes passed to the conversion and the score 7-0.

Manclona's first kick was blocked by East Jordan's defense. The game was played at East Jordan. The touchdown came when Al Graul sprinted six yards over the line with the ball. Jim Lanes passed to the conversion and the score 7-0.

Other Scores

Here's how other teams fared in area play Friday night: Petoskey defeated Boyne City 32 to 31; Gaylord edged Class B Cheboygan 12 to 6; Manclona defeated Elk Rapids, 7-2; and Pellston downed Inland Lakes 38 to 0. Saturday night, Petoskey St. Francis defeated Harbor Springs 24 to 14.

Band Parents Meet Sept. 28

CHARLEVOIX--Mothers and fathers of band students will hold their first meeting of the season Wednesday, Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the band room at the High School.

Band Director Clarence Odmark said the year's business will be discussed and he asks as many parents as possible to attend.

Parents of youngsters in both the senior and reserve bands are automatically members of the group.

The club usually supports band projects through band dinners and candy sales.

Wrong Rayder The Red Rayder on Pg. 1 of last week's Courier was incorrectly identified as Brad Carey. The player having a physical examination was Lee Cross.

Navy Vet Joins E. Jordan Force

EAST JORDAN -- Wesley McLellan, 23, has joined the East Jordan Police Department as a patrolman.

A native of Bellaire, McLellan comes to East Jordan from Brighton where he was a patrolman for 18 months. He also has been a deputy sheriff of Livingston County.

McLellan attended Bellaire High School, joining the Navy as a hospital corpsman when he was 17. His four years of service included duty aboard the aircraft carrier

U.S.S. Randolph, based at Norfolk, Va., and 18 months at the Marine Hospital at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

McLellan and his wife, Carol, have two children, a daughter Cheryl Ann, 2, and a son, Steven, 10 months.

THE NEW PATROLMAN is happy to be back home in northern Michigan, but he wonders how long it will take him to get used to the "slow" pace of living in these parts.

McLellan, who spent his first day on the job Sept. 12, brings to three the number of men on the East Jordan force.

Planes Galore Are Due in City Sunday

NOT MANY planes today still have to be started by spinning the propeller. Some antique planes like this bi-plane are expected to be on display Sunday during the "Fly-in" at Charlevoix Airport.

LONGING for the good old days? What can beat weekend flying in your A-powered pietenpol air camper? Some experimental models---as well as some homebuilts---are expected Sunday.

A 63-year-old murder mystery figures in the identification of the Indian couple featured in last week's "Charlevoix of Yesteryear" column. Wilmer Tunnison, 89, of Bay Shore has positively identified the couple as Mr. and Mrs. John Jaco who were neighbors of the Tunnison family for many years.

"THAT PICTURE was taken about 1900, three years before Mr. Jaco was murdered one night at Bay Shore," Tunnison said. He said Mr. Jaco was "mailed to death," but that no one was ever prosecuted for the crime.

TUNNISON said he has a pretty good idea who was responsible, and his is still living in the area.

"But nobody ever had enough evidence to take the case to court," he said. Tunnison wouldn't say who he suspects.

"It's been such a long while," he said.

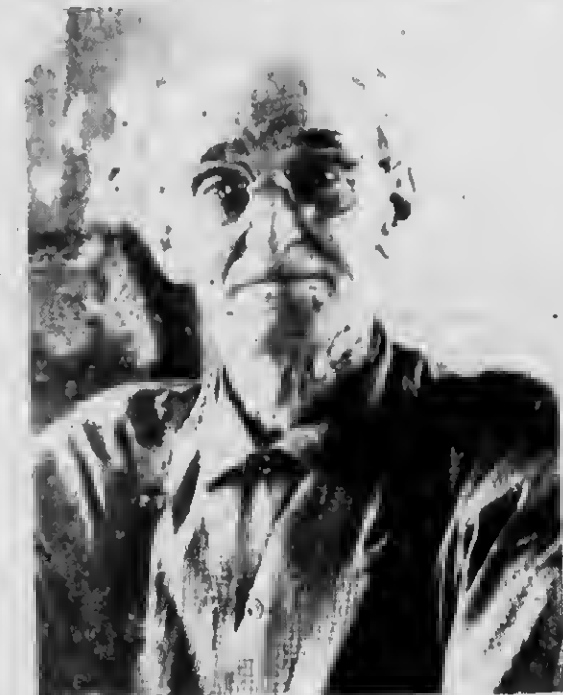

TUNNISON was born in Harrison in Clare County in 1877, moving to Bay Shore in the early 1890s.

"I know we were living here in 1892," he said. He added that he knew the Jaco family quite well and that for years the boy Noah Jaco was his only companion.

The father, a sharpshooter in the Civil War, changed the name from Jopankie to Jaco because it is easier to pronounce.

EXCEPT for brief periods in Detroit and Grand Rapids, Tunnison has spent most of the past 70 years in Charlevoix County. He logged, farmed and worked at the East Jordan chemical plant and for the Penn-Dixie Cement Co. before retiring several years ago.

Wilmer Tunnison

SOME homebuilts like this will be on display.

Coast Guard Movie Available

A new Coast Guard motion picture, "The Treasury Story," is available to television stations, schools and club groups, for showing. It was announced today by Rear Admiral Charles Tighe, Commander of the Ninth Coast Guard District.

Available, of a free of charge loan basis, this film along with others can be requested by writing at least thirty days in advance to U.S. Coast Guard Photographic Laboratory, Ninth Coast Guard District, 1055 E. 9th Street, Cleveland, Ohio 44114. Film catalogues of all films available are also available.

The Treasury Story tells briefly the activities of the 12 Bureaus and Offices which comprise the farflung operation of the Treasury Department. The production serves to orient new employees with Treasury functions and also brings graphically to the attention of the public viewers the work of such organizations as Bureau of Customs.

At East Jordan, Ellsworth, and Central Lake

An Invitation Worth Accepting

Residents of East Jordan, Ellsworth and Central Lake who vote on school reorganization, Oct. 3 might do well to attend one of the two remaining public meetings on what reorganization will mean to them.

The Ellsworth meeting was held last night. Tonight at 8 p.m. the reorganizers will answer questions at the Central Lake Public School. Next Tuesday, Sept. 27, the same type of meeting will take place at the East Jordan Public School at 7:30 p.m.

EVEN CHARLES A. ROBINSON, superintendent of the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District who has engineered the changes, admits that it's hard to give up old ways. "Nobody wants to sell his matched team of grays and buy a tractor. But times change and we can't meet the same problems in the same old ways."

That about sums up the need for reorganization.

The world is moving too fast and the amounts of information a youngster must assimilate during his school days is too great to even expect small, isolated school districts to do the job required.

A school district with only three or four hundred students cannot be expected to offer the same variety and depth of courses as a school district five or six times as large.

Teachers in a small system are going to find themselves teaching out of their specialties--English teachers filling in as mathematicians, social scientists teaching chemistry. The quality of teaching is bound to suffer.

Furthermore, it is becoming increasingly obvious that good teachers are going to continue to demand the salaries which are rightfully theirs by virtue of their education and training. It seems that the larger the district, the more able it will be able to attract and pay for highly qualified, dedicated teachers.

The larger system also will enable the district to make use of modern electronic teaching aids which will make it possible to disseminate large amounts of information to students on an individual basis.

A broader vocational education program is almost a certainty.

HOW MUCH reorganization will cost is a question for which there is no answer at present. The superintendents of the three districts agree that a new school will have to be built. Operating costs will hinge directly on its location, design and the number and depth of courses offered. Some districts may find the change more expensive; others may find it cheaper, depending on their present school tax rate.

THERE IS no question about the fact that the move will involve transporting more students over longer distances, regardless of where the school is located. Yet this is 1966--not '46 or '26. Improved roads and vehicles have increased our mobility. Modern snow removal equipment keeps our roads open year 'round. We might as well use them if the cause is good.

The Eating-Out Habit

Reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor.

Eating out is a growing American pastime. The quarters people spend for hot dogs, plus the dollars they pay for cafeteria trays, plus the big bills they peel off for three-inch steaks at the Red Lantern Grill add up to around $20 billion a year, according to a Department of Agriculture estimate.

BUT CAN all families who dine out frequently actually afford what they spend in terms of value received? Well-served restaurant meals come high these days. The cost of eating out has risen faster than all other items on the consumer price index, according to the United States Department of Agriculture's research service.

EDITORS of the Farm Index, a Department of Agriculture publication, think people will continue to turn their backs on their kitchens and dine in town increasingly. They predict a 75 percent increase in the nation's annual restaurant bill in a decade. Causes: more working wives, more snacking teen-agers, more old people living alone and not wanting to cook; and just more people. We hope it will be possible, as demand rises, for the restaurant industry to keep prices from bouncing still higher upward.

Clockwise

"Crawl space" is undoubtedly the meanest phrase in the English language.

Of all the architectural oddities man has come up with in the long course of history, that cramped aperture beneath his dwelling is the most particularly it happens to house such luxuries as a water pump, plumbing or other utilities that call for occasional attention.

If Charlevoix ever passes a building code, it should include a clause in plain Anglo-Saxon terms prohibiting houses with crawl spaces, both now and even more. The very phrase itself bespeaks of pained, laborious movements, the only kind that are possible in such an enclosure.

Furthermore, I believe that the churchmen in town should stand four-square behind such a code. If it is ever proposed, there's an awful lot of swearing going on in crawl spaces that wouldn't ordinarily be done in roomy, well-lighted, well-heated basements.

ALTHOUGH I am not built for crawl spaces, I spent most of Saturday afternoon in the one under our bedroom. I have three loose teeth and a pair of fat lips to show for my trouble. They happened when the trap door fell on me, I guess. The spider bites are healing nicely, thank you.

My purpose for being there was to install insulation. Frankly, I prefer a cool bedroom. Not only is it fine for sleeping, but it also makes a good place to store beer and highball mix. Last winter our bedroom was not a degree warmer than Neff's meat locker. However, since the wee one is due shortly, Judy decided we'd better try to warm up the floor with a few bats of fiber glass.

Most of the house, fortunately, has a good sound basement. But the back tier of rooms--the added--later--and whoever built it tried to "make do" with a crawl space.

In places there is only a little more than a foot between the floor joists and the ground. Stretched out on my back, I had to maneuver the insulation into place, raise the staples into position and fire. Usually the staples were fresh out of staples and I'd have to slither back to my supply point for more. The whole afternoon--including the loose teeth, the cuts and bruises--put me in mind of my old Army infiltration training. Only if someone had taken a pot shot at me Saturday afternoon, I think I would have said "thank you."

MY FIRST encounter with a crawl space was in the house Judy and I lived in after we were married--a little pink cottage with a yard full of petunias on Lake Poniemah near Fenton.

On the surface, the place wasn't bad looking. It was long and narrow like a streetcar, with a nice big picture window in front facing the lake. There was a wall heater in the dining area which kept the front of the house as warm as a bakery. Rooms toward the rear got progressively colder. The bathroom--tucked "way off in a back corner"--was about as big and as cold as a coffin. Underneath this room was our crawl space. The owner mentioned this melancholy fact to us in the middle of summer, but I, for one, didn't pay much attention. I didn't intend to go into anybody's crawl space for any reason, ever.

THEN CAME New Year's Eve. Judy and I returned early in the day from Muskegon to get ready for big doling that night with friends in town. Poor Fenton had been in the grips of a snow storm and cold wave all week. The snow was up to our knees in the walk and on the south side of the house a drift climbed right up to the eaves.

Once inside, it didn't take us long to discover that something was dreadfully wrong with the plumbing. When Judy turned on the kitchen faucet there was a dimming hiss of air and that was all. No water. The front of the house was warm, but being unoccupied all week, not much warm air had circulated to the rear. Slowly a awful truth dawned on me: One pump under the bathroom had frozen. And the entrance to the crawl space was blocked by that gigantic snowdrift.

Fortunately I had my wits about me and reached for the telephone.

"This is no job for an amateur," I explained to Judy. "A good old plumber will fix 'er up in no time."

Twenty-five telephone calls later I realized, without a shadow of a doubt, that it was New Year's Eve and there wasn't a plumber in Genesee County who wasn't already three sheets to the wind or else "so busy we don't expect him home until the middle of next week." Most of the people who answered my frantic telephone calls did so to the merry tinkle of feed drinks. Ripples of party laughter could be heard in the background. One congenial plumber even asked me over for a drink. He couldn't break away, but...

WHEN I finally realized that I alone would have to thaw out the pump, I put on some warm clothes, dug a tunnel around to the crawl space entrance, chipped open the frozen door and slid inside on the seat of my pants. Using a flashlight, I crawled over a veritable jungle gym of water pipes to an octopus-like object lurking in one corner. It was the pump, stone cold and silent.

The next three hours I shuttled back and forth between the crawl space and the kitchen, trying every means I could think of to loosen up a frozen pipe. At first I melted snow in the tea kettle and poured it over the wretched object. Then I rigged up extension cords and wrapped the pump in our electric heating pad, a previously unused wedding gift. No results. Next I lighted candles and placed them around the pipes. Still nothing.

Darkness fell and I was cold and wet and dirty. I longed for a shower and a cup of hot coffee, both of which were contingent upon my thawing the pump. Above I could hear Judy on the telephone explaining to our hostess for the evening that we would be a little late. I thought of all the happy plumbers I had talked to that afternoon who were already well steeped in revelry and merriment, then I looked about me at the cobwebs and the frozen mud and the shadowy corners and entertained dark thoughts of death.

THEN SUDDENLY, out of nowhere, a man's smile appeared at the crawl space entrance.

"Heard you were having some trouble with your water system," he said. "Thought maybe you could use a couple of blow torches. They always work for me."

Without another word he slipped through the window and introduced himself. He was a neighbor down the road I had never met. He promptly lit the two torches and gave one to me and told me where to hold it. With the other he began working around the pump.

Twenty minutes later the old pump kicked on and there was the happy sound of water gurgling in the pipes. My new friend also located a couple of drains which had frozen and thawed them out. Within an hour he was gone and Judy and I were dressing for our night out.

WE MOVED that spring and I never really got to know my neighbor with the blow torches. His wife was ailing, they said, and we never could find them home. I've wondered since if he really weren't some kind of spiritual master plumber God placed on earth to reign over that very unearthly realm--the crawl space.

JUST a reminder to you new residents of this community who plan to register for the Nov. 8 General Election... Monday, Oct. 10, is the deadline for registering... so keep that date in mind.

EVERYONE'S been enjoying the fabulous weather... that is, up until Wednesday when the sky opened up... Other than the youngsters getting a bit damp on their way to school, no one was too unhappy about the rain for we certainly need some moisture... But this time of year we can expect anything... and I'm sure would be disappointed if we didn't get it in the line of weather.

HAVE TALKED with more people back from vacations... Seems as though most of the people I know have gone north or west where they enjoyed the wide open spaces or the whims of the U.P. or Canada.

I was happy to see that there'll be another beautiful area opened up to the public before too long... It's the Sylvania Tract located near Watersmeet in Gogebic County... privately owned or the past 50 years by the estate of the automotive industry's Fisher Brothers as a private fishing and hunting preserve... included in the 18,000 acres is 14,000 acres of virgin forest and 55 lakes and ponds that have been maintained in their natural state.

My sister-in-law, Mrs. Bill Martin, comes from Watersmeet so I asked her about it... One of the lakes on the property is Clark's Lake and her family went swimming there when she was a youngster... She was happy to hear that it would become a public park because it is a beautiful, beautiful place... She said she hoped it wouldn't be changed too much or it would spoil its natural beauty.

WITH CAMPING being enjoyed by more and more families, it will give them one more place to enjoy without going too far from home... Wonder if there are bears wandering around... because a number of people know have had some pretty scary experiences with them.

The things you don't see when you're just wandering around... Came out of the front door of the high school the other day and was "slapped" in the face with the must startling pair of garage doors... starting because they're painted a Chinese red... (This is a color and has no relation to the political situation in China)... I checked out the houses on the street and found the garage, of concrete block construction, belongs to Mrs. Rose Hilton... I hope Mrs. Hilton realizes I mention this because I think it adds such a gay note to the neighborhood.

HAD A MOST delightful visit the other day with two friends I see all too seldom... the Allen Campbells who've moved from Norwood to their new home at the corner of Bridge and Gardfield... It's so easy to drop in on them and pass the time of day... at the intersection of US 31 and M-66...

WONDER what our harbor entrance is going to look like when the work being done on it is completed... Wonder if the sharp dog-leg will be no more... It is really removed and the channel straightened a bit it will permit larger boats to enter the harbor...

At the present time, the really big boats can't enter the harbor because of this crook in the harbor entrance... It will be interesting to see...

KNOW WHAT I never heard a thing about this fall Wild blackberries and huckleberries... Time was when scads of people took to the woods and plains to search for these succulent delicacies... And now no one seems to do it... must be because you can buy the domestic kind at the market... though they're never as tasty as the wild ones.

AND DON'T forget that this is the time of year to start gathering materials for your winter bouquets... all types of weeds including milkweed pods, goldenrod, past its prime, Queen Anne's lace... and seeds more that I don't know the name of... So many people plan to do this and then forget to harvest the crop of necessities until it's too late... And for you ambitious souls who make those beautiful Della Robbia wreaths keep an eye open for the acorns, chestnuts, and the many types of cones used on them...

They're lovely things, these rich brown wreaths that can be used for so many things... especially during the holidays... So join the squirrels and gather your needs for your chores that will begin after the snow falls and it's too late...

Planners Offer Salve to Ease Growing Pains

(Editor's Note: The following is the third of a series of articles on community planning.)

The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission has nine members--four from the City of Charlevoix, three from Charlevoix Township and two from Marion Township. The commission advises the governing bodies concerned on planning problems.

The necessity for this commission may be questioned when other municipal functions such as police or fire protection are managed by a specific department directly responsible to the chief executive officer. Planning, however, relates to the lives and activities of each resident of the community not only today but also in the future. Therefore, it is desirable to obtain as much citizen participation in the planning process as is practical.

EVEN WHEN professional planning services are utilized, as in the Charlevoix case, it is best to coordinate their ideas and proposals with the knowledge of local conditions possessed by lay members of a planning commission.

Also, planning must be considered as a long-range process, the results of which may not be evident for many years, an active planning commission, the terms of whose members seldom coincide with the terms of members of the legislative bodies, makes possible some degree of continuity in planning.

MOST GOVERNING bodies are busy with the day-to-day routine of municipal business. In addition, most members of these bodies have their time. The planning commission is not involved in many of the details of municipal business and therefore can concentrate on the long-range aspects of the region and lend its aid to the governing bodies.

As a regional body, the Charlevoix Planning Commission has few legal powers. Planning for the Charlevoix region, however, must be done on a regional basis if it is to be effective. Although each unit of government has characteristics of independence and individuality that are worthy of preservation, the problems and potentials of each tend to be regional in nature and cannot be confined to municipal boundaries. The most efficient economic utilization of the area's resources--land, water, people, scenery--requires a regional approach. Although specific areas will each have their individual problems and plans, these must be coordinated and related to the entire region since the efforts of one unit may have a direct effect upon the others.

MEMBERS of the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission are:

Kenneth A. Staley, 401 Antrim Street, chairman, representing the City of Charlevoix; Ralph W. Dean, 308 Birch Street, vice chairman, also representing the City of Charlevoix; Mrs. E. A. Bergmann, Route 3, Secretary-Treasurer, representing Charlevoix Township; Don W. Geman, 1004 State Street and Jerry Whitley, May Street, representing the City of Charlevoix; James Lewis and Oscar Stroud, both of Route 3, representing Charlevoix Township; Burr Blanchard and Russell Dehn, both of Route 2, representing Marion Township.

REGULAR commission meetings are held at 7:30 p.m., the fourth Wednesday of each month at the Charlevoix city hall. City and township residents are invited to attend.

Next week: Some purposes of the community comprehensive plan.

Await VanLoo Ruling

CHARLEVOIX--A decision is expected sometime this week by Circuit Judge Charles Brown on whether the buildings Jack Van Loo proposes to assemble on May Street are permanent dwellings or house trailers.

Brown's first comment
after nearly four hours of testimony Sept. 15 was: "I'm afraid this is a question which will have to be decided eventually by the State Supreme Court."

Although he has backlog of 600 cases, he said he would attempt to come up with a decision sometime this week.

IN ADDITION to Van Loo,
Mayor Bill Fochtman, City Superintendent James Taylor and contractor Barry Wood were called to the witness stand. Van Loo was represented by attorney Robert Hoffman; city attorney John

Michael represented the city.

Taylor recently revoked a building permit issued VanLoo on grounds that the eight buildings he intends to erect on May Street are actually house trailers and in violation of C-2 zoning.

VanLoo said the buildings would have permanent foundations and are in fact permanent dwellings.

Fochtman and Taylor said the units, which are bolted together to make one unit bear many "mobile home" stickers.

JOHN MICHAEL brought out the fact that the housing for electrical connections also refers to the unit as a mobile home.

Wood testified that in his opinion the buildings are permanent dwellings because the wheels are removed and they are permanently affixed to a foundation.

Ruth L. Schofield, Gary Fortner Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fortner

Ruth L. Schofield and Gary A. Fortner of Rochester, N.Y., exchanged marriage vows at a double ring ceremony at the First Congregational church here at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dutcher of 104 Ainslee st. and Mrs. Lola McAlley, of 73 Fairview ave., Rochester, N.Y. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiated at the service before an altar decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and blue mums and lighted tapers in candelabra entwined with ivy.

MRS. LEONARD Burns, at the organ, played the wedding march and accompanied the soloist, David S. Smith, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride selected a gown of white embossed taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline, long sleeves and belt skirt. Alencon lace appliques trimmed the bodice, the hemline of the skirt and the train that fell from a bow at the waist. Her shoulder length veil was held by a crown. She carried a cascade arrangement of blue and white mums and ivy.

Ruth Ann Miller was maid of honor. Sue Voss of Muskegon, Janet Schofield and Linda Schofield, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore sleeveless gowns of light blue embossed taffeta made along the same lines as the bride's gown. Small jeweled clips secured their short veils. They carried bouquets of blue and white mums.

The bride's mother made the bride's gown and the attendants' gowns. Tanny Hess was flower girl. Daniel Hess was ring-bearer.

Richard D. Fortner of Rochester, N.Y., assisted his brother as best man. Jerome D. Rambois of Detroit, Bruce W. Fillmore of Buffalo and Robert W. Schofield, brother of the bride, were groomsmen.

Mrs. Dutcher chose a blue and silver dress and matching pillbox hat and accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. McAlley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a beige jacket dress and matching hat and accessories. Corsages of pink carnations complimented their costumes.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club. It was catered by Mrs. Albert Cunningham and Mrs. Daniel Farmer.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and attended North Central Michigan College and Western Michigan University, Fortner, who attended school in Rochester, is stationed here with the U. S. Coast Guard. Wedding guests were present from Rochester, N.Y., Cheboygan, Traverse City, Petoskey, Mackinac Island, East Jordan and Muskegon.

MR. AND MRS. Frank Nackerman of St. James announce the engagement of their daughter, Colleen, to Jack R. Volk of Buffalo, N.Y. A graduate of Marygrove College in Detroit, Miss Nackerman presently is teaching at Christ the King School in Detroit. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Detroit and works for Bendix Corp. The wedding will take place Oct. 22.

MR. AND MRS. Walter H. Russell of 403 W. Huribut St., Charlevoix, announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Jeanne, to Martin P. Hamlin, son of Mrs. Loren Hamlin and the late Mr. Hamlin. The wedding will be Nov. 5 at St. Marys Church. The bride-elect attended Charlevoix High School and presently works at Paul-Reed. Her fiancé attended Charlevoix High and works at the Medusa site.

Miss Phyllis Roberts who has been in Seoul, Korea, as a civilian with the U.S. Army arrived home earlier this month to spend two months with her mother, Mrs. Bertha Roberts, and other relatives. She will return to Seoul Nov. 1. She has been abroad for two years.

Talk of the Town

Bert Paolone, who has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Weldman for the past year, left last week for Duluth, Minn., with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Vincent B. Paolone, who came from Duluth for him. The family will leave shortly for Boston, Mass., to make their home. Paolone, who formerly served on the U.S.C.G. Cutter Sandew, has been transferred from Duluth to Boston.

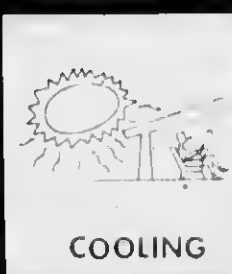

Mrs. Jean Gallagher, who was called to Lake Worth, Fla., by the illness and death of her father, John J. Zeller Sr., has returned here. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Zeller, who will spend some time here with her.

Stanley R. Martin, who has enlisted in the U.S. Army, left last weekend for Detroit where he was sworn into the armed forces. He will go to Fort Knox, Ky., for basic training. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Martin.

BUICK '67

Your Quality Buick dealer says "Now!" like nobody else. He's got a line of cars new from engines to brakes to the new GM safety features. And nothing's now-er than the Buick look. You could spend a lot of time just looking. But wait till you get your hands on the keys to one of these '67 Buicks. You think they're going to be easy to give up? Come to think of it, why should you give them up? Four out of five new-car buyers pay Buick-sized prices. Make sure you get the Buick, and all the good things that go with it.

GIs Learn to Pick Friends With Care

With this issue, the Courier is starting a new feature entitled "Letters from Vietnam." If you mail in the Vietnam fighting, you'll find your friends and neighbors might like to read, drop it off at the Courier's office.

THE FOLLOWING letter was received by Mrs. Harry Pearsall from Cpl. Terry Stewart, U.S.M.C., 31566127, 1st Co., 3rd Bn., 1st Marine Division, FPO, San Francisco. Mrs. Pearsall is president of the American Legion Auxiliary which sent packages to Charlevoix boys in Vietnam this summer. Terry's mother is Mrs. Dole Meredith.

Sept. 1, 1966
"Dear Mrs. Pearsall:
"I want to thank you for sending that package of candy to the kids. They sure went for it in a big way."

"They didn't understand the games too well, but after all the while I managed to get it across to them."

"The girls here have a game similar to the American ball and jacks. They use a small round fruit that resembles a lemon only it's smaller, and eight sticks -- chop sticks. They toss the fruit in the air and pick up the chop sticks in rotation just as our kids do the jacks. It's certainly harder. I tried it and certainly messed up."

"The boys are the same as any boy any place else. They roughhouse, raise hell, climb trees and are always causing trouble. The only difference is they smoke at ages five and up. They ask for cigarettes before candy."

"The kids are far more mature for their ages than the Americans. They work in the fields at an early age and accept heavy family responsibilities."

"Most of their fathers and older brothers are either off in the hills with the V.C. (Viet Cong) or enlisted in the Vietnamese forces."

"They're really friendly, but you have to be careful who you trust. Twice I've been disappointed by my little friends."

GI Leaves Heart in Korea

CHARLEVOIX--A Charlevoix GI now stationed in Europe is still trying to raise money for 76 orphaned youngsters he learned to love during a previous duty assignment in Korea.

He is 2nd Avn. Bn 1st Sgt. Harry C. Feltenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Feltenberger of rural Charlevoix.

While in Korea, Feltenberger launched a program to make the Kwangtan Orphanage self-supporting.

OUT OF HIS own funds, Feltenberger paid $200 toward a hatch for Angora rabbits. Eventually the children will sell hides and meat to help support the orphanage.

The youngsters purchased 25 purebred rabbits last year and now, through selective breeding, have 250. They hope to have $2,000 by the end of next year.

"BUT I NEED about $1,700 to complete it (the project)," the sergeant said recently in a letter to his parents. He added that so far he has collected $700 from friends in New Jersey and fellows stationed at his new base in Europe.

"If you ever saw the kids in my orphanage over there, you would lose your heart to them," he told his parents.

"We have a nine-year-old boy who ran all my errands and did my laundry. We became close friends and I used him to come to my bunk. One day I came up missing a grenade. Of course I didn't think he'd taken it. I figured either a Marine had borrowed it for patrol or an R.F. or P.M.A. had picked it up."

"But the next day while on patrol I came around a bend in the jungle trail and there was my friend sitting up a grenade with a trip wire. He saw me and ran. I had no choice but to shoot him as a V.C. He could've caused a Marine to be killed with that booby trap."

"ANOTHER TIME a boy I trusted stole ammo, maps, codes and grenades. I turned him over to the P.M.A.'s and they executed him. He also set up a booby trap outside my bunker. A half a pound of T.M.T. under a C-Ration can."

"But the majority of the kids can be trusted as friends. We just have to be extra careful. The local V.C. find out who we're being friendly to, then bribe them, or threaten them to help them."

"You've always got to be alert around here. The other day I was swimming and I found the bodies of two Marines. They'd been on liberty in one of the villages on the river from us. The V.C. snatched them up, killed them and threw them in the river."

"Again, I'd like to thank you for your concern. It's really good to know that there are people back home who realize there's a war going on and do their part as American citizens to help the troops. Believe me, we need everyone's support to win a war such as this. It'll take more than guns and ammo. Kindness, understanding and patience are weapons that will defeat the Viet Cong also. Thanks to all the people involved."

Ferry
"P.S. Tell your daughter I said hello and good-bye in school this year."

SGT. HARRY Feltenberger poses in jeep with some of the youngsters who live at the Kwangtan Orphanage in Korea.

From Dad's First Payday

From his first pay envelope, Dad became a "family man". He assumed his responsibilities without falter or slacking. His responsibilities grew but he met them cheerily and efficiently. In his own quiet way he is the hero of the home and protector of the family. He furnished leadership and example for the family and they did not want for any of the essential and important things of life.

If you are not already doing so, perhaps one of the most important essentials for the happiness of all the members of your family is attendance at church each week with your father, listening to and interpreting what you hear, sharing deep and important common interests.

Pauline Oliver, Drew E. Young Exchange Vows

CHARLEVOIX—Miss Pauline Oliver became the bride of Drew E. Young Jr., Sept. 21 at the First Congregational Church here. The Rev. Lawrence E. Tenhopen officiated at the double ring ceremony.

August Lakes Shipping Hits 9 — Year High

Combined shipments of iron ore, coal and grain over the Great Lakes in August reached a nine-year high of 21,788,423 net tons, the Lake Carriers' Association reported in its monthly tonnage statement released today. The 1957 mark was 21,627,352 tons.

Keeping up their brisk pace, grain shipments set an all-time high for the month of 2,836,461 tons compared to the previous record of 2,718,366 tons set in 1964. Cumulative shipments of grain this year also set a high mark of 13,947,236 tons.

Continued heavy demand for export grain accounted for the large movement, according to Oliver T. Bupham, association vice president and secretary. He pointed out, however, that only 10.47 percent of the grain cargoes were moved in United States ships.

August coal shipments totaling 7,844,081 tons were the largest since 1948, when a record 8,651,532 tons were carried.

The combined total of iron ore, coal and grain loaded this year to Sept. 1 amounted to 99,017,445 tons, almost 7 million tons ahead of shipments for the 1965 period and best since 1957.

Miss Oliver is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Oliver of 11 Pine Point Road. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Drew E. Young Sr. of 144 Maple.

Saltine and white plaided decorated the small 10-11-11 church. Miss Janet Peters was the maid of honor.

Given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Oliver wore her mother's white gown. The dress was of satin and net with a train and a long train. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with white lilies.

Mrs. Oliver is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hoffman of 1101 E. 1st St. Her white dress, printed with a flow design, was accented with white accessories, in coral yellow and white.

Joseph Olson was the best man, David Gill and Donald Curran served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a light green dress with beige accessories. Her car was a 1965 Buick.

The reception was held in the church basement. Miss First Young, Mrs. C. L. Hoffman and Mrs. Gerda Hoffman supervised the serving of cake, coffee and punch. Following a social trip through the northern Michigan, St. Ignace, LaSalle, and East St. Ignace, the couple will settle in a home in the Point.

Women Visit Dow Plant

Last Wednesday several women from Ellsworth toured the Dow Chemical plant, and visited Presbyterian and Lutheran churches in Midland. The trip was sponsored by the Point.

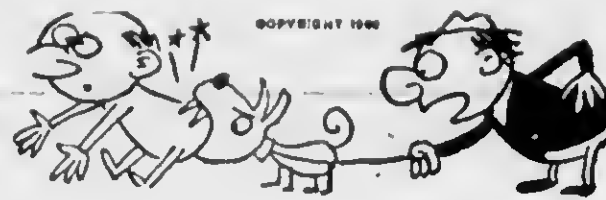

For traveling, the bride chose a white two-piece dress. Both the bride and the bridegroom were graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1965 and attended North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Women's Home Extension of Antrim County

The women learned how sara wrap is made and the demonstration of its many uses. Those who attended from Ellsworth were Mrs. Dessie Farrell, Mrs. C. Farrell, Mrs. A. Klooster, Mrs. G. Drenth, Mrs. H. Drenth, Mrs. G. Drenth, Mrs. H. Stetson, Mrs. P. Burns, Mrs. W. Shooks, Mrs. Mattie VanderArk.

On Monday Mrs. H. Stetson, chairman of the Ellsworth Extension and Mrs. D. Burn of the Central Lake group and Mrs. P. Burns County Chairman attended a special Chairmen's meeting at the Consumers Power Auditorium, in Traverse City.

Mrs. S.E. Coleman and Mrs. Laverne Heise have returned from a trip to southern Michigan where Mrs. Coleman visited relatives in Flint and Mrs. Heise visited her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Heise of Troy.

A man feared his purse would be hit By someone his doggy had hit So he came to see us And without any fuss The insurance protection was writ.

Ride the Wide-Track winning streak!

From the same drawing board that gave you Grand Prix, GTO and Overhead Cam Six now come the newest Pontiacs since the invention of Wide-Track!

You're looking at the most beautiful Pontiacs ever to ride on Wide-Track. The incomparable GTO comes with a 335-hp 400 cubic inch engine under a magnificently refined new skin. Or you can order the 255-hp version or the fabulous new 300-hp Quadra Power 400. And for the first time you can order your GTO with our famous three-speed Turbo Hydra-Matic.

The Le Mans and Tempests come back better than ever—bright new interiors. Bold new colors.

A 165-hp Overhead Cam Six is standard. Or you can specify a 215-hp version, a 250-hp regular gas V-8 or its 285-hp premium gas cousin. Or step into the nearest grand touring car this side of the Atlantic with our OHC 6 Sprint package.

Our big Pontiacs are new from the famous split grille—the slickest innovation of the year—disappearing windshield wipers! They're less subject to freezing. And only Pontiac has them.

Also new a Grand Prix convertible!

There are new 400 and 428 cubic inch V-8s. New safety features such as front seat belt retractors, a four way traffic hazard flasher, folding front seat back latches and General Motors' new energy absorbing steering column.

Of course, all Pontiacs come with the road-hugging security of Wide-Track.

Devils Whip Hornets

EAST JORDAN--The Red Devils came home with a 21-0 shutout victory over Pellston Saturday afternoon, apparently immune from the Hornets' sting.

East Jordan chalked up two touchdowns in the second period, the first on a recovered Pellston fumble. The Devils almost lost the ball when Larry Burkhardt intercepted a pass, but a penalty cancelled the play. A sustained drive to the five-yard line culminated in a T. D. by Alan Graul. Jim Langschwager received a pass for the extra point.

Flushed with success, East Jordan tried again and made it, thanks partially to a face mask penalty against Pellston. From the 13 yard line, Don Gee passed to Brian Sturgill for the touchdown. Ted Sherman scored the conversion point.

THE TEAMS were scoreless in the third period, but in the final quarter Jim Langschwager scored on a pass and Gee relayed the ball to Sturgill for the extra point.

IN OTHER CLASS "C" conference action, Gaylord whipped Harbor Springs, 24-0; and Boyne City defeated Grayling 13-3.

Contest Winner

Don Meggison won $10 in the Courier's football contest last week. Entries in the contest came from as far away as Flint. For this week's contest, turn to Pg. 8.

HALFBACK Levi McClellan raises his arms in victory sign after scoring winning Charlevoix touchdown.

Charlevoix Court News

CHARLEVOIX -- The following cases were heard by Justice of the Peace John Connolly through noon Sept. 27.

Stanley Whitley, 32, of Charlevoix was fined $15 and $5 costs for speeding. City police stopped him.

Paul Lambert Jr., 20, of Charlevoix changed his plea to guilty on a charge of reckless driving. He was fined $50 and sentenced to 60 days in jail. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on six months' probation, allowing him to enter service.

Francis Teetley, 54, of Detroit was fined $20 and $5 costs for failure to stop for a school bus discharging passengers. Sheriff's deputies wrote the ticket.

Mrs. Lyla Pearl Arvilla, 52, of Charlevoix was fined $20 and $5 costs for failure to stop for school bus loading passengers. Sheriff's department issued the ticket.

John J. High, 43, of Charlevoix was fined $110 and $10 costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail on a charge of furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors. He will serve an additional 30 days if the fine and costs are not paid.

Clarence F. Hammer, 36, of Seattle, Wash., was fined $27.50 and $10 costs on a charge of assault and battery. The complaint was signed by a citizen.

Alan Zulkema, 18, of Charlevoix was fined $11 and $5 costs for depositing garbage on public lands. He was arrested on a citizen's complaint.

Gordon W. Weber, 19, of Traverse City, was fined $11 and $5 costs on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Wass and infant daughter left last week en route to the west coast at Alameda, Calif., from where they will fly to Honolulu, Hawaii, where he will be stationed with the U.S. Coast Guard. He has been stationed here aboard the U.S.C.G. Cutter Sundew for the past two years.

Dianne Dyksterhouse left recently for Denver, Colo., where she has returned to her studies at Colorado Women's College.

Among the students leaving last week for Michigan State University were Robert Dyksterhouse, Carlton Smith, Joseph Smith, Linda Neff, Jim Urick, Howard Majors, Don Smith, Warren Belding, Michael Arbuckle, Marcee Wallace, Janet Schroeder, Barbara Messmore, Diane Urick, Randy Carey, David Rader who is transferring from North Central Michigan College and Neil Cross and Kathy Hoffman who are enrolled as freshman students.

Mrs. Blanche Evans left by air Monday for Las Vegas, Nev., to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Mayne Hermonson.

It was incorrectly stated in the Courier that Mr. and Mrs. Louis Olesak of Deerfield, Ill., had moved into the Wojan apartments at Ironton. Instead they have moved into the Radke apartments.

Initiation Oct. 4

CHARLEVOIX -- Initiation of new members of the Leslie T. Shapiro-American Legion Post No. 226 will be held Oct. 4 at the post home, according to Bob Nowakowski, commander.

Steve Smith Breaks Leg

CHARLEVOIX -- The Red Rayders defeated the Mancelona Ironmen Friday night 13-6, although the game cost them the services of Quarterback Steve Smith for the rest of the season.

Smith suffered a broken right leg toward the end of the first quarter when he was tackled after intercepting an end of the first quarter when he was tackled after intercepting a pass near the Mancelona sideline.

DR. MARTIN said Smith will miss the rest of the football season and probably won't be able to play basketball until about the time of the tournaments.

The injury came as the Rayders were rallying from Mancelona's first touchdown which left them trailing by six points.

Sonic Booms Start Oct. 1

BAY SHORE -- Area residents may expect a rash of sonic booms beginning Oct. 1 and lasting through Oct. 31.

Maj. Woodrow Wilson, commanding officer of the 10th Radar Bomb Scoring Detachment here, says several supersonic flights over the area are planned during the next three months.

The flights are not scheduled, and the booms may be heard anytime from 7 a.m. until 11 p.m.

The aircraft pass over imaginary targets in Lake Michigan and are rated on their bombing proficiency by the RBS crew at Bay Shore.

Dr. Robert Martin, team physician, ordered an ambulance to take Smith to Charlevoix Hospital. X-rays showed both bones broken just above the ankle.

AFTER SMITH'S injury, Tom Webb of Charlevoix took the ball across from the 19 yard line, but the play was not scored because of a penalty.

In the third period, Charlevoix tied the score 6-6 all when Al Lusk received a pass from Ralph Doan. The extra point was lost.

The final marker came in the last quarter with a suspense filled drive interrupted by one 12-yard penalty against Charlevoix for illegal use of the hands. Levi McClellan steamrolled the ball across from the one yard line and Ralph Doan ran the extra point on a pass from Tom Webb.

Charlevoix will play Gaylord at home this Friday.

Planning: Setting Goals and Achieving Them

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles on community planning.)

Planning can be basically defined as the determination of goals and the means by which they can be attained. The formal document itemizing and defining these goals and actions is commonly termed the comprehensive plan. This plan, then, is in one sense, the initial objective of the planning program for upon it will most future action be based. Because of this, the plan must be developed in a logical, orderly fashion.

Although the content of the plan is of prime importance, so also is the use for which the plan has been formulated and the actual means by which it is applied. Thus, the plan must be developed with the specific uses to which it will be put in mind.

Many persons will be using the plan; however, perhaps its greatest utility will be to the legislative bodies for these groups have the responsibility of determining and applying courses of action in the daily activities of the governmental unit involved.

POLICY DETERMINATION

Since one of the functions of the legislative body is to govern the physical development of the community, this body must utilize a series of policies and a general physical design for the community. No area can be effectively governed without a plan of some type. Without a plan, policies are often misunderstood or applied with little or no regularity. Also, without a formal declaration of policy and a scheme for development, many undue pressures are likely to be placed upon the governing body, particularly as momentary waves of enthusiasm are generated in the community by developers.

A sound comprehensive plan, on the other hand, will bring any implicit policies into focus and will provide a record of development policies formulated for the long-range development of the community. The plan must, therefore, recognize not only the desires of the governing forces but also those of the community itself. And it must correlate these desires and develop those policies which will reflect the desires while assuring a sound development pattern for the community.

POLICY EFFECTUATION

The majority of decisions which must be made in the routine business of the community involve day-to-day, short-range decisions. Nevertheless, the effects of these decisions often are far-reaching in scope. One of the functions of the comprehensive plan is to enable these decisions to be made on the basis of a clearly stated set of long-range policies which allow current issues to be viewed with a clear picture of a desirable scheme for future development. The plan becomes a working guide for making everyday decisions.

COMMUNICATION

The comprehensive plan presents, through its long-range general policies, a pattern for future development not only to the local governing bodies, but also to all other persons concerned with development such as other governmental agencies, private developers, civic groups and the general public.

The plan communicates to these groups and persons the policies which have been adopted, adding in their individual and combined plans. Coordination of private and public plans is assured.

EDUCATION

The educational function of the comprehensive plan is similar to the communication use; however, it is somewhat broader in scope. The plan the year's activities will be discussed. He urges all members to attend.

He added that a record number of students had enrolled in both the senior and reserve bands this year.

The parents of any child enrolled in band is automatically a member of the group.

Through dinners and candy sales, Band Parents raise money for band activities, uniforms and equipment.

Warren Belding has returned to Michigan State University at East Lansing, his mother, Mrs. Wayne Belding took him down and will visit for three weeks in southern Michigan.

MEGGISON says the meeting is an important one, since

Meggison Urges Big Turnout of Band Parents

CHARLEVOIX--Don Meggison will assume his new duties as president of the Band Parents at the group's first meeting of the school year tonight, Sept. 28, in the band room at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Harold Black will take over as vice president, Mrs. E. Darrell Dinwiddie as secretary and Mrs. Mayne Oliver as treasurer.

MEGGISON says the meeting is an important one, since the community. It arouses community interest, provides an insight into current and possible problems, offers factual information regarding the community and offers a wide range of essential information, which may be useful as well as interesting and thereby may stimulate people to think about the community.

This function of the plan is one of its most important uses, for without public support and interest, no plan, regardless of its quality, will be effectively utilized.

Next week: The elements of the comprehensive plan.

WORKMEN USE LEVEL to make sure base for TV relay tower is level. From left are Don Geary and Mose Hughey of Petoskey.

Tower Builders

CHARLEVOIX -- Cable TV for the Charlevoix area is a step closer with erection of the receiving tower on top of Mt. McSaubia.

George Baldwin, operator of the Lake Charlevoix Cable TV Co., said the 60-foot tower will pick up Channels 7 and 9, which most homes presently receive through their roof-top antennas, as well as Channel 12 from Flint, sports Channel 50 from Detroit and an educational channel originating on the Central Michigan University campus.

MICROWAVE relay signals will be picked up directly from the tower at Elmira, 28 miles distant by line-of-sight. The tower is anchored to the top of 110-ft. Mt. McSaubia by a reinforced concrete slab. The concrete was taken to the site by a caterpillar tractor which had rough going on the steep sand grade.

STEEP SAND trail to top of Mt. McSaubia proved a challenge to this crawler owned by Lake Construction. Martin contractors supplied the cement mixer, which waited at the bottom of the hill.

Small Fruit Tree Has Good Points

The smaller fruit tree has several advantages for the commercial grower according to Ed Reiman, Charlevoix County Natural Resource Agent, and home gardener. Dwarfed or compact trees have become an important part of the fruit industry in the past decade.

Dwarf trees begin to bear at an early age and are easily harvested from the ground or with the use of short ladders. They are easily pruned and small hand dusters and sprayers can be used for trees grown in the garden and around the house.

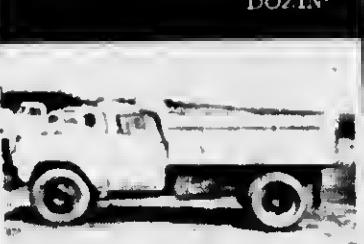

Reiman, said dwarf trees may be purchased from the nurserymen's supply firms.

Commercial growers may want to contract for trees two or three years in advance of planting.

Additional information regarding planting, pruning and thinning of dwarf fruit trees can be obtained in the recent Michigan State University Extension Bulletin 432, "Dwarfed Fruit Trees." This publication can be obtained from the Charlevoix County Extension Office in Boyne City.

Marjorie J. Ford, George Krchak Wed Saturday

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized at the First Methodist church here Saturday evening, Marjorie June Ford of Petoskey became the bride of George F. Krchak III.

Parents of the couple are George Ford Jr. of Petoskey and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Krchak Jr. of this city.

The Rev. Leona Winegard officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 150 guests. Arrangements of white gladioli and lighted tapers in candelabra formed a setting for the ceremony.

THE BRIDE chose a gown of white Chantilly lace for her wedding. Fashioned with a full skirt that ended in a chapel length train. A pearl tiara secured her short veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Leonard Niswander of Petoskey was matron of honor and sisters of the bride, Janice and Patricia Ford of Petoskey, were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns styled along Empire lines with back panels that fell from the shoulder. A rose of the same material held their short veils. They carried bouquets of white carnations.

Mrs. Niswander's gown was of leaf green taffeta and the bridesmaids of gold taffeta. Theresa Whitley was flower girl.

MH. NISWANDER assisted the bridegroom as best man. Groomsman who also seated the guests were Gordon Solomon, cousin of the bridegroom, and George Rasbury of Detroit.

Mrs. Krchak wore a gray and gold knit suit with white accents and white accessories. A reception was held at the Sportsman's Club in Petoskey which was decorated in a blue and white motif. Mrs. William Pettenger of Petoskey, aunt of the bride served the wedding cake. Another aunt, Mrs. Arthur Dennis, also of Petoskey assisted.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will make their home at 402 W. Garfield ave.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Petoskey High School and is employed in the office of McCune - Dickinson Inc., of Petoskey. Krchak, a Charlevoix High School graduate, is associated with his father in Gas Heat Installation Co. of Charlevoix.

Wedding guests were present from Petoskey, Detroit, Ilion, Utica, Rochester, East Jordan, Melvindale, Ellsworth, Alanson and Mt. Clemens.

New Road Sander Sought by Jordan

EAST JORDAN -- At the council meeting Sept. 20, the city asked for bids soon on a new road sander and moved to put a lateral sewer under M-66.

A request for the closing of an alley, and a report concerning the abandonment of streets in the Orchard Heights addition also were heard.

Russell Gee, superintendent of public utilities, was instructed by the council to draw up specifications for a new sander and ask for bids.

A resolution was passed asking the State Highway Department for permission to cut a six-inch sewer lateral across M-66.

EVERETT Combest asked the council to consider opening about two blocks of Sherman St. in Nettleton's addition to the village of South Arm.

James Shepard and Dr. John S. Avey appeared concerning the abandonment of streets within the Orchard Heights addition. This item was adjourned until the Oct. 4 council meeting when the city attorney will be present.

Also concerning streets and alleys, Darwin Morris requested that the alleys between Bowen and South Maple St. be closed. A motion was made to have a hearing at the next council meeting.

Dreams of Charlevoix

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Meyer,
6155 Cypress Road
Plantation, Fla. 32134
Sept. 12, 1966

Gentlemen:

I enclose a check in remittance for a one-year subscription to your newspaper ($9.50). Please send it to my address above.

Although my family and I now reside in La Jolla, Florida, I still have my irreplaceable memories of many summers spent at our cottage on Pine Point, Charlevoix. I have many memories like a first love, and I dream of someday returning to her.

Thank you,
L. H. Meyer

based his decision on the Michigan Supreme Court's interpretation of the word "home" and residence. He said the high court holds there to be places where persons return and intend to remain.

The judge pointed out that even house trailers are taxed as real estate if they are permanently affixed to the ground, and reiterated attorney Bob H. Dunn's argument that home in the law are available on the ground units, and they are insured as real estate.

Plane Crash

ton Smith, a neighbor down the highway, and Nathan Brock rushed to the scene and removed Quarnstrom from the wreckage. Mrs. Stewart was trapped by flames in the rear of the plane and died screaming for help.

The Charlevoix Fire Department rushed men and equipment to the scene where not only the plane but the tankers were on fire.

The plane was owned by G. Air-Ways which ran scheduled flights between Detroit and Charlevoix on weekends. The elder Quarnstrom was owner. QUARNSTROM founded Charlevoix's American Mold Engineering Co. in 1952 which he sold to a West Coast corporation several years later. Since then he has developed a Lake Charlevoix resort known as Water's Edge.

Long an advocate of air transportation, Quarnstrom had taken part earlier in the day in the dedication of Charlevoix Airport's new administration building and lighted runway. He told the crowd that as railroads and bus lines curtail service, cities like Charlevoix must rely more and more heavily on air transportation.

The dedication was held in conjunction with the Charlevoix Flying Club's first annual "Fly-In", which saw more than a hundred planes land and take off from Charlevoix without incident.

I. T. QUARNSTROM, who was injured in the crash at Charlevoix Airport Sunday evening, addresses crowd at dedication of new terminal building earlier in the day.

THIS NEW addition to the Charlevoix skyline was completed in only 272 hours. Located just west of the slip, the shipping silos rise 190 feet high. About 250 men worked on the job around-the-clock, pouring 12,500 cubic yards of cement. This photo, taken Sept. 30, shows the silos still damp around top. Job ended that morning.

Leo Allards Wed 50 Years Ago

Yule Boxes for Viet GI's

CHARLEVOIX -- A campaign to send Christmas packages to Charlevoix boys in Vietnam has been launched by three women organizations here.

At a joint meeting Sept. 28, of representatives of the Military Wives Club and the auxiliaries of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars it was decided to make up Christmas boxes for every Charlevoix boy now serving in the war zone.

THE REPRESENTATIVES will discuss the project with their individual organizations before another general meeting Oct. 12 to formally launch the Christmas package drive. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Retarded Childrens School on Garfield Avenue.

At the preliminary meeting representatives discussed the possibility of sending boxes to Vietnam GI's on their birthdays as well.

A LIST of all Charlevoix boys now serving in Vietnam is being compiled at the Courier office. Anyone with a relative from Charlevoix serving in Vietnam is asked to drop off his name, address and birth date as soon as possible.

served in the U. S. Army during World War I. He was employed by the Charlevoix Street Department for 37 years, 30 of which he served as Street Commissioner.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Allard

He retired in 1965. He is a member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post of the American Legion and a charter member of the Elks lodge in Petoskey. He was born in Chicago June 7, 1894, and came here with his parents in 1898.

Mrs. Allard, the former Lela Howe, was born in Hayes township Mar. 6, 1896. She is past president of the American Legion Auxiliary and a member and former officer of St. Mary's Rosary Altar Society.

Both are members of St. Mary's church. They have no children. However, his nephew, William Steffens of Petoskey, lived with them from the time he was nine years old until he grew to manhood.

THIS CROWD of Charlevoix's "Senior Citizens" turned out Oct. 1 for the first color tour sponsored by the Senior Citizens Club. Bus was loaned by Del Terrill, driven by Martin Elzinga. Route followed back roads to Mackinaw City where the group had lunch.

Voters Turn Down Merger Ironton Elementary to Join Charlevoix

Voters in East Jordan, Ellsworth and Central Lake soundly defeated a proposal for consolidation into a single school district in a special area-wide election Oct. 3.

At the same time, voters in Charlevoix and Ironton voted to incorporate the one-room school in Ironton into the Charlevoix system by a vote of 184 to 120. The merger will take place next July 1 and the Eveline Board of Education will be dissolved.

Subdivision Plan Bared

CHARLEVOIX -- Plans for a 24-unit housing development were shown to the City Council Monday night by developer Jim Richey.

The subdivision will be located at the site of the Albert Edwards nursery east of May Street.

To be known as Meadow Park, the development will have 1,800 feet of paved streets, with all utilities underground.

RICHEY made a similar presentation before the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission Sept. 28. The commission heartily endorsed the plan.

RICHEY, who works for Freedman Art-Craft Engineering Corp., says he will need help from the City Council in (1) getting the plan approved; (2) changing the zoning from agricultural to residential; (3) bringing in utilities and (4) extending sewer lines to the area by next spring.

Aldermen agreed that sewers would be the major roadblock to the project.

THE DEVELOPMENT will be entered from May Street, Richey said. Cities Service has been asked for a road easement, providing access via Leonard Street as well.

The Council seemed to think the subdivision would be welcome addition to Charlevoix. Superintendent Jim Taylor was asked to investigate what progress was being made on a South Side sewer engineering survey.

IN A FOUR-HOUR session, the Council agreed to take no further action against Jack VanLoo who is erecting pre-fabricated homes on the west side of May Street. The City stopped the project in August on grounds that VanLoo was in Lake proposal was defeated more than two-to-one, with the final tally standing at 475 for consolidation and 1,059 against it. Five ballots were improperly marked and were not counted.

Of the three districts, East Jordan came closest to approving the reorganization. There the vote was 340 for reorganization and 392 against it. In Ellsworth the vote was 61 for and 267 against and in Central Lake the vote was 74 for and 400 against.

CHARLES Robinson, superintendent of the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District, said the election fulfilled the purpose of Public Act 289 of 1963, and that no further action toward reorganization will be taken on the state level.

"Any further action must come from within the districts involved," he said. He added that apparently many people were swayed in their decisions by half-truths and falsehoods by opponents of reorganization.

OTHERS VOTED "no" because they failed to study the material available on the benefits of reorganization, he said.

Other reorganization proposals throughout the two-county area also went down to defeat.

The election leaves four one - room schools in Emmet County, Robinson said.

Quarnstrom Rites Today

DETROIT--Funeral for Ivar T. Quarnstrom, 66, who died Sept. 30 at University Hospital in Ann Arbor of injuries suffered in an air crash in Charlevoix Sept. 25, will be held this afternoon from the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

The remains will be cremated and disposed of in the Charlevoix area.

A NATIVE of Sweden, Mr. Quarnstrom is survived by a son, Carl Robert, who also was severely burned in the crash of the twin-engine Beechcraft on take-off from Charlevoix Airport's daughter, Mrs. Earl S. (Anna K.) Gonyaw, four grandchildren and a brother, Arthur, in Sweden.

ANTI-REORGANIZATION meeting was conducted last Thursday night in Ellsworth by (from left) Maurice Taylor, Jack VanLoo and Harman Crapsey. Taylor lives in Ellsworth, Van Loo in Charlevoix and Crapsey in DeWitt near Lansing.

Girls Save 3 Asleep in Burning Home

IRONTON--Thanks to quick action by their older sister and a teen-age cousin three Ironton children escaped injury last Friday night when their home was destroyed by fire.

Charlevoix and East Jordan fire departments were called to the Ray Williams home about midnight after Debbie Williams, 12, and her cousin, Lynn Hall, 16, returned from Charlevoix to find the house filled with smoke.

DEBBIE and Lynn rushed in to wake up three other sleeping youngsters, Becky, 14, Randy, 8, and Russell, 18 months. Lynn carried Russell outside to safety.

The girls then ran to a neighbor's house to call the fire departments and notify the Williams who were in Charlevoix. The East Jordan Fire Department returned to the scene about 4:30 a.m. when they were called to put out a second fire at the site.

WILLIAMS said, "When I got there, the heat was so intense I couldn't get near the house. It hadn't started to burn yet, but the smoke was just pouring out."

ONE OBSERVER said that even after the fire was out the walls were too hot to touch.

The freezer door and two trophies melted from the heat. All of the furniture and personal effects were lost in the fire.

MRS. WILLIAMS said, "The people here have been wonderful as far as offering their homes to us and donating clothes. We literally lost everything in the fire."

WILLIAMS said that a real disaster.

Change Locale of Pellston Tilt

PELLSTON--The football game between Charlevoix and Pellston, originally scheduled to be played at Harbor Springs Oct. 7, has been moved to Pellston, according to Raymond Carr, Charlevoix principal.

Carr said that apparently the installation of lights at Pellston was completed sooner than expected. Game time is 8 p.m.

was averted by the return of Debbie and her cousin.

He said, "The others could have been asphyxiated. The smoke was so thick when we got there, it was almost impossible to breathe."

The fire is believed to have started in a faulty water heater or oil burner.

EMPTY bird cage stands as mute evidence to the heat generated by the fire at the Sonny Williams home in Ironton Friday night.

Weather

CHARLEVOIX -- Rainfall for the week ending Monday was 1.46 inches, bringing September precipitation to 2.02 inches. High for the week was 64 degrees on Monday. Low last Wednesday was 34, according to weatherman Harry Ladd.

CONFIRMATION for 127 youngsters took place at St. Marys Church. Priests from 16 parishes in the Grand Rapids Diocese attended. Bishop Allen J. Babcock of Grand Rapids officiated. Here, dignitaries and acolytes march to church.

Obituaries

Mjr. Richard L. Suratt

Service for Maj. Richard L. Suratt, 77, retired veteran of 40 years service in the U.S. Army was held at the Winchester Funeral Home Oct. 1, the Rev. Leona Winegarden officiating.

A military commitment service was held at Brookside Cemetery.

Major Suratt died Thursday in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey where he had been a patient for 3 1/2 weeks.

HE WAS BORN in Cumberland County, Ky., Nov. 2, 1888, serving as a courier during World War I. He was stationed at Army posts around the world before his retirement in 1946 at the close of World War II.

Major Suratt moved to Charlevoix following his retirement, and became a life member of Charlevoix lodge No. 282, F. & A. M. and of Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153.

He served as county service officer for many years, assisting in veterans' affairs.

He is survived by his widow, the former Estelle Reinhardt whom he married in Chicago Dec. 24, 1927; a son, Richard, of Satellite Beach, Fla., and two brothers of Madison, Ind., and Arthur of Forest Cottage, Ky.

Elva McLean

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McCarthy of St. Petersburg, Fla., of the death of her daughter, Mrs. Allen (Elva) McLean, 65, on Sunday following a heart attack.

Funeral was Tuesday in St. Petersburg.

Mrs. McLean had been employed as a nurse's aide at a St. Petersburg hospital for the past 12 years.

Mrs. McLean lived in Charlevoix from 1935 to 1950.

Besides her parents, she is survived by two sons, Ralph and Michael DeBussey of St. Petersburg.

The McCarthys address is 701 First Ave. N., St. Petersburg.

Sadie Bartlett

Services for Mrs. Clarence Bartlett, 77, who died Friday at the Charlevoix Hospital where she was a patient for three days, were held Sunday, Oct. 2 at the Winchester Funeral Home, Rev. Leona Winegarden officiated. Interment was in the Brookside Cemetery.

Born in Sheboygan, Wis., the former Sadie Halverson moved to Charlevoix as a young girl. She married Clarence Bartlett in 1910 and was a member of the First Methodist Church and the Charlevoix Chapter 72 OES.

Surprisingly New! Superbly Cadillac!

ELDORADO...world's finest personal car

SEDAN de VILLE...another dramatic Cadillac surprise

INTRODUCING THE 1967 STANDARD OF THE WORLD

You are looking at two of the newest luxury cars ever created. They are typical of Cadillac for 1967. The Fleetwood Eldorado—the world's finest personal car—is the first exciting case in point. Eldorado is a styling masterpiece...with its spectacularly long hood, its daring new roof lines and its dramatic rear quarter design. It is also an engineering triumph. For Eldorado is the first car in the world to combine the sure-footed traction of front wheel drive with the maneuverability of variable ratio power steering and the balance of automatic level control.

And with all its spirit and action, Eldorado provides unusual five-passenger spaciousness and the quietness and comfort that only Cadillac could create. This brilliant newness also marks the Cadillacs you are most familiar with. For they are the most beautiful Cadillacs of all time...with a new forward-sweeping grille and a new side contour that flows from front to rear. And with this new Cadillac look come a number of other achievements...the most luxurious interiors in history...a new generously padded instrument panel...a more responsive Cadillac engine...improved variable ratio power steering...and a new General Motors-developed energy absorbing steering column. Discover Cadillac for 1967 for yourself...at your authorized dealer's. Once you have personally seen and driven these exceptional new automobiles, you'll agree that never before has anything on the highway said new so beautifully...or Cadillac so well!

Cabbages ... and Things

By Carole Walasky

After stuffing myself with shrimp for the past couple of weeks at the Argonne, I decided something had to be done.

Things just couldn't keep going the way they were, my checking account was getting slimmer and I wasn't. When they say all you can eat there, I do just that.

Therefore I faced the inevitable - do it yourself-Argonne. So armed with garlic cloves and shrimp I headed home and plunged in.

WHAT I CAME up with I'm passing on. I call it Six Year-Old Shrimp. Mainly because any six year-old could make it. I haven't noticed any Charlevoix County gourmets pounding on my door yet demanding some of my shrimp, but my cat seems to like it and that's saying something. He's a very picky eater.

SIX YEAR-OLD SHRIMP
1 lb. shelled, deveined shrimp
1 clove or two of garlic
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tbsp. dried parsley flakes
1/8 tsp. pepper
Dribble of Worcestershire
3 tbsp. lemon juice
1/4 cup olive oil

MIX EVERYTHING together - except the shrimp. Pour it over the shrimp. Pour it over the shrimp and let it marinate for two hours. Put the shrimp into a shallow pan for broiling and spoon on the sauce. Broil for a few minutes (until the shrimp are light brown). And there you are. Enough shrimp for three or four (if you don't eat much). If you do, just double the recipe.

Now, light some candles on the table and serve.

Oh yes, if you can arrange to have a three piece band, it helps the atmosphere tremendously.

Some 400,000 new settlers cross California's borders each year. At present, some 19 million people - roughly one of every 10 United States residents - make their home in the Golden State.

Common Ground

This picture would seem to give credence to the oft repeated statement, "the boy goes out with a cane pole, a single line and hook and blanks the adult fisherman, the latter with his complete outlay of expensive rods and tackle." However, and this is addressed to "Dad", don't let that legend and the fear of your son's "showing you up," keep you from taking him fishing often. You'll be more likely to hold him as a companion if you do so. It will also enable you to steer his energies and interests into the right kind of activities and away from mischief.

Still another great aid in channeling his interests in wholesome and healthful activities is to take him to Church and Sunday School with you, in order to ground him in his faith, as well as to renew and keep alive your own; faith that will enable both of you to face each day with courage and with joy; faith that will bolster each in time of trouble, danger or sorrow.

Putting first things first, Dad, take him to church regularly and take him fishing often.

Thank You .....

WE, the members of the Charlevoix Flying Club would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people who helped make our first Charlevoix Fly-In an outstanding success.

A few of the people we particularly want to thank are:

- * City Council
- * Jim Taylor
- * Bob Lieberman
- * Mr. & Mrs. Joe McPhillips

... and all of the progressive merchants of Charlevoix who were so generous with their gift donations.

We deeply appreciated the support of the people of the Charlevoix area for attending our breakfast and patronizing the airplane rides.

NOW CARS

The NOW Cars. More than just "new" cars. The NOW Cars are designed from scratch for today's driving by today's drivers. They are cars on top of today, from a company on top of today: The 1967 American Motors.

Engines for Now. Three sixes that go like eights — and four V-8s that weren't here a year ago. The most modern engines in the industry, from an acceleration champ Six to the 413 cu. in. 4-bbl. Typhoon V-8.

Innovations for Now. Convertible that gets 24 mpg. Work lights visible from the side. Safety belts that help your approach.

Safety for Now. Only 1967 American Motors has a built-in, rated energy absorbing front end — and a deep-dish wheel, working with a shock absorber, to monitor both brake line systems, shoulder belt anchors, and the Double Safety braking system we made standard five years before the rest of the industry. All built into solid, single unit bodies.

Quality for Now. Our past is one of quality built in — like the Deep-Dip rustproofing and Ceramic Armored exhaust system pioneered by American Motors. And when quality is built in, the value stays in.

See your American Motors/Rambler Dealer today. He's the only Now Car dealer in town.

REBEL Now — the first Excitement Machines in the intermediate class! Cars for Now that never existed before! A 114" wheelbase. Excitement that's 197" long, 70" wide, 54" high. More people-space inside than any other car's size. A choice of five engines, topped by a 343 cu. in. Typhoon V-8. A wide road stance and 4-link rear suspension to glue down corners, untwist curves. An SST convertible (above) that seats 3 in back comfortably. Rebel: SST hardtop and SST convertible, 770 hardtop, sedan, wagon, 550 sedan, wagon.

AMBASSADOR Now — full size luxury cars created for today, priced for the young men who want his luxury car right now. 118" wheelbase. Interiors now as spacious as the most expensive full-size cars. ADPL convertible with room for 3 in the rear. Choice of 5 smooth, silent engines to command. Your choice of Ambassador ADPL hardtop (above) and ADPL convertible, 990 hardtop, sedan, wagon, 880 sedan and wagon.

RAMBLER AMERICAN Now — Typhoon V-8 thunder comes to the low three big 6's. America's only correlated line of compacts. Rogue hardtop (above), convertible, 440 sedan, hardtop, wagon, 220 sedan, wagon.

Let a gas dryer do your back-to-school ironing

What a time-saver! Permanent press fabrics come out looking as if you'd taken them to the cleaners. Pleats and creases sharp and all in place. Right from the dryer, ready to wear. And savings? You can dry 5 loads in a gas dryer for the cost of drying 1 with electricity. Maintenance costs are negligible. Now is a good time to buy. Why? INSTALLATION IS FREE! Prices are reduced. No down payments. With children returning to school and all the permanent press clothes... isn't it time you bought a GAS dryer?

MICHIGAN CONSOLIDATED GAS COMPANY

We ought to know. We see more tires than anybody. And a lot of them are so called "bargain" tires. We know them well. We find cracks in the sidewalls, separated tread, ruptured casings, and blowouts. And it's because of this experience, and concern for our customers, that we sell the Amoco 120 Super Tire and Atlas Plycron ("The Round Tire"). We're proud of these tires because we know how they've been made--and the tests they've been through. And because we'd like to see quality tires on your car, we're participating in a "Trade Up To Quality" Campaign. We'll make it well worth your while to drive in for a free tire check. And if you need new tires you can get them with no money down and up to a year to pay. Plus a top trade in. After all, You expect more from Standard, and you get it!

The American Oil Company, 1966. World's largest distributor of Atlas tires. Trademark of Atlas Plycron. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Atlas Plycron.

Band Club Chief Selects Chairmen

CHARLEVOIX -- President Don Meggison appointed committee chairman at the first meeting of the Band Parents Association for the new school year.

Officers in 1965 and 1966 will make up the executive and finance committees. They are Meggison, Mrs. Harold Black, Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddle, Mrs. Wayne Oliver, George Hutchinson, Mrs. Ben Gill, Mrs. Gerald Lakes, and Mrs. Edith Stenman.

Mrs. George Lusk will chair the constitution and bylaws committee; Mrs. Clarence Smith the uniforms committee; and Mrs. Charles Winnell the meetings and projects committee.

THE TREASURER'S book was not brought to the meeting. Since the records have not been audited, an accurate treasurer's report could not be given.

Notes of appreciation from Carol Annis and Debbie Potter were read. The two girls received Band Parents' scholarships to Interlochen last summer.

MEMBERS discussed new uniforms and examined illustrations of Ostwald Uniform

Co. The uniforms cost about $85 each, complete. It would cost an estimated $8,500 to outfit the entire band.

Members decided they should be better organized before launching an extensive fund-raising campaign for new uniforms.

The parents of any child enrolled in either the senior or reserve band are automatically members of the association. Meetings are held the third Wednesday of every month in the band room at the high school.

At its present explosive rate, earth's population will double by the year 2000, by A.D. 2600 each earthing would have less than a yard of land, by 3600 the weight of the earth's population would equal that of the earth itself.

A Man's Home Is His Pre-fab

Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown has made his decision. The structures Jack VanLoo plans to assemble on May Street are permanent homes, regardless of the fact that they arrive in Charlevoix on wheels and look an awful lot like house trailers.

There is no doubt Judge Brown spent long hours on his many-page ruling.

VanLoo Pre-fab on May Street

After sifting all the facts, he could find nothing to convince himself that what VanLoo plans to build are anything but permanent homes.

HE CITED the Michigan State Supreme Court definition of a home.

He weighed the fact that such structures are taxed like real estate and they are insured like real estate.

He said they are permanent homes and ordered City Superintendent James Taylor to reissue or reinstate VanLoo's building permit.

*** THEN, ALMOST as if trying to placate the City Council which stood behind Taylor in his revocation of VanLoo's building permit, Judge Brown added that some people may not find the dwellings very satisfying in an aesthetic sense. But, he said, people in the lower income brackets have as much right as anybody to decide the kind of houses they want to live in.

*** UNTIL Charlevoix comes up with a building code, the door is wide open for the construction of pre-fab homes like VanLoo's on any street in the city, providing they meet minimum square footage requirements.

Although the VanLoo subdivision is being assembled in a commercially zoned neighborhood, his pre-fabs are only 10 square feet short of Residential-1 requirements.

Until a building code is passed spelling out what Charlevoixans expect in a permanent home, VanLoo could erect one of the larger models made by his supplier in Marlette on any residential street in Charlevoix—regardless of aesthetics.

The importance of a building code has never been more apparent. We are confident the City Council will have one ready for approval post haste.

Rec Program Is Second to None

Another successful season for Charlevoix's Summer Recreation Program is history.

Thanks to the efforts of Recreation Director Deano Davenport, the program offered more variety than ever before and more people—particularly adults—found the program had something to offer.

Especially successful was the swimming program which for the first time offered lessons for adults. The weatherman scryed up one of the warmest summers in Charlevoix history, making the sport particularly attractive.

*** CHARLEVOIX Senior Citizens also got a good boost under Deano's direction. Regular meetings and programs were planned throughout the summer. The turnout at the Senior Citizens color tour last Saturday is a good indication that the group intends to stick together throughout the winter. Another worthwhile organization for Charlevoixans appears to be off to a good start.

Another interesting innovation this summer was the Adventure Club for boys. Youngsters met every Saturday morning for hikes, exploring and other boy-type activities.

*** OF COURSE, other well-established phases of the Recreation Program went off like clockwork—including golf, tennis and baseball.

Deano figures he not only attended but did the play-by-play on something like 192 baseball games this season. That's a lot of ball, and quite a workout on the vocal chords.

An indication of the high quality of Charlevoix's Recreation Program is the continuing interest by recreation experts at Central Michigan University. Negotiations are under way for the university to send students to Charlevoix next summer to work with Deano and receive university credit for on-the-job training under his direction.

If imitation is the most sincere form of flattery, Deano—and the City Fathers who support his program—should take a well-deserved bow.

Clockwise

By Bob Clock

The first cool weekend in September we made our long-awaited trip to Detroit to see how the folks "down below" survived the long, hot summer. Oddly enough, the high point of our visit turned out to be a two-hour stop in Detroit's Canadian neighborhood, Windsor, Ont.

Our reason for going to Windsor was largely gastronomical. After sampling every conceivable brand of Wisconsin, New York and Michigan cheddar cheese, we have found none to match the sharp flavor and crumbly texture of Canadian cheddar. Whenever we get near the border we can't resist a trip over to bring back a supply.

So superb is the flavor of this cheese that many of the better restaurants offer a small wedge, with crackers, as dessert. One hotel in Chatham, Ont., brings out a 15-lb. wheel on a tea cart and lets you help yourself.

*** ANOTHER specialty offered in Canadian stores that is unobtainable in "The States" is tea. Of course we can buy "tea" here, but somehow it lacks the taste and sparkle of the Canadian product, although some of the brand names are identical.

I don't even like to hazard a guess as to why this is so, but I imagine that the British, and their cousins in the colonies, are more discriminating about the taste of their tea. Americans haven't cared much about tea one way or the other since that big shindig in Boston Harbor in 1773.

*** IT ONLY takes a few minutes to cross from Detroit to Windsor through the tunnel. You enter the two-lane lane near the foot of Randolph Street and circle down a winding roadway which suddenly straightens out and makes a bee-line for the Canadian side.

Midway you see two small flags—Old Glory and the Union Jack—painted side by side on each side of the gleaming white tunnel. They mark the border between the United States and Canada.

The customs and immigration men in Windsor were brisk and courteous. And once out on Ouellette Street we were caught in a very un-Canadian like traffic jam.

When I visited Canada as a boy, even border cities like Windsor and Sarnia smacked of times gone by. While Detroiters rattled around in Model T's and Model A's, most Canadians were still going about their business quietly and sedately on bicycles.

*** ALL THAT has changed today. Auto traffic in Windsor is almost as bad as it is in Detroit and we were lucky to find a parking spot next to Loblaw's supermarket which has special displays of cheese and tea for Americans, I expect. We could have spent a day picking and choosing from the many varieties. After paying the checkout girl, we decided it might be fun to have lunch in a foreign country, so we crossed Ouellette Street to Mario's restaurant.

*** ALTHOUGH it was only noon, Judy and I felt out of place immediately in our sports clothes. The restaurant was crowded with businessmen out for lunch in their conservative gray suits and dark ties. But the hostess soon made us so welcome we thought maybe they'd been expecting us all morning.

She found a booster seat for Kathleen somewhere among the potted palms and before we knew what was happening had armed her with a new box of crayons and a coloring book. Then came the barmaid and I ordered a bottle of India Pale Ale. Somehow no meal in Canada would taste right without a bottle of double-strength Canadian beer or ale at my elbow.

Next the luncheon waitress paid us a call, a petite brunette with a soft British-Canadian accent.

"Where would you be from?" "It's a grand day for a holiday, is it 'naught'?" "Would you 'naught' have a bowl of soup before lunch?"

*** JUDY ORDERED roast beef and I had flannan-haddie, a smoked fish that is a specialty in Essex County. I don't know what Kathleen had. The waitress kept busy bringing her samples of whatever looked good in the kitchen. One dish smelled like lobster thermidor, but I can't be sure. In addition there was a basket of crusty rolls fresh from the oven, complete with a bread board and serrated knife.

It was one of the most pleasant, unhurried meals we have enjoyed in ages, although every seat in the restaurant was taken and a testimonial banquet of some kind was under way in the back room. The lunch itself was so satisfying we had to pass up a big silver tray of French pastry offered for dessert.

The secret, of course, was not just the quality of the food, which was superb. The service was unexcelled, and this is what can make or break a restaurant. The bill, to our surprise, was about half what a comparable meal would cost "stateside."

*** ONCE ASLEEPY little Anglo-Saxon community which rolled up its sidewalks Saturday nights, the complexion of Windsor has changed since the war with an influx of Europeans of every nationality. Downtown one hears almost as many foreign languages spoken as English. There also is a sprinkling of French-Canadian. Many of Windsor's suburbs are peopled by settlers from the East and French is still their common language—just as it was in the Charlevoix area a century ago.

Although overshadowed by its gigantic neighbor across the river, Windsor has a delightful flavor all its own. It's a pleasant place to spend a few hours on a sunny autumn afternoon.

Odds & Ends

By Fran Martin

WHY IS IT, when there's something special going on in the sky, I have to miss it? When the big meteor went over the other night, several people called me and later a couple friends described how it looked. Mrs. A. M. Allard saw it here and Mrs. Wallace Bennett from the drive-in theatre near Petoskey... Both must have seen it at the same time because their descriptions were the same.... Many people thought it was a plane that exploded... others thought it was a flare from a ship in distress.... But me? I didn't even get to see it....

*** MENTIONING the sighting of things in the sky, the most beautiful display of Northern Lights that I have ever witnessed was sighted in September a few years ago.... And not one person has mentioned seeing any this year.... But then, this September has been an unusual month.... Early last Friday morning when autumn actually started.... that was on Sept. 23.... As this is being written on Wednesday, the 21st, I'm wondering what the weather for the next quarter of the year will be....

*** HAVE YOU HAVE seen such red sunsets as we've been having all week? Occasionally one sees a bright red one but there's been any number.... I think they're rather eerie.... To me there's something scary about that almost blood-red ball dropping in Lake Michigan—I can't help but be a bit apprehensive about it....

*** DON'T know when I've seen such a beautiful night for football as that for the opening home game of the season.... It may rain and or snow for the next three games here but at least we've all had one memorable one.... But wouldn't it be great if they'd all be like that?.... But that would be too much to ask....

*** I'D LIKE to mention something that's a pet peeve of mine.... That is, people whose cats have kittens and, when they aren't farmed out to friends, neighbors or anyone else who'll take them, transport the wee ones to a likely spot and dump them out in the hopes that some kindly soul will give them a home.... Certainly there is a more humane way of handling this situation.... without making the poor little kittens the innocent victims.... And every now and then you hear of someone doing this same thing to a puppy.... It's heartless, there's no two ways about it.... I hope that you'll call the Sheriff's Department if this happens in the country or the police department if it's in the city.... And if you can, get the license number of the culprit's car.

*** DON'T KNOW if it's legal or not, but I have the loveliest bunch of billersweet given me by a friend.... It's the first time I've had any in years and I certainly appreciate receiving it.... Time was when one could buy a bunch of it for a quarter or so but that time is long gone.... So now that I have some I want my friend to know how much I appreciate it....

*** WHY DON'T people show up for a hearing that directly affects them?.... Last week there was a hearing on a proposed Sanitary Code for the four-county area that makes up District Health Unit No. 3.

The meeting was widely publicized.... And the Sanitary Code is something that deals with things we are all interested in.... water pollution, ways of preventing it, the need for it.... And yet not one person directly representing any of the major communities in this county took time to come.

The majority of those present were property owners whose land is located along the lakes in the county and some contractors who will be expected to abide by the rules set down by the code.... Several area supervisors were also present.

In all 22 people, including Dr. A.F. Litzenberger, who heads the District Health Department and two newspaper representatives, were there.... When you consider that the population of the county is better than 14,000 that wasn't many people.... And yet those who didn't bother to turn out will scream the loudest when the Code is adopted and its ruling applies to them.... People.... I'll never dope them out....

*** HOW ABOUT that band at the football game the other night.... The show they presented had been put together in about three hours, believe it or not.... which relates to you, in a small way, the great training these kids are getting along the way....

RECOGNIZE Bridge Street? Chances are you don't, since this picture was taken about 1900. Photographer stood in the middle of the unpaved street facing south. Hugh pillars flanking street were part of Masonic celebration. The latter were removed to the Masonic Temple. Gill's Appliance and Sugar Bowl are recognizable on left.

HERE IS Bridge Street today, taken from about the same spot. Note disappearance of huge maple trees where theater now stands. Photographer attempted to stand in same spot, was almost run down by two pickup trucks and a Honda.

5th in a Series

The Three Main Steps in Community Planning

Editor's Note: The following is the fifth in a series on community planning.

The following items are, in general terms, the basic elements which go into the development of the comprehensive community plan. Although they are listed separately, they often times can be simultaneously carried out.

*** BASIC STUDIES Before plans can be prepared, it is necessary to obtain a working knowledge of the community and its needs, characteristics and potentials. It is, therefore, necessary that the first phase of the planning program be utilized to gather pertinent background and statistical data regarding the resources of the community. These resources usually can be grouped into three categories—physical, human, and economic.

*** THE PHYSICAL resources study deals with such items as soils, topography, climate, geology and their relationship and bearing upon the region. Also included in this study is existing land use, condition of structures and basic material regarding the man-made facilities. Human resources have to do with the population characteristics while economic resources are concerned with the manner in which the community makes its living.

*** THESE THREE basic studies provide information concerning the community's past and present situation and prospects for future change and will serve as a guide throughout the planning program.

*** ANALYSIS Although perhaps not a specific phase as such, the basic information must be analyzed to determine just how it has or will affect the region. Problems and potentials must be defined.

In conjunction with the analysis, objectives for the planning program must be formulated. This is a critical step in the program for it leads to the determination of means and methods for correcting problems and sets the direction towards which the plan itself will aim. The planning commission, the governing bodies and the general public should all have a voice in establishing these goals for they will directly affect the future development pattern of the community.

*** FUTURE LAND USE PLAN Utilizing all previous studies, the future use plan determines a desirable future development pattern. By developing standards and policies for the delineation of the various components which comprise the community, it attempts to set up guidelines aimed at attaining the stated objectives.

*** LAND USE area are designated for the use of which they seem best suited including residential, commercial, industrial and public and quasi-public lands.

Part of the plan must also consider the circulation patterns of the region in order to develop a street plan which will provide safe and convenient traffic circulation between the community's focal points and to know in advance of right-of-way acquisition which streets are most likely to become major streets.

Next week: Means by which the comprehensive community plan can be carried out.

Letters to the Editor

Says Shops Unfair In Hiring Women

(The following letter has been greatly condensed for publication.)

Mr. Clock:

I think it is unfair that many plants in this area require a woman to be available for work on all three shifts before they will hire them for any shift.

Five out of six shops won't hire unless you can be available for any shift. I know women who can't work on days for family reasons and some who should be working nights for family reasons.

My point is this: A man's gotta do what a man's gotta do. But women who are available for only certain hours out of 24 are being discriminated against and exploited by factory employers who seem to feel that women seeking employment should place jobs above children, marriage vows and anything else that interferes with management of their own private little plants.

I have a 16-year-old son and feel I should be home when he returns from school to help him with his homework. I also have a husband who works days. Both need a good supper at night.

I wonder how many people know that the new laws governing unemployment say that a person must be available for any shift opening and not refuse any employment offered, or lose their unemployment benefits?

Mrs. Bonnie Hosler
East Jordan

Editor's note: According to the Michigan Employment Security Office in Petoskey, it has always been a requirement that anyone receiving state unemployment compensation benefits be available for work on any shift.

ATOM EXPERT William W. Miller III will present an assembly at Charlevoix High School Oct. 11 entitled "This Atomic World." Parents are invited to attend the program, which will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Dedication

MACKINAC ISLAND -- Mrs. Darrell Dineen and Dr. Harold Kohn of Charlevoix attended dedication services of the new Mackinac College here Oct. 1 as representatives of their universities. Mrs. Dineen represented Mills College in Oakland, Calif., and Rev. Kohn represented North Central Illinois University at Naperville.

Dr. William Bateman said he regrets that he was unable to represent his alma mater, the University of Chattanooga.

Dr. S. Douglas Smith, a research physicist, is president of the 24th four-year school reunion. He said the school presents a 100th birthday but anticipates an eventual enrollment of 1,000.

Many supporters of reorganization also attended, and the meeting became a turmoil as soon as the question session started.

Moderator VanLoon forbid Robinson from making a statement and effectively blocked any contribution to the discussion by Roger Rowline, Superintendent of the School Management Section of the Department of Public Instruction. Rowline was Robinson's guest.

"You had your say last week," VanLoon said, referring to public meetings Robinson's office had called in the three communities to explain the reorganization plan.

Lions Offer Thrill Show

CHARLEVOIX—Six thrilling acts that were hits on various television shows will be featured in the Lions Club sponsored TV Thrill-Orama Show here Monday, Oct. 24 at the elementary school auditorium.

The Floating Princess, The Buzz Saw Illusion, The Decapitation, The Houdini Trunk Escape, and The Haunted Totem Lodge will be presented by Ken Griffin in a two hour variety, mystery revue.

"These illusions aren't accomplished through camera tricks," said Griffin.

He said he will show them before the public eyes at the program.

violation of C-2 zoning, but was overruled last week in a decision by Charlevoix Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown.

However, the Council is stepping up its efforts to enact a building code stiff enough to prohibit such construction in Charlevoix. Taylor is ordering copies of two standard building codes for perusal by aidmen.

COUNCIL ALSO:

--Told Barry Wood and Ralph Hess that the Flying Club still has a lease on airport property to build a hangar.

--Sent to committee a request by Bob Timm and Jim Sawtelle to purchase the 1,400 horsepower Fairbanks Morse engine at the power plant to operate their new 120-foot workboat for undersea operations. They offered to pay up to $5,000.

--Heard a report by Roy Bennett that the Senior Citizens movement in Charlevoix is well established.

--Heard Jack Begrow say he is available to assist with architectural plans for the proposed East Park sanitary facilities building.

Quarnstrom

The family asks that contributions be made to the Burn Unit of the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Mr. Quarnstrom was founder of the American Mold Co. in Charlevoix, selling out his interest in the late 1950's.

SINCE THEN he purchased and was renovating the exclusive Whittier Hotel located on the Detroit River across from Belle Isle, interiors of Charlevoix headed by Jerry Whitley is handling the re-decorating.

The crash was fatal to Mrs. Barbara Stewart who was trapped by flames in the rear of the plane after it crashed just west of U.S. 31 near De Young's Sunoco Station.

The pilot, Edwin Niebach, 36, of Detroit has been moved from Ann Arbor to an Air Force Hospital in San Antonio, Texas, which specializes in severe burn cases. Niebach was burned over 60 percent of his body.

TUESDAY afternoon, the University Hospital public information office said that the younger Quarnstrom remains in critical condition and no visitors except immediate members of the family are being admitted.

He suffered burns over 75 percent of his body, but received no other injuries. A spokesman for the hospital said she believes he is doing "fairly well," although he is still on the critical list.

All the injured were treated at Little Traverse Hospital before being transferred to Ann Arbor.

Plans Bared to Raise Sunken Schooner Keuka

PUTTING the former Coast Guard cutter Aspen in ship-shape condition will occupy much of Jim Sawtelle's time for the next few months. Eventually he hopes to turn it into the "mothership" for his undersea salvage operations.

P.R. Rosses Mark 60th Anniversary

CHARLEVOIX -- Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Ross of Nichols Street will mark their 60th wedding anniversary Nov. 17.

But since they'll be long gone to Florida when that date arrives, they plan to do a little celebrating beforehand. There's a family dinner planned this Saturday night and a brunch Sunday morning for relatives and close friends.

THE FORMER Phoebe Smith and P. R. Ross were married Nov. 17, 1906, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, in Marion Township. The knot was tied by the Rev. Berry of the Baptist Church in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Ross, who was 77 on March 18, was born in Charlevoix in 1889 at the site of the present Elementary School gymnasium. The family later farmed in Marion Township. Mrs. Ross has two sisters still living, Mrs. Bertha Knowles of Central Lake and Mrs. Marian Clark of Detroit.

P. R. ROSS was born in Thorne Center, Quebec, Canada, not far from Ottawa on March 27, 1887, making him 79 years old. He moved to Charlevoix when he was about two years old with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Ross. His father was superintendent of the Charlevoix Lumber Co., where P. R. worked as a young man.

He also worked for Frank Glassford, a contractor, and as a clerk in a hardware store.

"I started at $10 a week. Then I asked for $12 and they gave it to me. But when I asked for $15, they refused. That's when I quit and struck out on my own," Ross recalls.

He bought a truck and went into the trucking business, an occupation that was to fill 36 years of his life.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Ross

For the past 33 years, Mrs. Ross has operated an independent dining room at the Belvedere Club. She retired this year.

THE ROSSSES have four children, Franklin, 54, of Brandon, Wis.; Lyle, 48, of Cadillac; Mrs. Rod (Betty) Creed, of Cadillac; and Mrs. Mary Jane Johnston, 44, of Sanford. They also have 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Last Whaleback Visits City

CHARLEVOIX -- The last of the whalebacks paid a visit to Charlevoix last week. Oddly enough, most of the youngsters who saw the 70-year-old Meteor thought it was a submarine.

Actually the ship, which is owned by the Cleveland Tanker Co., is the second oldest on the Great Lakes. The only ship older in regular use is the Galster, owned by the Penn-Dixie Cement Co. The company has announced plans to retire the Galster at the end of this shipping season.

METEOR CAPT. Bob Kinsey says the vessel was built in 1896 at Superior, Wis., for the U. S. Steel Corp. In its long career it has carried iron ore, grain, coal --- and new cars. Elevators were built into the holds for the last commodity.

About 25 years ago she ran aground near Manitowish and was abandoned for a time. In 1943 she was acquired by the Cleveland firm and outfitted as a tanker.

BECAUSE of her unusual cylindrical construction, the Meteor ships quite a bit of water in high seas, Capt. Kinsey admits. "But she doesn't rock, roll or pitch nearly as badly as a conventional ship," he adds.

The ship is still powered entirely by steam, with oil burners. Even the winches and pumps are steam driven.

The screw is turned by a straight shaft connected directly to the engine, which turns at a rate of 80 r.p.m.

ABOUT 80 of the so-called whalebacks were built, Kinsey said. He added that the inventor was a man called MacDougall and for years they were called "MacDougall's Dream."

One of them, the Erickson, has been salvaged in Canada for use as a museum.

THE LAST of 80 Whalebacks which used to ply the Great Lakes.

CHARLEVOIX -- One of the most dramatic stories in the history of Great Lakes underwater salvage operations is shaping up in a quiet second-story office on Bridge Street here.

The tale at present is mostly dreams, plans, sketches, fleeting ideas and speculation on the part of Jim Sawtelle, 38, husky proprietor of The Treasure Cove, a shop specializing in furniture made of shipwreck timbers.

BUT THERE are some tangibles. --Incorporation papers on Sawtelle's desk for formation of an underwater salvage company to be known as Inner Space Tech.

--Fifteen-thousand pounds of water-resistant Pelaspan pellets waiting to be picked up at the Dow Chemical Co. in Midland.

Hull Will Become A Shipwreck Museum

--The former Coast Guard buoy tender Aspen which has been purchased by Sawtelle and his associates and now lies anchored in Lake Charlevoix.

--And nearby the 172-foot schooner Keuka whose keel rests 50-feet down in Lake Charlevoix silt and whose shadowy superstructure can be seen on calm days 17-feet below the lake surface.

BRIEFLY, Sawtelle's plan is to raise the Keuka, which sank about a quarter mile off Ferry Beach 34 years ago, and turn it into a shipwreck museum. He would like to get the job done this fall before freezing weather sets in.

At the same time he will test the feasibility of raising other sunken ships by means of pumping styrofoam-type pellets into their sealed holds until their buoyancy lifts the vessel off the bottom.

If the system works, unfold fortunes lie waiting for InnerSpace Tech on the bottom of the Great Lakes where hundreds of vessels have come to grief over the years, many with precious cargoes. Most of them have never been recovered.

The system of raising sunken ships has been tried only once before. An oil drilling rig which sank in 100 feet of water in the lower Mississippi River was raised last year by means of pellets.

THE PELLETS Sawtelle plans to use are the same kind used to make insulated disposable coffee cups. In their "r" form, they measure 1/16th of an inch in diameter or less. Under steam pressure, they expand like popcorn up to as much as 3 5/8 inch in diameter.

Sawtelle plans to install an expander on the Aspen and carry the raw Pelaspan pellets in the Aspen's hold. The ship will anchor near the Keuka, the pellets will

OK Sought To Lift Ship

DETROIT -- The Department of the Army's Corps of Engineers has received application from Inner Space Tech., 211 Bridge St., Charlevoix, for a permit to salvage the sunken wreck Keuka located approximately 3,800 feet southeasterly from the mouth of Pine River Channel in Lake Charlevoix.

An accompanying sketch shows the schooner lying in 50 feet of water, with only 17 feet clearance from the roof of the pilot house to the surface of the lake.

ANY INTERESTED party entertaining objections to the proposed operations should file written protest thereto with the Corps of Engineers not later than 4:30 p.m. (E.S.T.) Oct. 24. The address is P.O. Box 1027, Detroit, Mich. 48231.

Objections based on reasons affecting navigation should be specific in describing the reasons pertaining to navigation upon which the protest is founded. The determination as to whether a permit will be issued must rest primarily upon the effect of the proposed work on navigation," the Corps said in its announcement.

AT LEAST one Great Lakes skipper is in favor of removing the Keuka. Bob Kinsey, captain of the whaleback Meteor which visited Charlevoix last week, said the Keuka is a hazard to navigation and tankers must give it wide clearance.

Quarnstrom Rites Here Thursday

CHARLEVOIX -- A memorial service for Ivar T. Quarnstrom will be held Thursday, Oct. 13, at 4 p.m. at the Congregational Church here, the Rev. Harold E. Kuhn officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Lawrence Tunhop, church pastor.

Rev. Kuhn, who is pastor emeritus of the church, said that Mr. Quarnstrom's daughter, Mrs. Earl S. (Anna K.) Gonyaw is expected to attend the service.

MR. QUARNSTROM died Sept. 30 of injuries he received Sept. 25 in the crash of his Q-MR-Ways plane on take-off from Charlevoix Airport.

Organist for the brief memorial service will be Mrs. Bob Gill, who will play the prelude and postlude.

Rev. Kuhn said the service is being held late in the day so that employees at

East Jordan Council Approves Cable TV

EAST JORDAN -- At the city council meeting, Oct. 4 an ordinance to adopt cable TV was passed, a bid for a new road sander was accepted and hospital insurance for city employees was discussed.

The council adopted ordinance number 11 allowing a franchise and regulating the business of cable TV.

The bid for the road sander was accepted from Miller Equipment Co.

CITY ATTORNEY Robert Klevorn was there to discuss hospital insurance for city employees. He explained that by issuing the insurance as compensation, the city may authorize it.

Everett Thompson from Williams and Works explained the methods and need for city planning. The council will discuss city planning at a later date.

IN OTHER council actions, Councilman Harry Watson and Deputy City Clerk Vicki VanLoe were chosen to attend the annual Municipal Employees Retirement System meeting in Lansing the end of the month. Jerry Olsen and Joseph Kraemer are the alternates.

The abandonment of streets in the Orchard Heights addition passed by vote and the city attorney was asked to take the proper action.

The council was told by Harry Watson that the airport is in the process of getting approval to asphalt pave the airport.

In other action the Municipal Refuse Bond was passed, Linda Combest was granted a building permit, permission was given to attend the service meeting in Traverse City to Joseph Nemecek and Joseph Kraemer.

Several names were brought up as a replacement to fill the seat of Second Ward supervisor, a position left vacant by the death of Mike Barnett.

Left for discussion next week is a proposal for establishing a city ice rink.

U. S. Needs Weatherman Locally

CHARLEVOIX -- Like to be a weatherman? There's an opening right here in Charlevoix.

After 20 years of measuring rain and snowfall in the area, Harry Ladd wants to call it quits.

But the U.S. Weather Bureau doesn't want him to until they find a replacement.

THE JOB DOESN'T involve too much work, and even if they doubled your salary every year you'd never get rich.

The Charlevoix weather station, now located in Ladd's backyard, consists of rain gauges and a thermometer.

Ladd reads the gauges every day--usually in the afternoon or evening--and mails his figures once a month to the Weather Bureau. Actually, they aren't even interested in temperatures from the Charlevoix area. Those Ladd saves up and gives to the Courier.

IN WINTER, he melts down the snow and measures the amount of rain it would make. That's all there is to it.

But the data is very important.

Rainfall information is vital to highway engineers and county agricultural agents, among others.

If you're interested in becoming one of Michigan's 200 part-time weathermen, contact Stanley Baldwin at the U.S. Weather Bureau, 1405 W. Harrison Rd., Lansing.

Rift Closes Sugar Bowl

CHARLEVOIX -- Dozens of Medusa construction workers found themselves without a place to eat lunch Monday noon when they returned to Charlevoix to find the Sugar Bowl Restaurant closed.

Owner Jim Alsbaugh said he locked up after discharging three waitresses who refused to pinch-hit as dish washers when the dish washer became ill.

ALSBAUGH says he has hired new help and will reopen either the end of this week or the first of next. He says the shutdown will give him a chance to catch up on maintenance chores and do some remodeling.

Miss Sue Left, a spokesman for the waitresses, said she didn't feel she could do justice to her job as waitress and work as a dishwasher at the same time.

"A WAITRESS should be on hand to make sure her customers have what they need, not back in the kitchen somewhere," she said.

Miss Left said she alone was discharged, and that the others asked for their checks.

QUARTERBACK Steve Smith who broke his leg in the Mancelona game was up and around for the Pellston game sporting a plaster cast. Details of game on Page 11.

Supervisors Mull County Health Code

CHARLEVOIX -- Charlevoix County supervisors are meeting here this week to discuss a sanitary code and decide what can be done to bring the jail up to state standards.

State officials were on hand to answer questions on what kind of sanitary code will best serve Charlevoix County.

Main purpose of a code would be to prevent pollution of waterways and safeguard health.

The jail question came up last week when Lee Sneathen Jr., chairman of the board of supervisors, received a letter from the state declaring that unless changes are made the jail may be closed.

Housing Is Hot

Housing continues to be the hottest commodity in Charlevoix.

Every time Robert Daugherty lists a property for rent it's snapped up before his own Courier is delivered.

To place your classified ad, simply drop your copy off at the Courier office, or dial 6558 and ask for Hilda.

TWO BULLS and a cow were brought home from the wilds of northern Ontario by these successful moose hunters last week. From left are Leon Pease of Charlevoix; Lewis Stevens of Williamston and Irv Drost of Charlevoix. Drost figures they brought home a ton of moosemeat.

The Secret Is Out

"Hear me talking?" "Will, I was talking to a very smart woman," is the greeting her neighbors get if they happen to stop by and catch "Aunt Emma" talking to herself.

Everybody in the community knows and loves her from children to the oldest citizen, for just about everyone of them has been the recipient of some act of kindness or thoughtfulness on her part. She is not rich in this world's goods, yet she shares of her time and substance to remember others on special occasions. This may be a wedding, birthday celebration or again it might be a comforting word or deed in time of sorrow and trouble. In other words, she is faithful to the injunction, "Love Thy Neighbor."

How does she maintain such serenity, kindness and energy in doing for others? "Also what is the secret of the faith that sustains her?" Ask her and she will answer, "God has been so good to me and my life is made glorious by attending His Church where I can sing His praises, commune with Him, and thank Him for all my blessings."

One of the greatest things about living in Charlevoix County is all of the back roads you can wander around. You know the kind where you look for old Indian arrow heads or 18th century tombstones.

Yesterday I took one of these roads home from work—mainly because I didn't want to go home and do my laundry.

Well, I ended up in someone's apple orchard. Rather than let this opportunity slip by me, I yielded to the temptation.

AFTER slipping into my clever disguise (sunglasses), I crept out of my car and shook a tree branch. Light apples happened to land right in my arms.

I all speed ahead then, I pointed my car in the direction of my apartment and drove.

When I got home I belted the door, and plunked the apples on the table.

Now what? Well, I got out some sort of apple cooking guide in my cookbook. McIntosh, Delicious, Spys, Redman, Sweet, Cortland, Wagoner, I didn't know. They were red and had streaks.

Now, back to the same old time, I forgot the cookbook and just live in. (I have a very strong stomach.)

Anyway, here's what happened.

RECIPE: ORANGE BAKED APPLES. Six large apples. One cup sugar. One half cup salt. One half cup oil. One half cup butter. One half cup pineapple juice. One half cup orange juice. One half cup raisins. One half cup crushed pineapple.

Core the apples, but leave the bottoms in. Mix the sugar, salt, cinnamon, butter and nuts together and fill the apples. Pour the rest of the ingredients in a shallow baking dish. Bake at 375 for about 45 minutes. If you happen to think of it, taste them every once in awhile.

AND TRAPS IT. The nice thing about these apples is that even if they don't turn out right they're still useable. Just let them sit on the kitchen counter for three or four days and then use them.

CHARLEVOIX County will soon be floating in woods—thanks to the boards of hunters in acting out to the woods.

Many of the hunters, who don't know a deer's nose from its tail, will be expected to do something with this venison. I'm sure they'll appreciate some tips on the preparation of various venison dishes.

Problem—I don't know any. Solution—Ask the readers. This is all by way of saying the Courier is sponsoring a venison recipe contest. Your favorite recipes will be shared with the other readers and the winner will be chosen among five finalists. The finalists will be selected by a panel of impartial judges.

SOMETHING apropos will be offered as a prize—a deer trophy or something.

Seriously, a very nice prize is now being chosen. I'll tell you more about the prize and the judges next week.

Here is a handy little form that you can use when you either send them in or drop them off at the Courier office.

BOYNTOWN CITY — The federal government has decided not to kick in $25,000 requested by Charlevoix and Boyntown for vocational education.

War on Poverty Director, Jack Mulder, told the Charlevoix County Committee of the decision at its meeting here last Wednesday.

The two counties had sought funds to pay tuition for children from families living outside the Petoskey school district. Charlevoix had asked for $7,500 and Boyntown for $17,500.

Mulder said the War on Poverty people turned down the request because funds for such projects are available under other federal programs.

P-G Promotes Jack Hartnell

CHARLEVOIX — Jack M. Hartnell, 31, of Saginaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hartnell of Charlevoix, (Clipperville), was recently promoted to district head salesman for the Cleveland, Ohio, area of the Procter and Gamble's paper division.

Hartnell has been in Charlevoix and two children have moved to North Bayshore, a suburb of Charlevoix.

With the coming of Prohibition, the Kauka slipped gracefully into another role. Outfitted like a floating dance hall, she was towed nightly during warm weather from Charlevoix to Boyne City and back by a small steam tug. Couples danced the

But that day never came. About 1930 the Keuka was abandoned and on Aug. 14, 1932—a Sunday, Edwards recalls—he stood on shore with others and watched as the Keuka slowly slipped beneath the waves. Heavy rains had filled her hull with water and the ship gradually settled down to her own doom. They

A unique feature of their proposed operation will be an environmental chamber eight-feet in diameter and 11 1/2-feet long. The chamber will be lowered from the Aspen next to a sunken ship and will become home base for divers for as long as it takes them to prepare a vessel for raising, up to 15 days.

"Weather has always been a problem working on sunken ships in the Great Lakes," Sawtelle says. "The weather is seldom good enough for a long enough time to allow divers from the surface to prepare a ship for raising. Every few days the mother-ship is forced to seek shelter from wind and high seas and diving operations are suspended.

Another problem faced by divers working at extreme depths in the Great Lakes is temperature. The constant temperature in Lake Michigan beyond the last thermal cline (a layer of water warmed by the sun) is 39.7 degrees. The battery-heated environmental chamber will allow the men to warm up from time to time without surfacing and going through a lengthy decompression process.

THE QUARTERS will be pretty close, but four men should be able to live in the chamber for two weeks without too much discomfort, Sawtelle said. Inside the chamber, divers will breathe a combination of oxygen and helium and cook, eat and sleep under auto-camper conditions. The Marcelona Tank Co. has expressed an interest in building the environmental chamber and Sawtelle estimates development will take about three years. He expects it will be the first unit of its kind in use on the Great Lakes.

One of the first jobs Sawtelle hopes to tackle--after the Keuka--is the freighter Lakeland which sank in 1924 in 250 feet of water five miles off Star-geon Bay, Wis. The vessel had about 70 new Nash and Kissel automobiles aboard--a priceless catch so far as antique auto fanciers are concerned.

Another possibility is the freighter Carl T. Bradley which went down west of Beaver Island in November, 1958, with a loss of 33 lives.

SAWTELLE's mother-ship-to-be the Aspen--was towed to Charlevoix in September from Spring Lake near Grand Haven by the Mackinac Islander. The Aspen was built as a U.S. Lighthouse Service buoy tender in 1906 by the Craig Shipbuilding Co. of Cleveland. She is 126 feet long and has a beam of 27 feet. The Aspen was retired from Coast Guard Service in 1948 and later sold.

Since then private owners have failed to keep her cabin tops and hatch covers in good repair. Rain and foul weather have taken their toll and the entire ship needs refurbishing from stern to stern. It also needs an engine.

Last week, Sawtelle and Bob Finney asked the Charlevoix City Council to sell them a 1,300-horsepower four-cylinder Morse diesel engine which has stood idle at the old power plant since the city switched over to Consumers Power several years ago.

City Superintendent Jim Taylor is anxious to sell, but Mayor Bill Fontenot and most of the aldermen appear reluctant to do anything about disposition of any of the equipment for fear of rubbing salt in old wounds from the power plant controversy.

Originally a marine power plant, the engine is practically tailor-made for the Aspen, even down to the size of the holes in the engine mountings. It weighs about 40 tons and Sawtelle would like to have it moved to the ship while heavy construction equipment is still available at the Medusa Cement Plant site.

INNERSPACE TECH is just one of the irons Sawtelle has in the fire at present--although all of his endeavors hinge on shipwreck materials. This summer he and his wife, Nancy, opened the Treasure Cove in downtown Charlevoix, specializing in massive furniture fashioned from well-seasoned timbers from the schooner Sawyer which sank in Bells Bay south of Charlevoix in November, 1880. Anchor chain logs and other nautical artifacts make the furniture authentic relics of the sailing days.

The shop also sells jewelry, incorporating chips of wood from the Sawyer.

This summer Sawtelle redecorated Irv Drost's Tween Decks bar in a shipwreck motif using timbers and paneling from the Sawyer. This fall he is doing the same thing at the Lakeview hotel bar on Mackinac Island. He also plans to open a branch of the Treasure Cove on Mackinac Island next summer.

Meanwhile, dozens of the Sawyer's sister-ships and even more of their steel-hulled progeny of recent years are waiting at the bottom of the Great Lakes to be resurrected by Sawtelle's magic touch.

FORMER Coast Guard tugboat Aspen is towed to shore in Lake Charlevoix off Ferry Dock.

Rayders Trounce Pellston 44 to 0

HAFLBACK Larry Skippergosh is in for some interference as he heads for paydirt in Friday's game with Pellston.

Whole Squad Plays

CHARLEVOIX—"Hey, you, No. 67! Play a little closer to my center and give him a few cuffs for me!"

This was the dying sideline salvo from Pellston's frustrated head coach Frank Salazar as his faltering Hornets went down to defeat at the hands of the Charlevoix Red Rayders, 44 to 0.

The comment was directed at Charlevoix Guard Aaron Brock, one of 33 Charlevoix players who saw action in the lop-sided match Friday night. Charlevoix managed the victory without the services of its two stellar performers, Quarterback Steve Smith and fullback Alan Lusk. Smith broke his leg in the Mancelona game and Lusk broke his in the match with Gaylord last week.

FRIDAY'S GAME was played at Harbor Springs' natural lights stadium because the lights at Pellston were not working properly. Originally scheduled for Harbor Springs, the game was changed to Pellston briefly last week, but then switched back to Harbor Springs at the last moment.

Because of the change, several wires got crossed. No one showed up to work the clock minutes until 7 p.m. arrived.

Then the accident-prone Pellston team forgot its stretcher and several would-be basket cases were forced to leave the field under their own power.

The Charlevoix stretchers were used to tote 225-pound tackle Dick Carter from the field, but he was back in the game two plays later.

IN THE STARTING line-up at Charlevoix were Tom Webb, Paul McClellan, Larry Skippergosh, Jerry Whitely, Terry Blissett, Joe Thorp, Jack Bergmann, Allyn Veenstra, Robert Tumbach, Ralph Doan and Fred Wabandine.

Charlevoix's first touchdown was scored midway in the first quarter by Lee Cross. The attempt at the conversion point was lost, leaving the score 6-0.

Following some excellent broken field running by both Cross and Tom Webb, Webb took the ball across and also scored the extra point. There was no more scoring until the end of the period, leaving the tally 12-0 in favor of Charlevoix.

IN THE second quarter Coach Don Carey started putting in his reserves. "I didn't think we'd have much trouble, but I never thought it would be like this," was his modest comment.

IF THERE were any stars in the second quarter they were Larry Skippergosh and Ralph Doan. Skippergosh got a bloody nose early in the game, and thereafter refused to hit the turf, no matter how many Hornets were hanging on his neck.

Doan scored the third touchdown of the game early in the quarter with a spectacular 55-yard run down the Charlevoix sideline. Levi McClellan missed the point but nobody seemed to care.

Skippergosh returned to score the fourth T.D. with EAST JORDAN'S Gary Poole fends off Blue Devil in rugged match with Gaylord Friday night. Gaylord won.

Red Devils Bow to Gaylord Squad

EAST JORDAN--Interception was the name of the game as East Jordan attempted to win their second of the season. Instead the Red Devils bowed to Gaylord 19 to 7.

Gaylord scored the first touchdown as Jack Flemming passed to Dave Hild who took the ball 50 yards to score. The conversion point was added by Sam Morrow.

Gaylord's Craig Cardenal moved the ball early in the second period from the 50 to the East Jordan 20. Red Devil Jim Laneschager intercepted a pass on the East Jordan six and moved out to the 20.

In the final period by Gaylord, found Sam Morrow taking the ball on East Jordan's 36 and moving to the 12. Gaylord's Mike Green caught a pass from Tom Johnson on the two and Ron Sanders went on to score from their putting the tally at 19-0.

East Jordan scored its lone touchdown when Red Devil Nick Reed received the ball and ran 65 yards to score. The conversion point was added by Al Grauel making the final count 19-7.

My Neighbors

AFTER BLEGG stopped, the Red Devils were forced to punt. Al Grauel's kick was blocked by Fred Jelle and recovered on the four by Jack Neiret. Gaylord's Denile Dickerson scored the TD from there to push the score to 19-0.

A recovered Gaylord and by Red Devil Al Grauel took the ball from the Gaylord 39 to the 22. East Jordan's pass attempt to score was intercepted by Craig Cardenal.

How Atoms Work

A brief summary of the Atomic World, as presented at Charlevoix High School Oct. 11.

The program, titled "The Atomic World," was designed to acquaint students with the basic principles of nuclear energy, its uses, and its role in industry, agriculture, and medicine.

William W. Miller, III, presented the program which covered the structure of atoms, radiation, fission, and fusion.

Miller has completed a five-year program at the University of Michigan, where he received his B.S. in Physics and is a graduate of the Atomic Energy Commission's summer school in Miami and has been employed in the field of nuclear energy.

SPIRITUALLY, Miller presented the program which was used during the 1965-66 program to show students the uses of radiation, how nuclear energy is harnessed for peaceful purposes, and its role in diagnosis and treatment of diseases—and to learn more about the processes.

A blackboard talk to science classes, which deals more specifically with such topics as atomic structure, radioactivity, radiation, fission, and fusion, follows the session.

The program is presented by Oak Ridge Associated Universities, which has the nation's largest program for the Atomic Energy Commission. The Association's non-profit educational and research cooperation of 10 Southern colleges and universities.

The "Atomic World" program is one of 11 similar units appearing at high schools in 100 other counties. They are part of the AEC's extensive traveling exhibit program designed to bring the public into the field of nuclear energy and its uses.

Selling Yule Trees Is Booklet Topic

Michigan Christmas tree growers must recognize the problems and needs of the retail sales outlet in order to obtain their leadership in the production of trees, Ed Rehn, Extension Natural Resources Agent, says.

Rehn, who has knowledge of Michigan Christmas tree development techniques which will help them on top.

INFORMATION on the marketing of Christmas trees has been relatively difficult to find, the agent says, and growers may not have detailed knowledge of the retail outlet operator's business.

A recent publication by John K. Trocke, District Extension Marketing Agent at Michigan State University, provides new Information about the marketing of Christmas trees. The publication deals with tree marketing from the viewpoint of the grower, the retailer, and the consumer.

RESEARCH for the bulletin was done in more than thirty states, including all major Christmas tree production and marketing areas, Rehn says. Consumer preference panels were conducted to verify the types and qualities of trees the consumer wants.

Copies of the bulletin are available at the County Extension Office in Boyne City.

A single storm in 1934 blew 300 million tons of soil from the overplowed prairies of the United States.

ed out to be a happy surprise.

DIDN'T YOU get a kick out of the story about the bear that was trapped at Wilderness Park by the Conservation Department because he was scaring the little out of the campers there? He was then transported to another area over in central Michigan where he was released. I've a speaking suspicion that that bear, having had a taste of civilization and the easy hand it supplied, is not going to take to this wild life and will turn up in some other park area, sooner or later.

KIDNOS to the Charlevoix Flying Club for the terrible job the boys did on the recent fly-in. Well organized and equally well planned, the event was one of the most successful we've had the good fortune to have in our community. All of which goes to prove that if you have something truly worth while it will attract the public. There was the response on the part of everyone, including the weatherman. And there were people from all over the state in attendance. And attendance wasn't confined to the state. They were the Bill Fishings of Louisville, Ky., who also had the good fortune to win a couple of the many lovely prizes offered during the day.

AND HOW ARE you getting on the World Series? Got any favorites? Me, I'll put my money on the Orioles, not because I'm a fan of the team but because I think a team that hasn't won a pennant for that many years, since 1919, wasn't it? Is going to put forth enough effort to win, regardless of the odds. We shall see. I'm not a baseball fan, but come World Series time, I'll be glued to the TV watching every play.

LIKE EVERYONE else, I'm mighty sorry about Stu Smith. Just when a new step arrives at a point where he'd have his best shot at this

Obituaries

Dorothea M. Kroken
CHARLEVOIX--Funeral for Mrs. John Kroken, 44, was held Oct. 7 from the Winchester Funeral Home, the Rev. Leona W. Ingarde officiating. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Acting Coroner Robert G. Martin has ruled Mrs. Kroken died of natural causes. Her body was found in her home on Nettleton Avenue Oct. 5.

Born in Marquette July 13, 1922, the former Dorothea M. Simpira was married to Mrs. John Kroken at San Antonio, Texas, in 1943.

FOLLOWING World War II they returned to Marquette where they lived until coming to Charlevoix in 1950.

Mr. Kroken died in August, 1963.

Mrs. Kroken attended the First Methodist Church where she was a member of the choir. She also belonged to the Charlevoix Community Choir.

She is survived by a son, Bruce, a student at Northern Michigan University in Marquette; her mother, Mrs. Edward Simpira of Marquette; a sister, Mrs. John Campinen of Marquette; and her maternal grandfather, Jacob Pantti of Ishpeming.

Jack M. Dollenmaier
CHARLEVOIX--Funeral for Jack M. Dollenmaier, 59, was held Oct. 7 from the Winchester Funeral Home, the Rev. Harold E. Kona officiating. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Dollenmaier died Sept.

29 in Charlevoix Hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Libertyville, Ill., Sept. 27, 1907, and for the past ten years had been electrical engineer and vice president of the Kyousa Pipe Co. in Ashland, Ky.

Before 1956, he lived in Bay City, Mich., and had been a summer resident in Charlevoix since 1941.

HE WAS MARRIED to the former Winifred Flagg in Libertyville in 1930 and was active in the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America (S.E.B.Q.S.A.). He was a member of the Libertyville Presbyterian Church.

Surviving besides his widow are one daughter, Mrs. Gordon (Indy) Anderson of Quincy, Ill., four grandchildren, and a brother, Harry, of Libertyville.

Doris E. Clothier
CHARLEVOIX--Funeral for Mrs. Doris E. Clothier, 70, was held Oct. 4 from the Winchester Funeral Home, the Rev. Francis Denay officiating. Burial was in Mt. Mary Cemetery.

Mrs. Clothier died Oct. 2 at Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for two weeks.

Rosary service was held at the funeral home Oct. 3.

THE FORMER Doris F. Giltlett was born in Saginaw April 22, 1896. She married Donald Clothier in Brian, Ohio, in 1919.

Letters to the Editor

Bob Clock,
Courier Editor,
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Bob,

I would like to express our appreciation to the Courier for their interest in the City Recreation Program. The space afforded to our program in publicizing both coming and past events was instrumental to the success we enjoyed.

We are proud of the offerings for a city the size of Charlevoix in the field of recreation and appreciate the fact that the Courier is aware of its scope and importance in our modern society.

Thanks again and keep up the good work.
Sincerely,
Dean Davenport

HEARD THE DIRT?

(FORGET IT)

Some companies claim their heating fuel is cleanest. If you've heard that, forget it. Better Business Bureaus say it's just not so. The fuel you burn has nothing to do with dirt. Oil, electricity and gas are equally clean. Dirty drapes and streaky walls come from cooking smoke, tobacco smoke and outside air pollution. That's something you can believe. And, there's no fuel in the world more economical, efficient and as safe as oil. Call us today for all the facts on Standard Oil's Complete Comfort Service.

Letters From

THE FOLLOWING letter was received from a serviceman in Vietnam by his mother and step-father. They prefer to remain anonymous.

"DAD, there's something I have to tell you. When you and Ma got married and the first time you had a disagreement I went to the backyard and prayed to God that everything would be all right, and you would be our father for ever."

"When my real Dad died (I never told this before, but that's how much I love you), when Dad died I didn't know what dying was. I thought it was just something people did for fun and got up again. When Floyd came to school and got us I didn't think anything was wrong."

"When Aunt Sis hugged me so tight, I thought I was done for. I managed to break loose and seen Ma on the couch and a doctor and a lot of other people there. I ran up in the attic and hid, and prayed to the Lord that everything was all right. And when I realized that Dad was gone, I prayed Ma would find a new Dad for us."

"And when six years went by you came along, and I just knew that you were the one, and sure enough you were and you are the best thing that ever happened to us since Dad died."

"And the first big weekly allowance we got was $5. I knew you couldn't afford it, so I put it back in your pants pocket. I'm so proud of you and Ma and I'm glad I'm over here fighting for people like you and Ma, and all our friends."

Tribute To a Pioneer

It is fitting that the people of Charlevoix should hold a memorial service for the late Ivar T. Quarnstrom, the Detroit industrialist who died last week of injuries received in the crash of his Q-Air-Ways plane in Charlevoix Sept. 25.

The service will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, at the Congregational Church, the Rev. Harold E. Kohn, pastor emeritus of the church, officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen.

Rev. Kohn conducted a similar memorial service for Mr. Quarnstrom last week at the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

***
If one word could sum up Mr. Quarnstrom's many-sided personality it would be "pioneer."

A native of Sweden, he came to the United States via Canada in his early 20's, one of the great wave of immigrants from the Scandinavian countries. He remembered living on one meal a day to save pennies.

He was a pioneer in the plastics molding industry.

He was a pioneer on the Charlevoix industrial scene, establishing his American Mold Co. on the shores of Lake Charlevoix, long before other manufacturers gave Charlevoix a second thought. He was a pioneer in air travel and founder of Q-Air-Ways, the first regularly scheduled airline to serve Charlevoix.

Perhaps there was something in these woods and waters that was agreeable to his pioneer spirit.

There might have been something in our pounding surf and towering hemlocks that reminded him of his native Sweden.

In any event, Charlevoixans will be proud to pay tribute to his memory Thursday afternoon.

City Plans Are Worthless Unless They're Put to Use

Editor's Note: The following is the sixth, and final article in a series on community planning.

... All the planning in the world doesn't do any good unless there is some way to put the planners' ideas to use. Too often communities spend a good deal of time and money drawing up comprehensive plans -- and then let them gather dust in some forgotten corner of the city hall. In practice, the recommendations of city planners can be realized through either legal or informal actions.

ZONING

Zoning is one of the best tools available to make a plan work. Zoning, briefly, is a set of regulations governing the size and use of structures in specific neighborhoods. Good zoning not only conserves property values by maintaining a neighborhood's characteristics (a slaughter house has no place on a residential street), but it also eases the burden on the city of supplying and maintaining each neighborhood according to its needs.

For example, a city might find it can save considerable money if all industry is confined to an "industrial park," with heavy duty electrical conduits serving one area rather than a dozen. Manufacturers themselves may find it beneficial to locate near each other, using joint rail and transport services, or even joining forces on such employee benefits as cafeterias and first aid centers.

Good zoning laws properly enforced not only benefit the community as a whole, but also the individuals in the community.

The legal authority for zoning is granted by the state as an exercise of the police power for the promotion of the community's health, safety, morals, and general welfare. In order to be legal, the courts have, of late, been emphasizing that zoning must be based upon the comprehensive plan.

SUBDIVISION REGULATIONS
The private subdivider, through his activities as a land developer, plays a most important role in determining the pattern and quality of future development. Because his actions may have a profound effect upon the community as a whole, they should be subject to local review.

By establishing design standards which assure utilities adequate to serve the demand, building sites of sufficient size and shape, streets properly located and designed for safety and traffic movement, and subdivision layout that is compatible and properly located with respect to other areas, the subdivision regulations offer a means of guiding and controlling the private subdivider and also aid in assuring that future development will be in accordance with the objectives reflected by the comprehensive plan.

FEDERAL PROGRAMS
Various federal aid programs are available to assist communities in their planning programs. One of these, Section 701 of the Federal Housing Act of 1954, is presently being utilized by the Charlevoix region to assist in the preparation of the comprehensive plan. This act permits the federal government to pay up to three-quarters of the cost of comprehensive planning activities with the local community supplying the remaining cost.

Urban renewal is a second major federal program which may be of importance to the Charlevoix area. This program is aimed at the elimination of blight within the community with up to three-quarters of the cost being financed by the federal government.

Old Town Hasn't Changed--Much

CHARLEVOIX---If you were around in 1910, here's what the city would have looked like if you climbed the water tower and gazed up Pine River Channel.

There are differences, but not many. Check the logs in Round Lake near the Charlevoix Lumber Co. There aren't many of them around anymore.

Don't miss the swivel bridge where our bascule bridge now stands.

THE OPERA HOUSE with the wooden walk just south of Pine River Channel is gone. So is the Argo Milling Co. North of the channel. That's where the Weather-vane Inn is located.

The business places across Bridge

Street here mostly disappeared, too. That area now is city dock and municipal parking. There's also a little grass where the boys off the Sundew play football. Up, up the bluff behind the railroad station (not visible) stood the fabulous "Inn", which appears to stretch for blocks in this photo. It's gone, too.

BUT QUITE a few relics from the past are still around. The houses on Park Avenue haven't changed much in the past 55 years. And the Chicago Club boathouse across Round Lake looks pretty much the same. If you take a close look, you'll notice it's been enlarged some. There's five cupolas today instead of only three.

The pleasure craft in the lake and the swivel bridge across the inner channel look much the same--at least from a distance. Only sailing is a sport today, whereas in 1910 it was more of a necessity--unless you wanted to row.

Notice also the fishing tugs docked on the north side of Round Lake. Fishing once was big business in Charlevoix and fishhouses were located on both sides of the lake.

That ship tied up downtown is the Manitou, which probably is why the Life Guard Harsha climbed the water tower to take this picture in the first place. Miss Anne Harsha graciously consented to share it with you.

Clockwise

By Bob Clock

The hottest summer since the Stone Age has given way to the prettiest autumn since the glaciers melted. There hasn't been a killing frost yet, but apparently that doesn't matter. Everything with leaves has turned the most outrageous color it could think of, from wine red to the palest greens and golds.

People who know about such things say the color has been there all summer, but we couldn't see it for the chlorophyll. When the chlorophyll disappeared the tree's true color was unmasked. Under all the green stuff, you'd never guess they were as colorful as flamenco dancers.

Combined with this area's natural endowments of hills and waters, every turn in the road brings its own breathtaking vistas. If you stopped to gasp every time you felt like it, you'd soon come down with heart trouble, or weak lungs or bunions or whatever it is you get from gasping too much.

IT WAS A RELIEF to have herds of color tourists in the country over the weekend. It was getting a little tiresome for us natives to keep on gasping and gawking all by ourselves. We needed help from down below--and we got it.

There was hardly a motel from Harbor Springs to East Jordan that didn't hang out its "no vacancy" shingle Saturday night. And travelers from the south say the main roads north Saturday morning were as jammed as the Fourth of July or Labor Day. Makes you feel sort of good that so many people drive hundreds of miles on a weekend to visit this little corner of the world where we get to live the year 'round.

AND SPEAKING of vistas, one of my favorites has been superb the past week. It's out past the Lexalite plant where U.S. 31 sweeps down to the shore before heading under the C and O tracks and on into Bay Shore. Apparently there's a shallow cove in Little Traverse Bay, because straight ahead across blue water lies the Penn - Dixie Cement Plant--stark white against the dark rising land beyond. The plant and silos are a study of lines, curves, angles and shifting lights and shadows, depending on the time of day.

LITTLE FOLKS

My first impression was that this must be what those stuccoed Mediterranean towns looked like to Ulysses in his wanderings. On closer inspection, Penn-Dixie is scarcely an objet d'art, but across this particular stretch of water she's a real gem. I only hope the Medusa Plant looks as inviting from Charlevoix.

CAUGHT HELL from an irate reader on the telephone last week. She wants all the boys listed in our football stories every week--sort of a play by play right from start to finish, from what she said. Of course she has a point. And we certainly would like to give credit where credit is due.

Only there are two problems. First, in action packed games like Charlevoix's and East Jordan's have been this season, it is virtually impossible for a reporter on the sidelines to tell with any accuracy who ran interference, who blocked, who passed, who received or who all joined the pile-up on the unfortunate ball carrier on every play. Sometimes it's enough just to keep track of the ball.

Second, even if we could give you such information, I doubt we'd have room to print it--not in just one 14 or 16 page newspaper.

Of course, Charlevoix and East Jordan have some cracker--jack players who aren't getting their names in the paper because their function is support. They are the people in the background who pave the way for progress up front. You'll find them in all sports, the army, in industry and all kinds of research and development activities.

It occurs to me that maybe the most important lesson a boy might learn in school is that we cannot all be the Tom Harmons, the Audie Murphys, the Henry Fords or the Werner von Brauns of our chosen fields. But we can be the guys who helped put them there. For most of us, that's the only satisfaction we're going to get, whether we like it or not.

For my money, the real heroes of any football game are the poor fellows who turn out night after night, yet leave the bench only to sing the "Star Spangled Banner." Although I can't vouch for their prowess on the gridiron, I will say that many of them have fine voices.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
Be ye content with such things as ye have.
--(Heb. 13:5)

In searching for greater happiness in life, we may look to other persons or things for the answer. We may think happiness depends on friendships with others. But in our search have we looked in the right place--in our own heart? Happiness is within us. It is a state of mind, a feeling, an our heart. When we look to God for happiness, we find it in the everyday things in life. Happiness is peace of mind and the realization that God satisfies every desire in our heart and fills us with good.

THE BIG QUESTION these girls are pondering is: "Who will be homecoming queen." One of them for sure will wear the silver crown, but the winner won't be known until the pep rally tomorrow night. From left are Nancy Rader, Joyce, Matchett, Joey Phelps, Cathie Terrill and Elaine Warner.

Who Will Be Queen? Tomorrow Will Tell

CHARLEVOIX -- This weekend is homecoming at Charlevoix High School -- complete with snake dance, bonfire, pep rally, a football game with Grayling and the crowning of a homecoming queen.

Five CHS seniors have been selected by their classmates to make up the queen's court. One of them -- nobody knows which one -- will be declared queen tomorrow night during the pep rally.

The festivities will start at 7 p.m. tomorrow with a snake dance beginning at the Elementary School and winding its way to the High School parking lot where the pep rally will take place.

FRIDAY'S activities got under way at 6:15 with a review of the floats by a panel of judges to be selected.

At 7 p.m. a parade, including the floats and the marching band, will leave the Elementary School for the High School.

Game time is 8 p.m. as usual, with the crowning of the homecoming queen scheduled for the halftime break.

Seniors voted into the queen's court are Nancy Rader, Joyce Matchett, Joey Phelps, Cathie Terrill and Elaine Warner.

Supervisors End Session

CHARLEVOIX -- The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors put in a full week's work before adjourning Saturday morning.

Among their most important actions were the approval of $2,500 to hire an architect to determine what can be done to bring the county jail up to snuff (otherwise the state may close it) and rejection of a sanitary code strongly recommended by District Health Officer Dr. A. F. Litzberger.

The supervisors also:

- Approved $1,500 for the Retarded Children's Center on the recommendation of Mrs. Arnold Wadas.

- STOOD for a few moments to pay respect to the memory of the late Robert F. Barnett of East Jordan who died since the last session. Later they officially welcomed Mrs. Thora H. Kotowich to the board. She was appointed by the East Jordan City Council to fill Barnett's unexpired term.

- Heard a progress report by Walter Thorsen, chairman of the County Planning Commission.

- Approved a county tax of 5.3 mills based on state evaluation of $67,951,853 and a Grandview Medical Care Facility Tax of 1.03335 on the same evaluation.

- Paid dues of $500 to the Michigan State Association of Supervisors.

- ASKED the Farmers Home Administration for a grant to prepare a comprehensive area plan for water and sewer systems in Charlevoix County.

Quarnstrom Buried at Sea

CHARLEVOIX -- The ashes of Ivan T. (Ted) Quarnstrom were committed to the waters of Lake Michigan Oct. 14 following a simple burial-at-sea ceremony performed aboard Quarnstrom's sailing craft, "My Dream."

Officiating at the rail-side service was the Rev. Harold E. Kohn, pastor emeritus of the Congregational Church and close associate of the late Detroit industrialist.

ALSO ABOARD ship were Quarnstrom's daughter, Mrs. Anna (Katie) Gonyaw of Detroit; George Plum of Charlevoix, skipper of "My Dream" and friend of Quarnstrom's; Leroy Dahlberg of Detroit, Quarnstrom's legal advisor; Dolores Mayes of Detroit; and Edgerman Jerry Whitley of Charlevoix, a friend and business acquaintance of Quarnstrom.

Mr. Quarnstrom died Sept. 30 at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, of injuries he received in Charlevoix Sept. 25 when his Q-Air-Ways plane crashed and burned on takeoff from Charlevoix Airport. Mrs. Barbara Stewart also died in the crash, as did the pilot, Edwin Niebach, Quarnstrom's son Robert is hospitalized.

Ironton Fights School Merger

A group of Ironton residents are fighting for their one-room school house. After holding a discussion about the reorganization vote, 14 residents decided to circulate petitions around Charlevoix and Ironton protesting the merger with Charlevoix, approved in the Oct. 3 election.

Jack VanLoos, who held the floor for the balance of the time, said they would not petition for a new vote.

"Rather will we ask the court to question the constitutionality of the vote," he said.

VanLoos said the attack will be made against Act 289 which called for the reorganization of school districts in sparsely populated areas.

"We will take the case to Circuit Court Judge Charles Brown, and if we have to, all the way to the Supreme Court," he said.

VanLoos estimated the cost of financing the case to be around $1,500.

SCHOOL BOARD members, Robert Anderson and Earl Kroll, said that an increase in millage will be necessary to meet the costs.

meet the costs.

VanLoos said that one of the ironies of the present system is that the larger school district (Charlevoix) will be fighting the case with Ironton's money.

DISCUSSION over the merger turned out from Ironton in support of the one-room school brought other comments from VanLoos.

"Either by accident or intent, and I have my own feelings about it, someone scheduled a meeting at the school where we were to vote. The parking lot was jammed with cars and I imagine many people were discouraged from voting," he said.

He went on to say that he heard the meeting was scheduled two days in advance.

Monday night regularly scheduled meetings of the Kiwanis Club and the city band are held at the school.

The parking lot south of the school was empty to accommodate the voters. Bill Cooper was chosen to head the group and will circulate the petitions in Charlevoix.

City Won't Sell Engine to Sawtelle

CHARLEVOIX -- On the recommendation of the Utilities Committee, the Charlevoix City Council agreed informally last night not to sell its Fairbanks-Morse diesel engine to Jim Sawtelle as a power plant for the former Coast Guard buoy tender Aspen.

Sawtelle plans to use the Aspen in his undersea salvage operations, including raising the schooner Keuka from Lake Charlevoix.

The committee, made up of Aldermen Nathan Boss, Jerry Whitley and Bob Gill, said that two years ago the Council turned down an offer of $11,000 for the engine after a survey indicated it would be best to sell all the electrical equipment at the power plant as a whole.

THE COUNCIL also deferred action on a request by Jack VanLoos that he be permitted to put a 60-foot street into his subdivision off May Street instead of the regular 66-foot street.

The Council said it would like to see a map of the plat and location of the street before making a decision.

Alderman Jack Mol said all new subdivisions are being held to 66-foot street easements and he thought VanLoos should too.

VanLoos plans to erect eight pre-fabricated houses just west of May Street and north of Stover Road. The Council withdrew his building permit in August, objecting to the type of construction.

VanLoos appealed to the Circuit Court, winning a writ of mandamus and restoration of the building permit.

COUNCIL ALSO agreed that all future construction in the city must meet state electrical and plumbing codes, pending approval of a city building code.

They also discussed possibility of moving the office of the Deputy Clerk Ida Helise from the first to second floor of

State Eyes Fish Hatchery

CHARLEVOIX -- The State Conservation Department reportedly is negotiating with the federal government to acquire the Charlevoix Fish Hatchery as its base of operations for research on the coho salmon, lake trout and other fish.

Although no official announcement has been made, the federal government apparently is presently making arrangements to transfer the hatchery at the mouth of Pine River Channel to the State of Michigan.

The Conservation Department also is drawing up plans for a 55-foot research vessel which will be docked in Charlevoix.

Department officials expect the transaction to be completed by Christmas.

PRETTY Susan Waller was Ellsworth's Homecoming Queen last weekend.

CSO Sends Courier to GI's

If there is a Charlevoix resident in your family serving his military obligation, he is eligible to receive the Courier, according to Ralph Hamilton, chairman of the Charlevoix Service Organization.

If you have someone in service who is not receiving the Courier, please drop his name and address off at the Courier office.

KIWANIS secretary Curtis Burlin signs check for $10,000 as fellow Kiwanians and members of the school board look on. Money will go toward new library. Standing from left are Harold Tottén, Glenn Kenney, Jack Rader, Bill Schmidt and Bill Peck. Seated with Burlin is board president Darrell Dinwiddie.

WRECKAGE OF plane piloted by Ted Malpass is strewn in woods near East Jordan Airport.

Former Islanders Killed in Plane Crash

ST. JAMES--Services for two sisters killed in the crash of a single engine plane near Dowagiac in Cass County will be held at Holy Cross Church here at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 20.

They are Mrs. Erma K. Vories, 65, and her sister, Mrs. Raynunda M. Overmeyer, 58, of Mishawaka.

Also killed in the crash of the plane, which was en route from Charlevoix to South Bend, Ind., were Raymond Smith, 41, of Oseola, Ind., a nephew of the two sisters, and his wife, Donnie, also 41, and the pilot and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nye of Warsaw, Ind.

BOTH NATIVES of Beaver Island, the sisters were MacDonaldis before their marriages.

Born June 29, 1901, Mrs. Vories left the island in 1914. She had no children.

Mrs. Overmeyer was born May 12, 1906, and left the island in 1926. Her husband, Harold, died in 1959.

The travelers were in northern Michigan Oct. 9 visiting another MacDonald sister, Mrs. Joseph Sanderter who was a patient at Charlevoix Hospital. The plane was found Oct. 15.

In addition to Mrs. Sanderter, they are survived by Mrs. Betty May of Royal Oak and Mrs. Marie Smith of Kalamazoo.

The Smiths are survived by three sons, all of the South Bend area.

MR. SMITH is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Marie Smith of Kalamazoo, two half brothers, Vane Smith of Charlevoix and Douglas of Lansing and two half sisters, Mrs. Roger Postema of Ann Arbor.

Department officials expect the transaction to be completed by Christmas.

Thrift Sale Set Oct. 21 at Mart

CHARLEVOIX -- The annual Thrift Sale sponsored by the Charlevoix Hospital Guild will begin at 9 a.m. Oct. 21 at the Shoe Mart on Bridge Street. The sale will last until late afternoon or early evening.

Dozens of saleable items will be offered, according to Mrs. Arthur Skelton, publicity chairman. They include household items, appliances, furniture, clothing and toys.

THE SALE is one of the Guild's two fund-raising projects each year. Every summer the group sponsors a fashion show and luncheon.

Proceeds from the two activities go toward purchasing equipment for the hospital and providing two scholarships a year for nurses and medical technicians.

LAST YEAR the Guild gave the hospital an infant resuscitator which has served as a first crib for all newborns at the hospital ever since. The heated resuscitator has its own supply of oxygen and a tiny suction pump to remove fluids from the baby's mouth.

If there is any money left over, the Guild buys another high-low bed which allows the patient to adjust his bed to the most comfortable position.

The Guild has not yet decided how this year's proceeds will be used.

The Guild meets every second Monday. Anyone interested in assisting the hospital is welcome to attend. Dues are $1 a year.

Iron Works Executive Is Still Critical

CHARLEVOIX -- Bruce Malpass, 41, sales manager and vice president of the East Jordan Iron Works, remained in critical condition at Charlevoix Hospital Tuesday morning after the light plane in which he was a passenger crashed on take-off from East Jordan Airport. He suffered internal injuries.

Malpass' elder brother, Ted, 44, who was piloting the plane, is in satisfactory condition, a spokesman for the hospital said. Ted Malpass is vice president of the Iron Works and an official of Chalmers O'-Lakes Corp., which owned the Meyers 200-B single engine plane which crashed.

TWO OTHER passengers were injured in the crash. They are Charles Fox, 40, of Washington, Ill., and LeRoy Selwell, 48, of Peoria, Ill. Both Fox and Selwell were flown to hospitals in Illinois Monday afternoon.

The crash is the second air tragedy in Charlevoix County in three weeks. On Sept. 25, a Q-Air-Ways plane crashed on take-off from Charlevoix Airport, killing Mrs. Barbara Stewart, Ivar T. Quarnstrom, pilot Edwin Niebach and Robert Strom and pilot Edwin Niebach. Robert Quarnstrom was injured.

THE MALPASS brothers were taking Fox and Selwell to Traverse City Airport in the light plane where they were to catch another plane for Peoria.

Aviation officials are investigating the cause of the crash.

Witnesses said the accident occurred when the plane plunged into the woods beyond the airport as it was attempting to gain altitude at the end of the runway.

Sheriff's deputies, state police and East Jordan police and firemen rushed to the scene. Fortunately, the plane did not catch fire, as did the Quarnstrom craft.

BOTH BRUCE AND TED Malpass are natives of northern Michigan and have been active in their family company since returning from service at the end of World War II. The business is owned by the two brothers and their cousin, W. E. Malpass.

Their father, Theodore, was killed in an accident seven years ago. Their mother is still living in East Jordan.

Bruce is married and has five children; Ted is married and has three children.

Almost 92

Follow Paint Aroma If You Want Telles

Just follow the smell of fresh paint at Grandvue and you'll find Telles O'Brien. Mrs. O'Brien, who will be 92 on Oct. 28, still is looking for scenes to oil paint.

Sitting in her little studio surrounded by canvas, turpentine and brushes and keeps herself busy everyday, but Saturday and Sunday.

"Those are my days off," she laughed. "Even a 92-year-old needs some rest."

Telles sells her pictures to her friends and the hospital staff at Grandvue.

"I have four to do for some people around here by Christmas and I have four that have to be done right after," she said worriedly.

"I just don't know where the time goes."

BESIDES DOING all of the painting, the former Beaver Islander hooks rugs in her "spare" time.

Mrs. O'Brien, who lived on Beaver Island for well over 50 years, is a walking book of knowledge on Beaver Island history.

When she first settled with her doctor husband, they bought a drugstore and he set up practice next door. Telles worked in the drugstore while her husband took care of the patients.

"My husband was real smart," she said. "He took care of the patients and then sent them to me for the drugs."

However, Telles gave the drugstore her own touch.

"I made him put in lipstick and powder," she smiled.

AFTER REMINISCING for awhile, Telles said she had to get back to her paints.

"Too many people sit around and worry and think about their problems. That's what makes people old. I keep busy," she said.

And that's what keeps Telles O'Brien young.

A HORSESHOE OVER THE DOOR

Very useful in protecting the hoofs of horses and an important part of the equipment in the enjoyable game of pitching horseshoes. However, to expect a horseshoe placed above the door, in or about one's home, to ward off all danger and trouble and to bring health, wealth and solve all problems is putting faith in a power that does not exist.

The promise found in the Scriptural passage to the effect that "where two or three are gathered together in prayer, there God will be also," is worth more than all of the horseshoes or other charms in existence, in so far as true well-being is concerned.

Attending church is an infinitely better and more wholesome source of bringing true blessings, for at church one may always find fellowship, where two or more are willing and happy to join in prayer. If entered into wholeheartedly the Church will lead the way to power and joy such as horseshoes can never generate within one.

Acting Fine, Set Cluttered 'Mary, Mary' Quite Contrary

BAY VIEW--So far as acting and direction was concerned, the Little Traverse Civic Theater's production of "Mary, Mary" last weekore the mark of a professional start to finish.

Unfortunatly, the play was produced in a crowded, ill-designed set which was the only part of the production which showed the barefaced amateur.

There were too many sets, too many short corners, too many windows, too many decorations and too many too much like a stage set.

Needless to say, none of the comments nor the dramatic moments of "Mary, Mary" were heightened by wavy, unsteady wire sculptures which had nothing whatsoever to do with the play, nor the gaudy, over-the-top artwork on every wall where there wasn't a door or a window.

There was twice as much furniture as required, with most of it arranged in front of the stage rather than in a natural room setting.

WRITTEN BY Jean Kerr (author of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies"), "Mary, Mary" ran for three years and nine months in New York City, one of the longest running engagements in the history of the New York stage.

Briefly, it is the story of a thirtyish New York publisher, Bob McKellaway, who tries to put his financial affairs in order on the eve of his divorce from his wife, Mary, and his marriage to a still, unimaginative society girl.

His attorney, Oscar Kols, insists on bringing Mary back to New York from Philadelphia where she works to identify some checks. At the same time, a handsome movie star friend of Bob's, Dirk Winston,

Susie Freedman Enrolls in West

Susie Freedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Freedman, has registered as a freshman at the fall session at Scripps College in Claremont, Calif.

Scripps College is a private, co-educational, residential, liberal arts college for women and men. Founded in 1926, it is one of the oldest and largest of its kind in the United States.

Susie is a native of Charlevoix and is currently attending high school at the local high school. She is a member of the Charlevoix High School Glee Club and the National Honor Society.

She is also a member of the Charlevoix High School Football Team. She is a very active and popular student and is expected to have a successful year at Scripps College.

Her father, Mr. Gordon Freedman, is a well-known businessman in Charlevoix. Her mother, Mrs. Gordon Freedman, is a homemaker and a member of the local church.

you'd better believe it.

Our OHC 6 delivers 165 hp on regular gas. And 215 horses from the premium gas 4-barrel version. Most American cars (and some underprivileged '68s) don't even come close. Expensive European sports machines do, but they're overhead cams, too. In fact, they inspired us. Our OHC 6 is standard on all Tempests and Le Mans. So are a host of new safety features like passenger guard door locks, General Motors' new engine, absorber, steering column, and a new rear hazard warning flasher. We've made a car that's not just a car, it's a statement.

SECRETARY-treasurer Mrs. W. Rogers, chairman Mrs. Bret Riley and Mrs. Doris Huckle were among members of Top O' Mitt at Castle Van Haver Friday.

Art Club Visits Castle

Local artists and craftsmen displayed their works at the annual Top O' Mitt Artist and Crafts Association meeting Friday at the Castle Van Haver.

Among those showing their works was Mrs. Martha Bretz, East Jordan, with a painting titled "Birds in a Tree". Mrs. Grace Galmore, East Jordan, also displayed a painting.

A UNIC collection of wood block pictures by Mr. Fred Looze, Charlevoix, along with his display of Pottery.

stone jewelry was shown. Mrs. Lydia Elsworth, East Jordan, displayed her unusual collection of textile painted aprons, cloths and pot holders. She used the old log branding marks as the basis of her designs.

THE CHAIRMAN of the organization, Mrs. Bret Riley, East Jordan, called the meeting to order in the Van Haver coffee shop where about 50 members and guests assembled to hear a talk and demonstration on collecting as a hobby.

Miss Anna Duval, owner of the Cedar Hedge Antique Shop in Oden, who gave the talk, showed an array of collections from antique keys to ivory and wooden carved whistles.

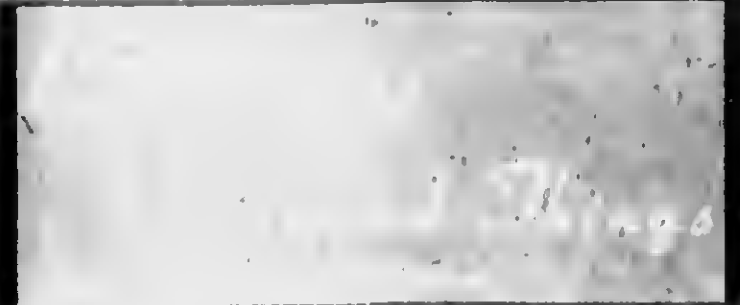

IN THE AFTERNOON, the group saw bronze casting by John Van Haver and a demonstration of 17th Century art procedures by Allen Mitchell of Grosse Pointe.

Arranging the local members and guests attending was Mrs. W. Rogers, secretary-treasurer from East Jordan; Fred Looze, Charlevoix; Mrs. Ruth Palmer, Mrs. Harriet Sweet, Mrs. Elsworth, Mrs. Grace Conrad, Mrs. Marion Sherman, Mrs. Betty Boswell and Mrs. Doris Huckle all from East Jordan.

ALSO ATTENDING from East Jordan was Mrs. Betty Risan, Mrs. John Porter, Mrs. Constance McKenzie, Mrs. Grace Galmore and Mrs. Martha Bretz.

Top O' Mitt acts as a parent organization for the numerous arts and crafts groups throughout the 33 counties it represents. It also helps support various artistic enterprises.

The group's annual spring meeting will be held in Benzie County.

After sitting at the Michigan-Michigan football game for about an hour the other weekend, I started to wonder exactly what I was doing there.

To begin with, perched directly over my head on a beam (I was under the upper deck) was a pigeon. He obviously loved the attention he was getting because he sat there for a good 45 minutes. Needless to say, that was 45 minutes of the game I didn't see.

While the fans were all right, "Go, State, Go," I was busy playing a line, "Please don't let your name be State."

HOWEVER, what topped my day was not the dog.

After not eating a thing all day, I was not about to be fooled with mustard and ketchup. I sat down to eat.

I took a bite of my dog and I was not about to be fooled with mustard and ketchup. I sat down to eat.

about hot dogs and how miserable they're getting. That made me think about Shirley Cramer and the first grade. Her mother made the greatest hot dogs for her birthday parties.

I'd never have to poke around for the hot dog there because the bun was glued right on to it.

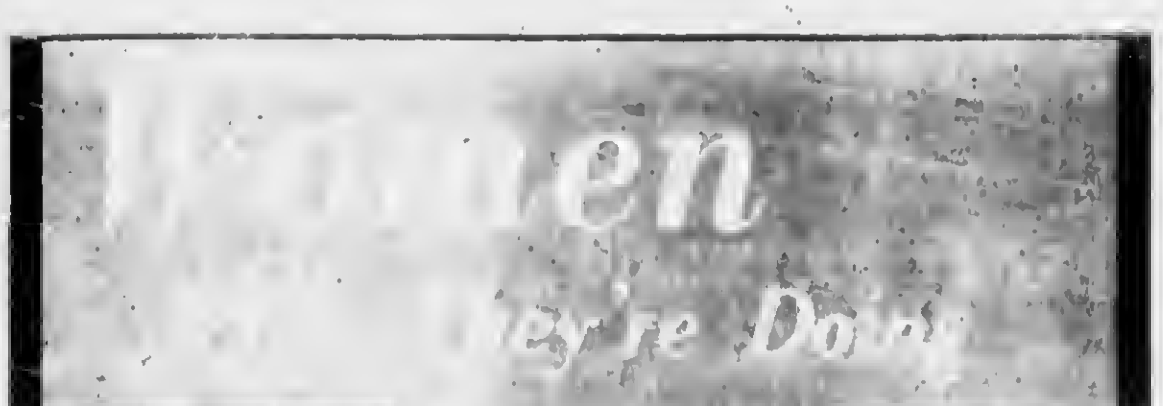

I remember my mom used to slave away all week making beef bourguignon or lamb chops, mouth-watering for my parties. However, with all the kids on the block it was Shirley's mother's hot dogs that won the blue ribbon.

After nosing around and peaking through keyholes, I finally found her recipe.

IT'S REALLY great for people who hate looking for hot dogs in their buns, because the dough is baked right on. That way you can't miss—you hit the bun, you hit the hot dog (unless you make the dough six inches thick).

With all respect to Shirley's mother here it is: Glued on Hot Dog Buns or Shirley's Mother's Hot Dogs

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. cayenne
1 cup corn meal
Shortening to 2/3 cup milk
2 hot dogs.

Mancy Beats Jordan; Boyne City Wins

EAST JORDAN fans got a lot to look at -- but not much satisfaction -- our of Friday's tilt with the Mancelona Ironmen. The Red Devils bowed 20 to 6. Nick Reid scored East Jordan's only TD in the fourth period.

Rayders Downed 31 to 6

BOYNE CITY -- "How did you guys ever beat Pellston?" Even with barbs like that coming from the Boyne City sideline, Charlevoix was unable to shift its powerful football squad into high gear Friday night, bowing to the Ramblers 31 to 6.

The game was almost a complete reversal of last week's rout of the Pellston Hornets, whom Charlevoix overpowered 44 to 0.

Taller than the Boyne City squad and larger by an average of 20 lbs. per man, the Rayders were outplayed right from the start with the scrappy, tough little Boyne City team.

"Now these guys are playing football," Charlevoix Coach Don Carey told his boys at one point during the game, indicating his own bench probably could learn something just by watching.

TACKLES by halfback Larry Skippergosh, end Fred Wabanikee and quarterback Brad Carey failed to stop Boyne City's first triumphant march down the field. A ramblar with the very appropriate name of Gary Brown, a fullback, took the ball over for B.C.'s first touchdown. Allen Veenstra blocked the kick and the game was off to a lopsided 6-0 start.

The remainder of the quarter was scoreless, punctuated by a nice pass reception by guard Terry Blisset and halfback Larry Skippergosh for Charlevoix and halfback Dennis Gunderson for Boyne City.

With about five minutes left, Carey recovered a fumble in Boyne City territory and it looked like Charlevoix might have a chance. Halfback Levi McGellan was ball carrier in several drives, but the Rayders failed to make the needed yardage.

THE SECOND quarter started out with a long run into paydirt by the Ramblers. Gunderson, only there was a flag on the play (Boyne City was offside) and the TD was not counted.

Boyne's next good marker came after four minutes of play when Braun took the ball to the Charlevoix six-inch line and quarterback Marvin Johnson carried it over. Again the conversion point was lost, but the score now stood at 12-0.

Levi McGellan stayed in the forefront for Charlevoix. He received the TD, only to be brought down shortly by Boyne End Don Richards. When Boyne regained possession of the ball, it was McGellan making the tackle on almost every play bringing down halfback Don Holzschu among others. With a minute and a half remaining, Johnsonbeck again scored and this time Guard Howard Grosier kicked the conversion ball squarely between the goal posts.

The score was now 19-0. Lee Cross, Terry Blisset and Ralph Doan went first to get something started to no avail. The period ended with Charlevoix not only scoreless but trailing by 19 points.

THREE MINUTES into the third quarter Johnsonbeck scored again, boosting the score to 25 to 0. This time Crozier's kick was off to the

Devils Lose Again

EAST JORDAN -- The Red Devils were unsuccessful in their attempt to break their losing streak Friday night at East Jordan. Boyne 20-6 to the Mancelona Ironmen. East Jordan got its only touchdown in the final period.

The first quarter of the game was scoreless. In the second period, a fumble by the Ironmen was recovered by the Devils, but they were unable to score.

IN THE THIRD period, the Devils scored a touchdown on a 20-yard pass from the quarterback to the wide receiver. The score was now 6-0.

With about five minutes left, the Devils scored another touchdown on a 14-yard run by the halfback. The score was now 12-0.

East Jordan came back in the fourth period to score a TD when Vek took the ball from the

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Ketter spent the weekend visiting friends and relatives in Grand Rapids and Muskegon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Servenski of Midland, on their wedding trip to the upper peninsula, called on Mrs. Ruth Blair Sunday afternoon. Mr. Servenski was a student of Mrs. Blair's, when she taught grade school in Midland, several years ago. The Servenskis were married Saturday in Midland.

Mrs. L. M. Whitney, mother of Mrs. Ruth Blair spent a week with her grandson and family, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Blair in Detroit, and left on Saturday from Metropolitan Airport, to spend the winter with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson and family at Lakeland, Fla.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Deschermeler Sr. at Bay Shore, were her brothers and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russell and Bernard Russell of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Jake Deschermeler Sr. spent a week recently visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bradley and family at Jensen, also her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Russell at Grand Rapids. She attended the funeral of her niece's three year old son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parsons at Grand Rapids are the parents.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ferguson Sr. were their granddaughters, Mrs. Jackie Ferguson of Petoskey and Miss Marilyn Green of Rogue River, Ore., and Grandson, Roy Ferguson Sr. of Petoskey.

Mrs. Dorothy Green of Rogue River, Ore., telephoned on Sunday with birthday greetings for Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ferguson, Jr. whose birthdays are this month, the 12th and 28th.

Mrs. Lloyd Kuebler hosted the first meeting of the fall of the Burgess Extension Club at her home Wednesday afternoon at a dessert luncheon with 19 members and one guest, Mrs. Willard Bodley. The lesson on "Home Freezing Prepared Food" was led by Mrs. Martha Paterka.

The club project is collecting old or broken jewelry, or better jewelry, that will be donated to the patients at the Traverse City State Hospital for therapy. Donations may be given to any of the club members. Next meeting is Nov. 9, Mrs. Joseph Deschermeler of Bay Shore was hostess for St. Francis Circle Six, at her home, Monday evening, Oct. 10, with 16 members present. Each member has a project. Mrs. Deschermeler's project is an All-Games Party at her home, Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. Everyone is invited. Please call for reservations, DL 7-1022.

We are happy to report that Mr. Ed Beene returned to his home Friday after being a patient the past two weeks in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lynklop have returned to Chicago after spending the summer in their cottage.

Louis Edwards closed his "Jiffy Market" for the winter Saturday. We will miss the convenience of a local grocery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams left Sunday for their winter home in Stuart, Fla. Our best wishes go with them.

Mrs. Marie Blissett from Charlevoix spent Sunday at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Christanson.

Jessie Knudson returned home Saturday after spending a week in Little Traverse Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lynklop Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynklop and family returned to Detroit Sunday after spending several days in their local summer home.

Lori Saunders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milfred Saunders who live at Villa Nuvola spent this weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Saunders while Diane Saunders, was a guest at Lori's home.

Our community realized that we have lost a good friend, neighbor, and an enthusiastic worker, when we attended the funeral services, Saturday afternoon, in our local church for William Sanderson, who passed away at Charlevoix Hospital Thursday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson were faithful workers in our church many years. We were happy that Mrs. Sanderson could be with us in her wheel chair as she has been a patient at the Grandview Hospital, several years. She and their two sons, Bruce and William, and families have the sincere sympathy of their many friends.

Mr. Norman Croze from Detroit has been a guest this past week at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Croze.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kroll from Lansing spent this weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kroll and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spayde have returned to Clearwater, Fla., after spending the summer in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Mary Howe is visiting Pontiac for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heise have gone to Flint to visit their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jadin. Mr. Heise will do some pheasant hunting while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Shadko have returned from a brief visit in Bay City with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Haggard and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Potts left recently for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., after spending the summer here.

Mrs. Harry Gebeau had as her guests Sunday her niece, Miss Valeria Ripley of Detroit, and her nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Olney of Cadillac.

Assembly of God Plans Dedication

CHARLEVOIX—District Superintendent Rev. E. D. Cooley will be guest speaker at the dedication of new furnishings and improvements at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church Sunday afternoon.

Along with new glass front doors the interior of the church has been remodeled by painting the front of the sanctuary and painting the remaining part of the interior. Carpets have been installed in the entire sanctuary. The church has also purchased new pews, pulpit, communion table and piano.

The service is scheduled to begin at 3 Sunday afternoon. Reverend D. J. Torgerson will be guest speaker at a series of special services starting Tuesday, Oct. 25, and continuing through Nov. 6 at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church.

The Reverend Torgerson is Pastor of the Assembly of God Church, Mott, North Dakota. Along with his duties as pastor he serves as Vice-President of the North Dakota District Christ's Ambassadors, youth organization of the Assemblies of God.

Services are scheduled to begin at 7:30. Pastor Don Schorsch says the public is invited.

Magic Act Sparks Lions' Stage Show

CHARLEVOIX -- The in-destructible "Roberta" will be one of the features of the TV Thrill-Orama Show which will be presented at the Charlevoix Elementary School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Oct. 24. Sponsored by the Lions Club, advance sale tickets may be purchased from any Lions club member at a reduced price.

A specialty actress with the show, Roberta admits that there's "never a dull moment" in her job.

During the performance she is hypnotized, floated in air, subjected to searing flames, pierced with swords and made to vanish into the unknown.

All this is in addition to her own specialty acts, but she doesn't seem to mind.

ROBERTA has appeared on screen, television and the legitimate stage, starring in the Broadway hits "Bell, Book and Candle," "Lo and Behold" and "Ladies in Retirement."

The two-hour revue features Ken Griffin who will n.e., a variety of comedy, audience participation and novelty acts.

A Salute to Marriages That Last

There must be something particularly salubrious in the climate of northwestern Michigan.

Two weeks we announced the 50th wedding anniversary of the Leo Allards.

Last week the P.R. Rosses revealed that they were about to celebrate 60 years of wedded bliss in advance of their annual trek to Florida in late October.

Now comes the "Leader" from Kalkaska with a report that the Bert Bogers of that community marked no less than 72 years of marriage on Oct. 13.

Mr. Boger worked in his younger days in Kalkaska's Llandre Factory and Shingle Mill, winding up his working career as janitor at Kalkaska's Public School. He is 93. His wife, Mattie, is 89.

SUCH ANNIVERSARIES are a refreshing sidelight on the news of the day, which too often is punctuated with sadness and failure.

To be granted the good health and the even temper to live 50, 60 or 72 years with the same mate is a blessing bestowed upon too few of us. A sharp tongue, immaturity or petty irritations too often cause a marriage to wither and die before it has a chance to ripen.

That some couples do achieve these matrimonial milestones is a happy reminder that marriage can be -- and sometimes is -- the most enduring of human relationships.

Social Security Is on the Move

Small businessmen and individual contributors can't help but have some misgivings over President Johnson's announcement last week that he will ask Congress next year to raise Social Security benefits by at least $2.2 billion, giving every recipient increases averaging 10 percent.

When you're on the receiving end, such a stupendous increase may look like a windfall from a great uncle. When you're still a contributing member -- or worse still -- a businessman, you can't help wondering where President Johnson expects the additional revenue to come from.

ACTUALLY, the increase is only part of the great things President Johnson has in store for those receiving Social Security benefits. Here is the entire package which he presented in an address at Social Security headquarters in Baltimore last Wednesday.

--A 10 percent across the board increase, with proportionally larger increases for those receiving the smallest payments.

--Guarantee that every worker who has participated in the program for at least 25 years receive a minimum monthly benefit of $100. The present minimum is $44.

--Provide a significant increase not yet determined in the maximum income a retired person can earn in a year and still receive Social Security benefits. The maximum is now $1,500.

--Offer hospitalization insurance and Medicare benefits not only to those 65 and older but to more than one million younger Americans now receiving disability pensions under Social Security.

Clockwise

By Bob Clock

If the "Reader's Digest" carried letters, this would probably be a very angry letter to the editor. I have just finished an article entitled "When a Man Marries" by someone called James Collier and I'm ready to declare war.

The article essentially is a slick little essay on what a man expects out of marriage. That's all well and good. The "Digest" makes it a point to get so much sex and homely philosophy into every issue and this is apparently their sex-philosophy piece for October.

What really sent me into a rapid burn were two paragraphs about midway. Listen: "A man without children is not complete. Children establish my place in the long chain of generations who have carried my blood from the dark caves of the past, and who will carry it endlessly forward into time. Children are my continuity. Through children I find my seed into the future. Reproduction is the act of life. It is life itself. In reproducing, I affirm my place in the system of life inhabiting the earth. The man without children has lost his place in history."

"A man can, of course, produce children without marrying, but he can't have them without marrying. To have children, a man has to raise them. Children are not shaped by machines, but made by hand with loving care."

WELL, THERE it is. Have you ever seen such conceit in print? The man without children has lost his place in history. Without even searching I can think of any number of childless men who had done more to shape history than an army of hairy-chested seed flingers.

George Washington never spawned any kids to call his own, yet a whole nation of grateful Americans call him the father of their country. True, Martha Custis did have children by a previous marriage, but they were pretty well grown when George entered the picture.

BERNARD BARUCH and Sam Rayburn -- two of the men who helped enormously to formulate U. S. policy during the early and middle years of this century -- never married at all.

Going back in history we find Aristotle and Plato -- the two Greek philosophers upon whose thought a great part of Western civilization is based. So far as we know they were childless.

But now Mr. Collier tells us that these are the guys who have lost their "place in history," and, by implication, so have all the bachelors and maiden ladies down through the ages who never managed to "fling their seed" or "affirm their place in the system of life inhabiting the earth."

WE HOPE THAT not too many of the world's childless have taken Mr. Collier's words to heart, but the power and influence of the "Digest" is legend. Yet one has only to examine his own life to see the fallacy of such statements.

Somewhere in our backgrounds we probably all have a "Miss Dove" -- the unmarried schoolteacher who had the time and patience to pound information and ideas into our thick little skulls until it was coming out our ears.

Or there is the maiden aunt whose acts of generosity and kindness are lavished upon her nieces and nephews, then upon her great nieces and nephews, followed by great great nieces and nephews until at last a merciful Providence gathers her to its bosom. Or take the bachelor uncle -- or even a married uncle without children. He often has the time and inclination for trips to the zoo and holidays at the beach that fathers are too busy to think of.

ON ANOTHER level, we have the whole hierarchy of the Catholic Church who must take vows of celibacy before assuming their roles as Christ's vicars. Have all the popes, cardinals, archbishops, bishops and parish priests through the ages lost their "place in history?" I doubt it. Some people remain childless because they do not wish the responsibility of children, and there is no denying the responsibility is great. Others remain childless because they are unable to have children. Yet to my way of thinking this in no way diminishes their "place in history" nor compromises their "completeness."

MR. COLLIER'S position puzzles me more because he lays claim to being a father. Yet who better than a father should know the myriad talents, skills and disciplines required to breathe not only life but also manners and morals into that squalling, fleshing lump of protoplasm that bears his name.

Odds & Ends

By Fran Martin

THE WONDERS of nature will never cease to amaze me. That is why I found an article in the most recent issue of the Reader's Digest so fascinating. Entitled "The Day the Bears Go to Sleep," it tells, in part, when the monsters know when to curl up in their dens for their long winter's nap. If you like animals at all, I know you'll love this as I did so be sure to take time out from your busy schedule to read it.

ANOTHER wonder of nature that I know you're all enjoying these days is the beautiful, beautiful color to be found everywhere. I can't remember a fall when all the colors have been lovelier. Went out cruising the countryside last week and oohed and aahed myself half to death. Everything was so breathtaking.

And to top it all off, as we came along the south shore of Lake Charlevoix toward Ironton, we were stopped cold by what turned out to be two swans. Apparently young ones that had not come into their pure white leathers. The tips of these birds' leathers were shades of tan but when they ruffled them you could see the creamy white underneath. They were tame, and I thought a bit hammy, as they swam right up to the shore to have their picture taken. I might add, they did a bit of hissing, too.

EVERYONE in southern Michigan must have come north to enjoy the colors with us. On Saturday night there wasn't a hotel or motel room to be found from the Straits to Traverse City. One young couple I heard about had neglected to make a reservation some place in the north, and after their wedding had gone to look for a motel. After traveling more than 160 miles they ended up at home, and at that late hour felt lucky to have a home to come to.

AND THEN the perch were biting at Ironton. It was windy, you remember, and the fishing wasn't too good, but good enough to keep the dedicated fishermen out in their boats despite the wind.

AND SPEAKING of weather, we certainly had a kind of from the unseasonable with temperatures close to the 70's to the squaw winter type with everything but snow. There has been some of the white stuff in the U.P. and even inland from us there's been a little though it hasn't stayed. But it's good weather you're wanting, we've certainly had it.

What with the leaves still on the trees, the bird hunters are unhappy. But I think they're in the minority, so you just go right on enjoying the foliage in all its glory and the sunshine and let them fume. They'll have their day.

BUT THIS disturbing note crept into a conversation the other day. A lady of mine who has a bird leader was telling me that the blue jays come to the feeder in the fall only before winter sets in, and this week two of them have been in the feeder begging for food. Remembering her experience in the past, she's got her storm windows on and the hatches battened down, ready for anything, weather-wise. I just can't believe that Old Man Winter is just around the corner and am trying to convince myself that these jays know she's a soft touch and are just too lazy to scrounge for food and are taking advantage of her.

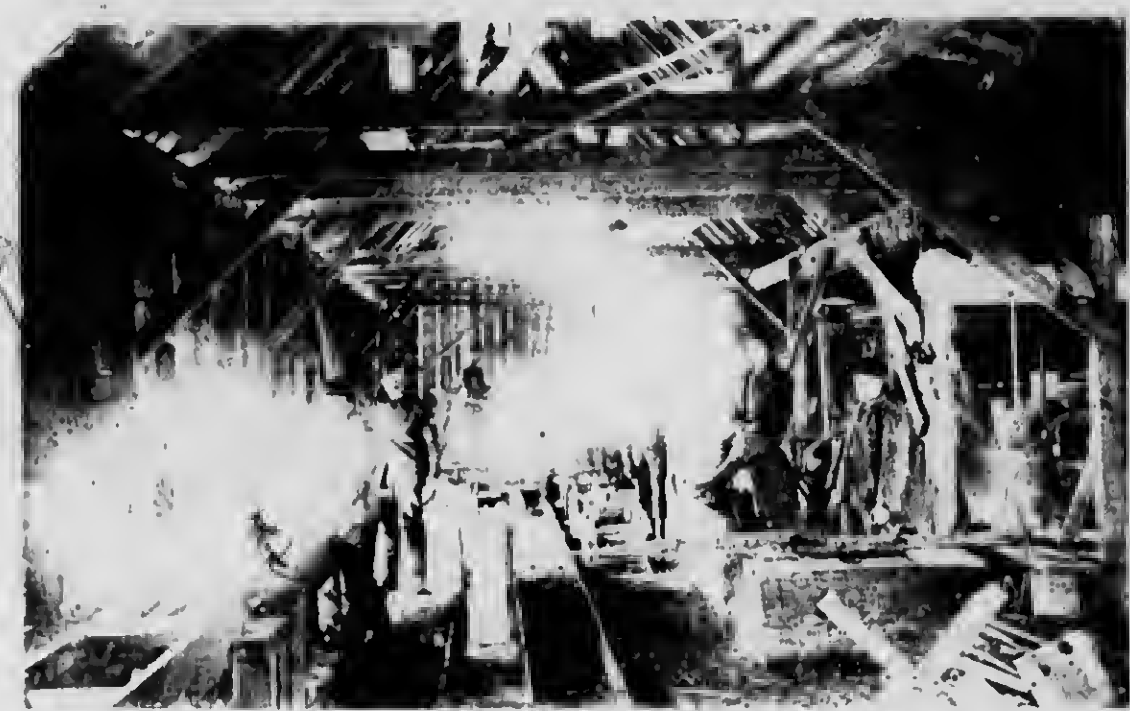

BUT IF YOU think that time isn't fleeting, well, take a look at the calendar. The halfway mark in the month of October is passed, and before you know it, it will be too late to start that sweater you planned to knit as a Christmas gift or all those Christmas decorations you were going to surprise your family with this year. And if you still think that it isn't later than you think, take a look in the stores where all sorts of Christmas goodies are already on display. Personally, I think this is pushing the season too much and I'll have my way, Christmas merchandise wouldn't be on display till mid-November at the earliest. But I'm being out-voted at every turn so I guess I might as well pick up my gripes and go home. But then's my sentiments, so there.

I NEVER THOUGHT it would happen. That Baltimore would take the World Series in four straight. But you'll remember that I said they should be favored because they had nothing to lose and everything to gain. But there's always next year.

A Farewell to Quarnstrom

Ashes Are Scattered Over Lake He Loved

At the conclusion of the brief service, Quarnstrom's skippers cap was placed upon the water, a gesture acknowledging his fondness for ships and the sea.

"MY DREAM" left Charlevoix about 12:45 p.m. Friday, returning about 4:15. The ceremony took place four to five miles northeast of Charlevoix along the route to Beaver Island.

During the service, the ships auxiliary engines were stopped and her sails raised.

A NATIVE of Sweden, Quarnstrom launched one of Charlevoix's first industries when he opened his American Mold Co. Plant here. The factory later was sold, but Quarnstrom retained his interest in Charlevoix, spending weekends and vacations on Lake Charlevoix and establishing the first regularly scheduled airline to serve the city, Q-Air-Ways.

LAST THURSDAY afternoon a memorial service for Quarnstrom was held at the Congregational Church, the Rev. Kohn officiating. Quarnstrom attended the Charlevoix Church from time to time on his visits to Charlevoix. In a tribute entitled "Sails and Anchors," Rev. Kohn mentioned the frequent visits Quarnstrom paid to Charlevoix.

volx and his fondness for sailing aboard "My Dream." "We are made somewhat like Ted's ship, made for venturing on life's seas. But if we are to sail far, we need anchorage, too. We must find some place of refuge from life's heaviest, most brutal storms, a place where we can make repairs and take on supplies."

SOME PEOPLE, the pastor said, have great sails, but no anchors. Others have anchors, but no power of propulsion. The first group are venturesome, but they soon fall in life because they have not taken time in harbor to anchor, make repairs or take on supplies. The latter group loves the safety and security of harbor, but shuns adventures on deep and dangerous waters.

Rev. Kohn said Quarnstrom had both sails and anchors. "Ted anchored in the disciplines of life, and then sailed in the adventures of his life's work."

"Long before he was a master of engineering, however, he was a slave to it," Rev. Kohn continued, "going without sufficient food and clothing and the other comforts of life while he was trying to get a start."

"Some people are all sail and no anchor. They want freedom to move out toward usefulness, but no time in-vested in harbor, getting ready. Others are all anchor and no sail. They are constantly getting ready, busily preparing, but never daring to venture out beyond the harbor. Ted could and did sail because, while at anchor, he got ready for a useful life. We are grateful to God for that."

The pastor told about going to see Quarnstrom at Little Traverse Hospital only a few hours after the accident. He could talk very little, he said, but his uppermost thoughts were not with the seriousness of his own condition.

"He pointed to the foot of the bed where stood another hospital cot on which lay his son, Bob, and Ted spoke Bob's name, and wanted me to talk with his son, which of course I did."

"His act was a mark of a revealing readiness for his next and most important voyage," Rev. Kohn said.

Letters to the Editor

Saginaw, Mich.
Oct. 9, 1966

Dear Sir:

My neighbor here brought me a copy of the paper of Aug. 29. The article on an afternoon with Dr. Protar contained the news of the death of my father, David Chase. The doctor and my father were the best of friends. His death was April 17, 1908.

For years I didn't know of the cross and I went to the funeral home to see one of the Gibson girls who had died and one of the girls told me of the cross, and my husband and I went to the Island and I took pictures of it. I also saw the tomb. While I was on the Island, Lawrence Malloy, whom I went to school with, gave me a picture of the wreck.

I never saw the doctor but have seen his house many times.

As for me, I am a wheelchair patient as I have no balance. Could I buy some extra papers of that date and how much is the paper by the year?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Loretta C. Bush
Saginaw County Hospital
Saginaw, Mich.

Charlevoix Council News

The City Hall to a facilitate the handling of ledgers. Mrs. Hesse would move into the present Selective Service office, and the Selective Service office would move across the hall to the mayor's office. Alderman Bob Gill said he thought perhaps the move was an "administrative" problem.

"It's administrative until you start pushing the mayor out of his office," Superintendent James Taylor pointed out. Mayor William Fochman said he practice he really doesn't need an office in the City Hall, since he makes use of Taylor's office most of the time anyway.

Taylor added that few Charlevoix mayors he has known have made much use of the office at all.

THE COUNCIL adopted a wait-and-see attitude toward a new County Board of Supervisors ruling that only county groups and their affiliates be allowed to use the public rooms in the County Building free of charge. All others must pay a $10 custodial fee. Some aldermen felt the move would mean more groups would want to use the City Hall.

ALDERMEN agreed to buy a new Ford police car from Fiber Auto Co. for $2,600, less a $1,000 trade-in. Only other bidder was Charlevoix City Co.

MAYOR FOCHMAN reported on a meeting of the Parks and Harbor committee last week. We said the committee examined every possible site along the yacht basin for location of a shower and toilet facility for yachtsmen without reaching any conclusion.

Photographer Bob Miles attended the meeting and made a strong plea against erecting the building at any location where it would affect the view of Round Lake from Bridge Street.

Miles said the city had gone through too much grief securing the waterfront land it has and said it would be folly to begin obstructing the view with new construction.

"I'm not going to look at Round Lake across the park too much longer, but you are and your kids are," Miles told the Council.

The Council had considered putting the building at the foot of Clinton Street. Miles suggested building two small facilities, one where the present Chamber of Commerce building is located and another in the parking area north of Clinton.

An alternative location would be the small parcel of land behind the present bandstand.

ALDERMAN DEL TERRILL wanted to know when the city is going to schedule a hearing on the rezoning of a huge tract of Agricultural-1 land in the May-Eaton St. area.

There were four to six weeks since the petition, and I don't think this is the way you treat people," he said.

The Council has been reluctant to set a hearing date because there is a question whether some of the property deserves an R-1 classification.

Interested property owners in the area will be invited to a meeting at the City Hall Oct. 24 at 8:30 p.m. to discuss the problem.

THE COUNCIL also reviewed model building codes, with an eye toward drawing up one for Charlevoix.

Owes Life To Helmet

EAST JORDAN--A safety helmet may have saved a man's life last week at the East Jordan Iron Works.

Albert Walden, 41, of East Jordan was hit on the forehead with a six-inch beam. The beam crashed down on Walden who was walking underneath it. The beam broke when one of two bolts holding a cable bucket broke loose snapping the other off. The cable bucket then fell on the beam breaking it and sending it down on Walden's head.

WALDEN'S helmet was caved in where the beam hit and left a gash in his forehead. William C. Christensen, director of personnel, said, "It could have been a real disaster if Albert wasn't wearing the safety helmet. As it is now, this is the worst accident we've had in a long time."

Presently, Walden is in Munson Hospital in Traverse City where he was transferred from Charlevoix Hospital Friday. His condition is listed as good.

17 to Take Draft Test

CHARLEVOIX--Seventeen young men from Charlevoix will report to Fort Wayne in Detroit for U. S. Selective Service physical examinations Nov. 28, according to Mrs. Ronald Balch, draft board secretary. All are under 26 years of age. Four more men registered with the local office but living elsewhere also have been notified they are to take the physicals.

There will be men drafted from Charlevoix County in November, Mrs. Balch said.

TAKING PHYSICALS from the City of Charlevoix will be Robert M. Foster, Gilbert K. Arnold, Roger N. Lee, Larry G. Drew, and Daniel B. Hales. Going from East Jordan are James C. McKinnon, Ronnie L. McWaters, Dale A. Reich, Charles F. Haney, Wayne A. Wilson and Jackie C. Clark.

Boysen City is sending Jon Wasylewski, Larry C. Hutchinson, Patrick C. Varnum, Lyle E. Barkley and Charles W. Davis.

Selected from Walloon Lake was Ivan C. Everts.

ALSO ORDERED to take physicals by the local office are Stephen M. Williams of Colorado Springs, Colo.; David L. Miles of Ann Arbor; Carl H. Charon Jr. of East Lansing and Dennis B. Grubbe of Dearborn Heights.

Mrs. Balch says that forms for the College Qualifying Test are available at her office in the Charlevoix City Hall. Completed forms must be turned in by Oct. 21. The test will be given Nov. 18 and 19 in Traverse City.

THE TEST SHOULD be taken by any high school senior planning to go to college next year or by any college student who has not already taken the test. The draft board office is open from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. daily.

Next Monday, Oct. 24, 15 men will leave for induction from the Charlevoix bus station. They make up the October draft call.

Board Talks Busses Crash Claims Edwin Niebach

CHARLEVOIX -- The Charlevoix School Board has decided it might be wiser to buy another full-size school bus than an econo-model. The decision was reached at the regular board meeting Monday night. Estimates on the cost of a properly equipped small vehicle for pupil transportation came to about $3,000.

The board also: --Increased the pay of substitute teachers by 20 percent. They were receiving $18 a day.

--Agreed to look for more economical partitioning of the wide Junior High School corridor. Last estimate was $7,500.

--Heard a report on the vocational education program by Bob Cook.

--Agreed to seek space for a new fourth grade room, under Title I.

--Agreed to hire three lunchroom aides as partial duty relief for teachers.

--Hired Andrea Ashton as kindergarten assistant.

--Hired Mrs. Agnes French to replace Mrs. Elwyn Bodley as part-time custodian at the Elementary School. Mrs. Bodley has retired.

--Decided to look into accident insurance for athletes. Two football players have required hospitalization so far this year.

--Continued looking for a site for a new elementary school. The School Study Committee has recommended a location on the North Side.

CHARLEVOIX -- Word has been received of the death of Edwin Niebach, pilot of the Q-Air-Ways plane which crashed and burned in Charlevoix Sept. 25.

The crash earlier claimed the lives of Mrs. Barbara Stewart and Ivar T. Quarnstrom.

Flyers arriving from Detroit report that Niebach died last Thursday at an Air Force Hospital near San Antonio, Texas, which specializes in burn cases. Niebach was burned over 60 percent of his body.

Quarnstrom's son, Robert, is still undergoing treatment for extensive burns at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Obituary

Myron Culver

Funeral for Myron Culver, 71, of Linwood, Wash., will be Oct. 21 from the Winchester Funeral Home, the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen officiating. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Culver died Oct. 18 in Linwood where he had gone to visit his son.

BORN SEPT. 29, 1895 in Cedar, Mich., he married Florence E. Grubaugh in 1929 in Toledo, Ohio. She died in 1984.

Mr. Culver was a used car dealer in Detroit until 1959 when he retired and moved to Charlevoix. He had spent many summers here.

He is survived by his son, Donald, of Linwood; and one brother of Detroit.

Court News
